

Soph-Senior Tilt to Open Intra-Murals

Coaches Select Candidates as Teams Hold First Practice Session

When the referee's whistle signals the tap off of the Sophomore-Senior inter-class tilt next Monday night, a new chapter in the annals of Providence College athletics will be started. The long-awaited intramural sports program, which has been advocated in Cowl editorials for some time, will become an actuality.

This week the coaches of the eight aggregations in the league met their aspiring candidates at practice sessions held in Harkins Hall. After sending their charges through preliminary paces, the mentors selected the men who will make up the respective class squads in league competition. Although these sessions were the only practice periods provided by the Students' Athletic Council, coaches who wish to arrange additional periods may do so through the athletic office.

Coach Ed Crotty, varsity hoop mentor and director of the intramural program stated that players under 150 pounds may perform in the heavy-weight loop, but may not return to the lightweight ranks after having played with the heavies.

Two contests in each division are listed before the midway exams. Competition will start again on February 8 and will continue until March 7. The championships, in which league winners will meet, will take place on March 10.

The lightweight encounters will start at 7 p. m. with the heavies taking over at 8.

Committee Named For Veritas Dance

Terence Reilly has been named chairman of the Senior Veritas Dance planned for Feb. 21, according to James Tully, president of the class. Other members of the committee will be Fred Turner, John McQueeny, George Lang, Francis Crowley, John Lyons and John Schofield. Michael Coyne, editor of the book, and the officers of the class will serve ex-officio on the committee.

The entire camera staff of "Veritas" and a special photographer from Photorex Studios will be at the dance to take action and group shots for the annual.

Photographing work on the book will begin early next week, immediately upon the signing of the contract.

Group pictures and informal shots of extra-curricula activities will be taken on Feb. 20 and 21. Students have been requested to submit any snapshots which they may have suitable for publication in the feature section of "Veritas."

A campaign to promote a larger yearbook sale among the undergraduates was opened yesterday by Frank D. O'Brien, Business Manager. A tremendous reduction in the price of the

THE EXAMS

The exclusive schedule for the midway exams is published today in The Cowl on Page 4. Clip it out and save it for reference.

The exams will begin on Thursday at 2:00 p. m. and will continue through the following week.

Due to the examinations The Cowl will be published on next Thursday. All material must be in by Wednesday afternoon.

Authors Plan Comedy Script

Primary steps towards the production of the annual musical comedy written and produced entirely by the undergraduates of the College, are underway. A committee in charge of sponsoring the show has announced that the performance will run for a period of five successive nights, April 18 to 22 inclusive.

At present the script is being written by Norman J. Carignan, '39, and Robert C. Healey, '39, who have not as yet revealed the theme or setting of the production. Ray Pettine, '39, has charge of the musical selections to be used in the show. Any musical compositions which students may wish to have incorporated into the comedy must be submitted before February 7.

The success of the performance depends upon the cooperation of the whole student body. Pledges and contracts will be sought in the near future. Tryouts for the leading parts will start about February 13. The casting of the show is under the direction of William Cunningham, '39. Students seeking parts should see him. Specialty men are particularly asked to contact Cunningham.

For the second successive year John Andre, '39, has been named general production manager and director.

Philosophy Club Elects Temporary Co-Chairmen

The newly-formed Philosophy Club held its second meeting of the year in Room 33. The Rev. Paul C. Perrotta, O.P., of the College Philosophy department and moderator of the society, explained the aims of the society following which a committee for the formation of a constitution was appointed. Those appointed were, Robert C. Healey, '39; Walter F. Gibbons, '39; Eugene J. McElroy, '39; Sanford Shorr, '40, and Zygmunt J. Czubak, '41.

Robert C. Healey and Sanford Shorr were elected temporary co-chairmen.

Bill Littleton Has Special Reason To Pass Midyear Examinations

He Knows That He is Paving the Way for College Careers for the Deaf

Bill Littleton, deaf student now in his third year at the College, is determined to pass the midyear exams. He knows that if he is successful in his college work other deaf students will be encouraged to seek a college education.

With a vast amount of courage he has worked through three years, striving to keep up with his more fortunate classmates. He has succeeded admirably with the help of lip reading and the notes of his fellow students.

Three years ago he came to the Rev. Arthur H. Chandler, O.P., dean, and bared his desire for a college

Alembic Seeks New Writers For Next Issue

Carignan Hits 'Prejudice'; Says Alembic is Open Shop Affair

The March issue of the Alembic, Providence College literary quarterly, will be devoted as entirely as possible to contributions submitted by new writers or by students who have contributed only once or twice in the past, it was announced this week by Norman J. Carignan, '39, editor of the magazine.

This move to restrict contributions to new writers is prompted by the desire to have new writers contribute to the Alembic so that the magazine will give a more varied and characteristic representation of student literary ability here at the College.

Carignan stated, "In the past and even now there has been a growing prejudice that the Alembic was a closed proposition. Nothing is further from the truth. The editors this year have been wholeheartedly attempting to encourage all students to contribute to the Alembic. The 'closed proposition' idea seems to have come into being because only a few students took an interest in the magazine and could be depended upon for articles."

The Literary Clinic, designed to advise and aid students with their stories, will be at the disposal of any student who wishes advice on his contribution. The deadline for the March issue will be February 17. All articles, short stories, or essays should be submitted to the editor by that time.

Freshmen Form Debating Union

The formation of a Freshman Debating Society, separate from the varsity Debating Union, was announced today by Walter F. Gibbons, '39, president of the Union. The scarcity of experienced debaters in the upper classes, Gibbons said, will force the Union next year to rely extensively on the material that can be secured from the Freshman class.

Those present at the first meeting were, Angelo Caras, John Converse, Leo Fecteau, John Fondi, Omer Goulet, Russell Jalbert, Aaron Sloan, Frank Whalen, Jerome Tessler, T. J. Donald, and William Riley. Eugene J. McElroy debate manager of the Union conducted the meeting.

Providence, State to Clash In Season's Hoop Highlight

RECORD CROWD EXPECTED AT AUDITORIUM

Friars Hold Series Edge

Providence College holds a 5 to 3 lead in the basketball series with R. I. State going into their game tomorrow night. The series was inaugurated in the 1934-35 season in which the Friars were victorious in both contests.

The Friars took both games the following season and it was not until 1937 that the Rams won a game. That year they split the contests each winning one and were State champions. Last season the Rams won both games for the first time they swept the series.

The most exciting contest ever played between the two schools was the 1937 battle at Kingston. Highly favored the Rams went down to defeat at the hands of a fighting Providence team 42-38.

The series:

1934-35
Providence 53—State 35.
Providence 47—State 43.
1935-36
Providence 55—State 47.
Providence 65—State 42.
1936-37
State 63—Providence 54.
Providence 42—State 38.
1937-38
State 52—Providence 41.
State 85—Providence 59.

Dorm Excavation Nearly Completed

Pouring of Concrete Already Begun; Work Progresses Ac- cording to Schedule

Contrary to the opinion of a few of the "sidewalk engineers," the wooden building which now adorns the sight of the new dormitory is not the building which will house the students. It is merely a glorified tool shed having all modern conveniences including four rooms with windows, a large work desk, and a pay telephone.

The dorm itself is hidden behind this structure. Thus for the excavation is almost completed and it is expected that the steam-shovel and the three trucks will complete their work tomorrow.

A slight difficulty arose this week when the shovel struck the extremity of a ledge. However, a blast of dynamite late Wednesday afternoon removed the rock. One hundred feet of forms on the west end of the main wing having been completed, the pouring of concrete began Thursday. The wall at this point will be two and one half feet thick.

According to the construction foreman, work is progressing on schedule and only inclement weather will delay progress.

GENERAL SCIENCE CLUB HOLDS FIRST MEETING

The newly-formed General Science Club, composed of students interested in physics and chemistry, held its first formal meeting last night. The meeting, conducted by Francis X. Asselin '39, president, took up the matter of a club name, membership dues, future activities, and club by-laws.

Plans were made for the writing and oral presentation of theses by individual students upon subjects in which they are particularly interested.

Friars Seek to Stop Fast Attack of Undefeated State Team

STOP STATE!—A rather large order considering the fact that eight other collegiate quintets including one of the best Brown University fives in recent years, have failed. Nevertheless the dauntless Crottymen are no respectors of reputations and will be out to regain the basketball supremacy in Rhode Island that belonged to Providence two seasons back when they play host to the undefeated Rhode Island State Rams in the highlight of the current home season tomorrow night at the Rhode Island Auditorium. A record crowd for the present campaign is expected to be on hand to witness the encounter.

The Rams enter the fray with the enviable record of eight straight triumphs with something short of 600 points to their credit. Victories were registered over the Alumni, Lowell Textile, Arnold, American International College, New Hampshire, Brown, Northeastern, and Maine in that order. Brown gave the Rams their toughest game last Saturday night as they dropped a 51-42 decision. The lead changed hands several times in this roughly-played contest and it was left to State's ability to convert via the foul route in the final period to clinch the verdict.

The Kingston sharpshooters are headed by their high-scoring ace Chet Jaworski, who in seven games from his center position has amassed a total of 179 points to top New England Collegiate scorers. Jaworski, along with Bud Conley, former Cranston High star and Warner Keeney, of football fame, comprise the most potent scoring combination in New England College circle. Leon Caprelan and Ed Petro along with the above three round out the starting state five which spells scoring and plenty of it. "Duke" Abbruzzi, Cliff Pace, Vic Tkacs, and Ed Gradowski are due to see action in reserve roles.

Providence holds victories over Assumption and Becker, the one defeat coming at the hands of the strong Dartmouth quintet. The locals, still keyed-up since their thrilling victory over Becker College last Friday night, have maintained a blistering pace at practice during the past week and should reach a peak performance in the objective tussle tomorrow night. The ball-handling, passing, and shooting of the entire team showed a marked improvement to warrant a smoother offensive than that displayed in previous contests.

Coach Crotty intends to shift Joe Kwaniewski, who was so successful in holding "Swede" Broberg, Dartmouth star, to a mere two points in the game at Hanover, to centre in order that he may keep a close watch on the ever-dangerous Jaworski. The task of holding Conley in check will fall to Bill Murphy and it is likely that either "Slip" Barnini or Ralph Papparella will be pitted against Warner Keeney at the other guard post. Steve Fallon, who paced the Providence scoring in the Becker game, will start at forward with either Levey or Speckman as his running mate.

The preliminary game will find State's Freshman five, also untainted by defeat, providing the opposition for the Friar First Year men who are still seeking their initial win of the season having lost to Bryant

SPRIT WILL BEAT STATE

The enthusiasm and the spirit which manifested itself at the end of the football season and reached its peak at the State game seems to have relaxed into the dull listless spirit shown earlier in the fall. At least the attendance at the basketball games seems to indicate that a lapse has taken place. We hope that it is not a change but rather a temporary lull which will soon be overcome.

Those students who attended the Becker game certainly showed what the real Providence spirit consists of but the number of students did not compare favorably with the enthusiasm shown. The crowd was large but there were as many if not more Becker students attending the game as our own students.

This did not make the spirit of Providence College appear over enthusiastic to the visitors. There seems to be something lacking when Becker, a Worcester College, can have as many students present as Providence at a Providence home game.

Tomorrow we tackle our traditional rival, State, at the Auditorium. The Ram, mindful of the football defeat, is out to butt the Friar into submission and to avenge the unpleasant gridiron setback which it suffered at our hands. And unless the student-body awakens very quickly State is likely to accomplish its objective.

State is considered by some to have the best team in New England and is the pre-game favorite. State was the pre-game favorite in the football contest but the fight of the squad plus the spirit and enthusiasm of the student-body enabled the Friar to conquer.

The basketball squad possesses the fight and the ability to overcome the highly touted State team but it needs the active support of the students. Be at the game Saturday with the spirit and enthusiasm manifested earlier and State will hike back to Kingston, a skinned and sadly disappointed Ram!

PERSECUTION

In recent months the secular press has not failed to reveal the odiousness of much of the creed-and-race-baiting which prevails in so many countries today. The use of such moral energy is indeed commendable, and it is to be hoped that it will continue. But about the attitude of the press toward persecution of minorities in its widest scope there is an element of inconsistency.

For several years Catholic organizations in the United States have seen both the human and property rights of their fellow communicants in other countries denied either in whole or in part. In Russia, Spain, and Mexico persecution of Catholics is widely practiced. Despite the repeated declarations of the Catholic press about the tactics of these governments, the murder of priests and nuns, and the destruction of churches, no attempt has been made by the secular press to present the Catholic viewpoint. On the contrary the "liberalism" of countries such as Spain and Mexico, (countries which have denied to their Catholic elements the basic right of worshipping one's Gods according to individual bent), has been dimmed into the American ear.

The American people in the formation of their opinions have a right to accurate and complete information. The explanation of intolerance toward itself by a great religion is a necessary part of such information, and can not be justifiably ignored. The American secular press pays no attention to current anti-Catholic persecutions. The American Catholic does not expect such treatment from the secular press, which alone has widespread access to the public ear. He does hold that when a great world movement toward persecution involves peoples of differing religions, the Catholic aspect is one that should be assigned to semi-obscurity.

In our condemnation of evil there is no place for selections.

What Do You Think?

Question: Do you favor the establishment of a student governing board at Providence College?

Irving Hodson, Junior—Philosophy: Yes. I favor the establishment of a student governing board at Providence College. A student governing board would give the students some control over their affairs and consequently those affairs would be of more interest to the students. Student control would occasion an increase in school spirit and would arouse a sense of responsibility in the students.

Irving Wardle, Senior—Philosophy: Yes. I am definitely in favor of anything which would advance the welfare of the student body at Providence College. A student governing board would have unlimited possibilities of improving the general school spirit of the students and at the same time it would increase the students' interest in the school's activities.

George Comstock, Senior—Philosophy: No. I do not favor the establishment of a student governing board. It would not be able to accomplish anything that might be considered constructive. All the student activities are being cared for very well at the present time, so as a result, I can see no manner in which a student governing board would materially benefit the students.

John McGrath, Senior: Yes and no. If the board were formed with the sincere intention of doing its best to increase the students' control over their affairs, it would be a useful instrument and therefore one to be desired. On the other hand, if it to be formed for the mere purpose of bestowing an honor upon those who are on the board, it would serve no useful purpose and would be a useless ornament.

George Braman, Senior—Philosophy: Yes. A student governing board would be a desirable instrument for shaping student policy. A governing board with sufficient power would be able to take disciplinary action against those students who are to blame for the disgraceful situation in the cafeteria. The board should also be empowered to set the dates for the dances. Student control would cause an increase in student spirit.

Walter F. Gibbons, Senior—Arts: Yes. The right of self-determination demands that the student body have the power to regulate its own affairs. A self-respecting high school student will demand that right. Our principle difficulty is in the milk-fed lassitude of the student body, which shirks responsibility because it has never had to face it. Justice, and the best interests of the College urge that a student governing board should be established.

George Finn, Sophomore—Philosophy: Yes. A student government would tend to bring about more cooperation between classes and their officers. This would create a greater interest in school activities and an increase in school spirit. Many college throughout the country have tried student government and are well satisfied with the results. At least a trial would help the students decide whether or not Providence should have a student governing board.

Frank Flanagan, Soph.—Philosophy: N. A student government would only add confusion and more dissension to our present system. Electing the board would create more dirty politics of which we already have enough. It would also tend to create jealousy among the different classes for seniority and power on the board. Providence can do without a student governing board.

Uncle Peter Overlooks The Alumni

So tomorrow night the alumni venture forth to see our basketball team play the highly favored R. I. State Rams in what newspaper men term a tussle at the Auditorium on No. Main street. There will doubtless be a large gathering of our grads at the game—there always is at the State and Brown games, which brings up another point, as my grandfather used to say when he was fashioning tacks.

So few alumni attend the basketball games during the season that one wonders just what is the matter with the basketball enthusiasts among our friends possessing bachelor's degrees. As Charlie Verde confided to your what we may term a columnist for want of a certain movie actress, the other night at the Becker game quote "Wouldn't you think that more of the boys could plank out a half a dollar to see a good game question mark unquote. Uncle Peter said yes he did, but admitted that that idea didn't go very far towards boosting attendance.

But if it's any incentive to a bigger crowd we can quote the cagey trainer of the Friar five, known in the legal records as Mal Brown, who says that "we will be in there fighting." And if that's not incentive enough, come around and renew acquaintances and see some good basketball games in the bargain.

To Frank Reavey and others of the alumni who can dance your uncle takes pleasure in announcing that the annual alumni ball will be held on the evening of the tenth of February. There's going to be an orchestra and everything, and without doubt it will be the highlight of the alumni social season. President Gene Sullivan will announce his committee of assistants before long, and it's not a bit too early to start saving those dimes toward the purchase price of a ticket.

Mid-month melange. . . Among the alumni who are vulnerable in the game of hearts are the following . . . Billy Spinnler, last year's great basketball player has been put out of the game by Helen A. Babb of Paterson, N. J. . . Bill, by the way, is employed in the ordinary department of the Prudential Insurance Co. . . Pawtucket's assistant city engineer, Charles Farrell, has gone to New London to present a diamond to Nora J. Booth, Albertus Magnus grad . . . and Walter Fitzpatrick has decided that Helen Desmond of Yonkers is going to make a fine helpmate. . . Walt, you know, is actually paid by the New York, New Haven and Hartford for the work he does in their Providence station.

Scallions to the color ad of De Soto in this week's Life which pictures My Man Godfrey's Myrna Loy without her Auburn tresses. . . but orchids, on the other hand, to Joe Isaaco of this city, who has graduated from polishing apples to log rolling, having been appointed secretary to Mr. Harry Sandager in Washington. . . and then in conclusion just a note to say that John Reed of Pittsfield is teaching in the high school there.

To the Editor . . .

Dear Mr. Cowl: It is, it is claimed, the task of a college of liberal arts to educate the student as a man by giving him a broad cultural background. Yet, while music is a prominent factor in modern cultural life, it received little or no attention from the colleges. Whether this is due to academic inertia or to a lack of understanding on the part of the educators, I do not know. But, I do know that no man is brought to a "state of full maturity" (which is what a college of liberal arts endeavors to do) without a knowledge of or an appreciation of music.

To my mind, good music is as important to a person's cultural equipment as is good literature. It is not merely a form of amusement but more like a language whose masterpieces are to be taught, studied, and enjoyed. Any student graduating from a college of liberal arts should recognize and appreciate Beethoven as readily as he would Shakespeare. He certainly should not have to wait until Benny Goodman decides to swing the theme of his Fifth Symphony before he is made to realize that there was such a person and that he did write at least five symphonies.

I believe that a course in music should be on the must list of every college of liberal arts. The course should cover a history of music and the structure of its various forms, and should aim at an intimate understanding of the masterpieces of musical literature.

THE KEYHOLER

We were a wee bit disgusted when ye venerable Ed, asked us to take over the Advice of the Lovelorn column this week but after reading some of the letters sent to our beloved columnist, Shesha Darling, we're beginning to like the job more and more. We have but one request to make of those desirous of securing our services in the future and it is that they please make their letters a bit more interesting.

Slippery Elm Teachers College,
Clap Hands, Virginia.

Dear Miss Darling:

I usually don't rely upon such means for solving my problems but I'm in such a dilemma that I don't know what to do so I'm writing this little note to you to see if you can help me solve my problem. Down here to college I was recently voted the most beautiful girl on the campus and please don't think it mere bragging when I say the boys were right in their choice. But enough of this foolish dribble and down to the business of the moment. At the college I have been recently afflicted with two boy friends, Oswald Shy and Casper Hotstuff. Oswald is a very nice boy but as his name implies is very shy. On the other hand is Casper. I would prefer Oswald any day of the week but it takes a month to get him to ask for a date and then on the night of the date he becomes ill or something happens for him to wriggle out of the engagement. There is my problem in a nutshell; what shall I do?

Sincerely,

Hazel Hazzitt.

Dear Hazel:

The best advice I can give you is to forget those two stumblebums and come to Providence where men are men and women chase them all the time.

As we're feeling in a particularly jocular mood this morning we feel positive, well, at least hopeful, that you'll appreciate this bit of humor from one of the boarding houses. Seems the landlady had just brought in a platter of bread sliced very, very 'thinly so up pipes Doug "Fesapo" Ferraro and asks, "Did you cut these, Mrs. Smith?" Says she, giving him the cold stare, "Yes, why?" so he ups to her and cracks, "Okay, that's all I wanted to know, now I'll shuffle and deal."

Many's the heart that stopped short last Friday eve and 'twasn't caused by the beaucoup femme from Becker. 'Twas by far the most exciting game in many a moon. Even that Becker cheer-leader was exciting; he must have been an unemployed contortionist signed up by the school for the duration of the season. We're willing to wager he'll wear out the knees of his shiny silk pants long before the end of the season. Noticed E. Hick-

P. C. Italian Club Inducts Members

Members of the Aquino Club heard two speakers at the Club's first meeting of the year Monday night in the Old Auditorium. New members were received and plans for the year discussed by Matthew Rossi, '39, president, who presided.

The speakers were Dr. Ciro Ottorino Scotti who discussed "The Link Between Ancient and Present Italian Glory" and Francis DelDeo, '39, who spoke on the influence of Italian culture on English literature. Both have studied in Italy.

Committees appointed were: for initiations, Salvatore Guglielmo, '40, Ni-no Fabbri, '40, and Joseph A. Bevilacqua, '40; for a dance, Anthony Ricci, '41, Santo La Fazia, '41, C. DePasquale, '40, and John Ciro, '42; for social returns, Guglielmo, Ralph Paparella, '40, Francis Gragnani, '40, Joseph Napolitano, '42, Albert Fondi, '42, and Joseph M. Fico, '39.

son draggin' as per usual; in the same class, John Stonkus, just a country boy at heart but dain' rite well in the big city; and again per ditto, Dan Murphy, who in his prognostication called Becker too inexperienced in his physiognomy purpote.

Man of the week—Joe "Beau" Byron—because he's added another to his already and still growing list of conquests. Seems "Twenty-three Yards" is corresponding with a beautiful blonde singer from Upper New York State. Rumor hath it that he has already invited her to the Junior Prom—who knows, he's already asked so many.

BRYANT DEFEATS FRESHMAN QUINTET

The Bryant College Indians tagged the first defeat of the year on the Providence College Frosh five by a 50 to 32 score in the Bryant College gym on last Tuesday night. "Louie" Sibbio, a Pittsfield boy playing for the Friars, garnered the individual scoring honors for the night when he annexed eight baskets from the floor to account for just half of his team's points.

The Indians took over the lead early in the tussle and were out in front by 38 to 20 score at the half-way mark. They continued to outplay their intra-city rivals during the second period and rang up 20 more points to the 12 that Sibbio and his mates were able to make. The floor game of Joe Juges and "Horse" Marone were the only other features of the Providence play.

FALL RIVER CLUB TO HOLD BRIDGE PARTY FEB. 2

The Fall River Club of Providence College will hold a bridge party at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Fall River, Thursday, February 2. The committee for this affair consists of John Dunn, '41, chairman; Paul Dunn, '41; Hugo Perron, '41; Thomas Ellis, '41; James Reilly, '41; Edward Tucker, '42, and Eugene Sullivan, '42.

The Rev. Charles H. McKenna, O.P., moderator of the club, addressed the members at their meeting on Wednesday, January 11. Plans for a donation to the new college chapel were discussed.

From the Lab

By Paul Kearney, '39

By PAUL KEARNEY, '39

No matter how we try to avoid it, the exams are the biggest topic of the week and they are still scheduled for next Thursday. Noticing that the students spend the days after Christmas recess in worrying about studying for the exams, a few opinions were gathered from the pre-meds on this lapse in the desire to study. Tom Flynn of the Senior Pre-medical group, blames it on the so-called "Social Merry-go-round" that one gets on during the holidays. As a result, he finds himself still trying to capture a few more brass-rings. George Solish of the Sophomore Pre-med blames it on the intensive preparation that he has been putting in on his dancing lessons. Having worked them last year in the Musical Comedy, he hopes to do it extra special this year.

The intra-mural basketball preparations have really taken the pre-meds by storm. Ed Butler and Ray Bozo are quite pleased that there will be a weight division as regards the teams. Ed and Ray got into a little practice the other day with a few heavyweights. They came to class later, Ed minus half-a-shirt. Mr. Bozo is sporting a nice "shiner" this week.

Any student who brings books or papers to examination rooms, or who is seen communicating in any way, will forfeit his examination. All writing must be done in the book which will be supplied by the professor. No student may use more than one examination book at the same time.

N.B.—STUDENTS MUST WATCH OFFICIAL BULLETIN BOARDS FOR ANY CHANGES IN THIS SCHEDULE.

FRESH from the FROSH

The first thing on this week's program is a little unfinished business from the last session. It seems that "Slim" Oliver, whom we mentioned as having eleven dates over the holidays, took home exactly that number of Cowsls last week—one for each of the young ladies. (Circulation manager please note.)

Joe McLaughlin and his pals have been seen in the phone booth quite often of late, dialing 7606 (they won't tell us what exchange) and asking for Margaret. Don't know what the gag is but they usually give the name "Freddie."

Roomies George Avery and Joe Fitzgerald awoke to their morn to find their pedal extremities rather frigid. (How's that vocab, prof?) The two lads complained to the housekeeper to no avail. It can be understood why "Baby" George couldn't take it, coming as he does from the city. But a farmer's son like "Fitz" shouldn't mind the early morning atmosphere.

Frank Dwyer, philosophy, was elected president of the City-by-the-Sea Commuter's Association, which is composed of 27 students of colleges in this city who commute daily, excluding those who attend that kindergarten on the other hill. (Congrats, Frank!)

SEEN HITHER AND YON ... Phil Foley, business delegate from Newport, seen in a back seat on Webster Street in that city. Rumor states that her name is Jean. ... Horace Marrone, who hails from the railroad city, walking a very attractive little colleen home from Saturday night's social. "Prince" Nardini, who also claims New Haven as his home, escorting a student of that Broadway academy to the trolley the same evening. Her name is Frances. ... Paul Carberry at the hockey game last week-end spending his time talking to a cute number from Katherine Gibbs. He still doesn't know who won the game.

THE COLLEGIATE REVIEW

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Ithaca, N. Y.—(ACP)—The five driving forces in the daily life of the average college student have been charted by Cornell University's Dr. Julian L. Woodward after an extensive research into campus social life.

These driving forces are: "the drive for prestige; the need to release tremendous energy by doing things and going places; the wish to achieve independence from home ties and be recognized as an adult; the problem of relationship with the other sex, and finally the planning for adult life."

Dr. Woodward also determined how students rate the prestige of other students. He found that a male student rates prestige by "which fraternity he belongs to; his campus offices and the teams he makes; his smoothness, a compound of clothes, car and 'line'; and farther down the list his grades, more as an index of intelligence than of culture."

Women students rate each other "first by sorority, then by date rating, a compound of the ability to be invited out frequently and the prestige of the men who date them; then by college activities, and finally by grades as a mark of intelligence."

Day by day, in every way, science is making us better acquainted with ourselves and our neighbors. Not that we're demanding it, you know, but during the last two or three weeks science has found out a couple of things that you really should know:

Under ordinary conditions, your hands and arms contain about 8,000,000 micro-organisms, according to a Johns Hopkins University professor. This is a nice fact to add to your dinner-table facts collection.

If you're a devotee of the stream, you really should know that fish like red better than any other color, and that red-colored bait is best. At least a Northwestern University professor has found this out after many months of research. We suggest that you paste this one in the cover of your bait-box.

One of the chief topics of conversation—almost as bad as "Have you heard about my operation?"—is this subject of allergies. Sensitivity to food, you know. Well, a University of California fact-gatherer has found out that 7 percent of us have allergies, which means that some of us must be kidding ourselves, judging from the large number that claim certain sensitivities.

And all of you who have inferiority complexes because you didn't get a chance to play on the varsity will feel better after this new pill of self-reliance from Massachusetts State College: Researchers there have found that only 49 percent of the college athletes are active in social activities in later life.

Yes, science is doing everything in This Collegiate World to make us all feel better—or is it?

Pennsylvania State College graduates of 1932 have given their alma mater $4500 for murals for the college administration building.

A classical museum—a valuable collection of antiques—has been opened at Vassar College.

Oregon State College has areas painted on its sidewalks to indicate where students may light cigarettes, where they may throw them away.

Miami University medical authorities report a decrease of more than 50 percent, in the number, severity and duration of colds contracted by students as a result of cold vaccine injections.

THE RAM IS HERE AGAIN

Providence College and Rhode Island State will be in the athletic limelight again tomorrow night when the basketball representatives of the two schools will meet in the opening clash of their annual home-and-home series on the floor of the R. I. Auditorium in Providence, State, at the time of writing, has gone through seven games undefeated and rules the decided favorite over the Friars who have dropped one decision in three starts thus far. This is the column which told you that Becker wouldn't furnish our boys with too much trouble last Friday . . . so you don't have to believe us when we tell you that Providence might hand Mr. Keesney and his lads their first surprise and setback of the New Year.

State Wants This One . . .

There is a rumor going around to the effect that the State will try to score an amazing total in an attempt to avenge the defeat suffered by their football cohorts on last Armistice Day. The South County boys are out to "rub it in" if they can by tacking a humiliating defeat on the "Fighting Friars" . . . at least, that is how the story goes. With another one of their point-a-minute combinations on tap, the Keesney charges have a slight chance of doing just that . . . but again, we don't think they can. The P. C. quintet is well-conditioned, aggressive, and in the right frame of mind to make up for the losses suffered last season at the hands of the Ram five.

Becker Meant Business . . .

The Becker College team provided the fans in attendance at Harkins Hall last Friday night with one of the best exhibitions of "never say die" spirit, supplemented by considerably more ability than most of us expected, ever displayed by a Providence opponent. Their Strzelicki was as expert a shot as we have seen this year and we don't think the celebrated Mr. Jaworski of State will show us anything more in the line of basketball skill in the all-season tomorrow night. The Worcester boys provided the lads with just the kind of conditioning tune-up they needed to fit them for the running they are going to enjoy against their intra-state rival.

Fresh Drop Opener . . .

The Providence College Freshman five dropped a 50-32 decision to the Bryant College hoopers on the latter team's home floor last Tuesday evening. "Louie" Sibbio, former Pittsfield High flash, featured the Black and White attack by tossing in eight field baskets to lead the individual scorers for the evening. "Joe" Juges and "Horse" Marone, who starred on the gridiron for the first-year men last season, turned in the best defensive exhibitions for the Friars. We are just a little bit afraid that the prelim game at the Auditorium tomorrow night will not even be close. The down-staters pack just too much for our boys . . . but we will be satisfied with winning the main event, anyway.

Fallon May Go . . .

The return of "Lefty" Fallon, soph shooting star, to the Friar line-up in the Becker game certainly helped no little bit in the deciding of the victor in that tussle. Fallon's presence at one of the Providence forward posts in the Dartmouth game may have changed the complexion of things up there, some of the boys think, and he might be the spark of the "Fighting Friars" attack tomorrow night. He may "go" . . . and if he does? !

Harry Platt pulled the basketball version of Roy Riegl's famous "wrong way" run in the Brown-State game last Saturday when he looped one in the wrong basket . . . Platt's error may be charged to the fact that the teams were lined up the wrong way at the start of the second half . . . so excuse him please.

CHEERING SECTION

Students who are going to attend the State game at the Auditorium tomorrow night are asked to get there early and sit in two sections to which they will be directed by members of the Friars' Club, and which will serve as the Providence College rooting section for the evening. Seats in the section are not reserved, so Friar rooters are again asked to be there early—at 7:30 p.m. if possible, thus assuring the team of some organized cheering support.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT BEING COMPLETED

The Table Tennis tournament for the championship of Providence College was progressing rapidly today with all first round matches completed yesterday. Tournament Officials expect the finals to be played in the middle of next week.

Early round matches brought out some very spectacular play. Bill Tierney defeated Joe Buckley of New Bedford in the most thrilling match. Other outstanding first round victors were Jack Reynolds, Dan Geary, F. Mullen, G. Carroll, J. McKeeney, and Tom McDonald. All matches were played upon the basis of the best two out of three games. The semi-finals will be based upon the best three out of five and the final on four out of seven.

BLACKSTONE VALLEY CLUB ORGANIZES

The first meeting of the Providence College Club of Blackstone Valley was held at its new quarters, 87 Roosevelt avenue, Wednesday evening, Karl Sherry presided. Thomas Moriarty was elected financial secretary. It was voted to conduct a mid-winter ball late in January. Frank Sullivan heads the general committee in charge of the fair. A membership drive will be inaugurated in the near future. Members of the committee in charge of the drive are Newman Forestal, Edgar Maynard, Joseph McKenna and Thomas Moriarty.

The following members of the house committee were appointed to draft a set of rules: Dr. Albert Gaudette, John Doherty, William Bannon and John Keough.

Be wary junior philosophers for: There once was a metaphysician Who said that he didn't exist. And when he had proved his position All said that he wouldn't be missed —St. Anselm Hawk.

Becker Missed This One

Bill Murphy seems to be a little bit surprised at the turn of events here. The Becker center and Eli Deuse have gone up into the stratosphere to decide whether the Worcester boys are going to get another two points. "Unhospitable", Bill calls it, as Elton deflects the ball and nullifies the attempt. The gentleman in the foreground, waiting for the boys and the ball to come down to earth, is Strzelicki, who did most of the scoring from a forward post for the Becker five.

FRIARS MEET RAMS IN HOOP FEATURE

College, 50-32, at the latter's gym last Tuesday night. Thus far "Stutz" Modzelewski, Ramlet forward, has provided the overture to Jaworski's performances and should make his presence felt before the varsity hoopers steam into action. He will be backed up well, however, by Ted Lowmes, formerly of Westerly High, at the other forward slot, Abradivo at center, Bill Rutledge, former Pawtucket High luminary and Armand Cure, of New Bedford, at guards.

College World

New York City—(ACP)—That large numbers of college students have less academic ability than the youth of their generation who have become machinists and unskilled workers is disclosed in a pamphlet, How Good Are Our Colleges?, just released by the Public Affairs Committee.

The pamphlet summarizes the results of the ten-year study of higher education in Pennsylvania made by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

Only about half of the youth of outstanding ability are getting into college, the pamphlet declares, while at least one-fourth of the college students are below the average out-of-school youth in ability.

Colleges are shown to differ widely in the capacity of their students. In one extreme case all of the students in the sophomore class of one college ranked lower in an intelligence test than the dullest student in the sophomore class of a superior institution.

Nor do these differences appear to be due entirely to selection. Thirty-four students out of 106 high school graduates whose test scores were close to average went to colleges which ranked in the upper half of Pennsylvania colleges. The remaining 72 went to colleges in the lower half. When tested again after four years, the students who attended the top-ranked colleges made scores which were superior to those in the low-ranking institutions by a margin equal to the normal difference between Sophomore and Senior years. Thus, the pamphlet comments, "if the kind of knowledge measured by these tests is the object of a college education, then it is about twice as expensive in time (and probably in money) to go to the less efficient institutions."

Friars Defeat Becker College In Close Tilt

Sweeney's Basket in Closing Seconds Decides Exciting Battle

In one of the most thrilling games ever played in Harkins Hall the Providence College basketball team defeated Becker College last Friday night 50 to 49 in an overtime battle.

The Friars came from behind in the last period to tie up the ball game on Eli Deuse's basket. Then in the overtime, with Becker again leading, the hero's role went to rangy Paul Sweeney, Friar reserve center. Sweeney took a pass at mid-court and with only 15 seconds left to play calmly poised himself and shot the winning basket.

The play was fast and aggressive all the way as the Friars turned in their best performance of the year. High scoring honors of the evening went to Ziggy Strzelicki of Becker with 18 points. Fallon was high man for the Friars with 14 points.

The game was close throughout with neither team going more than five points ahead of the other. At the end of the first period the Friars led 14 to 11 but Becker pulled up all even with them at half-time. The scoreboard reading 24 all.

Providence forged into a 33 to 32 lead at the close of the third quarter but Becker again turned on the pressure and with five seconds from game time led 46 to 44. Then Eli Deuse took a rebound near the sidelines and shot a one hander as the whistle blew ending the game. This tied it up 46 to 46.

The play in the overtime was as fast and furious as the regulation periods. Becker went into the lead on a successfully converted foul shot but Bill Murphy, stellar guard put Providence out in front again with a long shot. Two more successful foul shots put Becker ahead and with 15 seconds remaining Sweeney threw up his deciding score and the Friars were victorious 50 to 49.

Becker presented a much smarter and faster club than was expected and played a beautiful game. Their ball handling was nearly perfect and they fought all the way.

By their victory the Friars showed themselves in perfect condition and ready to play a fast and aggressive game against State tomorrow night at the Auditorium.

The Freshmen participated in an intra-squad game as the preliminary.

SIDELINE TALK

By Charles T. Avedisian

Talk about spirit. There was more spirit displayed at that recent tussle with Becker College than has ever been our pleasure to witness. Even though our force came out on the long end of a hotly contested battle, the general all-round play of both fives was highly commendable. The fans, including all of the faculty, were at their best when they began cheering and singing all sorts of songs. Did you notice Father Dillon yell with joy every time a P. C. gent sank a basket. The game was so exciting that one Father nearly fell from the balcony.

Coach Crotty has done a fine job thus far and if the Friars pin a defeat on Rhode Island Saturday night, they will be in the same class as the footballers, Freshmen and Varsity, both of whom submitted the Ram. Watch Steve Fallon and J. Kwanslewski go to town against State. Eli Deuse claims he'd rather guard the high scoring Jaworski than any other member of the State team. Well Eli we all know that you'll play as fine a game as you performed against Becker.

The great Sweeney sank a sensational basket against the Worcester five to annex the contest. By the way Sweeney is the lad who has been living up to the things that have been said about him both in football and basketball.

One feller the Friars should watch Saturday night is Leon Capriellan, the player that sets up all the plays for those high scoring forwards. He passes backward and is plenty rough under that basket. However, men like Deuse and Barnini, etc., will provide plenty of opposition for one night. Coach Hugh Devore, grid mentor, is booked to come here late this month —so we have heard.

Wink Crowley, former P. C. star, is now blasting his way to stardom in the Pawtucket Manufacturer's League. Wink was instrumental in handing the Pee Jays (Kennedy of Brown; Tashjian of State; Swanson of Bryant) a startling defeat. Before we close we'd like to let you all in on a secret—(Providence College Will Defeat R. I. State Saturday Night).

Personality Shots

By John Schofield, '39

Bill Riley's sauntering along River avenue is really a fine picture of studied casualness. Bill, it seems, enjoys to no little extent a little chat in the morning before the eight-thirty class. News comes that Al Ahern will return next year presumably to the old rooming establishment. Obe regrets that he won't be there next year but from all reports everything is still okay. About the only thing that George Braman enjoyed receiving from good old Santa was a set of gold false teeth which fit over his own molars. When he wears the monstrosities and smiles, he looks like one of the Forty-niners gone berserk.

The other day we received a spot of doggerel from one of the Seniors who was convinced that he had embodied four years of culture in one superb masterpiece. The following was the masterpiece:

I go to school in January . . . so I can come back to school in February . . . so I can stay in school in March . . . so I can have a vacation in April . . . so I can pass the exams in May . . . so I can graduate in June . . . so I can rest in July . . . so I can worry in August . . . so I can get a job in September . . . so I can get engaged in October . . . so I can get married in November . . . so I can be nagged next December . . . and live miserably ever after.

Sil Batastini and Ray Bedard were very much concerned over the well being of one of the Frosh. It seems that the other day a Freshman, as yet anonymous, ate one hamburger in the Caf and followed it immediately with a second, then a third, a fourth and a fifth. He washed the

ALBERTUS MAGNUS CLUB ELECTS TURNER PRESIDENT

The Senior Pre-medical class met yesterday to resume activities of the Albertus Magnus Science Club. Elections were held and the following men were elected: President, Fred J. Turner; Vice-President, Paul Kearney; Secretary, Thomas Healy, and Treasurer, Bert Holdridge. A committee consisting of John A. Kennedy, chairman; Thomas Flynn, Joseph Baldwin, Matthew Rossi and John Grady was appointed to draw up a constitution and present it at the next meeting. An Insignia committee was appointed to formulate a suitable insignia for the club. Jacob Belofsky, who is chairman of this committee, will be assisted by John Kacevitz, Joseph Golini, and Joseph Kidney. The next meeting will be held after the mid-year exams at which time a definite plan for the coming year will be outlined.

La Pleiade Marks First Anniversary

La Pleiade, P. C. French Club, marked its first anniversary at a meeting held in the large parlor yesterday afternoon. In observance of the event, two literary papers on modern French literature were read by Francis J. Lehner, '40 and Lionel J. Landry, '40. The papers were entitled "Paul Claudel and the Revival of the Mystery Play" and "Jacques Maritain and the Catholic Renaissance in France" and were delivered in French.

Michael O. Jenkins, '41, secretary-treasurer of the Club read a resume of the records of the club's first year of existence. Letters of congratulation, addressed to the members of the club on the success of the recent lecture here by Jacques Maritain, distinguished French philosopher, were also read.

It was also learned that the next speaker to address the French Club may be Felix DesRochers, Librarian-General of the Parliament Libraries at Ottawa, Ontario. Mr. DesRochers is a lecturer noted for his works on French and French-Canadian literary figures. Members of La Pleiade are making arrangements and expect to hear him while on his lecture-tour of New England next month.

Other lecturers whom members will try to obtain are Antonio Prince, LL.D. postmaster of the city of Woonsocket, also noted lecturer, and John Wilfrid J. Mathieu, of Manchester, N. H. former state senator of Rhode Island, and member of the Order of the Knights of St. Gregory and an officer of the French Academy.

RING REPRESENTATIVES TAKE CLASS ORDERS

Meeting yesterday morning in the large parlor with a representative of the Bates and Klinke Co. which holds the contract for supplying the Junior Rings, many members of the Junior class who had not previously ordered their rings placed their orders.

A large display of samples aroused much enthusiasm and an unusually large number of orders was obtained according to the company representative.

A few minor adjustments were made in the case of a few men who had already received their rings and the representative of the company announced that the orders which were taken yesterday would be filled on or about February 15.

New York—The "sand-lot kids" of America are to have their innings in the Academy of Sport at the New York World's Fair 1939, it is announced by Grover A. Whalen, President of the Fair. In a "school term" covering the period of Fair operation, there will be free instruction in baseball by such professors as Joe McCarthy, Lou Gehring, Babe Ruth, Bill Terry, Johnny Van der Meer, Burleigh Grimes, "Dizzy" Dean, Hank Greenberg, Jimmy Fox, Joe Di Maggio, Bob Feller and Mel Ott. Classes are to be held in June, July, August and September of next year.

Quotable Quotes

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

"The university must make deliberate, conscious attempts to tie itself into the pattern of American community life in some meaningful way if it is to justify its place in the community as an instrument for the protection and advancement of democracy." New York University's Dean Ned H. Dearborn urges higher education to pay more attention to adult education.

"Only relatively late in human history have people been able to think before they speak and speak before they act. Most of us still do it rather infrequently and with rather indifferent success." Miami University's Dr. Read Bain believes we are suffering from "acute but highly contagious blabitis."

"In the process of Americanizing our education we have really, without knowing it, drifted away from our older American tradition. Nationalism even if it is Americanism, is not liberalism. It very easily becomes the opposite." Dean Christian Gauss of Princeton University deprecates the decline of the study of the humanities.
