

Students Urged To Join Chorus Of P.C. Musical

Talented Students Needed To Tryout For Parts In Comedy

Joseph A. Wade, '40, production manager of the Pyramid Players announced yesterday that more students, especially Freshmen, were needed to tryout for parts in the dance chorus of the coming musical comedy. Students who are talented in singing or dancing are urged to try out for the specialty acts.

Wade said, "Unless we have an increase in the dance chorus and additions to the Glee Club, it will be impossible to follow our original plans in producing the comedy. We will be forced to omit certain elements which are of great importance to the success of the show. It may be necessary to disband the show entirely. I sincerely hope that the students will take this warning to heart and make a worthwhile showing at the next rehearsal."

Rehearsals for the members of the cast are being held evenings in the Old Auditorium. The members of the dancing chorus are rehearsing under the direction of Larry Simonds at the Modernistic Dance Studios.

Kenneth Cayton, '42, music director, announced that all musical contributions must be submitted before Tuesday, February 26. No compositions will be accepted after this date.

The sale of tickets will begin immediately after the Easter recess according to John M. Reynolds, '40, business manager.

There will be a meeting of the new members of the dance chorus and the Glee Club Monday, at 12:20 in Room 19.

In his statement yesterday Wade said that student suggestions for a title for the show are welcome.

Many suggestions for a title have been made to date, but all have proved unsatisfactory.

Because of the early Easter this year, Conditional Examinations will be held at the beginning of March. No other occasion for taking the examinations will be granted during the semester. The schedule of hours will be published in the near future.

Movie Version Of Passion Play Will Be Shown

'Golgotha' Features Exact Reproduction of Ancient Jerusalem

Featuring exact duplication of the appearance of the city of Jerusalem as it was in the heyday of Herod's rule, a task which entailed years of research on the part of expert archaeologists and designers, "Golgotha", the highly praised movie version of the passion play will be shown in Harkins Hall Monday evening March 4, under the sponsorship of the Pyramid Players, Providence College dramatic group.

Acclaimed as "one of the greatest and most important productions since The Birth of a Nation" by reviewers of the Film Daily, and as "a superb religious performance" by the Brooklyn Tablet, "Golgotha" depicts the period in Christ's life from His entrance into Jerusalem until His death on the cross. Other scenes depict Christ's agony in the Garden of Gethsemane, His driving the money-changers out of the Temple, His condemnation at the hands of Caiaphas and Pontius Pilate, and the crowning of thorns. Scenes depicting Judea were filmed in Algeria by French technicians. Although produced in France and played by a French cast, the film is completely equipped with English titles.

The presentation of the film will take on the nature of a benefit performance, proceeds from which will be turned over to the current drive to furnish the new Aquinas Hall chapel with sacerdotal vestments and altar ornaments.

'Veritas' Sends Book Material To Publishers

Students Are Requested To Submit Candid Camera Shots

The first half of "Veritas", Providence College yearbook, has been completed and will be sent to the printers today, it was announced by Raymond J. Dixon, editor of the publication.

Dixon announced that the format of this year's book would incorporate many ideas used in last year's edition of "Veritas", including the process of "offset lithography". This year, however, a lighter, more glossy type of paper will be used.

Pictures taken at the Junior Prom of last year of students and their guests will be accepted and printed in this year's book. Any student who wishes to do so is requested to submit their photographs to the editor as soon as possible. All photographs will be returned after they have been used.

Informal shots of dances and candid camera shots of students will be more numerous than last year. Students who have informal pictures of themselves or of their friends may submit them for publication. The pictures need not have been taken on the campus.

The staff has decided to withdraw the pictures of moderators with the club presidents and other organization heads. Informal shots of the heads of organizations will be taken in place. Club presidents will watch the bulletin board for a schedule of sittings.

Dixon stated that the sale of books to undergraduates has nearly doubled the sales made to underclassmen last year. He expressed the hope that every student would purchase a copy. Payments may be made to the business department in the Rotunda on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday and in the Cowl office on Thursday and Friday.

Student tickets for the University of Connecticut game at R. I. Auditorium may be purchased at the Athletic Office for 25c, Rev. Vincent C. Dore, O.P., Athletic Director. General admission is 40c. There will be no reserved seats.

Providence College played greatly improved basketball against Springfield yesterday afternoon but never the less dropped a close game to the Indians by a 51-43 count.

At the half, the Friar hoopsters led the Gymnasts by a score of 22-21; at the end of the third period the score was tied at 34 all. Providence College went ahead in the final stage 38-34, but with about six minutes left to play, Springfield tied the score at 40-all. From this point on the Indians really went to town and won the game after leaving Providence far behind in the backstretch.

Following the lead of an improved varsity, the Frosh team played good basketball after a slow start but lost to the Springfield first-year club, 50-38 after a belated Friar rally fell short. Bob Reilly played great ball for the frosh, rolling up a total of 19 points.

The towering heights of the Engineers from Worcester Tech asserted itself last Saturday night as the Friars dropped a 64-23 decision.

So decided was the physical advantage of the Worcester five that the locals were held scoreless until midway through the second quarter. The Engineers jumped into an early lead which was never threatened by the desperate Friars who were forced to fight uphill all the way.

John Wells, six-foot, five-inch, center, netted eight field goals and four fouls for a total of 20 points in leading the Techmen to their eighth straight win. Johnny Lee and Jim Leo played well for the locals.

Coach Quirk Has Veteran Team; Entire Pitching Staff Will Return

Despite the wintry blasts of the last few weeks, it won't be long before Coach Artie Quirk issues the call for his baseballers to start loosening up kinky muscles in preparation for the 1940 season.

With prospects for a successful season unusually bright, the Friars will face a schedule of 16 games that includes home and home series with Brown, R. I. State, Holy Cross and Boston College.

The recent announcement that Donat Brochu, co-captain of the 1940 team, will be a candidate for an outfield post was heartening news to everyone. The injury received by Donat last year will force him to leave

Luckless Providence Outfit Seeks Third Win Of Season

Providence College's Hoopsters will try for a second time to reopen their home schedule, having bowed to the weather man last week, when they take on the rugged University of Connecticut outfit next Tuesday evening at the Auditorium. The Yearlings of both teams will line up in the preliminary.

Led by Captain Charlie Brooks, the Nutmeggers have compiled the enviable record of 10 wins and 3 losses to date. Fast and aggressive, the Nutmeggers employ a fast-breaking, long-passing game which has won them the respect of their opponents throughout the season. Brooks, All-New England Conference guard last year, has taken over the roll as playmaker for Peterson and Donnelly who combined speed with accuracy. Wurliizer and Yuscevicz are tall and rangy and use their height to advantage in clearing the backboards. This combination is one of the highest scoring outfits in New England college basketball, averaging slightly less than two points a minute.

In an effort to return the Friars to winning form Coach Ed Crotty will start Joe Kwasniewski at center with Lee and Leo at the forward posts while Barnini and Murphy will try to keep the Nutmeggers in check from their guard positions.

The Frosh Yearlings will face the Marionapolis Academy in the opener. The Friar Frosh will be after their third win of the season.

ITALIAN CLUB GUEST AT INFORMAL SOCIAL

Approximately twenty-five members of the Aquino Club, attended an informal social held last Wednesday night by the Rostrium Club, one of the leading Italian organizations of the state, at the club headquarters on Broadway.

At the meeting of the Aquino Club Thursday, a tentative committee was chosen for a dinner and dance to be held later in the semester. The committee members included: Samuel Tanzi, '41; Donald Tramonti, '41; John Cerra, '41; and Benny Aceto, '41.

The Aquino Club will be represented in the Inter-club basketball tourney with Ralph Paparella, '40, as coach.

Cowl Reporter Runs Journalistic Gamut; Becomes One Man Staff

Williams Breaks All Records With Blizzard Edition Of 'Cowl'

Running the journalistic gamut from A to Z, or "The Art and Science of Being a Leg Man, Copy Boy, Rewrite Man, Reporter, Makeup Man, Copy Reader, Editor and Stevedore," was exemplified to the nth degree last Thursday at Providence College when Ira T. Williams, Jr., '41, Cowl reporter, did practically a one-man job on the blizzard edition of the P. C. paper.

(Part One—Leg Man and Reporter) The morning after the snowy cyclone hit Rhode Island, the majority of Cowl staff members were in a state of enforced hibernation. However, the Cowl's demon reporter and jack of all trades walked through the snow for a couple of miles from his home to Harkins Hall, sat down at a typewriter and proceeded to write half of the front page.

(Part Two—Copy Boy and Rewrite Man) When several other members of the staff wandered in, Mr. Williams was put to rewriting several of the stories written by sophomores and was made to act as an office boy in general.

(Part Three—Leg Man—continued) Late in the afternoon, Mr. Williams walked downtown to the press with half of the Cowl's copy.

(Part Four—Editor, Makeup Man, Copy Reader) Installed at the Visitor Press, with his feet on a radiator and his beard in a cup of coffee, Mr. Williams proceeded to direct the destinies of The Cowl as it proceeded in painful stages through the print shop. His duties consisted in deciding what stories should go where, what stories should be included and the ones which should be excluded and also in deleting grammatical horrors and typographical monstrosities from the front page of the paper.

(Part Five—Copy Boy—continued) When other members of The Cowl staff arrived at the Press, Mr. Williams resumed his duties as copy boy.

(Part Six—Editor—continued) When the other members of the skeleton staff proceeded to "the annex" for that which cheereth the inner man, Mr. Williams moved dozens of notches up in the journalistic scale.

(Part Seven—Copy Boy—continued) On the return of his colleagues, Mr. Williams resumed his duties as copy boy.

(Part Eight—Undercover Man) At about 11 o'clock that night, all members of the skeleton got tired, decided to give up the ghost and leave The Cowl in the laps of the gods,

Extension Course Open to Students

A course in music appreciation under the direction of the Rev. Leo S. Cannon, O.P., has been added to the curriculum of the Providence College Extension School. Father Cannon, Doctor of Music from Catholic University, began lecturing last Wednesday evening with Gounod's "Faust," as the topic of discussion.

The first two acts of the opera were played, and the rest, as recorded by the Paris Opera, will be presented next week. The series will then continue with the first part of Puccini's "Madame Butterfly," recorded by the La Scala Opera.

All students who are interested in Music Appreciation may register next Wednesday evening. The registration fee for the course is ten dollars.

better known as linotypers. Mr. Williams began to leave with the others, but, on a motion of his guardian angel, sneaked back to the press.

(Part Nine—Editor—continued) Mr. Williams edited ye olde weekly until 6:30 the following morning.

(Part Ten—Stevedore) At nine o'clock Friday morning, ye reporter without equal sallied forth into the drifts, secured another member of the staff at Exchange Place, and together they carried on their backs, 1200 copies of The Cowl back to Harkins Hall.

ALUMNI ?

Uncle Peter's recent tirade against the Alumni of Providence College is entirely justified but is woefully weak. He criticizes the alumni for not attending the Alumni Ball but his censure should go far beyond any social event and into the organization of the Alumni Association itself.

The Alumni Association of Providence College, if it may be called such, is without a doubt the weakest organization that is imaginable. Out of the some 2500 graduates of the College, the Alumni Association has perhaps 150 paying members. Those graduates who are striving against the almost impossible to continue the organization should be congratulated but those other graduates should hide their head in shame every time Providence College is mentioned in their presence.

Any alumni association should be the strongest organization that a college can boast of. It should be bound together by a bond of good fellowship and of love of the college. The acquaintances made during college days should continue throughout life. It appears to us that Providence graduates just don't believe what graduates of other colleges believe.

It is not too difficult to understand why the association is a failure when we consider the alumni. That grand and exalted body of graduates has as much spirit and enthusiasm as a tubercular groundhog. Their pledges and promises are about as good as those of a campaigning politician. The unredeemed pledges of those who subscribed to the building fund attest to this.

Freshmen gaze with astonishment at the empty spaces at almost all athletic contests. Upperclassmen know what to expect from the alumni. But there is much vituperative criticism from those who are willing to contribute absolutely nothing in the way of support.

What is to be done about the alumni and the Alumni Association? Should the association be discontinued as Uncle Peter suggests or should their be an attempt to rebuild the association?

It is our belief that the organization can be rebuilt but it must be done immediately before it sinks into a morass from whence it will never be able to recover.

In order to accomplish anything worthwhile reorganization must begin with the recent graduates. These men, more closely associated than the older graduates, will find it easier to organize. With time the older graduates, those who have forgotten their Alma Mater can be drawn into the organizations.

Expensive social functions can be omitted until the organization is able to support them. There must be a closer connection between the association and the authorities of the College. Territorial clubs must be ready to support the parent organization. But it will take time to attain success.

This year's graduating class should take special notice of the conditions which now exist and prepare for the future. It is our belief that what ever reorganizing which will be done will be begun by those graduates who are closely connected with the school.

We doubt that the majority of the alumni will ever hear of this verbal bouquet. But the shoe fits approximately 2200 out of a probable 2500. If you are one do you propose to do anything about it?

Letter to the Editor

Agere sequitur esse is a Scholastic maxim with a wide and extensive application in our philosophy. However, I cannot help thinking that no matter how closely M. Maritain may emulate the so-called "warmongers," it does not necessarily follow that he is one. M. Jacques Maritain is regarded by many far more competent critics than I, as the foremost living exponent of Catholic thought, certainly he is the greatest lay scholastic alive today.

It is especially difficult to understand his present attempts to justify the Allied cause, since he was so completely opposed to the bombings of civilian populations during the Spanish conflict that he characterized the tactics of the franco forces as decidedly un-Christian. His complete about face is quite inexplicable. He is usually a very keen and unbiased thinker. Ever since the appearance of his article in the Dec. 22nd issue of Commonweal, a wave of discussion has been carried on in the Catholic papers and magazines concerning themselves with current problems.

One who has read his excellent treatise "True Humanism" would hardly expect to find him among the men of God who pray more for the defeat of the enemies than for a just and lasting peace. Maritain writes that the two ancient Christian nations (can he mean that they were Christian one?), are risking their very existence to defend Europe from the pestilence and scourge that is Nazi Germany. He makes no pretence about this being a "holy" war, nevertheless he says it is a "just" war. They acquire their righteousness as the saviors of civilization and the champions of the Polish cause. He even feels that they will save Christianity, and of all things, the Church. I wonder how he could harmonize these assumptions with the Allied "open arms policy" towards the Russians?

Considering the proximate and remote cause of the war, he says, "when it comes to the remote origins of the war, nobody is altogether innocent before God." However, in his inspection of the proximate factors such as exaggerated nationalism and economic imperialism, with their attendant evils

Uncle Peter Overlooks the Alumni

With a week that was intended for rest but turned out to be full of snow shoveling, a thing of the past, we try to get back into form. As usual Lou FitzGerald did a fine job in turning out the column last week and makes us wish that we could write with such facility. Even though the of unjust encroachment and territorial acquisition at the expense of smaller nations, he imputes the entire blame to the Germans, becoming completely oblivious of the Allied influence in the destiny of the Reich from Versailles to the present day. He invents what he calls "decisive" causes for which the French and British are warring Germany. It seems that they evolve about the sacred mission to rid the Poles of their Atheistic oppressors. So utterly naive and innocuous is this assertion that even the British Government in its endeavor to secure some tangible war "aims" to satisfy the clamoring populace deemed it too apparently obvious and absurd to satiate their inquiries with these motives. How then does M. Maritain expect the world at large to accept it?

He disclaims the conditions enunciated by St. Thomas as necessary to ensure the justice of an offensive war, which even he admits the Allies as well as Germany are conducting. The Rev. Doctor Barry O'Toole, Professor of Philosophy at Catholic University writes in a recent issue of the "Catholic Worker" . . . "Following in St. Augustine's footsteps, St. Thomas lays down three conditions. . . Firstly, the authority of the sovereign, by whose command the war is to be waged. . . Secondly, a just cause is required: such that those who are under attack, deserve to be attacked by reason of some guilt. . . Thirdly, it is required that those taking part in the war be motivated by the right intention: namely, the intention of furthering Good or avoiding Evil."

Assuredly the Allies in an effort to restore and maintain the balance of power and to check and destroy the German armaments; or the Reich which is seeking colonies and territorial expansion with the resulting influence and power are not discriminating between fair or foul means. Neither is either side interested in furthering the cause of good.

Let us hope that M. Maritain with his sharp and penetrating intellect will soon pierce through the clouds and maze of prejudice and hatred and return to his usual objective viewpoint.

New Yorker doesn't like your stuff Looftz we think its pretty good and you can be sure that there never will be a rejection slip for anything sent this way.

The reminder of the business meeting of the Alumni Association next Sunday afternoon in the college auditorium was timely and we hope noticed by all. With the attention focused on business instead of good fellowship and the issues unclouded by any speechmaking desires something definite probably will be accomplished. We hope a representative number will be on hand to show an interest in what is going on. While coming up to the meeting why not come a little early and stop in at the new residence hall and see just what a magnificent building it is. With the formal dedication only a few weeks away a preview unhampered by the crowds which will attend should be appreciated.

The proposal that the Alumni association drop all social activities for a period of five years seems to have stirred up some discussion. At least to have enough people that much interest is something. Most of the members we have talked with agree that it would be a good idea. That it will be discussed at the meeting seems sure and perhaps a plan that will succeed in eliminating the deficit without curtailing activities will be presented to the body.

The Keyholer

GEORGE MORRIS

In an age so remote that the authorship is obscure, some mastermind of philosophical propensities gave birth to the oft-quoted wheeze, "All things must come to an end." Now, however, fortified with a Thomistic perspective, we deny the veracity of this proverb in the light of more recent innovations such as time, energy, Rhode Island drivers, Tennyson's brook and finally, the inevitable Keyholer who, for better or for worse, in sickness or in health, goes on forever till Tony Galento learns Milton's "Samson Agonistes" by rote. And since Samson Agonistes could never mean any more to Tony than Joyce's "pifflyvlfflybhhly" means to a whole lot of people, Gertie Stein excepted, your only avenue of escape is to write a letter to your senator and accompany your petition with two box tops from a package of Juicy Fruit.

Winter Scene—Old Marmota Monax alias ground hog, allegedly infallible oracle of the proximity of Spring, has gone to the foot of the class as a weather prophet after the recent disillusionment of his public. True to custom, he had his annual coming-out party on schedule—February 2—a day so dark that he not only failed to find his shadow but also lost his way back to his burrow. Now according to Hoyle, the Marquis of Queensbury, Dorothy Thompson and a host of other reputable authorities, this indicated the end of winter and the advent of spring. Then came the blizzard. The snow ploughs of the fair Plantations of Providence were down in Miami on a vacation in John Donnelly's stead, the college tractor was on strike, and Olneyville was isolated from the outside world. Yessir! Is Jimmy Woodchuck chagrined! At any rate, we enjoyed a welcome hiatus in studies and caught up on our sleep. Which all goes to prove that you can't teach an old gnu tricks.

Freshmen Have Easy Time In Downing Teachers For Second Victory

One of the best freshmen teams in years rode to an impressive 59-42 victory over the Rhode Island College of Education Quintet, Tuesday evening, before three hundred fans at Harkins Hall. The Friar Frosh were led by Lee, O'Reilly, and Dugas.

Out in front at the intermission 29-23 the Frosh turned on the heat in the second half and piled up a lead that the teachers were unable to erase. Fine ball handling on the part of the Freshmen turned the tight battle into a rout as they worked the ball in under the basket time after time which allowed the Yearlings to pile up a heavy score.

Jack Goodwin and Danny Kitchen led the offense for the Ricemen, with Bob Byron and Captain Donaldson playing well on the defense. The yearlings displayed a fine passing and sharp-shooting attack which has progressed rapidly since the season opened.

INTRA-MURAL SHOTS

By HAROLD RICH

Probably because they are of the opinion that to the elders must go the spoils, or, on the other hand, maybe they were informed that victory would enhance their chances of securing sheepskins, nevertheless, the senior lightweights and heavies decided to obtain their respective objectives without wasting too much time.

The success stories, which deal with their accomplishments, can be classified in the ancient history category—at least as far as we are concerned, for a news story which is three days old is so void of life as the great marathoner Phidippides.

Phidippides, who was he, you ask? Was he the chap who copped honors in the Golden Skates Derby? Was he the forerunner to the long line of corner salesmen, who offer shaving cream and other incidentals for sale at cut rates. No don't threaten us for insulting your intelligence; we are certain that you skipped the page on which his biography was printed, preferring something more digestible.

By the same token—that you might have missed the page on intra-murals—we will relate the story of the intra-class playoffs despite the fact that it is a novel of ancient origin. After all, the playoffs are as great in importance as the feats of the aforementioned Greek distance runner.

Upset Marks Lightweight Series

The playoffs got under way last week, on the night of the memorable blizzard when the senior and freshman lights tangled in the first encounter of a two-out-of-three series. While the last year men were ruffling their opponents' nets to the tune of a 32 to 8 victory, most of you were camping on feather beds with the high winds threatening to barge through the window and blow you, camp and all, into the kitchen closet.

When competition was resumed on last Monday night, the senior lights again emerged victorious, this time by a 32 to 30 count. It marked the second time in the same number of years that the seniors won the diadem, as they won the championship race last year while wearing the colors of the junior class.

Because they were defeated by the frosh on two different occasions in regular league competition, the seniors weren't accorded much of a chance of downing their foes. But experience, which is of great importance in a crucial series as are the playoffs, had a telling effect and the last year five, seasoned by four years of intra-mural play, succeeded in bringing about the reversal in form.

The most prominent author of points in the series was Joe Lacey, senior forward, who garnered 12 markers in the first contest and 11 in the second. Others, who contributed to victory, were George Carroll and Joe Lennon, offensively, and Jake Edmonds and Tom Fitzpatrick, both of who stood out defensively.

Heavies Subdue Sophs

In the nightcap on Monday, the senior heavies took a step in the right direction by subduing the sophs, 37 to 27, and the following night the last year quintet made it two straight, tripping the enemy, 44 to 30.

The first encounter was a nip-and-tuck affair for three periods before the seniors spurred in the final session and took a commanding lead.

The period scores were 9-6 in favor of the winners, 14-14, and 26-22 with the last year men on the long end.

The second tilt, contested on Tuesday night as a preliminary to the Friar Freshmen-College of Education clash, was of a different shade from the previous engagement. The issue was never in doubt as the seniors led their opponents, 14-6, at the conclusion of the opening period; 26-16, at halftime, and 36-24, at the end of the third chapter.

Jim Begley and Harry Speckman led the winners' scoring in the series with 26 points each. Vinny Nugent, who tallied nine markers in the opening game, was held scoreless in the second encounter, his first experience of a scoring famine in two years of competition.

Lou Sibbio collected 16 credits for the sophs to lead their scoring parade, while Ray Roy and Johnny Phillips, losers' back court guardians showed to good advantage in the art of play-making.

Since the first establishment of baseball as a college sport, some 500 institutions have organized and then discontinued it.

MEN'S and WOMEN'S FORMAL CLOTHES RENTED FOR ALL OCCASIONS "QUALITY ALWAYS" WOODBORTH BLDG. PROVIDENCE, R. I. Room 213-214 Next to City Hall Gaspee 3447

HERE'S ROY CONACHER (No. 9), HIGH-SCORING FORWARD OF THE BOSTON BRUINS, WORLD CHAMPIONS of '39...

IN THIS ACTION SHOT he's come in like a bullet from an express rifle... he takes a pass. But the opposition's defense stops him—this time.

AGAIN a furious flash of speed... a split-second of stick magic... and the puck shoots home for the goal that wins the match.

His hockey's fast and hot!

BUT HE SMOKES A SLOW-BURNING CIGARETTE FOR MORE MILDNESS, COOLNESS, AND FLAVOR

"SPEED'S fine in hockey but not in cigarettes"—Roy, Show right you are!

Research men may use fancier language—but they say exactly the same thing about cigarettes.

Scientists know that nothing destroys a cigarette's delicate elements of fragrance and flavor so mercilessly as—excess heat. And cigarettes that burn fast also burn hot. Your own taste tells you that.

Slow-burning cigarettes don't burn away these precious natural elements of flavor and fragrance. They're milder, mellower, and—naturally—cooler!

And the slowest-burning cigarette of the 16 largest-selling brands tested was Camel! They burned 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested. (See panel below, right.)

So... why not enjoy Camel's extra mildness, coolness, fragrance, and flavor?... And extra smoking equal to 5 extra smokes per pack.

SPEED'S FINE IN HOCKEY BUT NOT IN CIGARETTES. I LIKE SLOW-BURNING CAMELS... THEY'RE Milder AND COOLER

When it's easy-chair time after that rough-and-tumble mêlée known as a hockey match, you'll find Roy Conacher of the Bruins enjoying a milder, cooler, more fragrant, and flavorful cigarette... Camels, of course.

FOR MILDNESS, COOLNESS, AND FLAVOR—

CAMELS

SLOW-BURNING COSTLIER TOBACCOS

In recent laboratory tests, CAMELS burned 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them. That means, on the average, a smoking plus equal to 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

Chesterfield presents a Combination you can count on for

Real MILDNESS AND BETTER TASTE

The perfect blend of the world's best cigarette tobaccos in Chesterfield gives you the two things you want and look for in a cigarette . . . Real Mildness and Better Taste.

Then, if you add that Chesterfields are far cooler, you know you have a cigarette that really satisfies.

ing medicine at Yale and preparing to take his fathers place as Health Officer of the Town of Hamden in a few years. . . . Charlie Verdi, who is to International Business Machines what Ford McGowan is to Coca Cola trying to explain that the "little brushes" do all the work, but he has to be there to make the little brushes brush. . . . he says one follows the other but doesn't say what the other follows. . . . I don't follow any of it. . . . Harry Main, probably the busiest man in Pawtucket these days running around with a full brief case and no hat on his head. . . . he probably is so busy trying to keep all his enterprises in correct order that a hat would be surplus. . . . or maybe he just left it some place. . . . Tom Foy just got married in Bridgeport. . . . also the Connecticut papers carry word of Emmet Claries successfully passing the latest bar exam. . . . with the contacts he made in the State legislature his practice should be a good one. . . . at least better than the amateur hair cutting he claimed to be so adept at back when he was the most argumentive member of the class of '33. . . . Wonder how long Ed Doherty managed to stay on his feet at the roller skating party the other night—He has a long way to go if he starts falling but generally manages to look graceful in everything. . . . Jim Dillon just back from Washington reports that Catholic U. has more than its share of P. C. men studying for Doctorates, including Arthur Sullivan, Ed. Brock and Frank Regan. . . . Johnny Shields is still keeping things humming down that way and probably will start a small whirlwind of his own any day now. . . . he is our favorite son in the next primary. . . . The snow has turned to slush about now and so has this column, so before anybody gets wet feet or bored we shall just plow our way along and hope you get the drift.
