FROSH ELECTION RESULTS IN TIE FOR PRESIDENCY

Carberry and Anlauf Receive Equal Number of Votes

TRACY IS VICE-PRES.

Carragher Is Elected
Treasurer of Class

Joseph F. Anlauf and David M. Carberry, both resident students of Aquinas Hall, polled 24 votes each at the freshman elections held yesterday, thus creating a tie for the office of president. The tie was verified by a recount of the votes by the committee in charge of the elections. Another election for the presidency between these two candidates will be held in the near future. David M. Tracy was elected vice-president, Robert McGovern was chosen secretary, and John C. Carragher was the successful candidate for treasurer.

David Carberry, a philosophy student, came to Providence College from Xavier High School in New York City, where he was active in football, basketball, and track. His deadlocked rival, Joseph Anlauf, a science student, was also very active during his high school days in Chicago, participating in baseball, track, and basketball. Ray Crawford, David Coughlin, Herbert Madden, and Dolan were the other presidential candidates.

The successful candidate for the vice-presidency, David Tracy of Uxbridge, Mass., active in sports and musical organizations, received 30 votes to John Young's 26. James Cruise and Frank McNamara completed the vice-presidential ballot.

Robert McGovern, freshman choice or secretary, the only non-resident student to win an office in the class of '45, is a graduate of Classical High. McGovern participated in baseball, hockey, and track. His total of 32 votes was sufficient to defeat William Foley, Joe Bruno and Thad Piekos.

The widest plurality in the unusually closely contested elections was received by Treasurer Jack Carragher, who had a 10 vote margin over the 19 votes cast for John Lopes. The election of Carragher, of Lowell, Mass., a member of his high school debating, golf, and hockey teams, gave the dorm boys three out of four offices. The other nominees for the post of treasurer were John Kelaghan and Leonard Feldeberg.

A committee composed of John Afeck, '43; Joseph O'Shea, '43; Max Knickerbocker, '44, and George Carey, '44, tabulated the votes.

ANTONINIUS CLUB DISCUSSES "LABOR"

Charles B. Quirk, O.P., professor of economics at Providence College and moderator of the society. A discussion period will follow the talk by Father Quirk under the leadership of the society's president, Daniel Quinlan, '44.

The other officers of the forum are: vice-president, John Gerhard; secretary, James F. Shiel, and treasurer, John R. Kenney.

"The Fall Guy" To Be Staged

Pyramid Players to Present Three-Act
Comedy

The Pyramid Players will present the three-act comedy "The Fall Guy" written by George Abbott and James Gleason tomorrow and Sunday evenings, December 13 and 14, at 8:15 o'clock in the auditorium of Harkins Hall.

"The Fall Guy" will be the first major production to be presented by the college dramatic organization this year. It is an amusing farce replete with mysterious suitcases, dope peddlers, and fence jumping. "Nifty" Herman steals much of the spotlight. William McKiernan, '44; Morton Hoffman, '45, and William Corkery, '44, have the principal male roles.

The Misses Margaret Dwyer and Rose Ford portray the feminine parts. They have had considerable amateur dramatic experience and are former members of the Cathedral Players, a Providence amateur group. Miss Ford has played with several summer stock companies during the last two years in New England. Miss Dwyer is a member of the Faculty Players, an amateur dramatic society composed of teachers in the public and parochial schools.

Abraham I. Smith, '45; John Doyle, '45, and Nicola Maraccio, '45, fill the other roles. Edward V. Healy, '43, is business manager. He is assisted by the following: John J. Stafford, '44; Morris J. Fagan, '44; William F. Leonelli, '43; Joseph J. Viola, '43; Anthony F. Reale, '43, and James F. Shiel, '44.

Paul Cavanaugh, '44, is responsible for all sketches and J. Leo Perkins is the electrician. Stage assistants are: Ferdinand T. Serafini, '44; John F. Ring, '44; Charles K. Falsey, '44; Anthony S. DelGiudice, '44; Philip Genaro, '45; John Flynn, '45; August Angelicci, '45; Hilary H. Connor, '43; Norbert D. Riccio, '42, and Max R. Knickerbocker, Jr., '44.

Dominican Arrives Safely at Trinidad

Word was received last week of the safe arrival of Rev. Charles Carroll, O.P., at Trinidad.

Father Carroll, who left for New York November 27, aboard the S.S. Arcadia, is stationed at the Cathedral Presbytery in Port of Spain, Trinidad, where he will do missionary work for a year or more with the members of the Irish Branch of the Dominicans.

Graduated from La Salle in 1926, Father Carroll attended Providence College for three years and was ordained at the St. Rose Priory in Springfield, Kentucky, in 1936. He studied at River Forest, Illinois, and later at Washington and since his ordination has been stationed at the Holy Name Church in Philadelphia, Pa.

According to letters received by his mother, who resides at 82 Pinehurst avenue, Father Carroll, in his six-day journey direct to Trinidad from New York, experienced two blackouts aboard ship.

William A. Carroll, a brother, is also a member of the Dominicans and is at present stationed at St. Vincent Ferra's, in New York.

FUNERALS HELD FOR STUDENTS

Services at Edgewood,
R. I., and Pittsfield,
Mass.

"Providence College mourns the death of these two students. They have been with us for four years and their lives have been a real inspiration to all," said the Rev. Charles E. McKenna, O.P., as he delivered the eulogy at the Solemn Mass of Requiem celebrated this morning in Harkins Hall for William G. Smith of Pittsfield, Mass., and Robert S. Rich of Cranston, R. I., members of the senior class who were drowned in a week-end tragedy at Echo Lake in Pascag. The Very Rev. John J. Dillon, O.P., president of Providence College, was celebrant of the Mass, with the Rev. William R. Clark, O.P., acting as deacon, and the Rev. Edward H. Schmidt, O.P., assisting as sub-deacon.

Describing the two former students, Father McKenna declared, "In disposition they were unlike; one was always jovial, possessed a lively sense of humor and at the same time never failed to realize to the fullest his responsibilities; the other, more reticent, but those who knew him well can attest to the depth and the loyalty of his friendship. Both of them profoundly Catholic as is attested by the fact that they had both been to Communion at Mass on that morning."

"Their deaths has impressed upon us the realities of life. Youth as a whole is unaccustomed to facing the bitter realities, but these have been suddenly drawn before us by this tragic example," he concluded.

The funerals of the two students were held on Thursday. In St. Paul's Church in Edgewood, a Solemn High Mass of Requiem was celebrated for Rich. Celebrant of the Mass was the Rev. Frank Casey of New York. The deacon was the Rev. Joseph Devaney of St. Paul's and the sub-deacon was the Rev. Thomas F. Maloney, also of St. Paul's. Members of the senior class and several members of the faculty were in attendance at the rites. Bearers, who were classmates of Rich, were Vincent MacAndrew, Arthur Cuddy, Hollis Forcier, Allan Casey, William McCormick and John Mulvey.

Annual Meeting Held in Assembly Hall at Boston College

The New England Catholic Educational Association elected the Very Rev. John J. Dillon, O.P., as its president at the annual sectional meeting in Assembly Hall, Boston College, last Saturday morning.

Administrators and faculty members of 16 New England colleges attended the conference. Contemporary and post-war problems confronting Catholic colleges were discussed in the various panel talks.

Father Dillon in addressing the gathering said that "Catholic colleges contributed to our American life by sending forth thousands of educated men and women each year." "We give our country the men and women that are needed," he continued.

Other regional officers elected with Father Dillon are Rev. Jerome Dee, O.S.B., dean of St. Anselm College, Manchester, N. H.; vice president, Sister Honora, S.S.J., president of Regis College, Weston, Mass., secretary, and Very Rev. Joseph Maxwell, S.J., president of Holy Cross College, member of the executive committee.

VERITAS AWARD

The 1941 Veritas received a "First Class" honor rating in the Twenty-first National Yearbook Critical Service of the National Scholastic Press Association held at the University of Minnesota School of Journalism. The annual was judged on the basis of 1000 points and fell short by 35 points of attaining an All-American rating. The First Class rating signifies excellence and is the next award to All-American.

SPEAKS TO ALUMNI

Fr. Fitzgerald Is Chairman of College Defense
Council

"The U. S. is fighting a just war" the Rev. John J. Dillon, O.P., president of Providence College, said in addressing an alumni meeting at New Bedford, Mass., on Monday evening. "We must help all who are aiding us and must do our utmost to destroy our enemies." Father Dillon continued. "Any friend or ally of Japan is an enemy of ours. American honor and American independence alike is at stake."

Father Dillon expressed the hope that there would be no conscientious objectors among the alumni who would "shirk his duty believing this war to be unjust. For this is indeed a just war."

College authorities also acted to cooperate with local defense boards. Meeting at the college yesterday, members of the Providence College defense council, consisting of the Rev. Jeremiah Fitzgerald, O.P., chairman; the Rev. Vincent C. Dore, O.P.; the Rev. Aloysius Begley, O.P.; the Rev. Frederick Hickey, O.P.; and the Rev. William Sullivan, O.P.; met to determine expedients to be taken to protect college property during a possible air raid, and to determine resources and equipment which could be placed at the disposal of the local defense board. The members also discussed means of cooperation with State and City organizations for civilian defense.

Father Dore is a member of the Providence Council for Civilian Defense which will be under the direct supervision of Mayor Dennis J. Roberts. Yesterday Mayor Roberts called on all citizens to cooperate fully with the officials in charge of Civilian Defense. In a prepared statement yesterday the Mayor said "In the stark realism of this dark hour every citizen must realize that our Nation and our Community are threatened with the perils that accompany the totalitarian methods of waging war. If our cherished liberties are to be preserved we must be a people united in thought and in action. The Nation and the Community can no longer tolerate the non-cooperative. The action and the effort of every individual must be directed toward the achievement of an ultimate victory."

KENT COUNTY CLUB HOLDS BREAKFAST

After receiving Holy Communion at St. Catherine's Church, Apponaug, on Sunday, Dec. 7, the members of the Kent County Club of Providence College held their annual Communion breakfast at the Toll Gate Grill.

Rev. Jeremiah Fitzgerald, O.P., vice-president of Providence College, was the guest speaker. Fr. Fitzgerald spoke on the value of the Catholic religion for the progress of the young Catholic of today. He compared the Catholic youth of today with St. John the Baptist, the precursor of Christ, in the way that they are the builders and the carriers of the Catholic religion for the future.

BOB AND BILL

The unpredictability of events was brought vividly home to us this past week when two of our most popular friends and classmates became central figures in the tragedy at Pascoag which took their lives.

Looking back at this unfortunate occurrence in time to come we may very well associate this tragedy with the universal suffering which afflicted the entire world and was just beginning to involve the United States of America almost at that very moment.

It is possible that we may become hardened to the thought of death, just as have those people whose lives have been in constant danger during the past three years from the merciless bombings of enemy planes.

But even then, death seems sudden when it involves those whom we love most. Almost as close as those nearest of kin are our intimates of school, and especially college days. Most of us in the Senior Class held Bob Rich and Bill Smith in just such esteem, for they were two of the most popular boys in the College. Bob was a leader in student activities and a fine student. He always had a pleasant greeting for every acquaintance he met in the corridors, and his quiet reserve and understanding thoughtfulness warranted the respect in which he was held by fellow students.

Bill was one of the most active seniors on or off the campus. He became one of the best-known students in the College to outsiders as well as to the students. Of the many organizations with which he was identified, he was always a prominent member. How many of us will now be able to forget the colorful figure who unselfishly contributed his best to the entertainment of the crowd at the State game as he led the mascot through his tricks and contributed his share to the merriment?

But it is in school that incidents arise which print an indelible mark on our memories, and it is these little incidents which will prove hard to erase. Maybe a vacant seat in the "caf" or at Aquinas Hall.

Perhaps a voice that seems to be weirdly missing at some social function or class meeting.

All these things may create images of the departed, but we will not always open to this dark chapter. We were all created for one purpose and no doubt Bob and Bill have fulfilled their mission and successfully surmounted the obstacles which were in the way to the achievement of eternal happiness.

THE U. S. AT WAR

The United States of America is now at war with the Imperial Government of Japan. Last Monday afternoon in response to the request of our President, Congress declared war on Japan with but one dissenting vote. Thus it was that our Congress and President answered the unprincipled attack of the air forces of Nippon on the U. S. possessions and bases in the Pacific.

We have done nothing to merit such an attack. In fact the U. S. Government for a considerable length of time has refrained from doing anything which might be construed as unfriendly to Japan. Last week Japan sent us a special envoy who was to confer with our Secretary of State for the supposed purpose of maintaining peace in the Pacific. Indeed, last Sunday morning although Japanese dive bombers were attacking Pearl Harbor and Oahu in the Hawaiian Islands, the representatives of Japan had not yet delivered her formal reply to the proposals of our government.

The chicanery of Japan is evident. Japan did not send her envoy to make an amicable settlement; Japan did not want peace. The gangster military clique of Japan, more treacherous than their Nazi and Fascist ilk, had prepared long before December 7th the time of attack. The Japanese conferences with our Secretary of State were clever acts of deception. The blitz of the attack and its ubiquitousness clearly show that there was a carefully concocted plan.

Our representatives have answered force with force. Our Congress and President gave the answer which had an echo in the hearts of every patriotic American. We are in the war and we shall stay in the war until the barbarism and treachery of force are extirpated from the civilized world. We may not be able to dispose of Japan in a month or in a year. In addition to Japan we shall have to cope with their cohorts in perfidy—Germany and Italy. We shall all have to make a sacrifice, a sacrifice which shall be lightened by the fact that it is our duty. We must not become panic stricken, we must still employ common sense. The President has stated that college educated leaders will be a post war necessity. Therefore, we must not allow the war to interrupt our course of study.

Some Providence College alumni and students are right now doing their part to defend our American way of life by participating in the war with the armed forces of the United States. We must prepare ourselves by diligent application and study so that when our government calls upon us to perform our duty as members of the armed forces of the United States, we may be ready. Then we will be able to offer her our best, conscious that we are intellectually, morally, and physically prepared to do so.

Alumni News

Continuing our method of reporting the alumni news by classes, we are devoting today's treatise to the doings of the class of 1935. With a grateful nod in the direction of Herb Murray, Jr., whose fine articles you read in the sports section of the Providence Journal, and who supplied us with the most recent information about his classmates, we'll swing into '35 just as soon as we mention a couple of items that have dropped on our desk during the past week or so.

First of all, of course, Providence College alumni are greatly concerned for the safety of two of our graduates who are reported to be in the Hawaiian Island sector, recently attacked by the Japanese. Ensign Paul G. Farley, '38, of Woonsocket, wrote us less than a month ago that he was stationed aboard the U.S.S. Oklahoma, and only this week did we hear that Karl Kunz, '41, was working for a construction company in that district. As we go to press, no word has reached us concerning the results of the attack on our island outposts, but we sincerely hope for the safety of our alumni brothers. Rev.

While in times of peace it is characteristic of journalists whether they be on a college paper or correspondents in foreign lands to be somewhat carefree and at times even flippant, when once war has become a reality their responsibilities as those of all others take on a definitely serious aspect. Those who write for public information or merely to provide the public with an opinion on topics of interest have in time of war a certain amount of restraint upon their work. In particular, those who write in any way whatsoever upon our relations with other nations and upon those internal affairs which have some bearing upon our foreign policy have a deep responsibility. It is a responsibility which cannot be discharged with flippancy or wise-cracking. Every word must be carefully considered as to its cause and effect.

In the past few years, Catholic journalists in particular have been outspoken on our relations with other nations, much more so than before. The particular objects of their censure have been the Communist government in Russia and its activities within and, more especially, without the borders of their country. They have vigorously exposed the practices of this government in other countries such as in Mexico and in Spain. Those within our own borders who have too great a love for Moscow have felt their verbal whip. Not a few of them have dealt equally with the Nazi practices as well, contrary to the view of some who erroneously think them to be obsessed against the Reds to the detriment of their observances of the other subversive elements in this country. There will be some who will ask if it would be patriotic for them to continue their writing of Red activities in this country. They will question the prudence of such expositions and censures. And, unfortunately, there will be those who will declare that it is unpatriotic of them to be always speaking of the works of the fellow-travelers and their companions when we are ostensibly at least allied with the government which sponsors their activities.

All this brings us to the question of the position of Catholic writers in America in relation to this war. Their position is the same of any journalist position is the same of any journalist ternal affairs it is their duty to defend this country internally as well as it is the duty of the army and navy and the air force to defend us against outside enemies. For them to expose the subversive acts of the Communists is as necessary to our defense as the work of the FBI in preventing sabotage by representatives of those countries who are working against us.

While we are fighting the perpetrators of the despicable attack upon us last Sunday we are not obliged to trust the Reds. They have been proven untrustworthy before. With our country in danger their activities call for as much watching as those of the Nazis. To say the least we shall have to ward off an attempt to turn our national mind into channels of thought which the Communists hope to flood with their insidious propaganda inspiring class struggle and hatred among groups in this country. If it is the policy of the Communists to create dissension between labor and capital, rich and poor, class and class, then it is the duty of those who deal with the public mind in any capacity whatsoever to counteract these moves by exposing them. Since it is the policy of the Communists to do just this, Catholics have the right and ought to continue their efforts to prevent the spread of their ideas.

Every class, section, age, and shade of opinion has united within a matter of hours for the common defense of our beloved country. It has always been true that in this country there could be unity without sacrifice of principles. Just as this war entails a defense with arms of our land, so too it entails a defense in part by the written word of our principles against whomever attempts to undermine or overthrow those principles. Thus it is that Catholic journalists by their continuance of adamant refusal to permit the watering-down of Christian and American principles are performing only their patriotic duty in times of war as they have so admirably done in time of peace.

Freshman Hoopsters Point for Marianapolis

Coach Crotty's Forces Appear Destined For Successful Season

The most promising Friar Freshman basketball quintet in many years will open its season next Wednesday night, with the ever-dangerous Marianapolis forces. The contest will serve as a preliminary to the varsity clash with Lowell Textile.

The squad has been working out faithfully for the past week. Coach Ed Crotty, veteran mentor of the Friar hoopsters, is well pleased with the results of this short period of practice.

Outstanding candidates for the forward positions are: Dave Carberry, Brooklyn; Henri Ethier, Pawtucket; Vin Vasilauskas, Marianapolis; James Lee, Attleboro, and Bill Angeleone of West Warwick, and Massanutten.

Ben Paglearoli of Orange, N. J., is at present leading the race for the pivot post.

The leading candidates for the back court posts include: Angelo Antonelli, Norwood, Massachusetts; Ferdinand Sowa, New Bedford; Bill (Red) McKenna, Mount Pleasant; Joe Clifford, St. Raphael's; and Paul Williams, Pawtucket.

An interesting sidelight of the current season is the playing side-by-side of the rival captains of last season's Pawtucket East and Pawtucket West quintets, Henri Ethier and Paul Williams. These two boys who in the past have been friendly rivals now find themselves for the first time firing at the same basket.

INTRAMURALS

The intramural basketball league swung into high gear this week with the first round of play already written into the records. Naturally it is too early to discuss the merits and title chances of the various teams because it will take a few weeks for the players to round into form and become organized, but the sophomore teams displayed tremendous scoring power in both branches lights and heavies.

The first game of the new season was between the Soph lights and the Senior lights and was a spirited contest from which the Vic Storey coached forces emerged victorious 34 to 24. Joe Uzalinski of the Sophs poured in 20 points in rapid fire order to lead his team in scoring. Slom and Benoit scored 6 points apiece for the senior cause. The game was close all the way and was undecided until the last period.

In the second game, the Soph heavies overwhelmed their Senior brethren by the staggering score of 40 to 8. Displaying a definite plan of attack, the Donleymen used a fast break to good advantage in piling up their baskets. Lou Siy scored 11 points to capture individual honors which shows how much team work had to do with the final outcome. Wilson, who was a standout for the Philomusians in inter-club football was a standout on defense for the Sophs. For a hopeless

Quintet to Launch First Blitz In Colby Tonight

Competition Continues for Positions on Squad

Led by Captain Horace Marone the Friar basketball squad will take to the road for their initial engagement of the current season with Colby in Maine tonight.

Coach Ed Crotty is very much pleased with his charges, but he is not too sure of the outcome of the game. His team is untested in the intercollegiate field this campaign, and the results of practically a new team's ability to absorb a system in such a brief time remains yet to be seen.

The regulars from last year's squad will undoubtedly be used to a great extent because of their experience but the positions on the squad are not entirely settled and a wide open race is being waged for a few of the positions. Capt. Marone, Chet Zabek, cause, John Stonkus and Riccio scored 5 and 3 points respectively to give the Seniors their only points.

On next Monday night the strong Sophomore aggregation will meet the Juniors and on Tuesday the Freshmen will play the Seniors.

Bob Reilly, and Vic Storey are some of the regulars left over from the previous year and they have capable substitutes in Larry Drew, Ted McConnon, Bill Barry, Art McGill and Bud Donnelly.

Ed Crotty's fast breaking system will be matched by an identical system used by the tall, speedy Colby team. Last year the boys from Maine did very well winning 12 out of a possible 14 victories, and they have not suffered much from graduation.

The Providence team will return from the trip and do battle with Worcester Tech on the 16th and Lowell Textile on the following night.

Bostick of Hoboken, Jim Coffey of Providence, and another Jim, Fairbrother, of Pascoag. Also Neil McKeough of Pawtucket and Johnny Madden of Pittsfield—who last we heard was teaching in Maine. John McDonnell, Frank Farrell, and Bill Kutneski, all of Providence and Frankie Holden of Jefferson, Mass.

Legal problems, such as divorces, wills, etc., will be gladly handled by such capable barristers as Orland D'Atri of Providence, Jack Doherty in Central Falls, Irving Zimmerman in Woonsocket, and Joe Carty in Pawtucket. The little business of keeping you healthy is entrusted to medicos Jim Conley, Harrisville; Joe Famiglietti, East Boston; Jack Reilly of Staten Island and these Providence physicians: Bob Carroll, Gus Motta, Hyman Stein, Gustaf Sweet and Carl Knoop. T. Way McDonald and Billy Noon are the representatives in the dental profession.

John Cavanagh is a designer at the Gorham Co., and Dick Hopcraft is with the same company. . . Tom Coffey and Dave Powers are funeral directors. . . the telephone company has claimed the services of Frank Conway in Burlington and George Cusack in Westfield. . . Clergymen include Rev. John Short, Rev. Arthur Geoghegan, and Rev. John Doyle, and will soon include Jim Dempsey.

Selling a famous soft drink which isn't twice as much or twice as good is J. Ford McGowan, now living in So. Dartmouth. . . Paul Healy of New Bedford, who was at the excellent sports night run by the Bristol County Alumni last Monday, is employed in a bank. . . Danny Hart, the Millville madcap, is working with a meat packing concern. . . Irving Kopit is a salesman and Bob "Bugler-Boy" Lucey is in the Navy. . . A discussion between Ed Maudsley and Bill Robinson would doubtless concern insurance. . . Tim Riordan and Jim Donley are helping to keep spirits up. . . as is Bart Skipp.

Charlie Verde, who is vice-president in charge of the International Business machine department of the State Government, is still bragging about being a father. . . Joe McLaughlin is with the State Employment service. . . Hyman Sherman is reported having no difficulty in selling automobiles. . . Tom Reily is registrar at La Salle and Orlando Malveto is handing out Sunshine (crackers). . . Geno Verdi is a Physical Ed instructor at the Doyle Ave. School. . . Walt Fitzpatrick will be looking for you on March 15 or thereabouts—he's with the Internal Revenue. . . Art Rosen, Sam Solinger and Frank Smith are salesmen, we hear. . . and Tom Doherty and Albert DiLorenzo are both druggists. . . Ed Moriarty is working for the Government. . . Gordon Harrison and Johnny Shields are both Washington, D. C., attorneys—the last mentioned being a next door neighbor of John McCarthy, whom we spoke about earlier. . . Pete Gobis is with the U. S. Rubber. . . Charlie Warren is a salesman for Coca Cola. . . Leo Marion is a minor league baseball player. . . and George J. Kain is a buyer for the Weybosset Pure Food Market chain.

Finally—here's a last minute flash from Jerry Nolan, '32, chairman of the Alumni Ball Committee. He reports the dance committee has selected Tiny Quinn's orchestra for the affair on Friday, Feb. 13th. Keep the date in mind—it looks like it will be the biggest dance ever.
