

PRESIDENT OPENS FALL TRIMESTER

Declares Students Have No Right to Remain In College

Commending underclassmen for performing their present patriotic duty of coming to college to be educated for the war effort, Very Rev. John J. Dillon, O.P., president of Providence College, nevertheless told students that "they had no right to remain in college" during the matriculation address delivered at the opening of the fall trimester. On September 23.

"The right is on the side of our country", Fr. Dillon said. "America has a right to a continuous flow of cultured, educated young men, for leadership in the armed forces and in her industries."

"Without any nation-wide adequate coordinated plan, our colleges have adjusted themselves to this war crisis, a fact which manifests weakness to some, yet a fact which proves we are still free", he said.

The college president spoke after the matriculation Mass was celebrated by Rev. Charles H. McKenna, O.P., college chaplain, in Harkins Hall. Francis Morgan, a sophomore, of Fall River, Mass. was the server.

Citing the role played thus far by the colleges in the national crisis, Fr. Dillon said that "highly trained manpower will continue to flow into the war effort just as long as the capable youths of our country are permitted to remain in college for preliminary college education before entering the armed forces or industrial fields".

"Today there are currents abroad, currents of thought and of action, which spell danger not only to the liberal arts tradition here in America, but also for the very institutions of privately-controlled education", the president said. "It is now the time for us, for Catholics and secular institutions alike, to point out the continuity of our vital contribution to war and peace in American life."

Declaring that patriotism at Providence College is not a "frill", but a "virtue", Fr. Dillon said it "is an inevitable consequence of the central and controlling position of religion in our lives, and in our every thought and action".

He exhorted the sophomores and freshmen to work hard and educate themselves well, while they have the opportunity to realize "just what freedoms we are fighting for, just what religion and philosophy must make of your life, just what fields you are capable of in the armed forces, and in the various tasks of civilian life both in war and in peace".

Rev. Arthur H. Chandler, O.P., dean of studies at the college, told the

BRO. THOMAS' DEATH SADDENS STUDENT BODY

Late Brother Was Intimate Friend of Alumni And Students

Providence College students were saddened during the summer vacation when the death of Rev. Brother Thomas Blake, O.P., known as Brother "Tom" to the host of alumni and students who daily joked and conversed with him during his ten year stay at the college, was announced.

Bro. Thomas died on Saturday afternoon, September 16th, at his brother's home in Baltimore, Md., after a three month illness. Brother "Tom", who was first taken ill before the close of the first trimester, returned to the college on July 15. He then left for Octan City, Md., to rest up before coming back to the college for the fall trimester.

Rev. Vincent C. Dore, O.P., was celebrant of the solemn high Mass which was held in the student's chapel of Aquinas Hall. Rev. Charles V. Fennell, O.P., was deacon and Rev. Ambrose P. Regan, O.P., Rev. Charles H. McKenna, O.P., delivered the eulogy.

Brother Philip and Brother Dominic, two of Brother Thomas's brothers in religion and lay brothers at the college, were acolytes at the Mass. Music was by a choir of the Dominican Fathers from the college. Rev. John C. Rubba, O.P., directed the choir.

Student friends of Brother "Tom" who were bearers are Edward Roth, Howard Kenny, Joseph Kenny, Francis Hawkins, John Sormanti, and David Joyce. His only surviving brother, Joseph Blake, and his brother's wife, Mrs. Blake, both of Baltimore, and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Samuel Blake, and her daughter, Catherine, both of Yonkers, N. Y.

The Very Rev. John J. Dillon, O.P., president of the college, read the committal services in St. Francis Cemetery.

VERITAS TO HOLD WELCOME DANCE FOR FRESHMEN

Kenney and Kelly Are Co- Chairmen for Senior Dance

Tonight Providence College Seniors will once again hold their annual Veritas Dance in Harkins Hall, an event which is sponsored by the staff of the college yearbook for the appropriation of funds to cover the costs of the yearbook. Howard A. Kenney, editor of the Veritas, and Matthew H. Kelly, president of the Senior class, both from Providence, are the dance co-chairmen.

Senior class members who will assist on the dance committee are Leo F. Leary, Joseph W. Dority, and John J. Affleck, all of Providence; Charles F. Cottan, North Providence; Peter Koch, Jr., West Warwick; Walter J. Kane, Woonsocket; Wilfred M. Gallagher, Esmond; John J. Donnelly, Edgewood; Bernard J. Short, Woonsocket, and Robert F. Reilly, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The dance is called a V dance and is being given by the seniors as a sign of welcome to the freshmen. Dress is optional. Tommy Masso and his orchestra will furnish the music.

NEW HAVEN CLUB

The New Haven County Club of Providence College elected officers during the past week. Joseph Capelletti, of Waterbury, was made president, and Joseph Russell, of New Haven, vice-president.

Thomas O'Connell of New Haven, is the new secretary, and Alfred Vitullo, of Derby, is treasurer.

EXHIBIT

The first in a series of informative exhibits appeared yesterday in the school library. Rev. Ernest Hogan, O.P., said that the books displayed will deal with what a civilian should know about the armed forces. Among the titles are "What Every Citizen Should Know About His Army"; "What Every Citizen Should Know About His Navy"; "What Every Citizen Should Know About His Marine Corps"; "What Every Citizen Should Know About His Coast Guard".

Students returned to Providence College after the summer vacation to see the campus properties entirely renovated. Incoming freshmen were amazed to find the campus so spacious and so pleasant. All were taken aback by the many improvements effected in so short a time.

Endeavoring to see what impressed freshmen the most, we took a tour around the campus. And where do you think the largest crowd was gathered? Yes, it was of the new improvements. The focal points of attention were the two lawns, located immediately in front of Aquinas Hall. Here, resting on firm bases, were two of the "improvements". A duet of unquenchable lamps, irrevocably planted on the left and right swards, were the good sights for sore eyes which caused us to muse. (Man by reason of his intelligence is a philosopher and therefore is inclined to muse and be amused.)

The first image to strike our passive intellect was the two lamp posts. Now what was the quality of these lamps which caused these "amazed freshmen to stop and wonder. Lamps are not unusual. Probably half of the school has not even noticed them. Our ideas about lamps were not too many. But we found out that the raison d'être for this special attention

Changes Made In College Naval Reserve Program

Anlauf Elected To Head Sophs

Joseph F. Anlauf became the president of his class for the second time yesterday when the sophomores selected him to run the class for another year at the annual election held in Harkins Hall.

Alfred G. Reilly, of Providence, was elected vice-president. Other officers chosen were Charles L. Eddy, Chepachet, R. I., secretary, and David M. Carberry of Brooklyn, N. Y., treasurer.

Anlauf was assistant business manager of the Pyramid Players last year and is a member of the Friars Club. He also participated in intermural basketball last year.

Carberry was a member of the chorus of "Tars and Feathers" and played basketball last year. He also was a member of the football squad. The sophomores plan to hold their annual Hop on October 30th. A committee to make arrangements for the hop will be soon appointed.

Religious Week To Be Observed

Religious Education Week will be observed this noon with Benediction in the students' chapel in Aquinas Hall. Rev. Charles H. McKenna, O.P., college chaplain, will speak briefly to the students on the importance of the spiritual.

Father McKenna will discuss the imminence of death being constantly present either on the battlefield or as a consequence of enemy action against civilians in this era of international emergency.

He will also make a special appeal to the students to develop the religious spirit within themselves, and in conclusion will reflect how the power of the spiritual is manifested not only in the religious and moral life of the individual, but how it is evident in his public and civic life.

Thomas P. Condon, a Junior, from New London, Conn., and John Grady, a Junior, from Pittsfield, Mass., will serve as acolytes at the Students' Mass which will open the religious exercises.

Father Dore Announces New Set-up In Age Requirements

Rev. Vincent C. Dore, O.P., faculty director of the Navy Reserve program, announced this morning that several changes have been made in the program since the close of the summer trimester.

Under the new joint plans for procuring enlistment of college students for deferred call to active duty in the armed forces, the Navy Reserve Classes V-1 and V-7 have been brought into a relationship such that they constitute one comprehensive plan.

The age requirements for V-1 are now between the 17th and 26th birthdays. For V-7, between 18th and 28th birthdays. Parental consent is required for those under 21.

The V-1 program is open to selected sophomores and freshmen. Selected juniors and seniors are eligible for V-7. In both of these groups there are separate categories for men qualified for general service and those qualified for special service. There are four designations: V-1 (G), V-1 (S), V-7 (S).

For V-1 (G), applicants must be following courses acceptable to the Navy Department and leading to one of the following degrees: Any engineering degree; Bachelor of Science, Arts, Education, Philosophy, Business Administration, Commercial Science, Journalism, or Laws (provided the entire college course including pre-law and law will be completed in four years or less).

For V-7 (G), applicants must be juniors, seniors, or recent graduates in courses leading to any of the same degrees. For both V-1 and V-7 the college program must include the equivalent of one year of college mathematics, and one year of college physics, and in addition a course in trigonometry must have been taken either in school or in college.

Under V-1 (S) or V-7 (S), the applicants must be pursuing courses leading to a baccalaureate degree with major in one of the following: engineering, naval architecture, mathematics, physics, electronics, chemistry, meteorology, industrial management, or business administration.

Freshmen Join The Cowl Staff

An influx of freshmen into the Cowl office indicates a trend toward journalism in the incoming freshmen class. Of the fourteen new members of the staff twelve are freshmen.

Those who joined as reporters are: Joseph Brennan, Richard Campbell, Thomas Carroll, George Donnelly, Paul Kelley, Matthew Marry, Eustace Pliakas III, and John Quinn, all freshmen; and C. Leo Tormey, Jr., a sophomore; and Andre A. Mander-ville, a junior.

William McKenna, a freshman, is business assistant. Other business assistants are Donald Halford, John Kelly, and Ralph Pike, all freshmen.

There are still opportunities for applicants especially those interested in business and advertising positions. All who sign up now will be eligible for staff advancement in April.

Bl. Sacrament Oratory Donated

The Blessed Sacrament Oratory in Harkins Hall was recently donated by James F. Gannon, 69 Oak street, Providence, a graduate of Providence College in the class of '40.

Rev. Charles H. McKenna, O.P., college chaplain, announced that Mr. Gannon gave the oratory in memory of his aunt, Mary Veronica Gannon. Stations of the Cross have been added to the oratory. Kneelers of hand-carved oak will soon be installed. The sacristy has also been renovated.

Homo Sapiens to Solve Enigma to two rather simple lamps was their location.

Just as one does not drink string beans with a spoon, we concluded; one does not find street lamps in the middle of the lawn. They struck us as being the counterpart of the pitcher's box being located in the left field bleachers. Ebbett's Field is our associating ideal. So the curiosity.

Further investigation led us to the human interest angle of the story. You know, those things that editors look for when they send reporters from the news room.

Rumor, which should not be believed, of course; had it that the lamps were not planted on the spots where they now gracefully repose.

Make the Ammunition

The scrap salvage drive starts October 11. Now is the time to look up your prospective sources. You can never tell where you will find a potential mine of scrap value. All sorts of scrap may be found in your neighborhood from old rags to replaced boilers.

Some student may have a jalopy which has outlived its usefulness. A real service may be done by taking it to an automobile junk yard. Articles such as keys and badges are good scrap and can be found in the very rooms in which students live.

Junior Prom

The college authorities and the moderator of the junior class have indicated their willingness to allow a junior prom this year. A date, November 23, has been set aside for the prom. Every day, the burdens of the war become greater and make a lot of other things more difficult, including proms.

The junior class have been told that they can have a prom if they will support and underwrite it ahead of time. A plan has been worked out whereby the juniors can finance the prom and get a return on their investment. Junior proms are business propositions, business methods must be used in financing them.

The classes at the college should remember that every activity that is dropped, makes the college less a college. Also things that are dropped are sometimes difficult to be revived. We may not be able perhaps to go the whole way with the prom and give the usual big show with a top name band and sundry. War calls for a sacrifice. Yet, we can have something on a smaller scale.

Large or small, the decision is up to the juniors. Let's talk business.

Uncle Sam Re-designs College Wardrobes

War Production Board Orders Simplify Both Feminine
And Masculine Fashions . . . Frills Are Out

The war has had a hand in fashioning almost all the clothes that will be worn on college campuses this year. It has made the U. S. Government the biggest fashion designer of them all. Already, the War Production Board has issued many clothing orders, including a ban on the manufacture of the wasteful "zoot suit" with the drape shape.

WPB's simplification orders cover many articles of masculine and feminine apparel. Men's clothes must be a little shorter, a little narrower and a great deal simpler. Victory suits, topcoats and overcoats are being made without patch pockets, trick backs, trouser cuffs, belts and pleats. Vests with double-breasted suits, the extra pair of pants, full dress coats, cutaways and double-breasted tuxedos are out for the duration.

Shoes for both men and women can be made only in six colors; black, town brown, blue, white, turf-tan and army russet. No new shoe designs can be made, but existing patterns should provide plenty of choice. All these things are expected to save millions of yards of wool, cotton, and rayon, and millions of leather hides for the war.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

Are the Sophomores of Providence going to let another tradition go out the window? I mean Freshmen caps! We had to wear them last year, so should the Frosh this year! Some people say we can't buy them anymore. They're wrong. You can still get them. Let's make sure the new frosh don't get out of anything we had to do. Come on fellows, it's up to you!

A Group of Worried Sophomores.

ENGLISH ORGANIST PLAYS HARVARD ORGAN

E. Power Biggs, noted young English-born musician gives a weekly organ recital each Sunday at 9:15 a.m., EWT, playing on the remarkable organ in Harvard University's Germanic Museum, which now is taken over by the United States Army as a training school for Chaplains.

The first ten programs of the series are to be sponsored by Mrs. Elizabeth Sprague Collidge as a gift to Harvard.

Biggs, who was a prize pupil at the Royal Academy of Music in London has accomplished the notable feat of playing the complete organ literature of Bach twice, first in a series of recitals at Harvard University and second at Columbia University, an achievement hailed as "unique for our day and age."

The organ at the Germanic museum is designed to reproduce the beauty and clarity of tone of the great European organs of the 18th Century, instruments for which Bach, Handel and other great classic composers wrote. This organ possesses 24 stops and two manuals.

NORM

AVE VALEQUE

By MAX KNICKERBOCKER
Guest Columnist

Judging by their actions of the past few years, it would seem that the Civil Liberties Union has acquired a complex like that of Don Quixote and goes about attacking restrictions and censorship which threaten freedom about as much as Cervantes windmills did.

They went into positive hysterics over senile Bertrand Russell when he tried to "enlighten" the student body at C.C.N.Y. at the expense of the city taxpayers. Waving the banner of "academic freedom," which they never bothered to define, they proceeded to smear the characters of those who out of indignation had the love-sick lord thrown out of their school. Of course the lord was pictured as nothing less than a retiring martyr, a kind of delicate intellectual utterly incapable of doing anybody wrong.

Even before the Communist party became vociferous about the matter, the union was smearing the justice department for jailing Earl Browder as the cheap sneak he was. Just to show their consistency they also came out for another shady swindler in the person of Fritz Kuhn, protesting that the government was only using the crime he had committed as an excuse to get him behind bars. Even after Pearl Harbor they protested the moving of Japanese to inland areas from the West Coast when after what happened in Hawaii everybody knew that they couldn't be trusted within fifty miles of any military objective.

No one could accuse them of being inconsistent in their haywire reasoning or their clientele when they came out for the back-alley, life through a back-house knot-hole "literature" which a Post Office Department victimized for years by their sewer-minded editors and publishers decided to bar from the mails. These "martyrs" of liberty look well with the other customers of the union.

Figures freely released by the Post Office Department show clearly that the service extended by the mails to these magazines has caused the department to go into the red for a good number of years. Almost all magazines depend on the mails for their circulation. That the department should even at some cost make the dissemination of literature easier is hardly a thing to criticize. But darn few taxpayers who after all have to foot the bill for that circulation when the department goes in the red would approve in the slightest of any of these "art for art's sake" living like the leaches they are on taxpayers money.

With about as much subtlety as a barnyard breeze, the union has dragged in the issue of religion and morality in a deliberate attempt to stir up prejudice where they cannot stir up indignation. They point out the fact that the National Legion of Decency has been responsible for the ban on these magazines. They argue with sickly logic that because one organization thinks such a ban is justified should not lead the Post Office Department to follow their opinion. The NLD is a Catholic sponsored organization open to all, Catholic and non-Catholic, a fact which the union deliberately "forgot" to mention.

To top off the whole silly affair, the union points to a rather foolish statement by the Attorney General's department that "obscenity is largely a matter of judgment which may often require sociological expertise." Since when do you look through a backhouse knot-hole to see a Rembrandt? Do you need a doctor's degree to judge that some of these magazines carry their stuff for much lower purposes than to encourage a love for culture or a firm conviction that "crime does not pay"?

To close this comment on a rather nauseating affair, comment brought about only after a succession of stomach-aches caused by this bunch of crack pots, we would say that if there is one danger to real sound freedom really ignored it is presented by its abuse and misuse in the very name of "liberty."

"ALL OUR ENERGIES—"

"The challenge of the new day for American colleges is very great. All our energies at the present must be devoted to winning the war. Yet winning the war will be futile if we do not throughout the period of its winning keep our people prepared to make a lasting and worthy peace. This time the peace must be global the same as the war has become global. Around the peace table the voice of the United States will have great weight. It is of tremendous importance that that voice shall represent the aspirations of a people determined that mankind everywhere shall go forward to its destiny. The soul of that destiny is maximum freedom of the human spirit."

—President Roosevelt's Message to the Inauguration of Dr. Everett Case, Ninth President of Colgate U.

P. C. ATHLETES HAVE BUSY PROGRAM AHEAD

Inter-Club Football Will Inaugurate Fall Season

Although there will be no varsity football at Providence College this trimester there will be no dearth of athletic activities during the coming months.

As in all other institutions of higher learning throughout the land emphasis will be placed upon mass student participation in sports rather than intercollegiate competition with the greater part of the student body acting merely as spectators.

This does not mean, however, that intercollegiate competition will be completely abandoned by college athletic authorities. An impressive schedule has been drawn up for the famed Friar basketball forces. Some of the strongest hoop aggregations in the East will battle the Crottymen if wartime conditions do not interfere too greatly.

In addition to the rigorous physical fitness course, students will be able to further develop themselves physically by participating in the enlarged inter-class and inter-club athletic competition.

In the immediate future inter-club touch football will gain a major share of the college spotlight when competition gets under way to determine the P. C. champs. This activity which has been quite successful in the past despite numerous difficulties should Football, considered rightly by many to be of inestimable value to the student not only during school years but also in later life, has been dropped for the duration; the task of helping to win a war has been deemed more important. Certainly it is hard for a student body accustomed to producing fighting teams year after year to have this privilege torn from its grasp, but even in our disappointment we may find one great consolation.

In previous years the intramural schedules have played a subordinate roll to the varsity team's practice sessions. Only one or two days were open for the games, a fact which resulted in schedule vagaries injurious to some teams and favorable to others.

This year, however, a sweeping revision and expansion of the program can be undertaken, thereby assuring each team its normal quota of games. The importance of the intra-club series cannot be overemphasized, not merely for its supplementary value to the physical fitness program, but also for the friendships and good fellowship which is fostered thereby.

To the newcomer the possibility of one team, made up of men who have more leisure in which to practice, riding roughshod over all opposition may be discouraging. However, the fact that last year's program was dominated by three clubs, the Philomusians, the Pre-Meds, and the Chemistry Club, is ample proof that men unable to devote much time to athletics have

SECOND TRIMESTER OF PHYSICAL ED. BEGINS

INTERCLUB FOOTBALL

All clubs wishing to join the interclub touch football league should contact Coach Ed Crotty before next Thursday. Games will be played two afternoons a week and will begin at 2:30. All former league members as well as any new additions are urged to enter this year's competition.

If possible, the league schedule will be printed in next week's Cowl. Watch this page for further announcements.

Several New Features Are Added By Coach Crotty

In keeping with its policy to prepare its students for the best possible contribution to the war effort, Providence College began the second trimester of an intensive physical education program during the past week.

The program for this term is substantially the same as that of the initial course, with the addition of several new tests in order to render the training more beneficial. The outdoor classes will consist of calisthenics training on the rigorous barrier course, individual combat work, the running and standing broad jump, cross-country runs and competitive games such as speedball, soccer, and touch football. The plan of introducing team sports is intended to further the development of the spirit of team-work which is of such great importance to the winning of the present conflict.

As in the last trimester all participants in the physical fitness course will be required to pass rigid tests, for which they will be marked accordingly. The following requirements, somewhat raised from those of the past term, have been announced by Coach Ed Crotty, capable director of the toughening course:

Push-ups—Fair, 25; Good, 30; Very Good, 35.

Barrier Course—Fair, 60 secs.; Good,

CHANGES MADE IN FACULTY

Fathers Reilly and Holton Newly Appointed Professors

Two new faculty appointments at Providence College were announced yesterday by Very Rev. John J. Dillon, O.P., president. They are Rev. Daniel F. Reilly, O.P., of the department of history, and Rev. Edward B. Halton, O.P., of the department of physics.

Fr. Reilly, brother of Rev. George C. Reilly, O.P., of the department of philosophy, received his A.B. degree at Seton Hill College in 1930. He was professed in the Order of Preachers at St. Rose's Priory, Springfield, Ky., in 1932 and ordained at St. Dominic's Church, Washington, D. C., in 1938 by the Most Rev. Michael J. Curley, D.D., Archbishop of Baltimore and Washington. He received his Ph.D. in history at the Catholic University of America, in June. Father Reilly was born July 8, 1907, in New York City and his present home address is Montclair, N. J. He will teach American History.

Rev. Edward R. Halton, O.P., an alumnus of Providence College, prepared at La Salle Academy and Providence College, receiving his A.B. in 1932. He has been engaged in graduate work in physics and radio at the Catholic University and is offering courses in electronics.

Father Halton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Halton of 98 Pinehurst avenue. He was born in Providence, May 4, 1912. He was professed in the Order of Preachers at St. Rose's Priory, Springfield, Ky., in 1939, by Most Rev. James J. Hartley, D.D., Bishop of Columbus.

Father Dillon also announced the departure of Rev. Adolph Garcia, O.P., S.T.D., of the Spanish department, for Spain. Father Garcia has been called to his home province to teach theology at the Dominican House of Studies in Avila, Spain. Father Garcia was assigned to Providence College in February of this year.

He was professor of theology at the Dominican university of St. Thomas, Manila, from 1934 to 1941. He left Manila on April 12, 1941, to study English at the Catholic University in order to conduct classes in English at the university. Because of the shortage of priests in Spain he has been recalled by his provincial.

Dr. Daniel McQuillan Lilly, of the department of biology, has been granted a leave of absence to enlist in the regular army, it was announced. Dr. Lilly, a graduate of Providence College in the class of 1931, received his Ph.D. at Brown University in 1940. Dr. Lilly's residence is 108 Vine street, Pawtucket.

NO ROYALTIES FOR ADOLF!

American royalties from the sale of Hitler's Mein Kampf have been seized by the Alien Property Custodian. About 283,000 copies of the American edition have been sold according to the publishers, Reynal and Hitchcock. Since the last payment on Sept. 1, 1939, some $30,000 in royalties have piled up.

O.W.I. PIPES RADIO TO ALASKA

The Office of War Information will broadcast a minimum of eight hours daily of news and entertainment to the armed forces in Alaska to keep them in touch with the Home Front. Beginning about Oct. 1, the programs will be piped from San Francisco to radio stations at Fairbanks, Juneau, Ketchikan and Anchorage and re-broadcast on medium waves.

juniors and seniors on their return to lectures that there was "no sense in maintaining a stumped view of life during the war crisis."

"You have the opportunity to work for the liberation of mankind and the glory of God," Fr. Chandler said. "We expect every man here to give a good account of himself when the call comes."

Rev. Frederick C. Foley, O.P., announced that the "cut" privilege was suspended for the duration and that no student may absent himself from class without an excuse.

Rev. Daniel M. Galliher, O.P., director of admissions, conducted the registration. Regular classes for all groups began on Thursday morning, September 24.

SOME SAY "C'EST LA GUERRE"

It seems that they were erected near Aquinas walk, where lamps would be placed if lamps were necessary to guide footsteps along that long last mile.

But rumor was fickle. Once she told us that the lamps decided they would be out of harmony with the acceleration program at Providence College; if they did not hasten their course of expansion, which we are told it is natural for all metals to do. We mean, to expand; not to accelerate.

The two conscientious lamps figured that instead of expanding two miles in 10,000 years, they would finish their course in two and one half months. No, the lamps were not to be caught with their courses down.

This reason struck us, (this is the second time we were struck) as being spurious. We examined the evidence and there it was. Yes, sir; there was a trail of upturned earth blazed from the original anchor near Aquinas walk to the new temporary location.

So far, so good. We have heard of the past and present, of these lamps. But what does the future hold in store for them. Will they expand further?

Seriously, we don't know; but we intend to find out. For the next thirty days we will watch the progress of the lamps. (The scrap collection for Providence commences on October 11.) And we shall record the progress on a chart. From our knowledge of the usual academic acceleration program for lamps, we calculate that by October 12th they will both be lined up before a local tap which they will inevitably reach if they continue their present route. Two clinging rational animals will thus permanently check their progress if tradition is traditional.

The two lamps will be gone from the campus; the incoming freshmen and the outgoing sophomores, juniors and seniors will direct all their attention to something else and two improvements will have been improved upon.

P.S. The second rumor which we forget to tell was that the beams of the right lamp were being used to heat the study hall in Guzman, therefore, it was moved nearer to Guzman Hall.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION BEGINS

50 secs.; Very Good, 45 secs. Cross-country—Fair, 10:30; Good, 9:30; Very Good, 8:30. Pull-ups, 10. Running broad jump, 16 feet.

Several experienced athletes, members of the student body, will assist Coach Crotty in conducting the classes.

Included in this group are Edward Roth, Joseph Vaghi, Joseph Pliska, Wilfred Michaud, and David Carberry.

One hour diploma credit will be given for the successful completion of the course. As in the summer there will be no cuts allowed and all excused absences must be made up.

Extension Group Has New Courses

All Fields of Languages, Science, and Religion Represented

The Very Rev. Arthur H. Chandler, O.P., dean, announced that a total of 54 courses, including 11 new subjects, will be offered at the winter session of the Providence College Extension School, which opened Monday evening. The program, the most extensive offered at the College, lists seven more courses than last year.

A "defense course" given in the regular college but new to the Extension School is offered in navigation by Rev. William A. Sullivan, O.P. Two new war-related courses in economics will be given. They are "Economic Significance of War," a study of the economic problems arising from war and also post-war economic problems, offered by Rev. William C. Meehan, O.P., and "Reorganization of Social Economy," offered by Rev. Charles B. Quirk, O.P., based on the social Encyclicals of Popes Leo XIII and Pius XI.

A course emphasizing the rise of the United States to a world power and our resulting foreign policy, is offered over two sessions by Rev. Joseph A. Bergkamp, O. P.

Two courses being offered for the first time by the sociology department are also related to the war effort. They are Social Problems of War, offered by Rev. William R. Clark, O.P., and Occupational Guidance for War Effort, offered by Rev. E. P. Doyle, O.P. Fr. Clark's course will consider defense housing, population dislocations, reemployment and related problems. Fr. Doyle's course will treat of employment and training opportunities with special emphasis on occupations vital to the war effort.

For the third consecutive year Providence College will offer a course in religion to all interested, without charge. The course selected for this year is Mariology, offered by Rev. Bruno C. Zvirblis, O.P. This course will develop the exposition of St. Albert the Great, the Dominican theologian, on the honor paid to Mary as the Mother of God.

Rev. Leo S. Cannon, O.P., will offer a course in the appreciation of the great periods of musicale development. New courses are offered both in French and in Spanish.

The classes meet once weekly for fifteen weeks and are offered to both men and women either for cultural benefit or for credit.

First R. I. Squad Arrives at School

Thirteen Rhode Island youths arrived at the Navy's Pre-Flight School at the University of North Carolina recently to form the "First Rhode Island Squadron" of Naval Aviators.

Six of these men have Providence College as their Alma Mater. They are: Donald J. Ramage, Providence, R. I.; Louis Sibbio, Pittsfield, Mass.; Matthew Gallagher, Seekonk, Mass.; James C. Begley, Brighton, Mass.; Thomas F. White, Providence, R. I.; Matthew C. Cunningham, Jr., Pawtucket, R. I.

Ramage was a member of the basketball team during his stay here. Louis Sibbio played on both the basketball and the baseball teams before he graduated last spring. Matthew Gallagher is a former editor of the Alembic. Begley graduated in 1940 after participating in baseball and basketball.

These alumni will remain as a group throughout the nine months of training. Upon completion of this course, they will be eligible for commissions as Ensigns in the Naval Reserve or Second Lieutenants in the Marine Corps Reserve and the coveted Navy Wings of Gold.

an equal opportunity to gain the laurels.

It is the duty of every man who can possibly join a team to do so. The clubs may not of necessity be composed of members of formal organizations, any group of individuals is eligible to enter a team.

All teams, together with a list of the players, must be turned in to the athletic office before Thursday, although it would be well to submit the lists as soon as possible to facilitate a rapid formation of the schedule.

enjoy much greater popularity during the present season.

Following on the heels of the gridiron action will be an also greatly enlarged intramural basketball program. Interest has always been greatest and competition keenest in the class and club tournaments of the past and there is no reason to believe this year will be any exception.

Other activities such as track, boxing, possibly hockey and various seasonal sports should provide a well-rounded sport program for the next few months.

A Scrap Mine On the Campus

The average college campus is a potential mine of scrap value and can play an important part in the current campaign to salvage waste metals for war, War Production Board officials point out. Acting through their representative bodies, students might well organize salvage committees, it was suggested, to work with college authorities in conducting campus drives.

As for direct participation, students might act as "salvage sleuths to search out and report to their committee the location of scrap caches. In larger schools it might be found desirable to set up an official salvage depot to which the material could be carried. Red, white and blue signs reading "Official Salvage Depots" can be supplied by town salvage committees.

All sorts of scrap may be found in science laboratories, gymnasiums, kitchens, storerooms, boiler rooms, clubs and fraternities and other buildings. There is a wealth of material available from old Bunsen burners to discarded iron beds; from rubber mats to steam pipes; from old fences and railings to broken down pianos; from torn shower curtains to old rags; from hemp rope to replaced boilers.

Any student who has a jalopy which has outlived its usefulness, may do his country a real service by taking it to an automobile graveyard. Articles such as keys, badges, and miscellaneous items are good scrap and can be found in the very rooms in which students live.

The students' salvage committee might also make certain that all school and fraternity kitchens are cooperating with the salvage drive by saving fats and greases regularly.

EDW. CROUCHLEY GETS SILVER STAR

Army Aviator Is Graduate In Class of '41

Ed Crouchley, popular member of the class of '41, was awarded the Silver Star by Major General Lewis Brereton at a Middle East air base following action in the Mediterranean. The news of the award was received recently.

Crouchley "skillfully handled his plane and maintained himself in readiness at all times to replace any injured member of his squadron," the citation read.

Lieut. Crouchley's squadron attacked a fleet of Italian ships, scoring thirty-five hits on two battleships, later drove off a formation of Messerschmitts which attempted to interrupt them.

After receiving his Ph.B. in June, 1941, Crouchley received his training at Randolph Field, Texas. He was promoted to the rank of First Lieutenant at Fort Myers, Florida. Lieut. Crouchley first learned to fly with the C.A.A. group at Providence College.

Ed Crouchley throughout his college career was a prominent figure in the extra-curricular activities. He was class secretary in his senior year and also a member of the Veritas staff for that year. During his undergraduate years he participated in the Pyramid Players and was on the Junior Prom committee.

According to a letter received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Crouchley, Ed is now "resting" after "a cut of lively action."

CHANGES MADE IN NAVAL PROGRAM

to the Naval service may be accepted in limited number upon prior approval by the Bureau of Naval Personnel. The physical requirements for the special service group, V-7 (S) are not as strict as those for the general service, V-7 (G).

Applicants certified as pre-medical or pre-dental students accepted for enrollment or in their first, second, or third college years may be enlisted in this program and not required to follow the courses mentioned above. Upon their acceptance for enrollment in an accredited medical or dental college, they will, if found qualified, be commissioned as Ensigns H-V (P). Pre-med and pre-dental students will find further information on the special bulletin board in room 17.

V-1 men who fail to maintain satisfactory scholastic standing, or drop out of college, or disqualify themselves as prospective officer-candidates by unworthy acts, may be discharged or ordered to active duty as enlisted men in the Navy, according to the circumstances.

All V-1 men will take a three-hour objective qualifying examination during their second college year, and those attaining a certain standing will be directed to continue in college at their own expense (in Naval Reserve Class V-7) to the point of graduation, unless the exigencies of war require that they be sooner called to active duty. Those who fail to attain the required standing in the examination will, upon completion of their first two calendar years in college, be ordered to active duty as enlisted men.

V-7 applicants upon call to active duty, will serve one month as apprentice seamen, followed by approximately 3 months as reserve midshipmen, and upon successful completion of the course, will receive appointment as Ensign, Naval Reserve.

Prospective enrollees in any of these programs should see the Registrar for a college record statement record. They should then visit the nearest Navy Recruiting Station.

Students with any difficulties or who do not understand any of the rules listed above will see Fr. Dore for further instruction.
