JUNIOR-SENIOR WHO'S WHO LIST IS ANNOUNCED

Twelve Seniors and Two Juniors Recognized for Accomplishments

OFFICERS INCLUDED

Qualification and Activities Are Criteria for Selection

Twelve seniors and three juniors will represent Providence College in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges for the year 1942-43 the Cowl was informed this week.

The Who's Who is an annual publication which singles out representative students in American colleges and universities. More than 650 institutions take part in helping to form the publication, which was instituted by the University of Alabama.

Those selected are chosen on the basis of character, scholarship, leadership in extra-curricular activities, and potentiality for future usefulness to business and society. Juniors, seniors, and students in advanced work are eligible. A board composed of students and a member of the faculty made the individual selections.

Providence College students whose biographies will appear in Who's Who are Matthew Kelly, president of the senior class; Joseph W. Dority, senior vice president; Leo F. Leary, secretary of the senior class; and John J. Affleck, senior treasurer.

Also Charles F. Cottam, of the Deating Union and Friars Club; Robert Reilly, Friar Basketballer; Walter Kane, a member of the Rhode Island General Assembly and business manager of Veritas; Howard Kenny, editor of Veritas; Joseph C. O'Shea, circulation manager of the Cowl and Alembic associate editor; John F. Sharkey, editor of the Alembic; Francis A. Stadnicki, former chairman of the Pyramid Players Board of Directors; and William F. Quinn, popular New England band leader and a member of Board of Governors of the Carolan Club. All the above are seniors.

Juniors selected are Paul A. Cavanaugh, president of the Junior class and a member of the Pyramid Players Board of Directors; John Gerhard, president of the Antoninus Society and chairman of the P. C. Religious Forum, and James F. Shiel, Cowl editor and secretary of the Philosophy Club.

Veritas Manager Advises Payment

A mid-term financial report of the Veritas, Senior class book, was made public yesterday by Business Manager Walter Kane of Woonsocket, showing the Sophomores leading in percentage of pledges paid.

The sophomores have paid fifty per cent of their pledges; next came the Seniors with twenty-seven per cent; the Juniors third with twenty per cent; and the Freshmen last with only nineteen per cent.

Along with this came the warning that things usually crowd together around the end of the term, and it was urged that payments be made in advance of the publication date, December 1, to assure no delay in receiving copies of the new Veritas.

CAPTAIN EDWARD A. CROUCHLEY, '41

Capt. Crouchley Awarded Distinguished Flying Cross

Letter to the Rev. William A. Sullivan, O.P., Tells Of Adventures

By J. F. Shiel

Capt. Edward A. Crouchley, '41, youngest captain in his squadron, was decorated with the Distinguished Flying Cross on Armistice Day for bringing his Army bomber 400 miles across the Mediterranean to a safe night landing at his base in the Middle East.

Crouchley, known as Ted to his chums at the College, received the Silver Star for his services in bombing the Italian Mediterranean fleet on June 12. Word was received on October 25th that Ted had been appointed the youngest captain in the Kalverson Detachment Task Force.

The Rev. William A. Sullivan, O. P., who was moderator of the C. A. A. at the College when Ed obtained his first formal air training, released to the Cowl excerpts from a letter sent by Crouchley to him on October 24th, and which he received this week.

Here are the thoughts of an Army Aviator who is now taking part in the second front offensive in the French colonial possessions in Africa. Says Ed:

"Last night I received the Cowl with the writeup about my decoration and that convinced me not to put off pen and paper any longer. So here I am in the Middle East trying to do my part in showing Rommel who's boss of these h'yar parts."

"As you can imagine, there's a bit of color added to the newspaper accounts, but basically they're fairly true. To date, I've got 22 missions completed and these total up to over 200 hours of combat flying, which is a little bit different than flying around Hillsgrove in a Cub."

"The difference is caused by Messerschmitt 109's and 110's, Junkers 88's and Macchi 202's, the new Italian fighters, all of which we have had fight with. The Germans sure put up a good show but I doubt whether the 'Itais', as the British call them, have their hearts in the war."

"Yesterday marked my fifth month away from the good old U. S. A., and I've vowed that when I do get back, the display window of Cooke's Travel Agency won't even merit a casual glance from this fellow."

"I've seen a good many miles and have concluded that all the romance in the world can be found in your own back yard—or neighborhood theatre. I believe I'll be the happiest guy in the world when a return ticket is handed to me—I bet I could even swim back if I got permission."

"Oh, yes, and one's religious outlook takes a tremendous leap once he enters the combat zone. Father, I was never one for too much praying but, wow, you should hear me now."

"Somehow or other, the six or seven hours we're over enemy territory, we have a mental picture of our whole life, and I never did like to see the same picture the second time."

"But I just bless myself before climbing into the plane and also just before flying through the anti-aircraft fire over the target and here I am, so"

Seniors to Get Caps and Gowns

The Cap and Gown Day Committee, headed by John J. Affleck, has announced that the contract for caps and gowns has been awarded to the Waldorf Clothing Co.

The committee also announced that those seniors who have not been measured for caps and gown, must be measured no later than Saturday, November 14th at the company's office in Providence.

Eligible seniors for caps and gowns will be able to pick them up November 18th.

College to Pay Tribute To St. Albertus Magnus

Cowl Pledges $50 In Shares

The Cowl today bought $50 worth of shares in the Junior Prom to swell the pledge fund which has been accumulating in the past few days to finance the Junior Promenade scheduled for Monday evening November 21st.

It was announced today that the 5% discount for those who intend to buy $6.00 bids would expire today. After today all bids will be $6.00 plus the tax.

Students who have signed $10.00 pledges and have not yet paid for them must also see the Prom business managers at the Pyramid Player Office today if they wish to hold on to their shares. It has not yet been announced whether favors can definitely be secured. Records of Les Brown and his orchestra are due to appear in the cafeteria juke box this week.

Critic to Discuss Catholic Books

Professor Riley Hughes of the English Department will speak tomorrow afternoon at 3 p.m. at a book review and tea in Froebel Hall sponsored by the Marion Bookshop and Lending Library.

Mr. Hughes' topic "A Literary Wave of the Present" will consist of a discussion of three recent books. They are: "Living Upstairs," by Francis Meehan; "Summer After Summer," a novel, by Richard Sullivan; and "Great Modern Catholic Short Stories," a collection edited by Sister Mariella Gable, G.S.B.

The subject will be considered from the viewpoint of their relationship to the present day literary tendencies.

Solemn High Mass to Be Celebrated Sunday In Aquinas Chapel

DOCTOR OF CHURCH

Rev. William Hinnebusch, O.P., to Preach Sermon
Devotion to Duty

Providence College faculty and students will pay tribute to St. Albertus Magnus, patron of students of the Natural Sciences, on Sunday morning when a Solemn High Mass will be celebrated at 9:30 a. m., in the student chapel of Aquinas Hall.

Officers of the Mass in honor of the second Dominican Doctor of the Church will be from the various science departments at the college. The William A. Sullivan O. P., of the Physics department, will be the celebrant; the Rev. Frederick C. Hickey, O. P., of the Chemistry department, will be deacon; and the Rev. Raymond S. McGonagle, O. P., of the Biology department, will be sub-deacon.

St. Albertus Magnus was made a Doctor of the Church by Pope Pius XI in 1931. He was proclaimed patron of the students of the Natural Sciences by the present Pope, Pius XII, on December 16, 1941.

Pope Pius XII in a letter to the Most Rev. Martin S. Gillet, O. P., Master General of the Order of Friars Preachers, lauds Albert the Great for scaling "the peak of philosophic wisdom and even that of the heavenly science by investigating and acquainting himself with the forces of nature."

The sermon at the Sunday Mass will be "St. Albert's Attention to Duty," to be preached by the Rev. William A. Hinnebusch, O. P., of the history department.

Freshman Drowns In Locker Room Inundation

P. C. Finally Gets Pool That It Can Call Mare Nostrum

By Richard R. Campbell

The water rose, and rose and STILL rose.

"Help! Let me out of here," pleaded a tiny Freshman. "I'll be drowned!" "Now wouldn't that be just too bad," cried a Senior from the other side of P. C.'s own "Mare nostrum." "And the word ain't drowned. It's drowned."

Friar Boy went swimming by, with Little Joe sitting on his head, meowing to beat the band (or maybe the water). All one could think of was a steamboat nosing its way down a river with its whistle screeching.

"My lunch! My lunch!" yelled one of the school's more radical radicals, running down the stairs, frantically waving his arms. He couldn't stop in time and—"splash!!"—the most beautiful swan-dive ever seen in "these hyar parts."

"Hey you," cried our Senior comrade, "What did you do that for? What would your mother think?"

"Is she here too?" he groaned as he went floating past.

The scene is the one and only P. C. locker room, one morning this week. Probably someone in need of a shower decided he'd rather go for a swim. From my perch on top of the center lockers, I had an unobstructed view of the melodrama unfolding before my eyes.

The freshman had quieted his nerves now. He was sitting on his own locker calmly eating someone's overcoat. "Always thought P. C. should have a pool," some fellow cried, as he went by for the third time.

"Come on in. You're in the Navel Reserve too, aren't you?"

One of my scholarly chums soon came into view, rounding the bend at the stairs at full sail. I took one look and nearly fell into the muddy-deep. (Or was it just deep mud?) He was sitting on half of the ping-pong table earnestly studying his psychology.

"Where'd you get the raft?" I shouted.

"Well I've got to get to class somehow. Oh dear I hope I won't be late."

The next time I looked, our genius and his flotilla were heading at full speed for a brick wall. Oh well, what's one more student more or less?

DOCTOR UNIVERSALIS

Alchemest, theologian scientist. Thus might be the career of the versatile St. Albertus Magnus be catalogued. Yes, and we might add philosopher, bishop, and teacher plus a few others. Doctor Universalis is a modest term when applied to this diligent investigator, excellent scholar, and prolific writer whose feast is celebrated this Sunday.

St. Albert was as cosmopolitan as his pupil, St. Thomas Aquinas. Born in Germany, he taught at Hildesheim, Cologne, Freiburg, Strasbourg, and Paris; defended the Mendicant Orders against the attacks of William of St. Amour at Rome; and guided the flock at Ratisbon.

His works on Natural Science total forty-eight treatises. In these books, he hands down to posterity the fruit of his research in experimental science. Nearly every science known in his time by the induction method is treated.

St. Albert is a beacon, shining in a scientific world today engulfed in error and heresy. This great saint recognized the field of science; but, what is more important, he recognized the position science has in relation to God and religion. St. Albert never denied the existence of a personal God. He was too much a real scientist to do so.

Significant are the words of His Holiness Pius XII in the Acta Apostolicae Sedis who proclaims St. Albert as the patron of scientists "in order that the students of the natural science, bearing in mind that he had been given to them as their guide, might follow his footsteps and not cling too tightly to the investigation of fragile things of this life, nor forget that their souls are meant for immortality, but use created things as rungs in a ladder that will elevate them to understand heavenly things and take supreme delight in them".

College Gossip

By JACK BRADY

The Junior, Senior, and Sophomore Business Classes had an outing at Mr. Maroney's farm. The fellows helped harvest the apple crop, which will be made into cider. They used one of Mr. Maroney's farm trucks for transportation. Everyone seemed to enjoy themselves. Among those present were John Breen, Ray Crawford, and John Kenney (plus his gang).

George O'Reilly, and Bob Pollitt of last year's Junior Class visited the college last week. George is in the Army. He is stationed at Newport. Joe had leave from the Coast Guard. Bob is now an M. P. in the Army.

James Coyle '42, a former football star here is now playing for the Pawtucket Grads, a semi-pro team. Under his leadership they have rolled eight straight victories.

Four Freshman following in their brother's footsteps are Jack McCoolley, Donald Kiernan, Leo Kiernan, John Gilfillan and Salvatore Oddo. John Gilfillan not only seems to be following in his brother's footsteps but he also seems to be wearing his brother's shoes. He is now working in the Engine Dispatchers office as a clerk, (a position his brother held while attending P. C.) (Ed. Note:— Gilfillan said he wanted a little publicity lately.) Recently he journeyed to Boston to take an Exam for the Marines (his brother Tom was recently commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the same branch of the service). David Tubridy was invited to a political rally dinner by his friend 'Mrs. Big.' Joe played the part of a typical politician on election day. John Cunningham is now working at Quonset. Frank Larkin has returned to school after a recent illness. John Risko, a Junior Business student, has the highest Intelligent Quotient yet attained at Fort Devens. He left school to join the army. John Majan of last year's Freshman Class has transferred to R. I. State.

Many P. C. students have been invited to the R. I. C. E. Junior Prom which is being held at the Biltmore tonight. John Stafford has received his (expected) invitation. Advertising pays, doesn't it, John? Incidentally, we heard she speaks only French.

Charles Goodman was the center of attraction last Monday afternoon. James Scanlon has established a record. He ordered his cutaway, et al, three weeks in advance. James is Junior Class Treasurer. The coming Basketball season looks bright for P. C. The team has many veterans from last year's team.

The Junior Prom is only a week from next Monday.

The list of those attending the prom looks like the College Who's Who. Be sure to add your name to the list.

Until next week then keep listening.

Phi Chi Banquet Monday Evening

The Phi Chi Club will hold their annual banquet on Monday evening, November 16 at Oates Tavern. Henry Murphy, toastmaster, will introduce Rev. Jeremiah T. Fitzgerald, O.P., Vice-President of the college, who will be the guest speaker.

The Revs. William A. Sullivan, O.P., John F. Whittaker, O.P., and Edward R. Halton, O.P., will attend. Dr. Arthur Quirk and Prof. Joseph Hanley of the lay faculty will also be present.

Members of the committee in charge of the banquet are: Henry Murphy, chairman, John Pfersich and Arthur Hanoian.

Book Review

By Charles F. Cottam

This is a book about peoples and war. Dramatic sequences are many, but they are not conjured by the author. He is, as he states, a reporter and he has confined himself to just that field; he reports. There is no analysis of events here, no melodrama; just war and a panorama of people at war. There is power in this book by Robert St. John, power that is deep rooted and strikes home. Each line and chapter of this startling book rolls along with the speed of letters that are pounded out on a typewriter by frantic fingers.

We are brought from Belgrade on an Easter morning down through the mountains and villages of Greece, out on to Crete and into Egypt. All through the journey the reader is invited to see what war really is. Notable throughout the six hundred pages (Continued on Page 4)

What You Buy With WAR STAMPS

In the expensive business of fighting a war, a dime's worth of oxygen may seem like an inconsequential item, yet that much oxygen is enough to keep a bomber pilot alive for 40 minutes in the high altitudes reached by today's war planes. When operating at such extreme ranges, the lives of the pilot and his crew, as well as the safety of his plane, depend upon the unflinching supply of this precious gas which makes up for the deficiency of oxygen in rarefied air.

Your purchase of War Savings Stamps may not add up to the hundreds of thousands of dollars needed to buy one of those high-flying bombers, but every time you invest in a 10-cent Stamp, you are providing money for the oxygen without which our great air fleets would be practically useless. Your Schools at War program will help show you the importance of buying War Stamps regularly.

FROSH IMPRESS IN EARLY DRILLS OF CROTTYMEN

Veterans Are Pressed By Newcomers For Varsity Berths

Having divided his candidates into varsity and junior varsity groups, Coach Ed Crotty spent the past week in rounding his charges into form for the rapidly approaching clash with Springfield on Dec. 5.

Expressing complete satisfaction over the progress of the team thus far, Crotty pointed out that his present job is to get his men back into the swing of the fast break which last year carried the Friars to the top of the Eastern basketball league. The process of rounding off and finishing will be carried out only after the break is mastered.

Especially encouraging has been the work of the first two freshmen eager to play as varsity hoopsters. Martin and Palmieri, big, rangy, and possessing plenty of fight, have been playing an excellent brand of ball to date and will probably give several of the regulars a race for the starting positions.

Such veterans as McConnon, Drew, Reilly, Zabec, Sowa, Paglioroli, and Michaud have also been impressive in the scrimmages of the past week.

FOOTBALL CONTEST

First select the winners by placing a check (x) after name of the team, and then write your score of the Boston College-Fordham contest.

Selections must be placed in the Cowl mail box before 3 o'clock this afternoon to be eligible for the prize of theatre tickets.

Holy Cross	Temple
Notre Dame	Michigan
Navy	Columbia
Brown	Harvard
Yale	Princeton
Detroit	Villanova
Northwestern	Wisconsin
Boston Col. ()	Fordham ()

Edward Dimond was the winner of last week's Cowl Football Contest.

In Thursday's skirmish especially were the boys whistling the ball through the strings with a regularity which bodes evil for future opponents.

The new practice rims, which cut the shooting areas down tremendously are already being overcome as the shooting eyes of the men return to peak form. These rims, which have been tried at many schools with great success, are certain to be an asset to the team's ability as the season rolls on.

With at least fifteen candidates working out steadily, the old problem of capable reserves seems to be solved. Although the competition this season will be especially hard, the possibility of a three team Varsity is very promising.

PLANS PROCEED FOR ALL-STAR BOXING SHOW

Score of Candidates Work Out Under Louthis' Tutelage

While at least a score of candidates have been working out under the tutelage of Pete Louthis, the Athletic Office announced that there were several vacancies in the Monogram Club's boxing program. About ten more boxers can be accommodated in the Guzman practice hall.

All boxers, regardless of the outcome of the respective matches will be awarded special medals. In addition to the medals, the instruction which each man receives from the very conscientious Pete Louthis is invaluable.

Tickets for the program have already been circulated, and members of all varsity teams are now acting as salesmen. The show, which each year is a highlight of the sports season, will include an exhibition bout between two capable contenders in addition to a comedy bout.

Inter-Club Competition To Commence Tuesday

INTRAMURAL NOTICE

Player lists for all intramural basketball teams must be turned in to the Athletic Office before noon on Monday. The lists must contain the complete team rosters. All games will be played in the evenings, the first contest taking place Tuesday evening.

Thomas Gilfillan, graduate of the class of 1942 and former Cowl sports editor, returned to the school recently. Having completed the grueling course at the Marine Officers' Training School.

Dual Elimination System To Be Employed By Coach Crotty

Coach Ed Crotty announced that the intramural basketball league would swing into action next week. To be eligible for the competition, all team entry lists must be submitted to the Athletic Office before Monday noon; the schedule will commence Tuesday evening.

Each list should contain, in addition to the player list, a statement of the night or nights the members find convenient. All games will be played in the evenings.

Due to the shortage of time the league will be run under a double elimination system, the teams suffering two defeats being immediately eliminated from competition.

Any individuals unable to make contact with a team may submit their names to the athletic office so that they may be placed on a team.

It is absolutely essential that the player list be complete. In previous seasons a great deal of confusion has been caused by the shifting of players from one team to another. Each player will be permitted to play only for the team whose roster bears his name.

Debaters to Hold Intra-Murals

The Providence College Debating Union held a meeting for old and new members last Wednesday at 12:30 p. m., in the large parlor. Plans were made to hold intermural debates on Wednesday evenings at 7:30 p. m., in Harkins Hall.

The subject of the debates will be the current topic of the colleges this year, that of, "Immediate World Federation."

The Rev. Ambrose P. Regan, O. P., moderator, gave a short talk in which he outlined the principles on which the club was founded. He stressed and emphasized the fact that the debaters represented the college and therefore were ever obliged to conduct themselves as gentlemen.

He continued saying that to perpetuate the good impression of Providence College entertained by other polemig organizations was of more importance than the actual winning of debates.

Fall Riverites Discuss Dance

At the weekly meeting of the Fall River Club held yesterday plans were discussed for the annual Christmas dance.

It was decided to hold the affair on Monday evening, December 28. The group chose Robert Sullivan as chairman of the dance committee. Other members of the club selected to aid Chairman Sullivan included: Thomas Marum, in charge of decorations; Milton Silva, reservations; Albert Resnick, tickets; and Robert Golden, publicity.

Book Review

of this non-fiction is the absence of the usual decorations that align themselves to this type of plot. The events depicted are not heresay, nor are they altered. They are real and the reader will be affected accordingly. There is no Hell or glory feature here. The ring which the drama of war has of itself, is deep, full and untainted.

Typical of the book and its mode is the paraphrase of the man in petras lying in the street with his guts hanging out, his head blown open and his hands in his shattered ribbons, screaming for someone to reach into his pocket for money to buy an aspirin, so he can stop the whirring feeling in his head. Or the little girl in the hospital with her arms hanging in black shreds sobbing through the night for her mother who was dead.

This I repeat, is a book about war and of peoples at war; dramatic and powerful.

Dominicans To Celebrate Feast

The College will celebrate on Sunday, the feast of St. Albert the Great, (left), Dominican scientist, philosopher, and theologian, whom Pope Pius XII on December 16th, 1941, proclaimed patron of students of the Natural Sciences. At right, is the Rev. Frederick C. Hickey, O. P., at work in the college laboratory.

Forum Will Meet Again Next Week

The Providence College Forum held its first meeting of the present trimester last Wednesday evening in Harkins Hall. An encyclical letter by Pope Leo XIII entitled "Immortale Dei," which considers "The Christian Constitution of State" was discussed by the group.

The first speaker, James Shiel, explained the origin of the church and her authority. John Gerhard continued the discussion speaking of the harmony and conflicts between the church and state, the only perfect societies. After the second speaker had finished, the topic was placed before the forum for open discussion. The idea of rightfulness of a revolution in the eyes of the church and state was predominant through this discussion.

It was decided to have the next meeting on Thursday evening, Nov. 19, 1942. The Rev. William Hinnebusch, moderator, appointed John Kenny and James Davis the speakers for next week. The session was then closed.

The speakers next week will discuss the latter half of the encyclical letter are interested in current religious considering the influence of Catholicism on society and the state. All who problems are urged to attend the next meeting, especially freshmen.

Yankee soldiers in France during the World War wasted little time in impressing the enemy with their deadly skill as bayonet fighters. The sight of advancing Americans with fixed bayonets caused many a German to throw down his weapons and cry "Kamerad." The bayonet is still a major offensive weapon and is carried by all combat troops. The bayonet costs $5 and the scabbard $1.50 each.

We need millions of bayonets for our rapidly expanding army. You can help pay for them with your purchase of War Stamps. Five dollars' worth of Stamps will put a bayonet on the belt of a Yankee rifleman. Do your bit through the regular purchase of War Stamps, as outlined in your Schools At War program. U. S.
