Junior and Freshman Weekends Near

These are three of the candidates for this year's Junior Weekend Queen. Left to right: Pamela Wallace to be escorted by Lum Gasbarro; Marie Manning, escorted by Vin Ernst; and Marie Manning, escorted by Chuck Verde. According to the Queen Committee the selection of the Queen will not be based on pictures alone. There will be a judging at the Prom on Friday night.

Prom, Boat Ride, Jazz Concert to Top Junior Weekend

Junior Weekend arrangements have been completed, according to co-chairmen Tom Rafferty and Frank D'Angelo, and tickets are expected to sell at a rapid pace toward the end of the week.

On Friday night the Junior Prom will take place at the newly completed Alpine Country Club in Cranston and is expected to be the highlight of the weekend. Music for the affair will be provided by Ed Conti and his orchestra. The prom will be formal and non-formal. Saturday afternoon at 1 p.m., those attending will leave from the state pier in Providence for a four hour boat ride.

Saturday evening there will be an informal dance at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Park Avenue in Cranston.

Mass will be offered by Rev. Joseph Desmond, O.P., on Sunday morning at 11:30 a.m. in the Grotto, weather permitting. That afternoon the class will sponsor a jazz concert featuring Lambert, Hendricks, and Ross at the Rhode Island School of Design Auditorium.

Bids for the weekend are $21.00. They will be available from members of the ticket committee in Alumni Hall during lunch periods and in Raymond Hall during the evening meal.

Freshmen Plan Dance, Picnic For Weekend

Freshman Weekend is rapidly approaching here at Providence College. It will take place on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, May 4, 5, and 6.

Activities will commence with a dance to be held at the Edgewood Yacht Club from eight to twelve p.m. Dress for the dance will be casual and refreshments will be served. Lucian Birkler and his group will provide music for this event.

On the agenda for Saturday will be a box-lunch picnic at Lincoln Woods from one to five in the afternoon. Following the picnic there will be a semi-formal dance from nine to one at the King Philip Ballroom in Wrentham, Mass.

Sunday morning a Communion breakfast will be held. In the afternoon the members of the class will have an opportunity to show their dates around the PC campus. The Freshmen will have the alternative of attending the jazz concert being sponsored by the Junior class featuring Lambert, Hendricks, and Ross, if they purchase tickets for this event.

The price for the weekend will be $12.50.

Graduating Class Announces Plans for Commencement Ball

A seafood banquet and dancing at pool-side is planned for Senior Commencement Ball Friday night, June 1, at the Grist Mill in Seekonk. Tickets for this formal, non-floral affair and for an informal, outdoor concert tentatively scheduled for the following Saturday afternoon go on sale today.

Chairman Joseph Keough announced that the dinner, a choice of lobster or swordfish, will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Grist Mill proper, 428 Fall River Avenue on Route 114A. The ball itself will take place in the adjacent Jolly Miller Club, with music provided by Harry Marshard. His band, which has played Newton College Junior weekends for several years as well as many other collegiate outings attended by Providence College students, is being brought to Commencement Ball by a considerable popular demand, the chairman stated.

The bid of $15 may be paid in three installments, Mr. Keough said, but the first payment must be made by Friday, May 11, in order that meal arrangements may be completed.

The delay in making this definite announcement about the ball, although regretted by Chairman Keough, was necessitated by the difficulty in finding a large enough site available on a suitable date. He added that "the committee checked out every possible place within a reasonable distance" and even toyed with the idea of having the dance aboard a large cruising boat. The Biltmore Hotel had been booked for that entire weekend and the suggestion that the ball be held there the night of graduation was greeted with some strong student reaction.

The Grist Mill, when first contacted, doubted its Jolly Miller Club would be available in time but found that it will be. Despite the foreseeable objections to the date, traditional until the last few years, the committee hopes the advantages of the well-known restaurant will be sufficient compensation. Furthermore, it feels the atmosphere of the new club is very promising, with a dance-floor about three quarters the size of Harkins' Hall auditorium, and a patio as long as a basketball court which will be open to a swimming pool or screened off with heated panels, depending on the weather.

Dr. Gora Addresses Scientists At Redstone Research Laboratory

Dr. Edwin K. Gora, professor of physics at Providence College, delivered two seminars before a group of fellow scientists at the Ordinance Missile Command, Redstone Arsenal, Alabama, last Thursday and Friday.

Topics discussed by Dr. Gora were, "Asymptotic Methods in the Asymmetric Rotor Theory of Rotational Spectra," and "The Bogoliubov Method of Generalizing the Boltzmann Transport Equation."

Attending these seminars were members of both the U. S. AOMC and the NASA, (National Aeronautics and Space Agency). Until last year both of these agencies were combined under the direction of the Army. The NASA is a civilian organization which is working closely with the Army, but in the fields of aeronautics and space travel rather than of defense.

Dr. Gora explained that these seminars are related to the increasing emphasis being placed upon theoretical work in the sciences, with the hope that some of the experimental scientists will transfer to theoretical work.

S C Movie Treats Plight of Negroes

"Walk In My Shoes," a controversial documentary film depicting the plight of the American Negro will be shown on campus on the evening of May 10. The time and place of the program will be announced at a later date by the Student Congress, under whose auspices the program is being presented. Following the film Mr. Donald Cosington, chairman of the speakers committee of the NAACP, will address the audience.

Mr. Sutton, also of the NAACP, in an interview with the PC Student Congress said that he would like to acquaint the Catholic college students with the aims of the NAACP. He also noted that this will be the first time that this type of program has been presented at a Catholic College.

Admission to the program is free. The funds for the program will be made available by Student Congress.

Students from every college in Rhode Island with the exception of PC have participated in demonstrations concerning integration in Maryland in the last year, according to Chernov.

Fr. Dore is Named To Education Board

At the National Catholic Education Convention held in Detroit last week, the Very Rev. Vincent C. Dore, O.P., President of the College was named to the General Executive Board of National Catholic Education Organization.

Fr. Dore has in previous years served on the Plans and Problems Committee. For the past two years he has served as a delegate to represent the New England Region of the National Catholic Education Association.

Also attending the convention from the faculty of the College were Rev. Joseph L. Lennon, O.P., Rev. Robert G. Quinn, O.P., Rev. Thomas A. Collins, O.P., Rev. James R. McAvoy, O.P., Rev. Lloyd A. Mahler, O.P., Rev. Edward A. Vitie, O.P., Rev. John P. Kennedy, O.P., and Rev. Vincent F. McHenry, O.P.

MEMO FROM THE EDITOR:

Last year a group of energetic and spirited sophomores developed a program whereby they would write the history of Providence College.

The plans were formulated, a detailed research program was initiated, the costs were estimated, and the final approval for the project was placed before the President of the College. But on the day the plans were to be reviewed, the Very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O.P., died.

Since that time the sophomores, who are now juniors, have had to abandon their work on the project because of the amount of work demanded of them in their junior year.

Writing a history of Providence College would be no easy task since the material would have to be gathered from old sources such as the morgue of large newspapers. Material for the history, available from original sources (living members of the faculty and alumni), would also be difficult to gather, but the advantage in using these sources would be that they have a more personal touch and would bring back memories to alumni much more quickly.

However, it takes time for anyone to write an accurate history of any school, let alone one that will be 50 years old this decade.

It would be a fortunate occurrence for Providence College if the program to write the history of the College were revived. It's not something that can be done overnight, but it would be a shame to see such a project ended on the desk of the past President of Providence College.

PR Company Designated As Best in New England Area

"The company's performance at the final drill meet in Boston was the fitting culmination of a year of hard work." With these words, Capt. Lawrence A. Redmond, the commanding officer of Company K-12, summed up the feelings of the officers of K-12. For, on Saturday evening, April 14, the Pershing Rifles unit from Providence College was named as the best PR company in the 12th Regiment, which encompasses all of New England. The award was made at the regimental ball.

Several other awards were made at the ball. Company K was presented with a trophy for the rifle championship of the 12th Regiment. The company itself gave its executive officer, 1st Lieut. Thomas O'Rourke, a trophy for his service to the company.

At the drill meet which was held on the afternoon of April 14, the company had finished third in regulation drill behind Boston University and Northeastern, which came in first and second respectively. The trick drill team came in second in its part of the drill meet. The team was guided through its sequence by 1st Lieut. Walter Werner.

At the final review of the drill meet, the officers and men of Company K were presented with several individual awards. The gold award was presented to Capt. Redmond, 1st Lieut. Werner and Ganino were given silver awards. Bronze awards were presented to 2nd Lieuts. Paul McNamara, David Russell, and Joseph DeGennaro. First Sgt. Francis Darigan was given an award as the best basic corps cadet in Company K-12, and Corp. Frank Hill was cited as the outstanding pledge in the PR unit at Providence College.

During the drill meet, members of Company K distributed copies of the company paper, the K-12 Report. This edition of the paper, a bi-weekly, consisted of eight pages. Capt. Redmond, a senior History major from Columbus, Ohio, stated that he wished "to congratulate the men of Company K on behalf of the officers of the company for a job well done." He also stated that the "hard work of the company during the past year really paid off in the end."

Fifteen AED Members Attend National Premedical Convention

Fifteen members of the Rhode Island Alpha Chapter of Alpha Epsilon Delta traveled by car, train, and plane to Toledo, Ohio, for the Biennial National Premedical Convention held April 26 through April 29 at the University of Toledo.

The chapter from Providence College won all of the three possible awards given at the convention. The trophies won were presented for best attendance and best activities for chapters with 15 to 28 members, and also for the best contributions to the quarterly publication of the premedical society—The Scalpel. This last award was not based upon membership number and all 73 chapters of the society were in contention for it.

The society also returned home with three trophies after the last convention, held in 1960. Father Reichart, the faculty advisor for the society, was re-elected national treasurer of Alpha Epsilon Delta.

Gerald Marsocci, the official PC delegate to the convention, addressed the assemblage of students from all over the country. He expressed the gratitude of the visiting delegates towards the Ohio Chapter for having done such an excellent task of arranging the whole convention. The awards were presented at a banquet Friday evening, April 27.

Cap and Gown Day to Feature Sr. Class Skit

On Friday, May 4, the Cap and Gown Day for the Senior class of Providence College will commence with a mass at 9:00 a.m., celebrated by the Rev. W. D. Kane, and the address will be given by the Rev. D. C. Kane. Following the capping of the seniors and the class picture, the seniors will be granted the entire day to themselves. At 7:15 in the evening, the Class Skit will begin with the granting of the P.H.T. (Putting Hubby Through) degrees to the wives of the married seniors.

The Cap and Gown Dance will be held at 8:30 p.m. in Alumni Hall Lounge with refreshments being served in the cafeteria. There is no charge for the dance, and dress for the affair is informal to the extent that sports jackets and ties will be worn.

Father Hogan Flies to Rome; Attends Rites

The Reverend Ernest A. Hogan, O. P., of Providence College, flew to Rome and attended ceremonies elevating the former Master General of the Dominican Order, the Very Reverend Michael Browne, to the office of Cardinal. Fr. Hogan was one of three representatives from the Province of St. Joseph.

The ceremony, conducted on Thursday, March 22, was the occasion for the first Dominican to be elevated to the office of Cardinal. Pope John XXIII officiated at the ordination of eight cardinals and announced on conclusion that fourteen new bishops would be consecrated on Holy Thursday.

On the following Monday, Fr. Hogan and four other Dominican delegates were received by the Vatican for an audience with the Pope. The others were the Reverend Charles McKenna, the Most Reverend Mariner T. Smith, the Very Reverend William D. Marrin, and the Very Reverend Nadra B. Joseph.

Fr. Hogan reported that the Pope expressed great pleasure in the choice and thought it

"one of the most popular choices he had made for the College of Cardinals." When asked to comment on his personal feelings, Fr. Hogan said that he experienced "a certain awe"; however, "he puts you immediately at ease with his great humility." Pope John appeared "untroubled despite the great burdens which he has to contend with.

At the conclusion of the audience the delegates were permitted to kiss the Pope's ring. His Holiness then conferred the Papal Blessing. Fr. Hogan considered the audience as "informative" and as "a rather thrilling experience."

Conservative Club Sponsors Noted Writer Russell Kirk

Russell Kirk, noted writer, editor, lecturer, and professor of political science, will speak before the Conservative Club on Monday evening, May 7. The lecture will be held in the Guild Room, Alumni Hall, at 8:00 p.m. All students, professors, and the public are invited to attend.

Dr. Kirk is said by the Archduke Otto von Hapsburg to have probably the best mind in America; and by Mr. Hugh Gaitskill, leader of the British Labor Party, to have set back socialism a generation. He writes and speaks widely on conservative thought, educational theory, literary criticism, and other themes. In addition to editing a magazine, the quarterly University Bookman, he is research professor of political science at C. W. Post College, and university professor of Long Island University.

Although Dr. Kirk has been described by Gordon Keith Chalmers, Canon Bernard Idings Bell, Senator Barry Goldwater, and others as the philosopher of American conservatism, his only political office is that of justice of the peace of his home township. Both Time and Newsweek, in feature articles, have called him one of America's leading intellectuals.

He has spoken on nearly a hundred and fifty American campuses, and to many other audiences. He is author of many books, the best-known of them The Conservative Mind, which is perhaps the most widely read and reviewed work of political theory to be published in this century.

Some four hundred of his essays and short stories have appeared in the leading serious periodicals of the United States, Britain, Canada, Australia, Norway, and Austria. Holding six degrees, Professor Kirk is a doctor of letters of St. Andrews University, Scotland—the only arts degree of the senior Scottish university. He has received research grants from several foundations and is an active member of several American, British, and Austrian scholarly and cultural societies.

The Cowl Staff Wants Your Help

Due to the coming graduation, there now exist several vacancies on the Cowl circulation staff. Anyone interested in such a position should report to the Cowl office in Harkins Hall during the 10:20 break or on Monday evening.

Positions are also available on the business staff for the coming year. Those who are interested in gaining some business experience would find these positions to provide valuable knowledge. Business experience is desirable.

It was also announced by the editor-in-chief, Peter J. White, that all information for next week's issue must be in the Cowl office by Friday afternoon, May 4, at 3:00 p.m.

New Regulations Set For Student-Teaching

Edmond, Okla.—(LP.)—Several new regulations pertaining to the student teaching program at Central State College were announced here recently by J. C. Jackson, Dean of the College. New requirements were approved by the general faculty upon the recommendations of the departmental chairmen, the Council on Teacher Education, and the Academic Council.

Effective immediately, the requirements for minors have been raised to 18 hours and a maximum of 10 hours in general education may be applied to a major or minor where feasible and applicable. These ten hours may be so divided as to count toward either major or minor studies, but the same courses may not be applied to both major and minor.

Editorially Speaking

Writers Cramped ? ?

It is all too apparent to followers of literary events here that the Alembic, supposedly a forum of expression for talented young writers, is not all that it should be. The quality of the material presented appears even more anemic when compared with that being published in similar magazines on other campuses.

Naturally the students themselves must be held greatly responsible for this discouraging situation. It does not seem possible, on a campus the size of PC, that the hackneyed attempts currently appearing in the pages of the Alembic can actually be indicative of the College's literary talent.

However, it is not realistic to place the blame entirely on the shoulders of the undergraduates. A good deal of the problem is the inevitable result of the magazine's format. The Alembic is doing a great dis-service, both to itself and to the intellectual community as a whole, by forcing its contributors to write "creatively." This is true for two rather obvious reasons: first, few students possess the ability and experience to write in this manner successfully; second, most students are justifiably repelled by the prospect of having their efforts criticized by their comrades.

We conclude, then, that it is time for a change. The Cowl suggests that the format of the Alembic be expanded, to include not only creative writing, but also essays of an expository nature. Such essays would offer several distinct advantages — the student would be able to expose his style publicly without fear of the embarrassment that is associated with creative writing.

Furthermore, these essays would prove genuinely valuable to the Alembic's readers, insofar as they would deal with aspects of literature (or history or philosophy, for that matter) which are neglected in the classroom. Finally, the Alembic might become the place for carrying on the dialogue so noticeably absent from Catholic schools. However, if the Alembic is to become the vehicle for controversial essays, there must be a revision in the attitude of the present moderator and staff.

Of course, those students who feel capable of submitting original material should be encouraged to do so: these contributions occasionally demonstrate real merit. Nevertheless, we feel that if the content of the Alembic were to be expanded, the student body would show a far greater degree of worthwhile and productive co-operation.

AN EMPTY HOUSE

Sophs to Attend YCS Sessions

Two PC sophomores have been accepted to participate in the 1962 Summer Sessions of the College Young Christian Students movement to be held in Chicago beginning June 5.

Praet Praetz, a mathematics major, and Michael Sullivan, an English major, have been chosen to represent the New England region of the organizations. Fifteen students chosen from throughout the country will participate in the study program.

The YCS is a specialized movement whose aims are to transform and perfect the student environment and student life, and to enhance the spiritual formation of its members through this work.

The organization strives to accomplish this end through a number of small study groups, numbering about four to ten students on each campus, which work both together and separately on problems connected with student life.

In these meetings, the students look objectively at a single aspect of student life and, using St. Thomas' outline of the virtue of prudence — observe, judge and act — attempt to make their environment more fully Christian.

The study of the scripture and liturgy as an integral part of the meetings is designed to lead to a fuller appreciation of the Christian faith.

The Summer Sessions will begin with the National Study Week at St. Procopius College in Lisle, Illinois.

The Sessions themselves consist of a planned schedule of speakers and informal seminars on various aspects of the student apostolate.

YCS exists in both Catholic and secular colleges throughout the United States and in some parishes. A national headquarters team of full time workers handles the publications, contact between groups, the national meetings and the co-ordination of the national program.

The organization also exists as an international movement in nearly 50 countries. The International Secretariat in Paris coordinates the work of the movements in the various countries.

Both Sullivan and Praetz also plan to attend the National Congress of the National Federation of Catholic College Students to be held in Chicago. The NFCCS Congress will be held the last week of August.

Both students are hopefully looking forward to the beginning of a strong YCS chapter on the campus next year.

"Being the only Dominican College in the area, provides us with an excellent background for a sound campus unit," commented Praetz. "A strong unit at PC could strengthen greatly the regional YCS."

Praetz has been active in the campus unit of the NFCCS as senior delegate, has served on the Student Congress, and is a member of the Western Massachusetts Club.

Sullivan is a member of the Pyramid Players, the Art Club, a staff member of the Alembic, and the Cowl and for the past year has been the editor of the NFCCS New England regional collegiate news service.

Club Contributions Discussed by Dean

By Rev. Joseph L. Lennon

I am happy to see that we now have a Liberal Club, a Conservative Club and an International Club at Providence College. These recently approved clubs, along with others which attempt to deal with the problems besetting our country and the world, can make a small but significant contribution to world peace.

This can be done in two ways. First of all, by prayer. Prayer for peace is at the heart of the Church's peace program. As the psalmist says, "Unless the Lord buildeth the house, they labor in vain who build it."

But work for peace, beginning with educative study, is no small part of the same program. In the ordinary ways of God's providence, peace does not come by miracles, and the same international order, for which we so earnestly pray, will not drop ready-made from heaven. In matters of political progress and social morality nothing holds true more than the fact that we must pray as if everything depended on God, but work as if everything depended on us. Gratia perfecti naturam sed opus naturae prius condendum est.

I say this because there are indications that this truth is not understood, or at least accepted as a practical matter. For instance, not a few persons, enthused by the Fatima devotion, appear to leave the impression that if only we pray, if only we practice particular devotions, then peace will come and evil fall by its own weight. This is not the mind of the Church; and one result of a Catholic college education should be "sentire cum Ecclesia."

The modern Popes have sounded again and again the call to prayer. At the same time, by precept and example they have underscored the need for work, for hard work, consistent with the aims of our prayers.

The first work which the Popes of this generation have urged upon those who seek the reclamation of the social order is that of education. Pope Pius XII stated that the reign of peace "can be brought to pass on earth in no other way than by the labor and industry of the Church engaged in the work of educating men."

It is, therefore, by education that the Church has sought to combat the evils which destroy peace and produce war. The pronouncements of the Church on the moral aspects of the international problems do not treat these problems as the work of blind and mechanical forces, such as alleged "laws of Economics," "the evolution of national destiny" — these demons and demigods, eluding human control, of modern political philosophy. Rather the Holy See discusses such evils in terms of misguided human activity admitting of re-education and new guidance.

Thus it is to education that Pope John XXIII appeals for the beginning of the solution of what is known as the "social problem." To overcome antagonism between classes, he argues, "it is of utmost importance to foster in all classes of society an intensive program of social education to the varying degrees of intellectual culture. The mind of men must be illuminated with the sure light of Catholic social teaching . . ."

which must precede direct action in the field. This will assuredly be served by study circles, conferences, lecture courses, and the various other activities undertaken to make known the Christian solution of the social problem." Clearly, then, it is in education that the Popes seek the first element of the solution of the general social problems of national and international disorder.

That is why I am so pleased to see established at Providence College Campus clubs whose main objective is the study of current social and political problems. It would be a tragedy, however, if these clubs became so partisan that they expressed only the narrow view of a clique, a party, a popular political or social philosophy.

The philosophy studied at Providence College is the "philosophia perennis." It is not restricted to any era but transcends time and is pertinent to all ages.

Thomas Aquinas is the "doctor universalis." His system of thought is receptive to new knowledge and new critical attitudes. The student trained in the Thomistic tradition welcomes the challenge of new problems because he has firmly grasped the unchanging principles of philosophical science and knows how to apply them to the changing times. Any philosophy becomes sterile and hackneyed when it thinks it has fulfilled its function by monotonously restating old concepts and theories. The vigor of Thomism lies precisely in its ability to look about and try to answer the problems of its day. When it does not, it becomes merely an interesting relic.

Moreover, the theology studied on this campus is truly catholic. It is applicable to all peoples and places and problems. The revelation of God is meant for all men. The City of God casts light on the map of the earth and offers hope and guidance to those who seek social harmony in a battered and badly divided world. Although Christ's kingdom is not of this world, the kingdoms of the world derive from His kingdom important aids to peace and unity. Imbued with the science of theology, a man is in an advantageous position to participate in the momentous task of "restoring all things in Christ."

By all means, let students support and actively work for the worthwhile causes sponsored by so-called liberal and conservative groups. But they should not be irrevocably wedded to one viewpoint. Thomism provides the best coin of vantage for seeing the old in the new and the new in the old. It supplies a universal perspective capable of embracing

Doctor Thomson Talks on Ecumenical Movement

"Protestantism, once proud of its disunion, is trying to overcome its sectarian division," said Dr. Paul van K. Thomson, a converted Protestant minister and head of the Arts Honors Program at the College. Dr. Thomson spoke on "Protestantism and Ecumenicism" at a recent meeting of the Aquinas Society.

During his lecture, Dr. Thomson discounted the present possibility of widespread rejoining of the Catholic Church by the Protestant sects, but he thought the Eastern Churches, such as the Greek Orthodox, might rejoin the Catholic Church in the near future.

The Protestant move for unity has been a result of its diverse denominations, the increase of total religious indifference, the rapidly changing pace of society, the natural tendency of people to draw closer together, and in the United States is partly a reaction against growing Catholicism.

"The Protestants try to federate denominations into larger and looser organizations. The unity is external, without the unity of principle," continued Dr. Thomson.

"The unity of church is not one of organization but one of organism," stated Dr. Thomson. The denominational divisions do not represent the true divisions in Protestantism. The big difference in the Protestant churches is between those who regard religion as real and supernatural and those who regard it as the spiritual arm of science.

"The best thing we can do for Protestantism is to remain true to the Faith," added Dr. Thomson.

ing all that is intellectually valuable. It offers a valid criterion so necessary for judging correctly. No matter where the answers to the thorny questions which face us may lie, the Catholic College student should always look at the world through the eyes of his faith and seek not the liberal, nor the conservative, but in the words of the Holy Pontiff, "the Christian solution to the social problem."

Soph Class Casts Largest SC Vote

During the three-day period from April 11 to 13, the elections for class officers and Student Congress representatives were held. Each of the three classes holding elections turned out in large numbers to vote. The class of 1964 showed 82% of its members voting.

In the elections of the class of 1963, Richard Segura, an education major from Provincetown, Mass., turned away three opponents in the race for class president. The former vice-president defeated Ronald DeThomas, John Alquist, and Edward McLaughlin for the top office in his class. Thomas Murphy was elected vice-president over Paul McNamara, while Robert Silva became secretary unopposed. Frank Mazur defeated James Rogers for the office of class treasurer, John Buccu, Gerald Cobleigh, John McCarthy, Robert Cronin, Edmund Kussman, and Leo Melanson were chosen as Student Congress representatives. Frank Mazzeo was elected class agent unopposed. The social committee for the class of 1963 was also chosen. John Nichols and Brian Walsh were selected.

Alfred Lombardi, the incumbent president of the sophomore class, defeated his closest opponent, John McMahon, by the slim margin of four votes. William Archey and Jeffrey Shea were the other candidates for president of the class of 1964. Vincent McIlillo was elected vice-president over Peter Nolan and David Rabadan. Paul Lamare was chosen as secretary of the class. His opponent was Joseph Krysz. In the race for class treasurer, Joseph Reihing edged Ralph Hewitt by 15 votes. Robert Fiondella, Bert Bernard, Daniel Brophy, and George Parent were chosen as Congress representatives for the class of 1964. James Demma and William Abbot were selected as members of the class social committee.

Robert Pirraglia was reelected president of the class of 1965, defeating Thomas Mainey and Karl Hoyo. The vice-presidential winner was Edward Keohane. His opponents were Roger Brock and Edward Angley. The posts of secretary and treasurer were filled with the election of John Martinelli and Frank Sullivan to those positions respectively. Michael Murphy, Harry Brent, Joseph Calabria, and Bill Josephs were chosen Student Congress representatives. James McVeigh and Jeff Delaney were elected to the social committee.

Salinger Topic Of Thurs. Talk

Tomorrow evening the Aquinas Society will sponsor a lecture by Rev. Thomas M. Coskren, O.P. A discussion period will be conducted following the lecture at 7:30 in Aquinas Lounge.

The title of Fr. Coskren's lecture will be, "Squalor in The Rye: the Significance of J. D. Salinger." Included in the lecture will be a consideration of Salinger's controversial novel Catcher in the Rye. Fr. Coskren will also consider Salinger's Franny and Zooey, currently the nation's best selling book, as well as Salinger's short stories, among them "For Esme, With Love and Squalor," "Perfect Day For Bananafish," and "Teddy."

Father Wallace to Speak At Phi Chi Spring Banquet

On Monday, May 7, the Phi Chi Club will hold its annual banquet at the Club 400 in Warwick. The Reverend William A. Wallace, O.P., of Saint Joseph's Priory in Dover, Mass., will be the speaker on "Science and Religion in the Twentieth Century."

A holder of five major degrees, Father Wallace has taught at the Dominican House of Philosophy in Springfield, Kentucky and is presently teaching at Saint Joseph's Priory as Professor of the Philosophy of Science.

In addition to his regular duties Father Wallace taught as a visiting professor at St. Catherine College, in Kentucky and Newton College of the Sacred Heart in Massachusetts. In the field of research, he has worked with the Naval Ordnance Laboratory.

His books and articles include The Scientific Methodology of Theodoric of Freiberg and Physics and God.

Father Wallace decided to become a priest while serving on board the U.S.S. Yorktown because of his concern for the moral problems aroused by the war and his close contact with the ship's chaplain, the Rev. Walter Farrell, O.P.

For most of war's duration he devoted himself to national defense work in Washington. During this time he helped to plan an aerial mine laying attack upon Japan. For this he was awarded the Legion of Merit.

After Father Wallace's speech the elections for the officers of the Phi Chi Club will take place.

PC Students Staff Salve Regina Play

On May 8, and 9, at 8:00 p.m. in the Mercy Hall Auditorium, the Salve Regina College Dramatic Club will present Oscar Wilde's play, "The Importance of Being Earnest." The cast, under the direction of Mary Elizabeth Ward, consists of both Salve Regina and Providence College students. This year, the three members representing the College are Bob Phelan, Geoff Sullivan, and George Ritchie. Tickets for the performance are one dollar and may be purchased at the door, or by reservation.

Art Club to Sponsor Exhibit

Next week the Art Club of Providence College will hold its annually sponsored student art exhibit in the lounge of Alumni Hall. Any student who wishes to submit work to the exhibit will please bring his work to either Father Hunt, Harkins Hall, or to Frank Venice, room 229 Raymond Hall, by Sunday night. The exhibit is open to all students, even those who are not members of the club.

In the past, student interest in this exhibit has been very high. Even those who do not have any artistic talent can enjoy seeing what their fellow students have produced.

The Art Club is also in the process of selecting a plaque in honor of the Rev. John Sullivan, O.P. The plaque is to be placed in the rotunda of Harkins Hall along side Father Sullivan's four paintings.

Society Meets

"Has Anti-Semitism Christian Roots?" will be the topic of the Rev. Edward Flannery's lecture at the Johannine Society's May 7 meeting. Father Flannery, the editor of The Providence Visitor, will address the Society in Aquinas Hall Lounge at 8 p.m. A business meeting at which the election of officers will take place will precede Father Flannery's lecture and start at 7:15 p.m.

A Head Start . . .

New York High School Students Prepare for College Careers

Ithaca, N. Y.—(I.P.)—Secondary school students of proven superior academic ability may get a head start on their college careers by successfully completing courses in a new program to be instituted this summer at Cornell University. Directed by Prof. Martin W. Sampson of the College of Engineering, the program is limited to students who will complete their junior year in high school in June of this year.

The program is part of a continuing effort by Cornell to find ways in which students of outstanding ability may be educated at a pace suitable to their potential. Students selected will have a choice of a six credit hour course in either bacteriology, botany, chemistry, mathematics, zoology, French, German or Russian. Each course will be at least at the level of the elementary course in each subject currently being offered to Cornell students.

Grades will be recorded with the registrar as they are for regularly enrolled Cornell undergraduates, and transcripts will be available for use in the home high school or as part of the student's application for college.

College Grading System Revised at Elmira College

Elmira, N. Y. (I.P.)—Explaining the new grading system instituted at Elmira College this year, Dean Richard R. Bond pointed out that "like any grading system, it is a method of communication between faculty and students, between faculty and the recording office, and between schools.

"In communication between the teacher and the student, the grade must (1) reflect the distinctions between levels of performance and (2) not reflect distinctions which are difficult or impossible to make. The numerical system with its 40 intervals above a passing grade, gives an illusion of precise testing and marking which are impossible to achieve in practice.

"The difference between, say, a 75 and a 76 cannot really be determined with the accuracy the numbers indicate. On the other hand, a shift to a straight letter grade—A, B, C, D, F—would not show some distinctions which can be made. The difference between a high C and a low C is a very real one. The faculty has adopted an intermediate pattern, a letter system with pluses and minuses. This provides eleven passing categories.

"In communicating between schools and in evaluating the cumulative work of many courses, averages of the work done in several courses are desirable. Because it is impossible to average letters, each letter grade is assigned a numerical value for averaging in the registrar's office.

"At Elmira, an A equals 4 quality points; an A—, 3.7; a B plus, 3.3; a B, 3.0; a B—, 2.7, and so on down to a D— of 0.7 and an F of zero. In averaging grades, the quality points earned in each course will be added together and divided by the total semester hours earned in all courses. For example, a semester of five courses with four, 4-credit courses with an A—, C, B— and B plus and a fifth, 2-credit course with an A will give an average of 3.04 (3.7x4) plus (2.0x4) plus (2.7x4) plus (3.3x4) plus (4.0x2) divided by 18.

"Conversion of grades of students here before the change was made (Classes of 1962, 1963 and 1964) presents a special difficulty. Numerically grades earned prior to September, 1961, will be given precise quality point values as follows:

93 and above, 4.0; 92, 3.9; 91, 3.8; 90, 3.7; 89, 3.6; 88, 3.5; 87, 3.4; 86, 3.3; 85, 3.2; 84, 3.1 and so on down to 53 and below—0.0."

Mich. State Decides On Grading Change

East Lansing, Mich.—(I.P.)—The grading system at Michigan State University needs a complete overhaul, according to Dean of University College John H. Winburne. "There are two forces at work here," he said, "a flexible grading curve and an inflexible five point letter scale."

Dean Winburne said that in 1957 the average grade point was two point four. The average grade point fell to two point one after Sputnik 1 which meant that the student who received a two point in '57 received one point seven grade point in '58 for the same effort and amount of learning.

He also said there was a policy here which allows a student to graduate with no less than a two point yet allows the D grade as a passing mark. Dean Winburne declared that this system allows you to pass your courses and then prohibits you from graduating. If the administration were to be consistent, he said, "we would graduate a student with a D grade."

The administration could completely eliminate the D grade and require the instructors to "define what they mean by 'passing,'" Dean Winburne said. He felt that the instructor should set a standard for a student's work and inform the student of what is expected of him.

He commented on certain courses which have a high drop-out rate. "These are not high standards, this is just being tough. A Chimpanzee can give 50 per cent F's."

Insurance Companies Offer College Graduates Positions

NEW YORK, (April 25) — The nation's property and casualty insurance companies have jobs for some 3,000 men graduating from colleges and universities this June.

This need for personnel was disclosed in a recent survey of recruiting needs in property and casualty insurance. The industrywide survey, first of its kind, was conducted among companies affiliated with the American Mutual Insurance Alliance, the Insurance Information Institute, and the National Association of Independent Insurers.

Questionnaires returned by 157 companies and groups of companies with a total of 225,000 employees indicated that these companies hope to hire 2,896 men graduating from colleges and universities in the class 1962. This would amount to nearly one per cent of the total number of 1962 male college graduates.

The companies participating in the survey represent about two-thirds of the total employment of all property and casualty insurance companies in the U. S. Persons not directly employed by companies—such as agents and brokers and their office employees—were not included.

Although the participating companies hired 2,470 male graduates from the class of 1961, about one out of every six positions available went unfilled last year.

The survey showed that 31 per cent of the companies were unable to satisfy their needs for college graduates last year.

The companies were asked to rank in order of importance their most pressing needs for male college graduates.

In greatest demand, are claims adjusters, who investigate and settle claims.

Ranked second were underwriters, who evaluate the loss potentials of risks.

Following in order were positions in the sales, accounting, data processing, actuarial and engineering departments of companies. Actuaries analyze premiums, losses and expenses and advise company officials with respect to insurance rates. Engineers inspect the properties of insureds and suggest techniques for loss prevention.

The companies were asked to report on their methods of recruiting. A total of 42 per cent said they conducted campus interviews, 72 per cent used referrals from employees, 57 per cent used advertising, and 68 per cent used employment agencies. Most companies said they used all methods.

One-third of the companies said that they offered executive training programs to recruits who are college graduates. Full-time educational directors, according to the survey, are employed by 22 per cent of the reporting companies.

Rev. Daniel A. Shanahan, O.P.

Ill., subdeacon. The Rev. Matthew R. Scullion, O.P., Provincial Promoter of the Confraternity of the Holy Name for St. Albert's Province, will preach the sermon.

Born in New York City on June 15, 1934, Father Shanahan attended St. Elizabeth's Grammar School and Power Memorial Academy there. Upon graduation from the Academy in 1952, he entered Providence College.

In the fall of 1955 he entered the novitiate of the Dominican

Introductory Psychology Courses Fail to Explain Human Emotions

Palo Alto, Calif.—(IP)—Scoring present teaching of "introductory" psychology courses, Professor Joseph Katz of Stanford University's Institute for the study of Human Problems recently said "most of the students who elect an introductory course in psychology come to it with the desire to find out both about their own selves and those of other people."

"On the whole, teachers tend to disregard students' attitudes and rest content with some sort of conceptual grasp of the subject matter. The result, of course, often is that what is actually taught is either superficial or is removed from psychological reality. Very little attention is being given, at least in the curriculum, to the education of the emotions."

Friar Diamondmen Top Brown Opening '62 Baseball Season

During the Easter recess the Friar baseball forces began their season by winning one game and losing two.

Bill Canning once again pitched very well and gave up four hits and four runs as he went nine innings, in which he collected ten strikeouts, for the loss to bring his record to 1-2. After Canning breezed through four innings his control went stale in the fifth as he gave up four walks and two wild pitches for two runs without a hit in the inning. The Friars closed the gap to one run in the sixth as Captain Evans came across on a sacrifice fly by Ray Choiniere.

Then Bridgeport, held to one hit by Fireball Canning in seven innings picked up three hits and two runs as insurance tallies for a 4-1 win for Ed Finnigan. Ron Bonello went two for three while Barry Nicholas went four to lead the hitting.

Boston College wasted no time and jumped on Bill Canning for two runs in the first and second innings and then held off the Friars in winning,

4-3, on Tuesday, April 17, in Boston.

Billy Cunis, cleanup man for BC, gunned a 3-2 fast ball over the 340' sign in left with a man on base in the first while the Eagles put together three hits for two runs in the second for their four runs.

Fireball Canning settled down and shut out the powerful Eagles the rest of the way and added thirteen strikeouts to his collection and gave up nine hits with two bases on balls.

The Friar attack got rolling in the fourth as Captain Joe Evans lead off with a walk and scored on a two out double by Frank Canning. In the next inning the Friars loaded the bases on hits by Lamoriello, Trodden, and Bill Canning and Captain Evans brought two runs home with a single to the left.

After the Friars threatened in the sixth, Barry Nicholas reached third in the seventh with one out. Then Charlie Bunker, ace BC leftie, relieved starter Gerry Greely and put the fire out and the game out of PC's reach as he struck out five of the eight batters he faced.

In this same seventh inning, the Friars were victimized by two outstanding fielding plays by second baseman John Coyle who prevented pinch hitter Lou DeGeorge's single from going into centerfield and scoring the tying run and made an unbelievable robbery of a sure base hit by Frank Canning.

Opening day of the season on April 14 brought a small crowd to Hendricks Field as Brown's Lynn DiPaola and PC's Jim Hodgkins started off against each other on the hill. No sooner than they were warmed up when each squad got to the opposing pitcher for a run in the first inning.

In the Brown half of the first inning, sophomore Phil Kuczman opened with a long triple to left center and came home on an infield out to score the Bruins only run of the game.

The last of the first brought a repeat performance as Barry Nicholas opened with a triple down the left field line and came home after two were out on a clutch single by Ray Choiniere.

That's how the score stood on this cool, windy day until the last of the seventh inning when Providence tallied the winning run. First sack Al Izzl banged out a single and was sacrificed on a pretty bunt by Nick Mezzanotte. DiPaola walked Lou Lamoriello, Mike Trodden (playing center field) came up with a clutch single to score Izzl and go ahead 2-1.

Brown had men on base in every inning but couldn't come up with a key hit and left thirteen men on the base paths. Brown's Kuczman, recently injured and out for the season, went three for four with two doubles and a triple.

After Brown threatened in the fourth and put two men on in the fifth with one out Fireball Bill Canning relieved Hodgkins and retired the side on a popout and a strike out and picked up the win as he went the rest of the way and picked up eight strikeouts to Hodgkins' four while each walked four.

Freshman Nine to Initiate Slate Against Ramlets at Home Today

Providence College's freshman baseball team will open its schedule this afternoon at 2:30 when they meet the University of Rhode Island at Hendricks Field. The Friarlets were to have played Holy Cross in Worcester Monday but the game was postponed because of bad weather.

The freshmen began practicing April 5 when 50 candidates reported to Coach Vin Cuddy. The final cut was made April 16 with 17 players being named to the squad. There was no practice during the vacation but the team reported back Saturday, April 29.

Coach Cuddy is very pleased with what he has seen of the freshmen thus far. He said, "It's a good representative freshman team and it looks stronger overall than any team we've had here in the past two or three years."

The pitching staff is headed by Paul Kinski and Terry Lomax. Jon Choiniere and Jim Jones round out the staff. Kinski and Choiniere will play first base when they are not pitching. Matt Coyle will probably start at second base and will be backed up by Ed Sylvia.

Shortstop is a toss-up between Don Reuter and Dan Skeehan. Steve DiMattio will play third with Dick Joly in reserve. Fran Archambault, Bob Dion and Mike Jansen will patrol the outfield with Gil Ciunci in reserve. Jack Connolly will handle the catching chores.

Cuddy is especially high on Kinski, Lomax, Connolly and DiMattio.

Bob Bamberger, '61 Places in Marathon

Bob "Bambi" Bamberger, who graduated with the class of 1961, placed sixteenth in a field of 181 contestants in the Boston Athletic Association Marathon on April 19, Patriot's Day. The Marathon is a 26 mile, 385 yard race taking place between Hopkinton and Boston.

Bob, who is now teaching in North Hartford, Conn., runs for the North Bedford Club. Prior to the race, he was considered by the Boston Daily Record as a dark horse candidate for top honors on the basis of his showing in several meets prior to the Marathon.

Track Leaders Are Nominated

On Monday, April 9, the Providence College track squad elected its captains for next year.

Don Shanahan, a sophomore Political Science major from Waterbury, Conn., was selected to lead the cross-country squad. Don attended Sacred Heart High School in Waterbury. He was second or third man on the team this year, and should be the top-runner on the squad next year.

Leading the indoor track team will be juniors Bob D'Amato and Denny Kahrah. Bob, an education major, is a local product of La Salle Academy. He is mainly a sprinter. Denny is an English major from Jersey City. He attended St. Peter's Prep High School, and is a sprinter and quarter-miler.

Andy Sayko will head the outdoor track squad next year. He is a chemistry major hailing from Holy Trinity High School in New Jersey. Andy is also a quarter-miler.

The track teams have completed their schedules for the year and are looking forward to more impressive records next year under the leadership of their new captains.

The winner of the race was Oksanen from Finland. This marks the third time in four years that the Finnish runner has won the race.

The United States' representative John Kelley from Groton, Conn., placed fifth. The popular school teacher has entered the race many times and has represented the U. S. well each time.

Bamberger finished the meet in two hours, thirty-nine minutes and three seconds.

Wetzel Announces Senior Donations

According to Gerry Wetzel, co-chairman of the senior gift committee the following seniors have paid their donation to the class gift: Ronald Periera, Tony Lombardi, Joseph Herget, James Fogarty, Gene Lucini, James McEneaney, Peter Ferrigan, John O'Connor, Robert Sauer, Richard Wheeler, David Fitzgerald, E. Stolarz, William Riely, A. Pontarelli.

Wetzel urged all the seniors to donate to the class gift fund as soon as possible.

Nichols Leads Friar Batters

Senior third baseman Barry Nicholas is the leading batter among the regulars on the Providence College baseball teams thus far with a .308 batting average. Rightfielder Lou Lamoriello follows with a .300 mark.

First sacker Al Izzi makes a long stretch in retiring a Brown hitter in the Friar's 2-1 victory.

Pitcher Bill Canning fires to first baseman Al Izzi in an attempt to pick off a Brown baserunner who has strayed too far.

Catcher Ray Choiniere manages to dive back to first as the Bruin first baseman applies the tag too late.

Baseball Team to Continue On Its Demanding Schedule

Once again the Providence College baseball team will continue along its demanding schedule as they play four games in six days. Headlining the first of this four game series is the first of a home and away series with the University of Rhode Island down at Kingston this afternoon. This feature attraction will have the added significance of the mythical determination for the state intercollegiate baseball championship.

Senior left-hander Jim Hodgkins is slated to take the mound today against the Rams.

Thursday afternoon the Friars once again will be on the road to visit a scrappy American International College squad. On Saturday, May fifth, the home town Friar fans will get a chance to see them in action as they host visiting Seton Hall. Boston College will be the opponent on Monday.

Monday's return engagement with the BC Eagles who earlier took the measure of PC, 4-3, in a squeaker is one game everybody on the team would like to win. In fact, Coach Alex Nahigian said, "From now on every game is important," after the loss to Bridgeport.

Boston College, especially, has good pitching and solid long ball hitting. In the first game they banged out solid hits off fireballing Bill Canning.

Coach Nahigian may shake up his lineup when he sees who is hitting to put more punch in his attack.

Anniversary Mass To be Celebrated Mon.

On Monday May 7, a Mass will be celebrated for the late Harry A. Coates. This is the first anniversary Mass for Mr. Coates who coached the Providence College track teams for seven years until his death last year. Harry Coates was known as the dean of American track coaches and is a member of track Hall of Fame.

The Mass will be said in the auditorium of Harkins Hall during the 10:20 break.

PC Linksmen to Open Home Slate Tomorrow

The Providence College golf team, coached by Joe Prisco, will inaugurate its 1962 intercollegiate season tomorrow afternoon when the Friars oppose Lowell Tech Institute at Pawtucket Country Club.

PC was scheduled to meet Merrimack and New Bedford Tech in a tri-meet Monday at Metacomet Country Club but the match was postponed because of inclement weather conditions. The matches have been rescheduled for a later date.

Captain Ray Cute will lead this year's varsity squad into action. Ray's efforts will be supplemented by seniors Emmett O'Gara and Joe Albert along with junior Bill Lyons, all of whom are carry-overs from last year's squad.

In addition to Lyons, two other juniors will be getting a taste of intercollegiate golf competition. They are Al Dolan, a transfer who was ineligible last year, and Gene Holland.

Rounding out the roster of twelve are sophomores Don Hillman, Roland Allard, Matt Callaghan, John Crane, John Garvey and Bob Pallazzo.

Next week the PC golf campaign moves into full swing with three matches. Tuesday, May 8, the Friars face Brown University and the University of Rhode Island at Wannamoisett Country Club. Thursday, May 10, they will journey to Massachusetts' Wachusett Country Club to oppose Holy Cross and Boston College in another tri-match. The linksmen close out the week against Nichols College and Suffolk University at Nichols Friday, May 11.

P.C.A.A. Will Honor All Friar Athletes

The Providence College Athletic Department will hold its first annual college Varsity dinner on Tuesday, May 8. The dinner will be held at Raymond Hall and will begin at six-thirty. The dinner is intended to honor all members of this years Friar varsity teams. At this dinner the varsity athletes will be awarded letters for their achievements in the past year. There will also be given, at the dinner, a number of special awards.

This dinner is intended to replace the Mal Brown dinner which was held in the past to honor only senior athletes. It is now planned, however, to hold a varsity dinner each year to honor varsity athletes of all classes. This dinner has been an objective of the Athletic Department for years.

The Banquet will have one featured speaker the name of whom the Athletic Department is unable to reveal because he is not yet been positively committed. The dinner is open only to athletes on this years varsity teams, members of the administration and sports writers.
