1000 P.C. MEN MARCH IN HOLY NAME PARADE

College Delegation in Boston Parade

The leading Providence College group in Sunday's Holy Name Parade, as it marched down Beacon Street, Boston. Dan DiIuglio is carrying the College flag, and is flanked by John O'Barley on the left and Paul Matteson on right. Joseph Cassidy, with Providence Banner is directly behind. The Very Rev. T. S. McDermott, O.P., Provincial of St. Joseph's Priory, is in center of faculty line.

Veterans Face Delayed Payments Until November 1st

Payment of subsistence allowances accruing during the last ten days of September will be included with allowances for October subsistence to be mailed to veterans. Thereafter as possible, according to an announcement from the Boston Branch Office of the Veterans Administration.

Veterans who make frequent changes of job or school training at establishments before completing the course selected, will have to comply with more strict requirements for the issuance of supplemental certificates of eligibility and entitlement by the Veterans Administration in the future.

Effective immediately, a veteran who of his own volition interrupts his training at a time other than at the end of a term or semester, will not be issued a supplemental certificate of eligibility and entitlement until he establishes satisfactory evidence that his interruption resulted from good cause, i.e., illness, economic conditions, or other circumstances beyond his control, that the institution in which he was training is willing to reenroll him as a student or trainee.

Mr. Robert A. Affleck, representative from the training section can be consulted in room 103 on Fridays from nine-thirty to twelve-thirty.

Sowards Elect William Ealahan; Class Dance Three Weeks Off

Father Doyle and the Rev. George M. Robillard, O.P., strongly urged the sophomores to have an active interest in their class affairs, pointing out that the success of any class depends on the interest and support of its members.

Phi-Chi Society Greets Members

President Robert L. Martin, Secretary-Treasurer Arthur J. Hanlon and William J. Dutras, Jr., chairman of entertainment played last week as the Science Club welcomed new members into its exclusiveclave of chemistry and physics majors. Known more properly as Phi-Chi club, under the direction of the Rev. James W. Hackett, O.P. (pres), is dedicated to the furtherance of interest in science among its members.

For May Yearbook

The interim meeting of a riveting machine outside room 301 accompanied the Very Rev. George Q. Price, Provincial of St. Joseph's Priory, as he hammered away at his theme of law and order for Providence College students, who, prior to a turbulent session of the Pyramidal Players College dramatic society, went home. That argument was borne out when it was voted, after some tense of speculation, that the five-man board have full authority in selecting plays and naming committees. Members of the board, headed by John Fearley are Vincent Hughes, Howard Konan, Donald Shele and Paul Matteson.

Future action was postponed on the creation of a financial committee composed of students in Business Administration and the naming of a director for each play.

The summary of the results of the meeting fell to the Rev. Pierre M. Conroy, O.P., who asserted charitably, "We have just witnessed the subtle transference of power from the moderators to the membership."

Another week has passed into oblivion and with it went something about the "Rockites." Society Mikes William Curly and Francis Shanahan are doing the T.T.'s. Their tactic is simple, Arthur M., gets the date rowed and then the sit-down occurs. As soon as the pates arrive M. takes over and then the initiative is left to the Rockites. For a while Francis Shanahan thought he had found M. Griffin and his lovely wife were to be the beginning of an end. But all this did not stick. The next Jusstanee attenue Arthur Murrees (Double dips de wonders, Paul. Pete) Mr. M. is selected as M.C. on roost.

COLUMBUS

Will remember him as one who loved histories And the mystery of maps, as one who dared
To dream the dream that precedes the doing and the plan
That the dream precedes the doing and the plan

For our forefathers, homeless vessel squared
Straight into the unknown. We will remember
That the dream precedes the doing and the plan

Is but the waking dream. Adventurer

Or foul, poor blunderer or hero, still the man
Believed, and in believing paved the way

For all those who followed. Remember him as one
Who endured, almost beyond reason, till the day

Land rose like joy between his dreaming and the sun!

Picture Parade of National Holy Name Convention

1,000 P.C. Students March Thru Boston As 4,000,000 Spectators Look On

Also in the reviewing stand was the Rev. Harry C. Graham, O.P., from the class of '28, National Director of the Holy Name Society, and the Rev. John M. Nugent, O.P., director of the Holy Name Society in Chicago.

The Providence College group presented a striking picture once the parade got under way. The group was headed by standard bearers followed by the faculty and then three sections divided into the various classes. Faculty moderators also marched at the head of each section.

The Reverend Charles H. McKenna, chaplain, and director of the College delegation, praised the group highly for its excellent showing and deportment. "The turnout," he said, "was indeed gratifying and reflected great credit on Providence College.

The College Holy Name men assembled on Francis Street, Sunday noon, where they met with the delegates from the St. Pius and St. Raymond's parishes. They marched together up to the special train which left the Union Station at one-forty. The College group was divided into sections according to class status. The march to the entering point, Beacon Street, was hardly any waiting involved. The college delegation praised the group highly for its excellent showing and deportment. The Providence College Faculty also participated in the Holy Hour services held at Braves Field Friday night which featured an address by Archbishop Cushing.

The Very Reverend William J. Slavin, O.P., was in the sanctuary during the devotions. Members of the Senior class also took part in the morning and blessing of colors prior to the Holy Hour.

The Holy Name Parade is over; but I doubt very much whether it will ever be forgotten. It was a grand show from beginning to end (at least what I saw of it—which wasn't too much).

When the chaplain first started his drive for delegates the response was good, but as the week drew to a close, the parade was but twenty-four hours away, more names started to flow into his office. Then it became a success.

The meeting place at Francis Street took on the appearance of a "rookie" station. All the delegates were given arm bands and issued Holy Name pennants. Father McKenna, Father Quick, and Larry Drew were the supply servants.

But don't forget there was plenty of ex-army brass floating around this impromptu staging area. Father (Major) Doyle was really having a Kapokking good time whipping the boys into line. While Father (Commander) Shea was just taking it all in—probably saying, "Huh—those Army guys."

Once the special train got under way, and I might add that it was special in more ways than one, the ladies settled down to do a little quiet talking. But in no time at all Back Bay was reached and the troops started to file out.

It was a beautiful day in Boston. There was a slight offshore breeze and the sun was giving it warmest rays. It was an Indian summer day right to the core.

This whole affair was carried out with such precision that there was hardly any waiting involved. The college group was divided into sections according to class status. The march to the entering point, Boston Road, was a pleasant preview of what to expect from the 4,000,000 spectators who lined the main route of march.

There was, though, a brief wait on Dartmouth Avenue prior to entering the parade. Everybody that had 'em, smoked. Those that didn't, did the next best thing—at ice cream. Fathers Fanning, Zviribilis, Begley, Doyle, Clark, Dillon, and Riley, who were leading the class groups, also took time out to chat.

The internal crises which have aff- ected Germany and the Balkans have made their way into the rest of the world. However, there seems to be no great cause for alarm in the community. Certain leaders feel that the situation is a good test for their people's patience. The militarists point to the situation as an indication that the other appeasements are needed for the armed services; the industrialists remember their less- son of a few years back—that war makes money; the editors don't care what happens as long as its news and the educators are too busy convincing student veterans of the foolishness of the last war to be bothered with the present crisis.

Yet, for every outlook there seems to be a comforting voice. For those who areard at the high cost of living there are economists who state that this is inevitable and was expected—that, if treated with "com- munist" spending the cost will de- cline. However, the man on the street who talks about being a comforting voice. For those who are fearful of war there are the many commentators who proclaim that the world is tired of that gloom of killing and conquering that medi- tation and arbitration are the modern instruments it uses—all made by Strad- ivarius and once owned by the fa- mous Dr. Tobias Hsu.

Cannon, O.P., has resumed rehearsals in preparation for the coming year.

Father Cannon extends an invitation to all students interested in singing to attend the rehearsals held in the lounge at Aquinas Hall Tues- day and Thursday evenings at 7 P.M.

The Glee Club is one of Providence College's most successful student activ- ities. Last year they were honored with an invitation to sing with the Rhode Island Symphony Orchestra at the Rhode Island Auditorium and were very favorably received by the critics.

During the cocktail party fol- lowing the show in the Penguin Room they also provided the main enter- tainment. They then climaxd a suc- cessful year by presenting a half hour program over radio station WARJ, Sunday, May 4th.

The Carolin Group Club Plans for Freshman Smoker

The Carolin Club of Aquinas Hall, which embraces all the resident stu- dents, will officially welcome the Freshmen at a smoker and amateur show in the Penguin Room tonight. This will be a general meeting.

It was also planned by the social committee to hold weekly record dances in the Penguin Room, New Athletic and Social commit- tees will also be formed in the near future.

The Carolin Club was founded in 1954 by the Rev. Leo Carolan, O.P. At that time it was known as the Campus Club. But when this emergen- cy young man died in 1938, the same name was changed to its present title in memory of the man who did so much to organize the social activities of the resident students.

TO ALL STUDENTS WHO MARCHED IN THE HOLY NAME PARADE

Gentlemen:

Merey to say thank you may seem cold and inexpressive, but no words, no matter how meaningful or picturesque, can adequately de- pict the gratitude of Father Steve and the entire faculty of the Col- lege for the splendid cooperation and loyalty we received from you, the students. The large number of students in the parade, the excellent decorum of everyone not only deserve commendation but superlative encomium. Such a demonstration is bound to enhance the reputation and prestige of the College.

It is recognized, too, that many who marched did so at consider- able sacrifice. This makes the College students all the more indebted to you, but sacrifice, in its turn, serves to intensify loyalty and to deepen affection.

Providence College is proud of her student body. Providence Col- lege is grateful to you for having taken part in the Holy Name Parade. It was a real demonstration of faith in God; it was a public expres- sion of your loyalty to the Fathers of the College and to the whole

The Providence College Glee Club under the direction of Leo S. Cannon, O.P., has resumed rehearsals to all students who are interested in participating in this year's chorus. The Glee Club will officially welcome the resident students, for which se- ries tickets will be sold at $2.00, in- cluding tax. Once these tickets are sold, however, the ordinary rate will prevail. The orchestra series rate is $6.50, including tax.

MUSICAL QUARTETS

TICKETS FOR THE CHAMBER MUSIC SE- ries of four concerts, sponsored by the Rhode Island School of Design Museum, will be on sale October 9 through October 27.

The dates of the concerts are as follows: the GRILLER QUARTET on October 14; the BUDAPEST QUAR- TER on December 5; the PASCAL QUAR- TET on January 30; and the PAGANINI QUARTET on February 27. All concerts will be held in the Penguin Room at 8:30 o'clock in Rhode Island School of Design Auditorium.

Two of the four quartets to play this season—the Pascal and the Paganini—came to this country for the first time last year and were received with overwhelming enthusiasm by both critics and public. The Pascal String Quartet, which is the official quartet of the French National Radio, have been heard only in New York and Montreal, and are making their first (transcontinental) tour in the Spring of 1949. The Paganini Quartet made their world debut at the Univer- sity of California in 1946 in a series of four concerts at which hun- dreds of people had to be turned away for lack of space. The ensemble takes its name from the four unique instruments it owns—all made by Mir- divarius and once owned by the fa- mous Dr. Tobias Hsu.

The Grillier Quartet, returning to this country last year for the first time since the war, was acclaimed in New York "one of the great moments of this musical season." Known officially as "its foremost chamber- ensemble" and "the official quartet of the RAF." In this ca-

FRIARS ON BOSTON ARENA CARD; DREW PLANS EARLY WORKOUTS

By Dave Connors, Jr.

There are just seven or eight days left until Christmas, but exactly fifty-nine days from now, the basketball legions of Larry Drew will dash onto the hardwood, not in a charitable mood, but rather seeking the scalp of Assumption College, in the first contest of an attractive twenty-game schedule.

Highlighting the twenty-game schedule, released by the Reverend Alfred L. Reddy, O.P., athletic director of Providence College, are games listed with the Rumbling Rams of Rhode Island State, the Eagles of Providence College, minus Sam Breadon, and Brown University and Springfield.

Bill Bresnahan, definitely the Mr. Big of the opponents will be met on a home and home basis. The Friars will be the host in the first game with the Rams, followed by the Friar clash here in Providence. Last January these two arch rivals glided before a jam-packed audience of well over six thousand spectators, while another thousand requests for tickets were turned down. Both games with the Rams will be held in the Providence Civic Gym, which is the Lair of the Bears.

One of the big games on the calendar will take place in the Arena, where the Friars will face the St. Anselm's Hawks in one of a doubleheader. Columbia and Harvard, two Ivy League rivals, will tip off on the other end of that double bill.

Two new foes, Iona and Assumption College, appear on the Friar schedule this year, and one, the Coast Guard Academy, is returning after a one year lapse. Eight games will be played at home, while the other games will be played on the road. One game at brown, will be played on foreign soil.

Simultaneously with the rehearsing of the schedule, Coach Larry Drew is putting together the basal framework of the squads for both Varsity and Freshman ball clubs. Actual workouts will begin October 15th for Varsity candidates and the Freshman will report a week later on the 22nd. The first deviated event will be the annual Thanksgiving game, with the final working out begins, the Varsity squad will work down to approximately fifteen men if Drew follows along the same plan he has been following in previous years. A similar program will be carried on the Freshman squad will you see; if you are waiting for Larry Drew to have a good look at the incoming Frosh.

Good Night

The Friars have a good nucleus returning next year, and they are all expected to answer the call of the Soon to be St. Bresnahan. Drew's squad is expected to make a mark in the Big East Conference this season. A number of key players return, and with the addition of the two contests at Assumption, the Friars will have a good nucleus of experience to work with.

Science Building Partially In Use
By Next Semester
Will Relieve Congestion In Harkins Hall

Part of the new science building, now under construction, is expected to be occupied by February, according to an announcement by the Rev. Frederick C. Hickey, O.P., Ph.D. Its construction will not only provide adequate laboratory facilities for the Science Department but will relieve the existing congestion on the classrooms of Harkins Hall.

The general plan of the building follows the biological laboratories in the left wing, the Chemistry laboratories on the right, and the Physics laboratories in the center on the second and third floors. The Biology wing will provide spacious laboratories for General Biology, Comparative Anatomy and Embryology.

The Chemistry wing has a large inorganic laboratory on the ground floor, connected directly with the general chemistry stock room. The third floor will extend over only the central part of the building and will accommodate the laboratories of General Physics, Electricity and Magnetism, Light and Modern Physics, and two Electrical laboratories as well as private research laboratories and departmental offices.

Thus all science activities, lectures and experimental work will be centered in the new building.

Hartford Club Outlines Plans

The Hartford Club will represent Providence College at a semi-final dance arranged by the Chapter Committee of the Catholic Chapter of America, during the Thanksgiving holidays.

William Galligan, newly elected president of the club, also stated that the "get healthy quick gift", would be sent to Charlie Hefren, '50, who is recovering from an illness of the Gaylords Farm in Wallingford, Connecticut.

The other officers elected besides Mr. Galligan at their initial meeting were; vice president, Gerald McGarek, secretary, Thomas Grady, treasurer, James Coughlin.

(Continued from Page 5) manager would have won with that team. That is not a rash statement. Think back if you will and tell me how many other managers have failed to win a pennant managing under Rickey since he first became General Manager of the St. Louis Cardinals a year ago. And don’t forget those Cardinal teams that Billy Southworth and Eddie Dyer made their names with. There is only one who has gone on to win pennants under Rickey, I can think of only one who has gone on and ever won a pennant with any other major league team. That was Bill McKechnie who led Cincinnati to six pennants in one season. Until a better man comes along I’ll take Branch Rickey as the smartest in the game.

Upon his release from the service, Ford returned to the Providence Campus last fall. He was a member of the Friars 1946-47 squad, which won eight and lost eleven. All of the upperclassman will remember Ford’s fine playing of last year. He was an excellent backboard man, as well as a threatening scorer.

Friars Away—

Enters Service

Following his sophomore year, Ford was inducted into the Army. He served for three and one-half years, and saw duty in the European theatre. Before going overseas, he played basketball for a Virginia Camp quintet. Upon his return, he will compile a better record than did the high points of this season will be the games against Rhode Island State, Brown and Boston College.

When asked what his biggest sports thrill was, while playing for Providence College, Ford chose the game in which the Friar squad scored an upset win over Yale at New Haven. This game definitely stamped Providence as one of the leading teams in New England that season. However, Ford claimed it would be an even bigger thrill if P. C. could upset Rhode Island State this year. Then, Ford went on to say that he feels this squad is capable of doing just that.
