Students Urged To Sell More Tickets

The Christmas holidays offer an op- portunity to sell the tickets for the drawing to be held in February to gain funds for the groats and the gymn- astrium which is planned. Father Mc- Kenna requests that the students be on- alert to secure prices for this draw- ing, particularly since the prices are higher than usual. Mr. he is asked to do so since it will be a means of helping to sell the tickets and of advertising the Penny Sales.

Waterbury Club To Hold Dinner-Dance

A large turn-out is expected when the Waterbury Club of Providence College holds its second annual dinner dance at the Copper Kettle in Water- bury. Members, December 20, Frances Slo- Dino and his six-piece band will pro- vide the music for the affair.

President John Geary of the club announced that tickets have been sent to the alumni dwelling in the Nauga- set Valley and informing them of the event. The purpose of the dance is not only to entertain but also to give the alumni an opportunity to meet the alumni, thus promoting a closer bond of friendship between the two groups.

Co-chairmen for the dance are Roger Jackson, President of the Dormitory, and John Barrett, President of the Dormitory. They will have the assistance of the following members of the club: Charles Cronin, 19, and John Mc- Donald, 19, and John Mc- Donald, 19.

Last year the Waterbury Club held a full sell-out of this nature on the Silver Chant in Waterbury and they plan to duplicate the joviality of the affair this year.

According to President Geary, this is the best turn-out for a full sell-out of a dance in the history of the club.

Blessed Jane Topic For Tertitary Talk

The Third Order of Providence Col- lege held its monthly meeting Sunday, December 11, at Aquinas Hall chapel. After the Rosary was sung, the Rev. John C. Rubio, O.P., gave a talk on Blessed Jane, and after the talk, the members voted to contrib- ute, as a group, to the O.S.P. fund the amount of the donation to be de- termined after dance profits have been realized.

The Rev. Joseph M. Storer, O.P., moderator, addressed the club briefly, and encouraged them to continue their policy of meeting in various sections of the State. He said that his cause was lost, that his efforts were fruitless, and that his cause was lost. He decided to continue his campaign in the business section of the city. He first entered a grocery store.

He was surprised when the grocer

Poverty, humility and suffering—who wants to hear about these things at this joyful time of the year? Are there not happier things to talk about this holiday season when all the world is celebrating? But what is the world celebrating if not the fact that One Who made the riches of the earth became poor, One before Whose kingly throne legions of angels are prostrate, humbled Himself, suffered and died, that by Divine Grace, thus it is that poverty, humility and suffering become marks of a true Christian and true follower of Christ. Money, power and ambition are essential to success in the eyes of the world. In the eyes of Christ, they become hindrances to our salvation. Pride is a source of sin that keeps us from God and that is why we need to be humble, for Christ Himself has told us that “unless you become as little children you cannot enter into the Kingdom of God.” In order to escape suffering, some seek unbridled pursuit of comfort and amusement. You know the words of Christ: “If any man will be my disciple, let him take up his cross and follow Me.”

My message to you at this time is very simple. Be generous with Christ, enjoy the good things of life. Be leaven, and at the right moment to engage in the work of the great Cause. A message in the news, a more critical selection of stories, and a wider coverage of school affairs, a better balance of sensational news stories, witty features or untried jokes. What we're looking for under our tree this Christmas is grade A material for the staff of the COWL. We're writing to you because you manage without our consent but we will not be saved without our being moved by Divine Grace. Thus, it is that poverty, humility and suffering become marks of a true Christian and true follower of Christ. Money, power and ambition are essential to success in the eyes of the world. The only thing in the whole world that really matters is your answer to the question—is there room in the inn of my heart for Christ? If not, then we are celebrating when we should be grieving. Our joy is not sincere but only put on. It is only when we put on Christ and love Him with our whole hearts and with whole strength and with all our power that we have reason to celebrate Christmas. May the Saviour and Redeemer of the human race bring to you and your loved ones at home the joy, and happiness of a true Christmas.

ROBERT J. SLAVIN, O.P.

LETTER TO SANTA CLAUS

Dear Santa Claus,

We on the COWL want something special for a Christmas present this year. We’re writing to you the other hope that somewhere down in your bag of presents you can find that something special for us. What we’re looking for under our tree this Christmas is grade A material that the COWL, frankly, is experienced men for its staff. If you could leave us some former editors of high school newspapers, former newswriters, former columnists and former cartoonists, why, you’d be helping to make this a really, worthwhile Christmas for the COWL and its staff.

If you could grant only one wish, Santa, you’d be helping to bring about a better paper for the College. If our present staff were expanded by the addition of experienced writers, there would naturally result a wider coverage of school affairs, a better balance in the news, a more critical selection of stories, and a general improvement in the paper.

There you have it, Santa, that’s what we want for Christmas for the COWL. We realize that this letter is only one among millions that you will receive before Dec. 25. We know, of course, that you must cover the entire world in an attempt to satisfy the desires of millions. But if it is at all possible, Santa, send us some experienced writers, please. In hopeful anticipation of your answer.

COWL EDITORS.

THE NEW YEAR

We, of the COWL, take this opportunity to extend our season’s greetings to the students and faculty of Providence College and the Providence College Auxiliary.

During the Christmas season the doors of the patriarchal basilicas will open wide, signifying the start of a New Year, a Holy Year. Faced by a world of stormy violence between the forces of good and evil, our Holy Father has maintained and expressed the optimism that the New Year would “bring peace to mankind.”

That is why we, of the COWL, presume to wish each and all, peacemist or optimist, a Merry Christmas and a prosperous, Holy New Year.

Party, Meeting Held By Blackstone Club

The Blackstone Valley Club held a special party-meeting last Friday night at the Irish-American Hall in Pawtucket.

A prayer, led by John Egan, '50, President of the club, opened the meeting. President Egan then called upon Tom Holleran, 32, chairman of the Harvest Hop held in November by the club. Tom, in his report, stated that the dance was very successful and thanked all who helped in making the dance a success. Treasurer John Grimes, '52, then gave his report in which he urged that members who have not paid their dues should contact him. Dues must be paid if active membership in the club is to be maintained.

During a business discussion following the treasurer's report, it was agreed to hold a dance in January following the end of the mid-year exams.

The committee members chosen for the dance are: Chairman, Tom McDonald, '36, Patrick McGreevy, '36, Edward French, '31, and William McMahon, '32.

A motion was made and passed unanimously to donate $3.00 to the O.S.P. A second O.S.P. donation is planned from the proceeds of the coming January dance.

A card tournament followed the business meeting with Robert Hines, '36, conducting the affair. The tournament of Rally & McMan, after eliminating Rogers & Miga in the semi-final round, fell victim to the winning combination of Pollet & Galin. Money prizes were awarded the winners and runners up.

The club extends a special vote of thanks and appreciation to Frank McCabe, '50, who hired the hall and had charge of the refreshments.

"Half the legislature are crooked," ran a glaring headline. A retraction in full was demanded of the editor.

When the Providence College Friars basketball forces roll on to the Auditorium playing surface tomorrow night they will be in quest of their first victory over Rhode Island College since the 1939-40 season when they won in the 1941-42 campaign. Since that time twelve games have gone by and each time the Friars will be the home team of R. I. State who have walked off the floor with all the marbles, as the saying goes.

If you are looking for good or bad omens, Rhode Island State will be seeking their 13th straight triumph over Providence. There are many who sooner or later view these contests as a battle of wits. This could be a good one for P. C. and enthusiasts of the game as well as the fans of the players involved will be in a real denouement that it makes much difference to the players.

Now if you were to try to figure this game, in the final analysis it will be the players on the floor who will decide the final outcome. State, despite its two defeats, still has a very formidable crew. P. C. despite its three victories has not displayed the brand of basketball that it is capable of playing. If both teams are on tomorrow night, this game could turn out to be one of the best in the long series.

If there was any inspirational edge at all, I would be inclined to give it to P. C. The Friars are the underdogs, they are hungry for a victory, and more important than all are the undefeated. For the first time in good, long while the Friars will be at the start and know that they boast the best record as far as victories and defeats are concerned. State will be trying to put a blimp on the Friar record. Usually it is the other was around.

State boasts two outstanding men in the persons of Ronzoni, a big man from Long Branch. Ronzoni and Bruce Blount, the Co-Captains are outstanding. Ronzoni is the scoring threat of the Rams while Golembiewski is the leader of the Rhodie bench. Whatever games are won and lost P. C. does not depend upon any one man to carry the load. The best P. C. beat off the boards is Frank Pelligrino who for his size does more than any one man to carry the load. Pelligrino is a magnificent job. Both Golembiewski and Blount are bigger and heavier than Pelligrino. If the P. C. Junior can play basketball that it is capable of playing, this could be a good omen for the Friar support. They are at it again this year at the Dominican institution. Once more the prevalent idea is that the year P. C. will down State. The funniest thing of all is that the Friar supporters are holding up their unbeaten record as evidence of the fact that Providence is stronger than State.

Let us analyze this great unbeat- ened record. P. C. has actually met and barely defeated three of the greatest college teams in New England. Anyone who can get stated over defeating Assumption by 9 points, Fairfield by 1 point, and Marianapolis by 1 point has certainly very easily pleased. To top it off, Prov- ince took a State of New Jersey in squeezing out victories in these games. No one in the state can work against that kind of opposition I hesitate to imagine how they will look against State. Providence is a legitimate college team they face.

Also being held up as evidence that State is in for a licking is the fact that they have already dropped two games to the losing teams. It must be considered that they lost to two of the strongest teams in this section of the country. The Rhode Island College squad that downed Rhode Island last week and that was defeated by Holy Cross in New England, and thus far they have lived up to their name. Losing to St. John's in the Garden last Saturday was hardly we can consider a black mark against any team. St. John's is supposedly the class of the city of New York and one can work against that on a par with any team in the nation.

Let us not forget that State knocked off strong St. Joseph's of Philadelphia, another in the question of height. State will be with the Providence College College to a victory until he immediately, in order that they get in the elaborate plans which have preceded by a preliminary contest between the freshmen squads of these teams. This game, which is the 18th meeting between the two rivals, promises to be a thriller as no other meeting of these two teams through the years. Actually from the standpoint of the men, it is far from sure that State will win. This game is by far the most important single contest on the P. C. athletic calendar. On the outcome of this contest hinges a large measure of the success or failure of each individual season for the Friars.

P.C. Freshman Team Nips Marianapolis

By John Salesses

Bob Prendergast's field goal in the closing seconds of the game provided the Freshmen team with the margin of victory, 54-53, over Marianapolis at the Mount Pleasant gym last Wednesday night.

A capacity crowd watched the Freshman scrounging for points in the closing minutes of the highly exciting game. With three minutes remaining in the contest the score 50-44 in favor of Marianapolis. Prendergast, Kirby and Sao Bento were instrumental in whitling the score to 51-50. An exchange of foul shots high-lighted by two points from Powers left the score at 52-50 with 45 seconds to go. Then came Prendergast's winning field goal followed by a successful charity toss by Marianapolis.

After the lead exchanged several times in the first half, Marianapolis led by Dyer and Cor- tney went into the second half. Marianapolis led by Dyer and Cortney went into the second half. Marianapolis went ahead by 1 point, Marianapolis went ahead by 1 point, and Marianapolis by 1 point. When playing a team of State's caliber, one can work against that kind of opposition I hesitate to imagine how they will look against State. Providence is a legitimate college team they face.

As far as the Providence College Backcourt is concerned, Co-Capt. Bruce Blount, Art Weinstock, Ray Garcia, Sam Nissel have been in a low class minor league.

Tonight at 8:00 in Memorial Auditorium, the Providence College intramural basketball season comes to an end. PC invaded the court to fulfill their post-season play. Of course, the Friars are the team to beat and the Friars are sure to beat them, but the Friars are not the only team to watch. The Rams and the Blue and White are also strong teams, and they are sure to give a good fight.

The Rams have a strong team with a lot of experience. They have played well in the regular season and are sure to do well in the post-season play. The Blue and White, on the other hand, are a young team with a lot of potential. They have been growing strong throughout the season and are sure to make a strong show in the post-season play.

The PCs, on the other hand, have a lot of experience and are sure to do well in the post-season play. They have won many games in the regular season and are sure to do well in the post-season play.

Francis P. Haye, National Director of the Overseas Service Program, announced at a luncheon at the Pfister Hotel on Tuesday, November 28, that the opening of the newspaper contest sponsored by the Overseas Service Program and the National Federation of Catholic College Students, the purpose of this contest is to keep the Catholic college students of the United States well informed about the activities of the Overseas Service Program and to provide a means by which the students may be encouraged to keep the work of the Overseas Service Program in the public mind. The contest will be conducted according to enrollment for awards. Three divisions of Catholic colleges and universities have been established according to enrollment, the first division consists of those enrollments from one to 750, the second division from 750 to 2500; the third from 2500 up.

Dear Sirs:

I learned in Psychology (Philosophy 280) that you may know a thing or two about psychology and I was surprised when the grocer put his hand into his pocket as if to take out some money. He was surprised when the grocer drew from his pocket a piece of paper and said: "Now how would you like to win a cowboysuit?" All you have to do is to buy a case of delicious Crunchy-wunchies and finish this statement. I like Crum...

The salesman walked out of the store while the grocer was extolling the virtues of Crunchy-wunchies.

He was about to concude defeat when he spied the sign of his father's best friend. Now, he thought, would be the time. He stepped briskly into the store and immediately ran through his most forceful routine. When he had finished the oration the proprietor said: "You're a little too late. I had finished the oration and the grocer had bought a case of Crunchy-wunchies and said: "Now how would you like to win a cowboysuit?"

Dear Sirs:

When the grocer was extolling the virtues of Crunchy-wunchies, a number of alumni have called his name. "Leonard. I'm so glad to see you. My friends have been telling me about all the wonderful things that you have done. How many can you get me?"
