Fr. Clark's Jokes Not Reason For Mob at "One stop Shop"

If you see a student bent over a mysterious-looking object in a conspicuous spot on the bookshop counter, place a mysterious pencil-like rod into the object, press a button and emerge with a sharp point on the pencil-like rod, don't get scared. He isn't preparing a poison dart to use on a professor or student who has fallen into his disfavor. The pencil-like rod is a pencil and the mysterious-looking object on the counter is the Bookshop's new electric pencil sharpening machine.

The Age of Electricity has come at last to the Providence College Bookshop. The electric pencil-sharpening machine is just the latest in a series of steps signed to make the Bookshop a dispenser of everything the college student needs to know about. Among the items the Bookshop is ready to offer are:

Reporter's Cousin Proves
Motor Dangers On Open Road

By F. L. McPEAKE, '50

I had heard that my cousin was reckless, especially when driving. A car was a toy to him and mugging was game. He always in a hurry and he was always using corners on the Motor Vehicle Manual.

On the road, he was the type of guy who used a nervous gas pedal. Always in a great rush, he usually sat hunched over the wheel with a big, fat cigar in one corner of his mouth. He was continually trying to figure how high he could jump over the back of the pack. If you followed his anxious path down a crowded highway, if you caught up to him, that is, you would find yourself plotting a zigzag line from one lane to another. When he saw a green light one hundred feet or more ahead, he would clench his cigar between his teeth, screw up his eyes, set his jaw and then, "step on the gas." "Here I come, ready or not." he would mutter hoarsely.

Gas. "Our ages are 27 and 25. We have an awe-inspiring faith in St. Christopher. I can't understand this contradiction. Please teach me the reason." Two Vietnamese (former Indochina) R.C. priests studying literature at the Toulouse University write: "Our ages are 27 and 25. We have spent 6 years in Italy, 3 years in France, 5 months in Great Britain, 1 month in Switzerland, 1 month in Belgium. We put our little experience at your service, if we are of some utility. If you want other details concerning us, we shall be pleased to give you. We speak English, French, Italian. We understand German but cannot speak it."
The Providence College Friars opened their home baseball season on a successful manner, trumping the visiting Vikings 9-5 in Heekin Field last Thursday. This was the first win of the young campaign for the Martins, who were averaging a previous defeat inflicted by the team from East Orange, New Jersey. The game with M.I.T. postponed on both Saturday and Monday, has been permanently cancelled.

Lefty Higgins turned in the best game of his career as he went the route, limiting the invaders to five hits. Though inclined to be a hit wild, Frank's curve was breaking very sharply and he consistently fooled the opposing batters with his change - up pitches. An excellent indication of the extent to which the Martins' hitting has improved is the fact that there are only three single to right and Maloney came away with a total of but six hits from the center fielders during the whole nine innings.

The deciding run was scored in the seventh inning by Donald, who had worked a walk and a wild pitch before he was tagged out at the plate. The Friars had already piled up two runs against the Brown aggregation that has shown itself to be the best tilt in the dorm league. It was between last year's Brown winning aggregation and this new aggregation that has shown itself to be the best of the bunch this season. The scheduled battery for the Friars' game was Gallagher and Maloney while Quinn did a nice job of running the team from behind the plate.

As far as batting and catching is concerned, Coach Larry Drew is quite satisfied. Gallagher has exceptional control and a wide variety of curves. Maloney's fast ball is very impressive and on Sunday he caught the Varsity Men looking in many occasions. Quinn has also contributed his share, his hitting is a fine as ever, demonstrating a good arm plus "know how".

To date the big weakness has been hitting but the boys are beginning to get on the case and it should only be a matter of a few days more of practice before they are up to par.

The plaque won by the relay team at Seton Hall is now being exhibited on the official bulletin board.
