Mrs. Paolino is Junior Prom Queen

Over three hundred couples filled the main ballroom of the Sharatone Inn, as they danced to the music of Charlie Spivak and his orchestra at the Providence College Junior Prom last Friday.

Highlight of the affair was the crowning of a Prom Queen. The Very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O.P., presented the tiara and gold loving cup, emblem of her sovereignty to Miss Joseph Paolino, choice of the assembled dancers.

The entireotel was given over to the merrymakers, who thronged its corridors, corridors, and roucing. This chairman stated that in their opinion no more successful social event has ever been sponsored by the school and that it marked a fitting climax to the social calendar.

After the coronation of the queen, Mrs. and Robert Connelly, president of the Sophomore class, led the grand march. Also participating in the march were the other class officers, members of the Junior Prom committee, and the rest of the prom-goers.

Highlight of the dancing, which lasted from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m., was the trumpet playing of Spivak. Noted throughout the country for his style, he was supported by vocals from Pat Colleen and Bill Black. Also featured in the ensemble were Bobby Richy and Bobby Yamaguchi.

A unique system of picking the queen was employed. Every twenths man to enter the hall was presented with a red ribbon which he was to pin on the girl he thought should be crowned. After this group Charlie Spivak selected the eventual winner. The system is considered the best of all those employed throughout the years.

Tickets On Sale For Spring Frolic

Only sixteen shopping days left—no, not for Christmas, but for the Spring Frolic on May 12, in Harmon Auditorium.

All the committees have been formed. Publicity has designed posters which will be distributed throughout the campus. The decoration committee is forming the final plans. Members of the group will give no indication as to the art scheme. It was hinted that it would follow a spring motif.

Tickets for the affair went on sale this week at the rotunda ticket booth. The price has been set at $2.50 per ticket, with a reasonable price for such an evening's entertainment. It is also suggested that students who plan to attend the affair procure their ducats promptly, in order to avoid oversales' prices later.

As her husband looks on, Mrs. Joseph Paolino, Queen of the Junior Prom, is presented a gold loving cup by the Very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O.P., president. Mrs. Paolino, before her marriage last March 26, was Beatrice Y. DePaquale, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Luigi DePa- quale.

Cowl Receives First Class Honor Rating

Notification that the Cowl was awarded a First Class Honor Rating for the first semester by the Associated Collegiate Press forty-fourth All-American Honor Rating Committee was received by the Rev. Paul M. James, O.P., Cowl's moderator. This is the second consecutive First Class Honor Rating that the Cowl has received. The first one was for the 1949-50 Cowl.

Over three hundred college news papers throughout the country are members of the ACP which provides a thorough criticism by competent newspaper critics. All-American, First, Second, Third and Honorable Mention ratings are given on the basis of this criticism. The honor rating, according to the ACP, was determined after all the papers in the group (categorized according to size of circulation and配备 of publication) were given the highest point possible in according to the ACP.

6 Delegates Seek Other Posts Thurs.

At the assemblies held yesterday eight men presented themselves as candidates for the officer positions on the 1951-52 Student Congress. Elections will be held on Thursday from 10:30 a.m.

Those running for the office of president of the Student Congress are Robert D. Blevins, M. J. DeStefano, Joseph Michael McMahen, for vice-president, Walter Faulkner and William McManus for secretary, Robert J. Slavin, O.P., for treasurer, S. L. Jackson, for warwick, is a graduate of Gorton High and is majoring in the Social Sciences.

McMahon, a graduate of St. Raymond's College, is a member of the Junior Prom executive committee. As a member of the Junior Prom committee, McMahon organized the prom. Faulkner, a Wandesian, Connecticut, resident, is a member of the Student Congress executive committee and majoring in Social Science.

Buckley, a native of Medford, Massachusetts, is a graduate of Malden Catholic High. He is a art corps and a member of the Barristers, Pyramids of the O'Neill, a native of Providence, is a student at City College of New York and a member of the Student Congress executive committee. O'Neill is secretary of the sophomore class.

The result of this ever-decreasing spiral is an all-too-rapid growth of vicious politics involving preformers for choice position on the campus, favoritism in appointing committees, and the general running of student government on a basis of friendship and not of merit.

Examples are evident to all. The Junior Prom Committee consisted, with a few exceptions, of do-nothings who were paid off for political support by its peculiar rewards. The few men who did any work were overshadowed by headline-seeking mediocrities.

Underclass officers, sponsored as they are by a small campus clique, are continually re-elected, despite the fact that they do nothing for their classes. The sum total of their year's activities is a dance.

The elections for the Student Congress, most important campus post, are also part of this political merry-go-round. This year a slate of stags was run under the delusion that if it were elected they would not oppose the presidential aspirations of their leader, the eventual candidates for Congress office are persuaded not to run by the pressure of the organizing committee.

These examples can be duplicated in almost every campus organization. Small cliques, handing down their power from year to year, exclude the man who has no connections, with the result that his spirit to participate in extra-curricular activities is lost to the college.

Something must be done. The solution lies not with the Cowl nor with any of the groups, but with the Small Man on the Campus. We leave it up to him. But with the Small Man on the Campus.
The Republican party has finally decided the leaders which it will stand or fall in '52. General MacArthur has put the complete control in the hands of his military chiefs, and we cannot even expect a defense for one with all the sacrifices this en- thusiasm represents. The President can side with the policies of Pres- ident Truman who would have no con- cerns in our European war, while using only the diplomatic war in the Far East.

It is truly unfortunate that Ben- net has left last week. He was the one great and forefathers voice in G.O.P. councils which advocated random foreign policy. In Eng- land both parties are successfully co- operating on important national issues. We have precedent before us. But with the passing of Vandenberg there is only one word to describe the F.D.R. Whitey, blacks, advocates of op- pression.

If this group of "examinists" were certain of what they wanted to do and just how to do it, it would not be a pity that there are none to do it for them. But their actions are not those of state- men but of more obstructionists. On the contrary, they are strong on foreign policy, but on the other they try toseek their interests, which would enable us to carry out such a program, at the same time, where there is one, was.

An intelligent review of our for- eign policy offers no basis for actual application to the problems of our time. It gives us that we are in present stem from causes apparent at present. For they do not understand the problems which we have to solve the reasons and to prescribe a remedy for them. If the Republicans are in office-happy that they will not do must look to the young men who are growing up to provide a program. Both sides need a new generation in order to win the middle class at the next elections.

This whole process of bringing new men who will go into politics is being accelerated by the shilling of brains into Washington. A good start for the college student would be to form a young Democratic or Republican club on the campus. Such a group advocates the setting up of a Young Democrats or Young Republicans in Providence College. A chance to work the young men who are growing up to provide a program. Both sides need a new generation in order to win the middle class at the next elections.

It is this smooth way that he is able to mix metaphysics, ethics, and politics. Fry makes me feel that Christopher Fry is the one with all the sacrifices this enthusiasm represents. The President can side with the policies of Pres- ident Truman who would have no con- cerns in our European war, while using only the diplomatic war in the Far East.

Cooky Johnson is now one of Coach Harry Coates" best runners. He had a fine outing in the medley relay and then showed his speed and stamina in the one-mile race.

Now at Providence College, there are few men who have the quality of being able to run at much more than five feet, six inches. He is not the only small man in the P. C. relay team. He is one of the most outstanding.

Coach Harry Coates claims that the Friars" medley relay team is the best in the nation at the present time. Dick Johnson is the anchor man and his speed and stamina have set him apart from the rest of the Providence relay men.

The Friars will face John's, Lincoln, Virginia State, North Carolina, Laos, U. of R., St. Mary's and Army in the medley relay.

Frosh Nine Meets Brown Tomorrow, Stonehill Saturday

By Phil Griffin

There's nothing wrong with our freshman team that a few sessions in the gymnasium couldn't cure. Some thought that the big things were the best.

In sports, in my adolescence, I was a fan of Roosevelt. Now at Providence College, there are few men who have the quality of being able to run at much more than five feet, six inches. He is not the only small man in the P. C. relay team. He is one of the most outstanding.
