Dean of Studies, only the second and third persons honored with the rank of vice president of Providence College.

The appointee of the Rev. Dennis B. McCarthy, O.P., A.M., S.T.Lh., Ph.D., president, has indicated another interesting in the short but eventual history of Providence College.

The appointment of the Rev. Dennis B. McCarthy, O.P., A.M., S.T.Lh., Ph.D., president, was announced last Thursday by the Most Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O.P., college president, after an extensive study to find a successor to the late President. The appointment was made after a thorough search of the country to find a man suitable for the position.

The new president, a member of the Dominican Order and president of the College of Providence, is a member of the Most Reverend Bishop Dore and Fr. James.

At the Mass, which was celebrated by the Most Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O.P., college president, after an extensive study to find a successor to the late President, the Most Reverend Bishop Dore and Fr. James.

The Most Reverend Bishop Dore presented the Mass of Holy Ghost at the War Memorial Grotto to signify the official opening of the academic year. Bishop McVinney tells the next time: "The problems you will face...are the same as any other year."

The moment has now arrived when the United States must make a crucial decision in regard to North Korea. The first step is the formation of the United Nations' forces, of the imaginary 8th parallel, which has been established by dividing Korea into two regimes: North Korea and the Republic of South Korea. General MacArthur has ordered his forces to remain just 10 miles from the boundary that separates North and South Korea until UN forces have taken their place in the United Nations. Thus Washington has committed the same problem that St. Helen's conversion and subsequent discovery of the Holy Cross is held in the modern English idioms and it is not too difficult to connect people and events with their present, or newly deceased, counterparts. St. Helen is the Empress Dowager is very British, Queen Mary with a sense of humor and something of that sort: Constable is Henry VIII with a heart of gold. The business of "Graffiti and "Tar- quiq" being used by the court when they refer to Constantine and his son.

The COWL and the general student body are aware that decision by Wash- ngton necessitates presenting the problem before the Security Council, whereby Russia is certain to be represented by the Russian people through the veto, which Russia is certain to use to prevent any international legality in respect to the U.N. Charter, and the proviso for the preservation of Russian influence in the United Nations' Forces from invading North Korea. If we were to delay the U.N. Forces would not have any international legality in respect to the U.N. Charter, and the proviso for the preservation of Russian influence in the United Nations. Congress is uncertain this generation suffers. It is well to remember that it was a Christian not a pagan Rome which fell, wiped out by Augustine and Jerome, and that the Churchmen who survived that "greatest of catastro- phes" were the people thought he had a loco motive, he still tells of his brilliant campaign. We are Confreres

The freshmen have an opportunity to familiarize themselves with the purlieus of Providence College with the possible exception of languages, "new business" to the freshmen taking them. The freshmen have had an opportunity to move from one crisis to another in these times. Every day they are learning new things: they have been warned that the effect of these times will be felt in the years to come. If we must have no place in our outlook, for our, we embrace eternal life and is not restricted by time or place or circumstances. We know that everyone is here for a purpose and everyone is eared that the library is on the field of Harkins Hall, the locker room in the basement, and that one stands to eat in the cafeteria, where a wise man keeps a firm hold on his coffee cup. Those delivered from the gentle care of Brothers have had to learn not to call their teachers "Brother," as they once had to learn not to call the Brothers "Father." The differences between the Dominican habit and Mass have been discussed. The routine of major events usually proceeds in the orderly fashion of high school, one class following another, every hour on the hour. Nor does kindly teachers stand at intervals along the corridors to urge the tardy or forgetful stud- ent. It is next to impossible for a student to be late where he should be at a certain time, and to be there.

The year ahead will not be an easy one. But everyone knows that for a purpose and everyone is mature enough to accept the best rather than the easiest means of accomplishing that purpose, which is the same as a civilized being.

The freshmen are taught at Providence College, with the possible exception of languages, "new business" to the freshmen taking them. They are more or less, finding, through their former mis- takes, the key that will take them back to the land of their memories by learning a new subject thoroughly, from the begin- ning. The more they learn, the more they will be learning nothing, but getting, nothing, will remain in the mind through the year. The Dean of Studies cycles up with them. But they will be, as always, a minority.

So the COWL extends its welcome to the freshmen who have joined us, and to the upper class- men who have returned. We are united in a com- mitment to foster the principles of our college in the training of a common hope. We are conferences nicely together.

Another Milestone

With the appointment of two new presidents and the executive directors of Providence College, Providence College reaches another milestone in its history.

The appointments will departmentalize the various administrative functions, thus extending "the functions of the administration" for the rendering of better service to student and faculty.

The COWL and the general student body applaud the choice of these men, and feel that Fathers McCarthy, Dore, and McKenna, long closely identified with the College, are well equiped to displace the important personal administra- tional acumen, developed after years of close asso- ciation with the student and countless other factors pertaining to college life.

Their appointment is a tangible recogni- tion of their long devoted service to Providence College; their appointments serve well to illu- trate the rapid growth of a school whose fame is spreading in ever increasing circles.

We feel cer- tain that the appointments will result in the full approval of lovable Father Jeremiah Fitzgerald of happy memory.

Parliamentary Diatribes in the Security Council

In the two weeks past, all of us here at Providence College have experienced some changes, it small or large. For the majority, the change is not one of earth shaking consequence, entailing merely the transfer of talents from the summer job to the more exciting scene of collegiate work. This return, this change, upon the part of the majority, the upper-classman, is merely the acceptance upon his part of the situation imposed one, two, or three years ago, in the selection of a college career. For some, however, it is the start of a vast, new, and, so incomprehensible way of life. Each is in recall very early our first tentative steps. We have progressed, it is true. It has been said that the Senior is one who thinks more than he actually does, that the Junior is one who knows what he knows, and that the Sophomore is one who knows more than he thinks he knows. Art . . . (Continued from Page 1) quite workmanship shows a great advance in technical skill and the use of diorite, a hard stone, signifies the use of iron tools rather than bronze. Also in the Byzantine Crucifix the Ephesia medallion it is possible to tell the medallion is of later date because the figures on it are more rounded and natural. The trend is always towards the natural until representation becomes too natural, when the pendulum again swings the other way. We have seen this happen in our own day.

The figures from Central and South America include a porphyry vase, set from Peru, once used to burn incense and other offerings. The porphyry a symbol of strength, was one of the principal elements of old Peruvian art and religion. A Mayan vase with the design of a human mask and scrolls is also shown. The original was carved in marble.

Several African objects are included in the exhibit, among them a very naturalistic figure of a crocodile and a beautifully carved head of a baton, a symbol of chief's authority, which is made for a November communion breakfast, and the Club's annual Christmas dinner-dance to be held at the Meadow's in Framingham, Mass.

Support The Crusade For Freedom

The African, American and Sumerian articles, as well as a Roman Lamp, the Irish oilstock, are the property of Providence College, being the gifts of a good friend of the college, Mr. Ralph F. Haffenreffer. The beautiful Italian marbel with silver ornaments, together with the Renaissance, stand was the gift of Mr. William Needham, another good friend of the College.

The objects exhibited will be used in connection with the course in Appreciation of the Fine Arts. It is hoped different exhibits will be shown throughout the year which will include examples of contemporary art as well as that of the past.

Woonsocket Club

Robert Rock, a Senior Business Administration Student, was elected president of the Woonsocket Club of Providence College for the 1950-51 season at a meeting held recently at the Knights of Columbus Home in Woonsocket.

Leonard V. San Souci, a junior Pre-legal student, was elected vice-president; James Emidy was named secretary, and Harry Daigle, treasurer. Both Emidy and Daigle are juniors.

Club activities for the coming year were outlined and tentative plans made for a November communion breakfast and the Club's annual Christmas dinner-dance to be held at the Meadow's in Framingham, Mass.

New History Book Promises Interest

Norman, Ohio.—(AP)—American history can be made easier and more interesting for you, according to Dr. Carl C. Rister, research professor of history at the University of Oklahoma.

Dr. Rister's answer is a chronological presentation of events as they occur.
