Congress Approves Bill To Oust Absent Members

Asciolla Resignation Is Tabled At February Session

By Robert E. Finneran

The February meeting of the Student Congress saw the final passage of the attendance bill with which the legislators had been concerned since its initial proposal at the first meeting of the year. Also taken up at the meeting was the resignation of Paul Asciolla which created lengthy discussion. Renovation of the Student Lounge in Harkins Hall by the Sophomore class, rules and regulations for the campus and a discussion of whether the Cowl was aiding or harming the progress of the Congress also were characteristics of the hour and a half meeting.

The meeting was of course preceded by committee reports at which time Richard Horne, Junior Class President, read the report of the ring committee and followed it by thanking the Student Congress for their aid in helping the Junior class select their class ring!

Attendance Bill Passed

The bill concerning attendance was read and unanimously accepted, thus establishing it as an amendment to the by-laws. It became effective with its passage and now provides that any Congress member missing two consecutive meetings or any three meetings shall be summoned to appear before the Legislative Committee, which will make a recommendation to the Congress at the following meeting. The Congress then will decide whether to oust the member or not.

Under new business, Junior Delegate William F. Broderick, Jr., made a proposal to request the administration to replace the sign in front of Harkins Drug Store directing people to Providence College with a new and more legible one. The proposal was approved. Mr. Broderick also made a proposal to investigate the possibility of seeking reduced rates for students riding the U.T.C. He was informed by a fellow member that there already were rates in effect.

Asciolla Resignation Discussed

The Congress then turned its attention to the resignation of sophomore representative, Paul Asciolla. Roger Aubin, Congress president, had Asciolla read his resignation after which Aubin stated that he thought that there were other reasons than those publicly put forth for the resignation. Aubin declined to mention the other reasons.

Maj. Miller To Help Students File Draft Forms On Thursday

Major Theodore Miller of the Rhode Island Selective Service Commission will visit the campus tomorrow, Thursday, at 12:30 p.m. to assist the students in filling out the forms for the Selective Service test to be taken on April 23.

Major Miller will meet with the students in Room 210 promptly at 12:30. It will take approximately ten minutes to fill out each application. Students who are going to take the April exam must attend the meeting. Any student who has a class at that time will be given a late slip without being marked for a cut.

All students who are eighteen years or over, or those who will be eighteen before April 23 should take the test.

It has been urged by Selective Service Director General Hershey that any veterans who have not taken the test should do so. In the event the supply of draftees gets too low the veterans might find they are eligible for the draft, he added. In this case, the veterans who had taken the Selective Service College Qualification Test might be deferred because of the test.

Results of the April test will be reported to the student's Selective Service local board of jurisdiction for use in considering his deferment as a

The Fighting(?) Dominicans

Special to the Cowl
New York—Are the Dominican members of the Providence College faculty going to be sent to Korea to fight?

It would seem so by the following headline in the New York World Telegram and The Sun:

5000 Troops Offered U.N. By Dominicans

But alas, fear not, the Sisters of Mercy will not be teaching at P.C. next fall. The Dominicans in the headline, the story quickly points out, are the soldiers of the Dominican Republic.

Fr. Slavin, Msgr. Sherlock Address NFCCS Convention

10 P. C. Delegates To Attend Two Day Forum At Brown

Providence College is one of 22 colleges sending ten delegates to the Brown University forum on undergraduate problems of college life, scheduled for February 27 and 28.

Panel discussion Saturday morning and afternoon will cover fraternities, the honor system, student government, the curriculum, counseling, student-faculty relations, athletics and extra-curricular activities.

A report will be sent to the student government bodies of the various schools, summarizing the discussions and any conclusions which may be reached.

Friday evening President Henry M. Wriston of Brown will address the delegates, following an opening banquet.

Delegates will be housed on the Brown campus Friday and Saturday. When speeches and discussion meetings are not in progress, they will meet informally for discussion.

Colleges definitely sending delegates as of February 4 are Cornell, Williams, Princeton, Amherst, Pennsylvania, R.P.L., Columbia, M.I.T., Rhode Island, Yale, Trinity, Providence, Bates, Colgate, Dartmouth, Bowdoin, and Colby.

Other colleges expected to attend are Harvard, Wesleyan, Brandeis, Tufts, and Union.

Most of the delegates coming thus far are prominent in undergraduate life. Several student council presidents, class presidents, newspaper chairmen and editors, and interfraternity board presidents will attend the convention.

NFCCS PLEDGES

Students are reminded to obtain and complete their pledge cards for the spiritual bouquet to be offered to the Holy Father on the occasion of St. Thomas' feast, March 7. Anyone not contacted personally is asked to obtain a pledge at the Student Congress Office.

Duties Both To God And Self Stressed By Speakers

By Don Gibeault

Two prominent New England Catholic educators addressing a gathering of more than one hundred delegates from twenty-three regional colleges impressed upon the Catholic youths their duties and responsibilities to themselves and their God.

The Rt. Rev. Cornelius T. Sherlock, Superintendent of Schools for the Archdiocese of Boston and Regional Moderator of the NFCCS, and the Very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O.P., President of Providence College, stressed the role to be played by militant Catholic students and further outlined some of the evils to be combated.

Attacks Secularism

Said Father Slavin, "The canker of secularism which is impregnating our lives is far more dangerous than the atomic bomb. The real fight today is for God and the things of God." Monsignor Sherlock also aimed his remarks at the students and stressed the import of their program whose purpose is to acquaint the college youths with their responsibility to the student community and to contribute to the development of Catholic lay leadership.

The sessions began on Friday evening and ran throughout the week. Bill Dextraze of Boston College conducted a press committee panel, and the committee on Newman Clubs worked on a program of mutual aid later adopted at the sessions. Official registration began on Saturday and discussions ran throughout the day.

Miss Wells Is Crowned

The annual Intercollegiate Dance held the spotlight on Saturday evening, the climax of which was the crowning of Miss Frances Wells, a freshman at Emmanuel College, "Miss NFCCS."

The winter meeting concluded on Sunday afternoon with the adoption of various committee reports and a discussion of the controversial McCarran-Walter Immigration Act.

The campus committee on arrangements for the weekend included: John J. Salesses, James Wille, James Dillon, Donald L. Gibeault, William Reardon, Charles T. Tangney, Ted Spargo, Robert Walsh, Robert Murphy, Henry T. Nesbitt, Richard Fogarty, Ben Fleck, and the Rev. Anthony J. Jurgelaitis, campus unit Moderator.

Why The Ashes

Today, as you glance about, you will see many people with a smudge of ashes in the form of a cross on their foreheads. To non-Catholics, this may appear as a somewhat foolish custom and they will greet it with an indulgent smile. But, to Catholics it means a great deal. It is a sign to them, a sign that Lent has begun. Why the ashes? They are used as a means to bring to mind a fundamental truth. "Memento homo, quia pulvis es, et in pulverem reverteris." "Remember, O man, that thou art dust, and into dust thou shalt return."

Sometimes it is hard for us to think of ourselves as dust; dust and living matter seem to be so far apart. That is precisely why Holy Mother the Church makes use of this august ceremony, to be sure that we do not lull ourselves into thinking otherwise. During the holy season of Lent all of us would do well to think of our dependence on God for our very existence. Without His Hand upon us, we would sink into nothingness.

During Lent the old but ever new story of the Passion and the Resurrection will be retold. It is in Christ that we have the perfect example. He suffered. We should suffer. He fasted. We should fast. He bore His cross. So should we. This is the time of penance, of mortification, of prayer. This is the time to forsake the treasures on earth for the treasures of heaven. "For where thy treasure is, there thy heart also will be."

Oratorical Influence

The art of oratory is as old as civilization. Demosthenes with his famous Philippics, Cicero swaying the Roman Senate, and countless others down through generations have influenced culture and ways of living through means of oratorical expression.

Providence College is represented in the oratorical field by a group known as the Barristers, the College debating society.

At the beginning of the year the Barristers had but a single veteran debator. With a group of novice orators the group formed a debating team which consists of a negative and affirmative team.

The society has constantly received and extended invitations for debates with other colleges during the year. The debators have thus far acquitted themselves nobly and no doubt will continue to do so.

It is probably little known that these debators spend much time in preparation for a debate.

The next debate is scheduled for this coming Friday afternoon in the Auditorium of Albertus Magnus. It might be well for many to attend this debate to witness the work of the debating society. It would be a good idea to foster an interest in such an organization in order to give them the support and encouragement they deserve.

Third Order Will Recite Daily Rosary During Lent

Beginning Ash Wednesday the Tertiaries of Saint Dominic will inaugurate a Lenten program of recitation of the Rosary—a program, however, which is optional, not obligatory for members.

A spirit of sacrifice and a spirit of penance should motivate those wishing to participate, said Father Hinnebusch. Tertiaries desiring to take part should meet at the Oratory at the time convenient for them:

Daily—11:30.

Monday, Wednesday, Friday—10:30.

Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday—9:30.

The examination is being prepared by the Princeton Educational Testing Service in Princeton, New Jersey. The Selective Service has set a mark of 70 on the test as a passing grade.

A PART OF THE 200 STUDENTS from various Rhode Island high schools observe an electrical demonstration in a Providence College physics laboratory, last week. The students were guests of the college's science clubs.

P. C. Science Clubs Are Host To 200 High School Seniors

The Science Day Open House for scientifically inclined seniors from Rhode Island high schools was held on February 10th, in the Albertus Magnus Science Building. The event was sponsored jointly by the Phi Chi and Albertus Magnus clubs.

The program began at four o'clock with a welcoming address by Rev. Edward B. Halton, O.P., Dean of Freshmen. Then the approximately 200 students from 25 high schools were shown the facilities of the science building and characteristic demonstrations in all the science courses as well as the medical research laboratory.

At six o'clock the students were guests at a buffet supper served in the school cafeteria. After the supper the members of the science clubs and their high school guests attended the Providence College - University of Rhode Island basketball game at the R. I. Auditorium. Transportation for the students was provided by the members of the clubs.

Co-chairmen for the "Open House" were Arthur Ancil and Edward Healy, presidents of the Albertus Magnus Club and Phi Chi respectively. Father James Hackett, O.P., was moderator of the event.

Letters To The Editor

To the Editors:

Having read the letter in last week's Cowl entitled, "Homo est Animale Sociales," the correct form of which should read, "Homo est Animal Sociale," I am somewhat disheartened to find that the most conspicuous characteristics of literary eclat here at P. C. are a lemon puss and a pair of beady eyes. It seems that the author of this letter, which undoubtedly will revive the almost extinct art of letter-writing, was lampooning the Cowl because of a late editorial written to criticize, with a bit of irony, a flood of dances which has burst over our campus within the last year. Here, however, I am not concerned with whether I agreed with that editorial or not. Nor am I prepared to give adequate testimony to the fact of whether you are for real or not. Although, about the latter, this reader would deeply appreciate a future editorial to clarify, once and for all, this point which has caused considerable consternation among your faithful readers.

What I want to tell you is that your attempted humour in the words of a few editorial suggestions is becoming fatiguing. It is quite evident that you have been subjected of late, in some English survey course, to a certain "Modest Proposal" by Jonathan Swift. And despite the fact that the reading of this crude bit of irony was compulsory, no doubt, you thought it the greatest thing in literature. As a result, your last two issues have editorialized with a Swift-like proposal inserted with all its drippingly stereotyped mechanics.

In order not to be blamed for false accusations, allow me two quotations lifted bodily from your latest editorials: 1) "We suggest that it be called the P. C., Palladium. We also suggest that all graduate schools in their application blanks require the students to state the number of dances they attended during their undergraduate days;" 2) "We propose that a Hislers Club be established . . . He (the president of such a club) could also suggest that apprentices spit through their teeth for a few weeks . . ."

To be sure, gentlemen, if I may borrow an apt piece of masterly prose, you have exercised "your editorial yaps" in what is assuredly the epitome of gentlemanly humour. And speaking of gentlemanly humour, I will also make a suggestion that you try it for a while. Please, spare us those other immaturities in the future.

Nevertheless, Messrs Editors, this reader must commend you because you have tried very hard.

Endeavouringly yours,
A fraternal Junior.

Miss Binette Is Chosen As Queen At Military Ball

Over 350 couples danced to the music of Ralph Stuart at last Friday's Military Ball at the Cranston Armory.

The highlight of the evening was the selection of a queen. Eighteen-year-old Miss Alice J. Binette, escorted by William T. Barrett, '56, presided over the Ball. Miss Binette hails from East Hartford, Connecticut, while Mr. Barrett is a member of "I" company in the R.O.T.C.

The queen was chosen by the audience through the medium of an applause meter. The candidates for this honor were selected by a secret committee of adult women.

Miss Binette was preceded by an honor guard of ROTC cadets.

From The Tower:

Luce Gives Ike Great Cheer; Guess Who'll Be "Man Of Year?"

John Martiska

In Henry Luce's weekly ad magazine Time, sometimes called a newsmagazine, there is a section called National Affairs. Here, to the surprise of no one, is found what Timers consider news about the nation. For the past several years, but most noticeably during the recent campaign, Harry Truman and company were usually being roundly thrashed for one thing or another. Since the results of the election, one which the Republicans won incidentally, Timers seemed to have mellowed in their outlook on life, and have printed only munificent praises of the new White House tenant. How long this honeymoon is to last is a moot question but I suppose so long as President Eisenhower follows Mr. Luce's policies he has little to worry about.

Mr. Truman is still mentioned though, but only to get smacked or exposed as the cause of the trouble that Eisenhower is in by innuendoes that are about as subtle as a hammer in the head. The budget will not be balanced because of "Harry Truman's commitments." The Treasury and the Federal Reserve Board should get together. They "feuded disastrously under Harry Truman." Dean Acheson, we are reminded, was the author of the China white paper which was "an official attack on a friendly power without precedent in the history of international relations." Presumably, the formidable research department of Time can verify that statement.

Everything the new President has done so far is shown in sharp contrast with the policies and actions of the Truman administration. In less than a month's time as President, Eisenhower is already "master of his job." In Time's B.E. (before election) apologies for Eisenhower, he was pictured as a man having no great knowledge of the workings of our government in regard to domestic policies and functions. Now he moves "with ease and familiarity through the vast areas of Government." Quite a change!

His message on the State of the Union is put forward as the greatest thing to hit America since canned beer. "He spoke with sparing eloquence," and his head shakes were "tuned to the meaning of his words." How a man tunes his head to words is somewhat of a mystery, but if Time says it is so, it is so.

Eisenhower is fortunate in having the entire Luce magazine empire behind him. Since he has many businessmen in his administration, Fortune is his staunch ally. Life, the magazine of the masses, also is doing much to promulgate him as the man of the people. This wholesale backing from Luce organs is all well and good, but if Eisenhower turns out to be a flop, and I hope he does not, Time Incers are going to be in an awkward situation to say the least.

He further stated that he would ask Congress to refuse to accept the resignation on the grounds that Ascioffa was elected by his class to serve, that he willingly chose to run, and that he had maintained his position in the Congress up to that time.

Ascioffa then took the floor and requested information about the resignation of Robert Deasy. Aubin informed him that Deasy was forced to resign due to medical reasons. Then Phillip Doherty, Secretary of the Congress, read Mr. Deasy's letter of resignation. Ascioffa further demanded reasons for not accepting his resignation by asking why Lou Gomes was allowed to resign. He was informed that he, Gomez, was a pre-med student and could not attend the meetings. Richard Horne then moved that the Congress not accept the resignation.

The motion was seconded but before a vote could be taken, discussion broke out again. Broderick stated that if a person wanted to resign from the Congress he should be allowed to do so because, if he is forced to remain, his work will not be beneficial to the Congress. John Keefe then pointed out that he thought the prestige of the Congress was at stake in this matter. By refusing to accept the resignation it could be shown to the school that the Student Congress has a little backbone. Richard Daronco then stated that this action could stand as precedent. He stated further that he felt that Mr. Ascioffa was seeking personal glory in his public resignation.

Not Seeking Glory

Mr. Ascioffa was recognized. He pointed out that he was seeking no personal glory and wished to clear himself of that accusation. He further declared that his main purpose in resigning was to alert the Congress into action. After debate between Aubin, Doherty, and Ascioffa as to what Congress had accomplished this year, it was motioned to postpone action on the resignation until the next meeting and let the Legislative Committee study the legality of the move. This motion was unanimously accepted.

Committees are in session this week studying rules and regulations for the campus.

Cites COWL

Following an explanation of the renovation of the Student Lounge John Keefe stated that he thought the Cowl had put forth nothing this year to help the Student Congress. Giving the letter of resignation from page recognition was a harmful factor he also stated. John Martiska, a member of the Cowl editorial board the informed the Congress that the letter was put there because it was new and deserving of the particular place it received.

Further discussion on the relative merits and demerits of the publicity received by the Congress was debated between Congress members and the Cowl Co-Editors and Mr. Martiska. Richard Horne then closed the discussion by stating that he thought the Cowl had never actually hurt the Congress and the only way to improve the Congress' position was to improve the Congress itself.

Stags Visit Mt. Pleasant Tonight

Ride Crest Of Four Tilt Win Streak Friars Pull Average Over .500 Mark; Face Revengeful Gymnast Saturday

By Marty Sandler

Vin Cuddy's high-flying knights of the hardwood face their second busy week in succession starting tonight when they seek for revenge against Fairfield, then journey to Springfield Saturday for the last of the two game series with the Gymnasts.

In their past four games the Friars have been highly successful with wins over RPI, MIT, RIU, and Clark now bringing them over the ".500" mark for the first time since before Christmas.

Friars Seek Revenge

Both Fairfield and Springfield, however, are among the locals' toughest. Last January at the Fairfield Armory, Providence College's basketball forces suffered their "Dunkirk" when they lost a convincing 73-65 decision to the Stags. Since then, however, things have perked up considerably.

Springfield is always tough. The barons boast Allan Schutts, one of the East's top scorers. Last season, Schutts was second only to Ernie Beck, the great Penn ace in the scoring department. This year he is riding high, with 25 points against the Friars listed to his credit.

Watch Larry McClements

Springfield boasts another prolific scorer in little Larry McClements who scored in 29 points in a recent contest with Holy Cross. In this case, it will be the Gymnasts who are looking for revenge, the Friars having won the first encounter.

Leader of the current Friar surge has been Hank McQueeney. Hank has led the highly successful fast break and has hit for high double figures on every occasion for the past month or so. Bobby Moran, of course continues to lead P. C. in the scoring department.

Tickets for the hockey game, Feb. 23, must be purchased by Saturday due to the holiday Monday.

PC Six Shade Springfield

By Bill Reardon

On February 11, the Friars took on the Gymnasts from Springfield College at the Ice Palace on North Main Street and beat them 5-4 after staving off a last period drive. Rosco Sweeney lit the light for the Friars at 1:12 on a pass out from behind the cage, the assist going to Monahan and McAleer.

Eddy Monahan cut the cords again at 7:31 on a pass from Bob Reall while teammate Dave Reilly was cooped for tripping. Bob Petit hit the large fish net with pipes at 12:02 on a beautiful forehand while the goalie was completely out of the play.

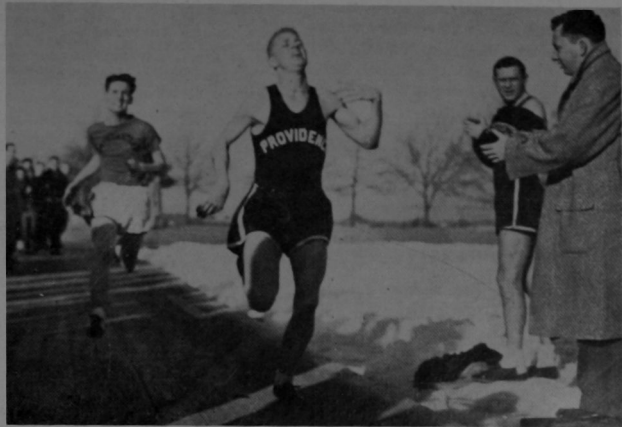

Bob Reall got his second point of the night as he banged one in to finish a beautiful play with line mates Sweeney and Monahan. Jim White took a center pass from Bob Petit to open the second period scoring and flipped it past the out-stretched hands of the goalie at 8:22, the other part of the assist going to Bill Charland for his part in the play. At this point Springfield, its ire thoroughly aroused, retaliated and Wheeler took a pass from Thomas and Powers at 9:35 and blasted it into the upper right hand corner, after Eddy Hornstein had fallen. Springfield opened the third period scoring quickly, the goal going into the twine at 0:52, pushed in by Powers and helped along by Thomas and Wheeler.

Actually it was a screen shot which Hornstein had no chance to see, much less get his glove on. Powers hit again at 1:34 on a fast break with Wheeler. Here the Friars came to and began to really hustle to hold the Gymnasts down. Cameron got away at 12:34 with teammates Hodgdon and Paul and blasted on by Eddy Hornstein.

Friday the thirteenth proved to be unlucky for the Friar Pucksters as they journeyed to the R.P. I. campus in Troy, N. Y. Playing in the huge R.P.I. arena, (where they draw 6000 for a college game) the locals were outclassed but not out-hustled in spite of the score, 13-1. The R.P.I. six, sprinkled liberally with Canadians, is one of the top teams in the nation, having beaten such teams as Princeton, Yale, St. Lawrence, and McGill University of Canada.

Kent County In Tourney Finals

As was predicted, the high flying Kent County Club advanced to the finals of the Club tournament sponsored by the Intramural Basketball League, by walloping the Worcester Club, 60-29. In other results the Kent club walloped Woonsocket, 48-29, paced by Clegg and Bristol with 13 points and a good defense which held Morley, their opponent's star, to 6 points. Woonsocket won over Providence, 53-31, paced by Darling with 17. And in the game of the week, Worcester edged Newport in the last three seconds of play, 42-41. Bill Mullins with 15 and Dave Flaherty with 12 were tops for the victors, while Kirby and Baker had 10 for Newport.

JOE MADDEN, P.C. FRESHMAN, lunges across the finish line to cop the 2-mile race in a dual meet with Northeastern U. held here last Saturday. Behind the winner is Ed Ryan of the Husky squad. Madden's time was 10:14.

PHIL-INS

Friars Perpetrate Greatest American Massacre Since Battle Of Gettysburg

PHIL GRIFFIN

Last Tuesday evening I witnessed a remarkable event at the Rhode Island Auditorium along with about 1300 other rather noisy individuals. Of course, they had a right to be noisy for their incredible Friars were in the process of perpetrating the greatest American massacre since the Battle of Gettysburg. The Rhode Island Ram was sinking for the third time. He was being turned into a goat. He was being clobbered 92-66 by a supposedly inferior crew from Smith Hill.

As the evening progressed the pattern became evident. Vin Cuddy's zone defense was going to contain the high-scoring Rams to a meagre total of points. Sag Prendergast was on the way to playing the game of his life; Hank McQueeney had culminated his comeback; Tommy Mullins was checking Bill Baird to the point of frustration.

Jack Guy Won't Forget

Prendergast, McQueeney, Moran, Mullins, Durkin, Lynch, Reynolds, Aquavia, Quinlan, O'Connell, Keating; those are names Jack Guy won't forget till his dying day. They were all wonderful, from Captain Prendergast to the last man to come off the bench.

Sag was the big surprise. His superb play sparked the Friars as he out-scored 67" Art Helwig, 18-7, and outbattled the Rhody sophomore under the boards. While on the subject of rebounds, it might be opportune to mention Jack Durkin, who took over when Kenny Kerr was tragically injured early in the first quarter. Durkin was ferocious in the under-the-hoop donney-brooks, and on more than one occasion the boys in blue whirled around intent upon committing mayhem against the guy who had just played a tattoo on their head with his elbows. Kerr's injury fired the Friars to a fever pitch, but Durkin filled Kenny's shoes quite admirably.

Segura Licks McGregor?

Radar Robert, the Brooklyn Bombshell, contributed his usual high total to the P. C. tally, but fans were prone to ho-hum his efforts as they do when Stan Musial wins a batting title or Pancho Segura licks Ben McGregor, for it has come to pass that such things are to be expected. However, they didn't pass lightly over the efforts of Hank McQueeney, for when Hank is performing as he did on that momentous evening you just sit incredulous on the edge of your seat wondering when it's going to end. The Greeks have a word for it, but I don't at the moment.

It was quite a night. There ought to be a memorial constructed, a holiday declared, or something done to commemorate so great a victory. These boys achieved some measure of immortality with their inspired performance. It isn't often the ferocious Ram is as meek as a lamb.

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

SHEEDY was all wet. All the flappers ducked when they spied him. The wave in his hair disappeared. Then he floated a loan of 29¢ for some Wildroot Cream-Oil, America's favorite hair tonic. Contains soothing Lanolin. Non-alcoholic. Relieves annoying dryness. Removes loose, ugly dandruff. Grooms the hair. Helps you pass the Finger-Nail Test. Now he's back on the ball, a flippant lover who flapper-gasts all the girls with his good looking hair. So waddle you waiting floe? Get in the swim with Wildroot Cream-Oil. Buy it at any toilet goods counter, and ask for it at your barber's. Remember, you mustache fur Wildroot Cream-Oil. Then the girls will put their seal of approval on you.

A Southern belle once said to me,
"I'd like to tell you—all
That I smoke Luckies 'cause they're free
And easy on the draw!"

Richard H. Levine

Nothing no, nothing-beats better taste

and LUCKIES
TASTE BETTER!
Cleaner, Fresher, Smoother!

Ask yourself this question: Why do I smoke?

You know, yourself, you smoke for enjoyment. And you get enjoyment only from the taste of a cigarette.

Luckies taste better—cleaner, fresher, smoother! Why? Luckies are made better to taste better. And, what's more, Luckies are made of fine tobacco. L.S./M.F.T.—Lucky Strike Means Fine Tobacco.

So, for the thing you want most in a cigarette... for better taste—for the cleaner, fresher, smoother taste of Lucky Strike...

Be Happy—GO LUCKY!

I went to see the Registrar—
He sent me to the Dean.
The Dean said, "Son, smoke Lucky Strike—
They're smooth! They're fresh! They're clean!"

William A. Spiegler
Northwestern University

Where's your jingle?

It's easier than you think to make $25 by writing a Lucky Strike jingle like those you see in this ad. Yes, we need jingles—and we pay $25 for every one we use! So send as many as you like to: Happy-Go-Lucky, P. O. Box 67, New York 46, N. Y.
