Relationship Of Man To God Is Stressed By Father Slavin

By James Marshall

The Very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O.P., S.T.M., President of Providence College, warned those attending a Communion breakfast for fathers and sons of the resident students at the college last Sunday that only a return to the fundamental "relationship of man to God" will bring peace and joy to our hearts.

Highlighting the father and son weekend was the Mass and talk by Father Slavin. Fathers from six states began arriving on the campus late Saturday afternoon. In the early evening the fathers had an opportunity to view the college and visit the rooms of their sons.

The Rev. Edward M. Casey, O.P., Dean of Men, and members of the faculty, greeted the guests in the lounge of Aquinas Hall, later in the evening, Sunday morning the fathers and sons heard Mass and received Communion in Aquinas chapel. Breakfast was served in the dining room following the Mass.

Faith Is Road to Happiness

Father Slavin, in his address, declared the road to happiness can be

Friars Vote Four Members Into Club

One Junior, one sophomore, and two Freshmen were voted into the Friars Club Monday night. This brings the membership of the club up to the maximum membership. The club selects its members from the four classes in a descending ratio.

The meeting was presided over by Robert David Nani, president of the club. The members of the club voted to hold a banquet in honor of all senior athletes. Along with this group

With this issue, the COWL takes a three-week vacation. The next COWL will appear on the newsstand Wednesday, April 15.

Players Announce 'Moonglow' Tryouts To Be Conducted

By Paul Pothin

Casting for the Pyramid Players' tenth annual spring musical, "Moonglow," will be held April 6, 7, and 9, on Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday night, at 7:00 p.m. in the Student Lounge in Harkins Hall.

All students who have registered, have been briefed on the tryout procedure this year, however, for any additional information they may contact campus representatives, William Conway and Paul Ascioffa.

The tentative dates set for the actual presentation of the extravaganza are Sunday, May 10th; Monday, May 11; Tuesday, May 12; and Wednesday, May 13th.

According to John M. Bowab, co-author of the production along with Charles W. Gnys, the script is near completion, and the music, all original tunes by Frank Barone, has been completed.

Director James J. Marshall, has requested that all the prospective cast members, "... should not report, if at all possible, on the first and last nights alone, but also on the middle night because the turnout has surpassed the expected number."

An additional invitation is being extended to young ladies from the various colleges in the area and to any girl who is interested in the chorus or in a principal role. Mr. Gnys urges any student who may know a young lady with musical talents or acting ability to try out for the musical.

In charge of staging for the musical are Mike Koske and Art Daglis, who have asked that underclassmen interested in this end of the stage production give their names to one of the campus representatives.

William Conway, president, stresses the point that anyone who tries out should be sincerely interested in making the production a success. This means, he said, that "... they should have all intentions of attending every rehearsal, and of learning their parts as quickly as possible. If this isn't done, they will be replaced, since there is an unlimited number of potential leads and chorus members."

Glee Club To Sing In Concert April 15

The Glee Club of Providence College, in its first appearance after Easter, will sing in concert on April 15, in Edgewood, Rhode Island. The concert will be under the sponsorship of the Knights of Columbus, and the program will consist of classical and semi-classical as well as spiritual selections.

Highlighting the musical selections will be Beethoven's "Halleluia" chorus, and a 16th century "Ave Maria" by Vittoria.

The Glee Club will be under the direction of Rev. Leo S. Cannon, O.P.

Fathers John Sullivan And Paul Doane To Officiate As Masters

This year's annual retreat will be conducted by the Revs. John J. Sullivan, O.P., and Paul W. Doane, O.P., on next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Father Sullivan, who graduated from PC in 1934, is from Jersey City, N. J., and Father Doane is a native of the nation's capital. Both priests have been on the Dominican Mission Band for many years, and have achieved outstanding reputations for preaching.

The program will begin each morning with a Mass at nine o'clock. A short talk will follow immediately. There will then be about an hour of free time followed by another lecture. The final conference will start at 11:30 and should be terminated by 12:15 p.m.

Dr. Brown States Law Procedure Is Varied In Schools

"Law is slanted in a different way as taught in secular and denominational law schools," Dr. Brendan F. Brown, Dean of the Catholic University of America Law School, told the Pre-legal students of Providence College in a lecture given Friday in Harkins Hall.

It has been Dr. Brown's experience to find that two varying minds are developed by the two types of schools.

"Catholic University Law School," Dr. Brown stated, "teaches secular law on a high level as well as stressing its basis, which rests in positive and natural law."

The Dean believed that Catholic Law Schools have a theological or scholastic approach in the study of Law which secular law schools lack. One of Dr. Brown's points was the selection of the career of law from the standpoint of one's ability, which requires a certain type mind and eliminates many from the profession.

In spite of the difficult changeover from college to law school, a sincere effort to attend at least one year of law school before making a final decision in the matter should be made by legal students, Dr. Brown stated.

Dr. Brown advised those students desiring the prestige of a degree from a prominent secular law school to first obtain their LL. B. from a Catholic school.

In citing the merits of CU Law School, the Dean mentioned the high caliber of its faculty, limited classes, and the professional procedure used in conducting classes.

P.H.T. Degrees To Be Awarded Seniors' Wives At Family Hour

Forty "Senior" wives will receive the special P.H.T. (Putting Hubby Through) degrees this year, at the Sixth Annual Family Hour to be held on campus, April 12.

Speakers for the event will be Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. McAndrew of Watch Hill. Mr. McAndrew is a graduate of Providence College; Mrs. McAndrew recently gave birth to her tenth child. The McAndrews will take part in a "round table discussion."

Prior to awarding of degrees, renewal of Marriage Vows and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament will be held in the Aquinas Chapel. The college Glee Club will entertain after supper. Community sing will conclude the evening.

Although the degrees are to be awarded to the "Senior" wives only, all married students are being invited to the Family Hour. The program will begin promptly at 4 p.m. Rev. William R. Clark, O.P., Moderator of the event suggests that all married students register with him as soon as possible.

Next Week's Opportunity

As all of you know, Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of next week—Holy Week— have been set aside for our annual retreat. No more fitting time could have been designated for this purpose than the week during which Our Lord Jesus Christ rode triumphantly into Jerusalem to fulfill the promise of His Father, and during which He suffered Himself to be mocked, tortured, crucified, and killed for the eternal salvation of mankind.

It is the most eventful week in the Church calendar, not only from the standpoint of the number of events which are commemorated, but also from the standpoint of the overwhelming importance which those events exercise upon the lives of each and every one of us. When the full impact of what Christ accomplished for us within that one week's span, really comes home to us, we ought to get down on our knees and thank Him and promise to try to be worthy of His supreme sacrifice. This is the purpose of both our retreat and of all retreats — thanksgiving and repentance.

None of us here at Providence College, whether saints or sinners, can claim that we have no need for a retreat. We cannot honestly claim this since a retreat is for the benefit of both sinners and saints. However, the necessity for a retreat is in direct ratio to the spiritual condition of each and every individual. Those of us who have had the misfortune to cut ourselves off completely from God's grace through mortal sin should make a special effort, for our own spiritual welfare, to make a good retreat. God will not refuse to hear our expression of sorrow for having offended Him, no matter how heinous the offense, "Because with the Lord there is mercy; and with Him plentiful redemption."

We must, however, remember that the initial step in a reconciliation with God is always ours. We are free agents; God will not force us to ask His forgiveness. Our retreat next week will afford us ample opportunity to take this first step. Being free from our usual academic responsibilities, we will have the time to more effectively discharge our most important obligation — the obligation, laid upon by God when He created us, to save our souls. Let us take full advantage of this opportunity, for none of us can say it will not be the final one.

Case Of The Missing Pols

Having sent over our regular man to cover the last monthly meeting of the Student Congress, we sat back in anticipation of our lead story for last week's issue. We were, however, a little disappointed. Instead of a rollicking yarn about new and vital legislation, our boy came back with a limp report which consisted of two words—no quorum.

Within a short time, our renowned research staff hit the statistical trail of lost quorums and returned with a slab of beacon to the effect that this was only the second time that the Congress had failed to meet because of a lack of attendance. Needless to say, it should never have happened at all.

We look at it from this angle: if we can take the time to put out an issue of this newspaper every week, the esteemed lawmakers of Room 300 can put in an appearance once a month. Suppose, for example, that we decided to take a week off. The students would complain, and rightly so. The same goes for the Student Congress. Even if no legislation is enacted, the members owe it to the people who elected them by fulfilling the obligations of their office. The first of these obligations is attendance at the regular monthly meetings. No one should be excused from attending unless he presents a grave reason (sickness, etc.) for being absent. He owes this to his classmates and the student body as a whole.

If the missing politicians feel that the gruelling grind of two whole consecutive hours on unendurably hard chairs is taxing their strength beyond all reasonable limits, if they are fearful that a complete breakdown would be imminent should they persevere in this nerve-wracking experience, they ought to tender their resignations at once. We can't foresee any mass resignations, however.

We hope that the Student Congress will never again have to call off a meeting on account of the cavalier attitude of some of the members. As for our part in the matter, we are going to assist the students in choosing their representatives at the forthcoming election by publishing a Student Congress attendance schedule for the past year. In this manner the wheat can be more easily separated from the chaff.

Thomas' Biography Of Lincoln Should Prove Definitive Edition

ABRAHAM LINCOLN By Benjamin P. Thomas. 522 pp. New York: Alfred Knopf. $5.75

By Martin W. Sandler

Probably the greatest single authority on Abraham Lincoln alive today is Benjamin Platt Thomas of Springfield, Illinois. Mr. Thomas has spent the greater part of his life in Lincolnian research and study. Besides being associate editor of the Abraham Lincoln Quarterly and editorial advisor to the huge Collected Works of Lincoln project, he has written six books on the life of Lincoln. His latest, Abraham Lincoln, is undoubtedly his best.

Abraham Lincoln is not a flag waving, rags to riches story of the "Great Emancipator." In this alone it differs from the majority of books on this subject. It is a frank, honest, account of the life of our great President and the gigantic problems that he faced.

The book begins with an account of the childhood of Lincoln. Thomas pictures him as a tall, lean, rawboned youth possessed of extraordinary strength. Lincoln the youth was generally accounted lazy except for his burning desire to learn. The best summary of his boyhood can be found in his own words,

Abraham Lincoln, his hand and pen. He will be good but God knows when.

Lincoln found himself on his own at a very early age. It was this necessity which moved him to mold the staunch character for which he is so well known. Thomas gives the reader an excellent account of Lincoln's rise to local, state, and eventual national prominence. In doing so, he wiped out many of the myths that have long been associated with Lincoln's rise to power. Many historians have left the reader with the notion that Lincoln naturally rose to prominence through the overwhelming desire of the public. Nothing is further from the truth. It was a hard struggle and one which would have been unsuccessful except for the expert campaigning and maneuvering of Lincoln himself. It was a rise filled with discouragement and disappointment, and one which would have broken the spirit of many a better man.

However, it is in the portrayal of Lincoln as President that Thomas is at his best. Never was a President faced with graver responsibilities. The election of Lincoln had occasioned the very thing which he feared most — Civil war. A terribly extravagant wife and the death of his young son added tremendously to his burden.

It took Lincoln three years to find a suitable commander-in-chief. It was not until the appointment of Ulysses S. Grant that Lincoln found the general on whom he could depend to attack when the time for attack was ripe. The President sent countless communications to Grant's predecessors, pleading with them to begin an offensive. His evenings were completely taken up with the receiving and analyzing of war reports. News of defeats or casualties affected him tremendously. Thomas pictures him as a man who suffered with each bullet and who aged with each defeat.

The basic policy of Lincoln as regards the Civil War can be best expressed in his own words. "My paramount objective is to save the Union," he said. "If I could save the Union without freeing any slaves I would do it, and if I could save it by freeing all the slaves I would do it; and if I could save it by freeing some and leaving others alone I would also do that. What I do about slavery and the colored race, I do because it helps to save the Union; and what I forbear, I forbear because I do not believe it would save the Union."

Lincoln faced serious opposition even within his own party during the war. No little trouble was given him by Salmon P. Chase, his Secretary of the Treasury whose aspirations for the presidency kept him in continual opposition to Lincoln's policies.

Lincoln's troubles were far from over with the termination of the war. The vital reconstruction of the South was still ahead. Only the tragic effect of a crazed actor's bullet put his worries to an end.

The high point of Thomas' work as I have said is in his excellent evaluation of Lincoln as President. Thomas says that John Hay saw Lincoln as President. Thomas says that John Hay saw Lincoln "sitting like a backwoods Jupiter, hurling the thunderbolts of war and guiding the machinery of peace with a firm, steady hand. He was managing the war, the draft, and foreign relations and planning a reconstruction of the Union—and all at once."

Hay had never known anyone so wise, so gentle, and so strong. He seemed called by God for his place.

Abraham Lincoln is beautifully written as well as continually absorbing. It is excellent and important reading for laymen and experts alike. It should easily become the standard one-volume life of Lincoln for a generation to come.

From The Tower: Golden Tongued Fulton Lewis Chases The Voice

By John Martiska

Five nights a week, the "golden voice of reaction" talks to an estimated ten million people. F. Lewis Jr. is the man to whom the voice belongs. He has been called "a great reporter," a man "fearlessly on the side of truth" and "inspired by God's universal justice." He has been called many other things, too, but they are unprintable. F. Lewis Jr. is a powerful man in the highly charged political world. He has been given credit for having a hand in the destruction of OPA and getting David Lillenthal out of government service. Of course, he had to shallow hard when his big campaign for Senator Taft ended in defeat, but he is again embarked on ambitious projects. Currently, he is singing a requiem for the Voice of America and is conducting a campaign to cut waste in government spending.

Martiska

A Fumigating Job

The Voice, according to Lewis, needs "complete fumigation." The "reds, pinks, and leftists in the State Department need to be flushed out." Before, that is under the Democrats, our foreign policy was "craven and maneuvering," now it is based on what he calls "moral terms." F. Lewis Jr. did not elaborate on what he meant by all these catchy phrases but presumably his audience is well versed in what he means by them. He has been attacking the State Department and the Voice for some time now, so his fulminations are of no consequence. The only point of interest here is that Joe McCarthy is now investigating the Voice and a lot of the things he is saying are the same things that F. Lewis Jr. has been saying for some time. Perhaps there is a connection.

The People's Gestapo

What is really eye-catching, though, is his plan to combat waste and graft by what he calls a "gestapo of the people" to help rid the government of "evil men." He contends that waste is going on at the "grass roots" level and that is where it should be exposed and corrected. This isn't a bad analysis but his manner of going about doing it is poor.

What he desires is to have people send to Washington all cases of waste or graft. A special commission would sort and check all reports. The idea is good on paper but I don't see how it will work out in practice for it will give every disgruntled clerk, every passed-over minor official, and every dissatisfied citizen a chance to "get even" with someone whom they think has treated them harshly.

After That Culprit

Undoubtedly, some cases of waste could be found but only after a rigorous checking of facts. With reports pouring in from all over the nation, an enormous staff would be needed to verify each story, investigate it, and then prosecute the culprit. His idea is to cut down on government employees, but with this "people's gestapo" plan, he would add a huge number.

College Will Have American Legion HS Oratory Finals

The American Legion has designated Providence College as the site of its state finals for the Sixteenth Annual High School Oratorical contest, it was learned Monday afternoon by the COWL.

High school students from the state entered in the contest will invade the campus on Saturday, March 28, at 6:30 p.m. for sessions in Albertus Magnus Hall.

Prizes of $4,000 to $500 will be awarded to four successful candidates. The grants will be valid at any college or university in the U. S.

The orations and extemporaneous feature talks will be based upon some phase of the Constitution. The purpose of the contest is to develop a deeper knowledge and understanding of the government and its constitution.

The Rev. Edward Halton, O.P., Dean of Freshmen, will be the contest chairman; Mr. Frank J. Calcagni will act as host to the competitors.

VA Payments Tax Free

The Veterans Administration has announced that "payments to veterans benefits administered by the VA are tax-free and need not be reported computing income tax." These payments include educational benefits under P.L. 16, P.L. 346, and P.L. 550.

Soph Dance In April Will Include Tee-Vee

The Sophomore Class will reopen the Providence College social season after Easter, with an informal dance on Friday, April 10th.

Since the Marciano-Walcott championship bout is scheduled for the same night, it has been arranged to have a television set in the Student Lounge in Harkins Hall, so the students can enjoy both events.

Tickets will not be sold in the usual manner, it was announced by Robert Prairie who is serving as co-chairman of the dance along with Stephen Marry. Instead of the customary ticket collecting, the bid for entrance will be a stamped insignia of the college placed on the hand for the price of admission.

Dancing will be from 8 until midnight, and music will be by Frank Barone.

According to Gerald Romberg, class vice-president, some twenty co-ed colleges have been notified of the dance, and approximately three hundred young ladies have been invited.

"Considering that this is the first post-lenten activity at P. C.," said Romberg, "more than a capacity crowd is expected to attend."

BARRISTERS

The Barristers will debate the University of R. I. tomorrow at 3:30 p.m. in A-100. All students and their friends are invited.

R.O.T.C. MOVIES TONIGHT
The weekly R.O.T.C. movie will be held this evening at 7:00 p.m. in A-100. "Up Front in North Africa" and "Fighting Words" fill tonight's bill.

Fr. Carey Speaks On Marriage Vows

The Rev. William J. Carey, curate at the Cathedral of SS. Peter and Paul, told the Lenten Marriage Forum last Sunday evening that everything in the marriage contract is for the benefit and security of the future husband and wife who are signing that contract.

Father Carey explained at great length the preliminary instructions which the Church must give before the couple can enter into the married state. His topic covered the announcement of the banns, the baptismal record, the marriage contract itself, the contract in case of mixed marriages, dispensations, and other important topics.

In his lecture, Father Carey adhered to a level of prudence and practicality, warning the audience of the "many dangers in mixed marriages."

The Church zealously guards her laws, said Father Carey, but she makes provision for exceptional cases.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Breckel, parents of three children, will address the forum next Sunday at 7:30 p.m. in Albertus Magnus Auditorium. They will talk on the necessity of partnership in marriage.

MRS. JOSEPH L. McANDREW OF WATCH HILL, guest of honor at the forthcoming Family Hour to be held on campus April 12, poses with nine of her ten children. Mrs. McAndrew gave birth to her last child in January, by Caesarian section.

— Letters To The Editor —

To the Editors:

For as long as I can remember, someone has been telling me that I shouldn't do this and that I shouldn't do that, etc. Now I have been in college for three years, and am beginning to feel that I have reached the point when I don't have to have someone tell me what to do.

That is why when the Student Congress posted its notices in the student lounge, I thought to myself, "Why all this stress on cleanliness? What do they think we're going to do, grind cigarette ashes in the floor, leave lunch bags around, throw scrap papers on the floor, etc.?"

Well now I've see why they had to post the notices. After all the work done by the maintenance department to make the place look like something, the men who perpetually lounge around the place, have resorted to their childhood habits of letting someone else pick up after them. The surprising thing is that most of them are upper-classmen who should know better.

Well, I think it's about time they grew up. They're in college now. Mama's at home. So they should try acting like men and pick up after themselves for a change.

Yours for a cleaner lounge
(and campus)

To the Editor:

From the time of the foundation of Providence College, the banner social event of the year has been the Junior Prom. This is a tradition of the college in which all classes have always joined.

In keeping with this practice, the Junior Class warmly and cordially invites the Senior, Sophomore, and Freshman classes to attend the Junior Prom at the Sheraton-Biltmore Ballroom in Providence on Friday, April 24, 1953.

At this, the highlight of the social calendar, and the only formal of the Spring season, will be reached the third Friday after our return from the Easter recess, we advise our fellow collegians to complete their arrangements for the Prom during the forthcoming vacation. For those who so desire, a budget system is available.

For the Junior Class,
Richard V. Horne,
President

As many positions on the COWL staff were formerly filled by now retired Seniors, this paper has several vacancies in its Business, Advertising, and Circulation Departments.

These positions are open to all students able to fill them adequately.

Any student interested in becoming a member of any of these COWL departments can do so by contacting either George Reagan or Tom Gilligan at the office of this publication in Donnelly Hall.

Freshmen To Hold Yearly Spring Hop

Friday, May 8, has been selected as the date of this year's Frosh Frolic, it was announced today by Marc DeNegre, Freshman Class President. Ralph Stuart and his orchestra will supply the music, with dancing from eight o'clock until midnight.

Harkins Hill, the scene of the annual affair, will be decorated with a spring flower theme.

Plans are in a tentative stage, and an important meeting of all the committees will be held today, Wednesday, in Room 214 at noon. The committees, as announced by President DeNegre, will be posted.

PHIL-INS

ROTC's Shoot-Up Virginia Cavaliers, Incident May Provoke New Civil War

PHIL GRIFFIN

In the "I wonder what happened to" department we come across the Providence College Rifle Team, coached by ROTC staff member, Sgt. Allen. The Dominican Daniel Boones have been extremely active all winter long, but they have been the victims of negligent, rather non-existent, coverage.

The boys deserve a little notice. After all, they were over the five hundred mark, with eight wins against six losses. A match on April 18th with nine other TC ROTC units remains.

Griffin

Scanning the list of victims claimed by Allen's lads, one must sit up and take some notice. Temple, Penn State, Virginia, Harvard, Boston College, Trinity, Washington and Jefferson, and Dartmouth all were outshot, or what ever it is one rifle team does to another, by the local boys. Unfortunately, but in keeping with the recent trend, Holy Cross' Crusaders conquered the Friars, along with Brown, Coast Guard, Boston U., Rhode Island (horrors!) and John Carroll.

In the New England sectional matches the team finished ninth out of twenty members. Not bad for a club in its second season. Against Trinity they scored 1348 out of a possible 1500, against Virginia 1852 out of a possible 2000. Just about enough to bring about a renewal of The War.

Fire in Own Back Yard

Sgt. Allen, a battle-tested veteran himself, is in the rather enviable position of looking forward to the return of his entire squad next season. And veiled references have been made to scouts turning up three prospective freshmen, one of whom is in the national championship class. By the way, the team didn't spend half its time trekking around the nation with rifles on their shoulders and cartridge belts around their waists. Rather, in most of the matches, they fired right here in their own back yard, ultimately submitting the scorers to a national board for comparison. However, they were given to some wandering.

The sports page might well be a little crowded next year, with the hockey team and the rifle team both on the way up and clamoring for recognition. Good luck to you both.

Frank Sherman deserves a nice pat on the back for his excellent job on the newly instituted Freshman Decathlon. Although the meet didn't produce any Bob Mathias (and nobody claimed it would) it was an unqualified success, showing evidence of fine handling.

Quantity and Quality

A few observations on baseball might be prudent to round this thing out. . . . Ryder, suffering from a charley-horse, finally got down behind the bat Monday after patrolling the outfield for a few sessions. Eddie not only qualifies as a top flight receiver, but as a better than average talker as well. An incessant line of chatter is rapidly becoming the ear mark of the Friars' batting champ of last year. We always knew he had it in him. . . . McQueeney, another catching prospect, is the only basketballer making a serious bid for two monograms. . . . The pitching staff is apparently well stocked in quality as well as quantity, but that is only a "paper" observation. The boys haven't exerted themselves to date. Of course, Hurricane Field is the ideal place to locate a sore arm and try it on for size. . . .

Beaver Power continues to move from spot to spot in gypsy-like manner, and it appears that he's getting a battle every place he turns. Last Saturday he was even behind the plate for awhile, but that's like carrying coals to Newcastle. . . .

Photog Gets the Bird

McAleer, having survived a fine hockey season, hopes he won't be ducking any flying missiles while on the mound. . . . Problems in putting a sports page together—Cowl photog Gerry Maldavir and I waited about forty minutes for some eager soul to get thrown out at first while running out a grounder. Nothing materialized. And we didn't even care if he was safe, just so long as we got a good shot. . . . Frosh Decathlon winner Canary ran so fast in the act of getting his picture taken that he came out blurred. Would have broken some record had he continued, no doubt. . . . Photographers are a hardy lot. Malvadir tried one shot from behind the catcher without so much as a mask on. Was looking for an umpire's eye view of the proceedings, but the catcher in the picture obliterated the pitcher in the picture, if you follow me. . . .

Martin Will Carry Large Squad With Nine Pitchers

By Bill Reardon

With the advent of more spring-like weather, Hal Martin's Friar hopefuls have been able to get in some really intensive practice, including several intra-squad games, probably the best criterion for determining a player's ability.

This year's squad figures to be the largest in quite some time, due to the fact that Mr. Martin intends to retain about nine pitchers, or all that show promise. The other end of the battery will also be heavily stocked, with four catchers standing a good chance of sticking.

Veterans Mullins, Buniva, O'Neill, Drury, Sullivan, and Podziewski will be joined by newcomers McAleer, Lynch, and Feeney if things remain as they stand now. This rather bulky crew of pitchers is necessitated by the crowded schedule the Friars face this spring. In practice sessions thus far, no twirler has exerted himself unduly, rather they prefer not to run the risk of a sore arm.

Behind the plate Eddie Ryder and Bill Quinn are returning letter winners of more than average ability. Both are highly polished performers. Junior Hank McQueeney and sophomore Tom Brayton will help carry out the catching chores. Ordinarily, playing behind Ryder and Quinn would be rather discouraging, but Eddie and Bill will probably be in some spot in the lineup every day, so McQueeney and Brayton might well see a good deal of action.

There isn't much to report from the outfield, still a wide open proposition, with only Bob Grenier, last year's centerfielder, sure of a spot. To date, a rotation system has been put in use by Martin with virtually everyone of the squad patrolling one of the three fields during a practice session.

Jerry Romberg appears to be the only one certain of an infield berth, although Jimmy White has shown well at short. Romberg, rapidly becoming a highly polished pivot man, figures to be back at his old second base spot. Great things are expected of the young sophomore who has a season's experience already behind him.

First base has been a battle between Dick Howe, a sophomore, and junior Andy Sullivan, but lately Beaver Power has been working out at the bag also. Third base is still anybody's guess.

The problem remains for Martin to replace the extremely big bats of Dick Duignan, Buzz Barry, and Howie McGuinness, while locating a first sacker to succeed the experienced McDonald.

Kanary And Bob Mullins Are Winners Of First Decathlon

By John J. Salesses

The individual winners of the first annual Freshman Decathlon Championships were George Kanary in Class A and Robert Mullins in Class B. This highly successful meet was well attended and brought much attention to the track squad as well as contributing to its future progress. Approximately twenty frosh partook of this event, which was under the direction of Frank Sherman, who is the assistant to track coach Harry A. Coates.

Kanary scored 97 points to win in his division of the decathlon. Included in this total were firsts in the 45 yd. dash, the 160 yd. dash, and the middle distance run of 800 yards. The winner placed second in the broad jump, baseball throw, and the shot put. Bob Washburn was the next highest points-scorer in Class A. Washburn won the low hurdles and the pole vault. His final total was 92 5/6 points. Third in Class A was Bill Nelson with 90 1/2 points. He won the broad jump and the baseball throw. Other scorers were John Grady, fourth; Gene Amaral, fifth, and Frank Mastrola, sixth.

In Class B, Robert Mullins scored 99 1/2 points to overcome the other competitors. Miles O'Connor was second in this division with 88 1/2. Mullins came in first in five events to amass his high score. These events were the 45 yard dash, low hurdles, broad jump, 160 yard dash, and the 800. Although it appears that young Bob had a romp, that was not the case. Competition was close in almost every event. O'Connor won the shot put and the pole vault. Roger Bellanger was third in Class B and won the 35 lb. weight event. His total score was 80 1/2 points.

Grady was another first place winner in Class A. He won the shot put and 35 lb. weight event. In Class B, Walt Malecki and Carl Guglietti won the baseball throw and high jump, respectively. Malecki tossed the ball 288 feet and Guglietti jumped an even 5 feet to win their events.

Other competitors, all of whom did very well, were F. Cappelli, Russ Mercier, Laur Alofson, F. Paolontanio, Bill Scanlon, D. Fitzpatrick, and John Bruce. These mentioned above competed in Class B.

After the three days during which the events were run the coaches were able to discover the talent of track in the freshman class.

All performances of the winners set records for Providence College Intramural Track and Field competition. The records are divided into two classes. Class A, composed of men who have been or still are members of the varsity or Freshman Track teams; and Class B, men who have never engaged in Providence College Track and Field competition, and who have never scored a point in their respective state championships while in high school.

Biltmore Beats Friars In Finals

By Bill Flanagan

Last Monday night in Harkins Hall the Biltmore A. C. joined the Kent County Club as basketball champions of Providence College when they pulled away from the Aquinas Friars in the last quarter and won, 60-44.

It was strictly a battle of the upper classes, as the junior-manned Biltmore five emerged from a tight duel and won over the all-senior Friars going away.

It was an exciting season for Aquinas Hall students. Eight teams qualified for the playoffs, with the league leading Biltmore squad playing the role of favorites. However, the Friars, fourth place finishers during the regular season, almost walked off with the laurels. After a 71-54 loss to the Hartford Eagles in the opening round, the Friars battled their way to the finals of the double-elimination tournament, finally surprising the undefeated juniors last Thursday night, necessitating Monday night's game.

After an opening game loss to these same Friars in the first game of the season, Biltmore breezed to nine straight regular season wins and three tourney victories before running afoul of the seniors again. They finally overcame the hex with Monday night's convincing victory before a packed house.

Both teams boasted some of the league's outstanding players. The Friars had Archie Archambeault, high-jumping ace, who formerly held the league scoring record, along with Red Reidy, one of the loop's high scorers, and Eddie Sullivan and Eddie Tenero, both of whom played extremely well in the tourney. Big, rugged Larry Brady, Tenero, Sid Bassett and Archambeault gave the Friars the edge in the height department.

In Don Podziewski and Ray Cordon, Biltmore possessed two of the league's finest operatives. Cordon was to Biltmore what Andy McGowan was to Manhattan. He set up the baskets, played a strong, though rough defensive game, and did more than his share of scoring. Podziewski, about the league's tallest man, was the circuit's most prolific scorer and rebounder. Carl Buniva also helped the juniors in the rebounding and scoring departments.

IF YOU CAN WIN THESE WINGS YOU CAN EARN OVER $5,000 A YEAR AFTER GRADUATION

Important facts about the opportunities for YOU as a Commissioned Officer—Pilot or Aircraft Observer—in the United States Air Force

Must I be a college graduate to take Aviation Cadet Training?

No. But you must have completed a minimum of 60 semester hours or 90 quarter hours toward a degree. In addition, under the new Aviation Cadet training program, you must be between the ages of 19 and 26½ years, unmarried, and in good physical condition—with high requirements for eyes, ears, heart and teeth.

How long before I get my commission?

60 calendar weeks. You will receive the finest aviation training in the world—training that not only equips you to fly modern military aircraft but prepares you for executive and administrative work as well. At the completion of your training, you will have acquired a commission as a 2nd Lieutenant and the coveted silver wings of the United States Air Force.

Where do I take my training?

Pre-flight training will be at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas. Primary, basic and advanced training will be taken at any one of the many Air Force bases located throughout the South and Southwest.

What happens if I flunk the training course?

Every effort is made to help students whose progress is unsatisfactory. You can expect extra instructions and whatever individual attention you may require. However, if you fail to complete the course as an Aviation Cadet, you will be required to serve a two-year enlistment to fulfill the minimum requirement under Selective Service laws. Veterans who have completed a tour of military service will be discharged upon request if they fail to complete the course.

What pay do I get as an Aviation Cadet? And after?

As an Aviation Cadet you draw $109.20 a month pay. In addition, you get summer and winter uniforms, flight clothes, equipment, food, housing, medical and dental care and insurance . . . all free. After you are commissioned a 2nd Lieutenant you will be earning $5,300.00 a year—with unlimited opportunities for advancement.

Are all Aviation Cadets trained to be Pilots?

No. You can choose between becoming a Pilot or an Aircraft Observer. Men who choose the latter will become commissioned officers in Navigation, Bombardment, Radar Operation, or Aircraft Performance Engineering.

Do Aircraft Observers get flying training, too?

Yes. Aircraft Observer Cadets receive approximately 200 hours of "in the air" instructions. The primary phase of Aircraft Observer training is the same for all branches (navigation, bombardment, etc.). The basic and advanced phases of training vary, depending on the specific course you pursue.

What kind of airplanes will I fly?

You will fly jets. The Pilot Cadet takes his first instructions in a light, civilian-type plane of approximately 100 horsepower, then graduates to the 600 horsepower T-6 "Texan" before receiving transition training in jets. You then advance gradually until you are flying such famous first-line aircraft as F-86 Sabre, F-89 Scorpion, B-47 Stratojet, B-50 Superfortress. Observer Cadets take flight instructions in the C-47 Dakota, the T-29 Convair, and the TB-50 Superfortress before advancing to first-line aircraft such as the F-89 Scorpion, B-47 Stratojet.

Will my commission be in the Regular Air Force or Reserve?

Aviation Cadet graduates, both Pilots and Aircraft Observers, get Reserve commissions as 2nd Lieutenants and become eligible to apply for a regular Air Force Commission when they have completed 18 months of active duty.

How long must I remain in Service?

After graduation from the Aviation Cadet Program, you are tendered an indefinite appointment in the United States Air Force Reserve and are called to active duty with the United States Air Force for a period of three years.

What recreation and leisure time will I have as a Cadet?

Discipline will be rigid—especially for the first few weeks. However, it is not all work. You'll find swimming pools, handball courts, movies and other forms of recreation on the post.

Where will I be stationed when I get my commission?

You may be stationed anywhere in the world . . . Hawaii, Far East, Europe, Puerto Rico, elsewhere. During your tour of duty, you will be in close touch with the latest developments in new flying techniques. You will continue to build up your flying experience and later should have no difficulty securing a CAA commercial pilot or navigator rating.

Your future is assured if you can qualify! Here's what to do:

- 1 Take a transcript of your college credits and a copy of your birth certificate to your nearest Air Force Base or Recruiting Station. Fill out the application they give you.
- 2 If application is accepted, the Air Force will arrange for you to take a physical examination at government expense.
- 3 Next, you will be given a written and manual aptitude test.
- 4 If you pass your physical and other tests, you will be scheduled for an Aviation Cadet training class. The Selective Service Act allows you a four-month deferment while waiting class assignment.

3 Friar Students Attend Workshop

Three delegates from Providence College attended the recent social welfare workshop of the National Federation of Catholic College Students at Boston College during the past weekend.

Richard Havens, a junior, addressed the delegates concerning juvenile delinquency and its problems. Others to attend from Providence were Charles Tangney, '54, and Robert Murphy, '54.

Future plans for the campus unit of N.F.C.C.S. include the furtherance of Overseas Service Program activities and the propagation of a May Day observance.

government. We are now feeling the results of the science of Huxley, the philosophy of Hegel, and the government of Marx, he remarked.

An Outstanding Event

In his opening remarks the priest told the guests that the Communion breakfast was the "most outstanding event in this Hall since it was built." He urged the sons to appreciate their fathers. "It is never too late to thank the Eternal Father but sometimes it is too late to thank our earthly fathers."

Father Casey introduced Father Slavin to the Communion breakfast group and welcomed the fathers to the campus.

The total number of fathers attending was 116. Massachusetts topped the list for the number of fathers attending from one state. The Bay State had 44 fathers in attendance. Connecticut was second with 43 fathers, Rhode Island was third with 21, New York fourth with five and New Jersey fifth with three fathers in attendance.

A further breakdown of the figures shows that the "dads" traveled from the cities of Ramsey, East Orange and Glen Ridge in New Jersey and the cities of New York, Portchester, Beacon, Newburgh and Jackson Heights in the Empire state.

Come From 29 Mass. Cities

In Massachusetts fathers came from the cities of Fall River, Boston (3), Sagamore, North Andover, Segregan-set, Pittsfield (5), New Bedford (8), Roxbury, Worcester (2), Webster, Belmont, Whitinsville, Milford, Newton (2), Lexington, Lowell, Sharon, South Braintree, Marblehead, Whitman, Northbridge, Lynn, Newtonville, Westfield, Dighton, Falmouth, Mattapoisett, Chelsea and West Roxbury.

The Rhode Island total shows Newport topping the list with 13 "dads". Other cities represented in Rhode Island were: Pawtucket, Westerly (2), Portsmouth (2) and Tiverton (2).

Connecticut had 17 cities represented with the largest number, 11, coming from New Haven. The cities sending fathers were: Hartford (4), Waterbury (8), East Hartford (2), Manchester, Madison, Hamden, Bristol, Willimantic, Stonington, Wethersfield, Elmwood (2), Watertown, Wauregan, Mildale (2), Moosup and Torrington.
