Delegation To National Assembly

This week, the Providence College International Relations Club will send a delegation to the 1966 National Model General Assembly representing the United States. The delegation consisting of Thomas Milano, Legal Committee; Robert Calabrese, Political Committee; Jeremy James, Economic Committee; James McKenna, Political Committee; Jeremy Hosley, Legal Committee; John Butler, Economic Committee; Brian St. Germain, Special Political Committee; James Hosley, Legal Committee; Andy Dorman, Social and Humanitarian Committee; William Lanzi, Social Humanitarian Committee; John Dawler, Special Political Committee; Peter Nikita-bis, Colonial Committee; William Stroszek, Secretary; and Robert Nieszko, Cowl representative. Also accompanying the delegation will be Joseph Hadley, Chairman of the Legal Committee and an officer of the National Model General Assembly Continuations Committee.

The delegation will stay at the Stratford Hilton Hotel. They expect to encounter major difficulties in the International Relations Club and will be led in intelligent inquiry and discussion.

We operate strictly according to United Nations procedure. We meet in Committee to debate resolutions. In these meetings, the various resolutions are recommended or discarded according to their merits. Those recommended are placed before the Plenary Session for further debate.

Chairman Announces Commencement Plans

Patrick Gallagher, Commencement Weekend chairman, reports that Weekend planning is now in its final stages. He wishes to acknowledge the contributions of his committee, consisting of Joseph Brennon, Star Night; Rocco Calaredella, prom; Malcolm Gill, favors; John Reel, boat ride and outing; George Dush, picnic, and Val Lombard, bonds. In charge of bid sales are Richard Devereux and Ray mond Barrett, with publicity in charge of bid sales

The weekend will start on June 2 with stag night, complete with refreshments and entertainment. On Friday the commencement ball will be held in Raymond Hall. After much deliberation and after considering the unavoidability of other suitable locations, it was felt that this was the most ideal location. This year’s hall will be both formal and casual, with separate areas for the seniors and their dates. Refreshments will be available Saturday at noon. A boat will depart from Galline on a four-hour cruise around Block Island. After docking, the seniors will drive to the Carlton Hotel in Narragansett where a banquet will be served. This will be followed by an evening of dancing and refreshments. Sunday afternoon a picnic open to parents will be held at Bell Farm, with refreshments. Bids will go on sale shortly after Easter vacation. With this as general outline, the committee is making every attempt to insure that the price of bids will be lower than in past years.

Dillon Club Nominations

The executive members of the Dillon Club have disclosed plans for elections to be held Monday, March 26. Any members wishing to run for office in the elections may obtain nomination blanks in the Dillon Club office in the basement of Aquinas Hall. The last day to acquire nomination papers is today.

The election will be held on Monday, March 26, from 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Voting will be held in the Alumni Hall cafeteria annex.

These elections will be held for all positions in the Dillon Club, from the presidency to the two representatives from each class.

All information concerning the specific qualifications for these elections has been posted on the Dillon Club bulletin board on the first floor of Harris Hall.

The executive board members have asked all Dillon Club members to participate fully in the elections "to thus assure good results.”

EXAM CONFLICTS

Due to the many complaints about last semester’s examination schedule, an attempt is being made to correct any flagrant error in conflict or extreme overload in study schedule. Anyone with a suggestion or complaint in the present system should see the dean of Men, Cune, 68, Room 302, Meagher Hall.

A Suggestion for Seniors

Tentative plans for Senior Week have been announced. These plans include a departure from tradition in that Providence College will sponsor an on-campus affair held at Raymond Hall. This location has been the target of scattered criticism—all negative—none constructive. We should note that this date any ideas to change the location must be offered—because another suitable location could not be found. However, there is one suggestion the COWL would like to offer.

Last year's Junior Prom, most of us would agree, suffered from the absence of a dinner. Thus far, the plans for this year's Prom also exclude a dinner. The principle explanation set forth, for this exclusion, consists of an attempt to make available to the class the lower possible bids because the other graduation expenses. However, the cost of such a dinner—for such a large number—would be but a few dollars extra. The COWL is of the opinion that this sacrifice on our part, but what better way can be accepted the appointment what a tough job this is. The editor of this paper, or any other paper for that matter, must accept responsibility for everything that appears in the paper, even the "Letters to the Editor," unless a letter happens to be one that is well-received. In that case, the writer of the letter is praised, which is as it should be. If the letter is not well-received, then invariably someone will approach me and call me an idiot, or some such name, for printing it.

Perhaps the hardest part of this job is the writing of this column every week. It seems that no matter what I might say, someone does not like it. That, however, is probably the essence of it all. If no one complained, I would wonder if the paper was serving any purpose at all.

I hope what I have said so far does not make the newly elected editor think twice about his decision to accept the post. He will not regret the experience. I certainly have no regrets. As editor-in-chief of the Cowl I have met a great number of people who otherwise would have remained anonymous to me. And most of all, despite the well-intentioned criticism (and some not so well-intentioned criticism), I have derived a great deal of satisfaction from producing the paper every week. It is quite an experience to see the Cowl grow, in the space of a few days, from the point where it is little more than a few ideas to its final form that is distributed on Wednesdays.

It can be a pain in the neck, but well worth the trouble.

Suggestion for Everyone

At the moment we are in the middle of a bloody and vicious war in South Viet Nam. It is a war which has caused much controversy and one which will be probably endured for the usual last-minute and post-mortem eulogies. Thus, all who are interested would be heard and there would be no cause for the usual last-minute and post-mortem eulogies.

We believe that this suggestion is both reasonable and feasible, and that it should be offered to the seniors for consideration. It would be well if a class meeting was called and thus all the seniors would be given an opportunity to comment on their weekend. Thus, all who are interested would be heard and there would be no cause for the usual last-minute and post-mortem eulogies.

Perhaps the hardest part of this job is the writing of this column every week. It seems that no matter what I might say, someone does not like it. That, however, is probably the essence of it all. If no one complained, I would wonder if the paper was serving any purpose at all.

WAKE ME WHEN IT'S OVER

The trouble with early morning classes is that you're too sleepy. At late morning classes you're too hungry. At early afternoon classes you're too hungry again. The fact is—and we might as well face it—there is no way to take it!

What shall we do then? Abandon our colleges to the Ivy League? Our early morning classes then would become the Double-Edge Style Blade, but also in the Inject Style Blade.

Wrobert promptly answered, "Perennial Herb." He looked at the psychologist and said, "To be honest," he paused. "I don't know too much about bananas. But I do know that after a banana is placed under the pillow of the subject, a freshman named Wrobert Wright, when Wrobert was fast asleep, the psychologist turned on a soft recording of the night. It went on all night, after the trouble had ended. We finally said, "Is the banana plant a tree?" He replied, "Perennial Serb." Finally, they asked him, "What has Mijla Cvetnik been called?" Wrobert replied, "Perennial Herb." He added, "Moreover," he said, "Personna is available not westward expansion after the Louisiana Purchase of 1803."

The Archduke Ferdinand was assassinated in 1914 at Sarajevo by a young nationalist named Mijla Cvetnic, who has been called "The Trigger of World War I." He was born in July, 1899, became head chief of Swaziland. He reigned as the world's tallest peak, around 2372 B.C. It is known as the world's largest art gallery, the Louvre Museum in Paris. Built between 1545 and 1897 by various French monarchs, it exceeds 408.9 acres in area. The longest recorded reign in history was that of the Sixth Dynasty Egyptian Pharaoh Pepi II, who ascended to the throne around 2272 B.C. at the age of six and reigned 91 years. The longest current reign is that of King Sobhuza II, the head chief of Swaziland. He was born in July, 1899, became ruler at the age of 5 months and has reigned continuously for some 66 years.

But monarchs, regardless of the length of their reign, have always been great patrons and protectors of the arts. For example, perhaps the world's greatest private collection of art belongs to Francis Joseph II, reigning prince of Liechtenstein. An earlier ruler, King Francis I of France, owned the most valuable painting in the world, the "Mona Lisa" by da Vinci; but the only trophy to be used was to decorate, of all places, his bathroom.

Peace Corps Volunteers Speak at Panel Discussion

Several Peace Corps volunteers who recently returned from foreign assignments visited the college last week and related their experiences during an informal panel discussion in the Aquinas Hall lounge. They were Mrs. Chandler Johnson, Mrs. Ginsberg and Stephen Saunders.

Richard Deasy of the History Department introduced the volunteers and prefaced the discussion with a brief description of Peace Corps history, progress, and goals. Mr. Saunders spoke of his role in a geology project in Ghana. As a geologist, Saunders said he missed the “very intimate contact with people that a teacher or doctor might find.” He also said that the tense political situation in Ghana limited his activities in community development and youth organization.

Mrs. Ginsberg was in the Philippines as a teacher. Her first and most difficult task was to “understand the country and her place within it.” She stated that a major problem for her was involved in adjusting to the very slow pace of Philippine life.

Mrs. Johnson was involved in community development and home economics instruction as an organizer of “4-C” clubs, the counterpart in El Salvador of the U.S. “D-H” clubs. Mrs. Johnson’s husband, who was scheduled but unable to attend Wednesday’s discussion, developed hybrid tomato plants which grow in El Salvador’s dry climate and introduced the butter nut squash which has a higher vitamin C content than the native squash. The couple introduced adobe brick and tile roofing to replace the grass and rice mats that the people had been using. They also taught them to use doors to keep birds and pigs from wandering into houses.

The panel members were asked why so many volunteers go back to their assignments after two-year terms of service are up. The consensus of the panel was that they wanted to see how the projects they started were carried on by the natives after they had gone. Reports that Corps returnees found it very difficult to readjust to the American way of life were exaggerated in the newspapers, according to the panelists.

On Thursday and Friday a Peace Corps information booth was maintained in Alumni Hall. Pamphlets and Peace Corps applications were distributed. Applications can be obtained from Mr. Deasy in the History Department Office in McDermott Hall.

“It must be noted that each delegation is required to consider questions in the light of and in the framework of their country’s general position. This is necessary to insure a lack of chaos in committee and the Plenary Session. As it stands now, the Providence College delegation expects to be quite successful in its movements and operations while at the N.M.G.A.”

There will probably be a large feature article appearing next week dealing with the history of the Providence College delegation at this year’s National Model General Assembly.

Professor I. M. Bochenski Speaks To College Students

Thursday evening, March 3, a lecture was delivered at Providence College on the topic of "Why a Catholic University still exists." Professor Bochenski is presently Rector of the Catholic University of Fribourg. He stated that he was not attempting to pose any dogmatic proposals but just advancing some philosophical views.

He asked the question of what do we mean by autonomy? He stated that autonomy of the university is self-government by the professors themselves. The lecture indicated that there was some confusion in regards to autonomy in that there is a failure to recognize the fact that autonomy does not exist between the two separate rights of teaching and freedom to rule. "They are not identical and you cannot have one without the other," in Dr. Bochenski's view. A second question posed by the noted professor was, "Is the university want autonomy? He pointed out that there are two things being unique and unlike any other institute in society. Here again Dr. Bochenski pointed out a distinction between a university and a secondary school other than a university passes "ready made" science to its students while a university is making science. "Because it is so unique and so basic in society it should not be subordinate to the state or the Church, but held on an equal level with them."

"It has been proposed," said Dr. Bochenski, "that professors are too impractical to manage a university" and only practical people should have such a position of authority. The Swiss education system, in the historical analysis of the Renaissance and showing that the purpose of the period did not aim to control the artists, he demonstrated the results which can possibly come from the position of autonomy. Putting forth a final question, Professor Bochenski asked, what does autonomy consist of? He saw as the five basic rights of the university as representative; right to self-rule; right to elect their own representatives; right to pose such questions and, in his opinion, a university is no way a contra- diction to the concept of a university. For, in his opinion, a Catholic university is more of a university. He believes that the true notion of a university has been lost in our society. Science has been made an end, and the human being is ignored. Science is secondary and man is primary. It should be dealt with in accordance with a set of values, and such values are found in a Catholic university. Freedom of scientific research is bound by the truth and is ever striving for truth; dogma is that end—truth, revealed by God. Dr. Luyten concludes by saying, "Let us not throw away what has been built up by the efforts of others; let us be ourselves and be open to the future."

Dr. N. Luyten Speaks

On Wednesday, March 2, Dr. Norbert M. Luyten spoke to the Providence College faculty on the topic of "Why a Catholic University still exists." Dr. Luyten, form- erly rector of the University of Fribourg, began his address by stating that he was not attempting to pose any dogmatic proposals but just advancing some philosophical views.

He stated that autonomy of the university at this time is no longer an institute adapted to our world. Five reasons were given to substantiate the view taken by the Belgian critic in First University. The Swiss education system cultivates a ghetto mentality which prevents contact with the world. Secondly, there is an attitude of superiority held by Catholic universities that they possess what is really true. Thirdly, a university has no place in a pluralistic society. The fourth reason was that there is no provision made as to a university substantially separated from the rest of Christianity. In final reason, which Dr. Luyten termed the critical most basic argument, was that there is no question of separation between a university and the character of a Catholic. The purpose of a university is research and such an objective is in compatible with a prescribed faith in which dogma is considered absolute, decision can not be questioned. In defense of the Catholic university, the speaker pointed out that Catholics have ethics which order their way must be safeguarded; that here in the United States there are no Catholic trade unions or political parties so therefore the regime to which education is placed upon the university. He went on to say that such a regimentation may possibly be approved by Catholics can be attributed to past so-called ghetto generations. In response to the charge that there is no place for a Catholic in a pluralistic society, he stated that by the very concept of pluralism there is a place for varied ideas and beliefs, and a society which has no diversity ceases to be considered a pluralistic community. Further, Dr. Luyten, demonstrated that Catholics are communicating with and drawing them selves closer to other Christian religions. However, before such material exchanges can take place one must understand his own position; this is the role which a Catholic institution would play: the instruction of the Catholic in the fundamentals of his faith.

The noted philosopher went on to say that a Catholic university is no way a contradiction to the concept of a Catholic university. He believes that the true notion of a university has been lost in our society. Science has been made an end, and the human being is ignored. Science is secondary and man is primary. It should be dealt with in accordance with a set of values, and such values are found in a Catholic university. Fernando Soria: Four Years at PC

Fernando Soria is an energetic, level headed, young gentleman from Bolivia. Fernando is in Providence College's school of economics as a member of the class of '69.

Fernando lived in the small town of Cochabamba in the central portion of South America, referred to by him as the "heart of South America." There he attended La Salle High School and graduated in 1955 at the age of seventeen. He then had a choice of either going to a military school for two years or joining the army for eighteen months. He chose the service academy.

Once Fernando had fulfilled his military obligation he attended St. Simon University which has been founded by Spaniards about 1810. Fernando attended this university for one and a half years while also working for the Shell Oil Company. At the university he pursued the economics field. He also joined and was quite active in the "Social Christian Party." The purpose of this party was to recognize politics around Christian thought. For at this point Communism was quite prevalent and mass forms against it had to be won by means of sheer bravery and physical force.

It was at St. Simon University that Fernando came into contact with Father Timothy Sullivan, O.P., who was instrumental in having Fernando attend Providence College. So on September 10, 1962, he came to America and began attending classes at the college as a freshman. His college career has been financed by a Richard Cardinal Cushing Scholarship. Fernando, has been working fulltime at St. Mary's Hospital for the past three years.

Fernando plans to do graduate work in the field of economics, perhaps at the University of Michigan. However, his plans are not definite.

Fernando said that America is a wonderful place in which to live. He said, "Here we have so many comforts and luxuries, where in Bolivia they have very few necessities such as running water, electricity, and the like."

He compared the state of Bolivians to the state of those who live in Appalachia, making one observation distinguishing the two peoples. In Appalachia, he said, the people have hopes of a better life; in Bolivia the people have little hope, if any, for bettering their standards.

Fernando said he is "very proud" of his formal education and grateful to have had the opportunity to come to America and be educated here. But once Fernando's formal education is completed, he hopes to return to his country and instruct in one of its universities in an attempt to make Bolivia a better place in which to live.

P.C. Drill Team Meets Challenge

The Providence College Drill Team, under the command of Cadet 2/Lt. John F. Carney, P.R., captured its fourth place for its trick drill in the Ninth Annual Peter's Invitational Drill Meet.

The St. Peter's drill meet, held in Jersey City, New Jersey, according to 2nd Lt. Bryan V. Maguire, P.R. information officer, is one of the largest and most challenging meets in the nation. It is only to the National Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington, D. C., that it has equalled.

The fourth place in trick drill and a thirteenth place in regular infantry drill earned Providence a fifth place in the overall standings among 21 teams.

PROVIDENCE COLLEGE competes again on March 19 in the Beanpot Drill Meet in Boston.

Knights Council Conducts Dance; Termed Success

The newly formed Knights of Columbus Council on campus, Friar Council, has finally begun its slate of fraternal and social activities. This past Saturday night, the Council ran its first activity of the year, a dance, entitled 'Knights' Flight,' which was a huge success.

The Knights have just had a membership drive in which 40 applications were approved. The drive will have its culmination on March 11, 18, and 20 when the new candidates will take their first, second, and third degrees on the respective dates mentioned above. In Rev. I. J. Boulard, All applicants, before being allowed to enter Friar Council, must first get the approval of an admissions board, which allows only the best Catholic men on campus to join the council.

The K of C is also running a blood drive this month. On March 27, St. Lawrence Council. The council is trying to work out plans for a youth activities program in which the Knights will be helping the youth with the youth of the community.

At present, the Knights in Friar Council are working Sunday morning from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Our Lady of Fatima Hospital. They are a great help to the nurses and a welcome sight to the patients.

Friar Council is also trying to work out a joint picnic this month with their campus club where the two clubs will engage in a softball game.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor:

I have been attending this college for almost two years and each year incidents arise to clarify my understanding of what Providence College students are really like.

Last Thursday’s demonstration is a perfect example of the collision of naivete, lack of idealism, and lack of intelligence. When a group of idealists, Pacifists, enter “our” campus, the treatment given is the usual “boo” “hisss,” and “hate” things at them. Why do they do such things? One must ask, and is, one of the student’s “boozing” and “hisss”ing at the basketball games; and secondly, on their attire.

What is the significance of these trivialities if the inner person has no conception of the essence of respect. Again, there is present a shallow outlook on what is vital to Providence College. ‘Dress well, act like sportsmen at games, but don’t be concerned with anything else.’

To conclude this letter of sincere criticism, I must adhere to my belief that Providence College has not given respect to the soul and beliefs of others whose views are contrary to their own.

Respectfully,

Junior Year Abroad

Mr. Laurent Gouze, coordinating director of the Junior Year Abroad Program, has announced that there are two openings available for the 1966-1967 academic year.

Interested students should contact Mr. Gouze as soon as possible for information.

Join in the most adventurous experience of our time. Operation Match. Let the IBM 7090 (the world’s most perfect matchmaker) stamp out blind dates for you.

Two Harvard juniors started it. 100,000 students have done it. Now you and 3,400,000 college students in 1500 colleges in 50 cities can sign up and join in.

We’ll send you the Operation Match Quantitative Personality Projection Test pronto!

Then return the questionnaire with $3.00. What you’re like and what you like will be translated into your 7090’s memory file. This will give you a qualitative position of your opposite sex from this geographic area. Then it will select the five or more matches best for you.

You’re going to send your names, addresses and telephone numbers within three weeks. You’ll be sent your date is looking for. Your name will then be sent to you, and if you’re interested, the date will make the arrangements.

Dear IBM 7090,
I am 17 or over (and 27 or under) and I want to help stamp out blind dates. So mail me my questionnaire. Quick!

After his death, Doubles set in. However, politics are not the only demon of Alexey, for he is a victim of his own perverted mind. A pattern of suspicion and naivete, of good and evil, on which he is ashamed would be repeated again by him if the occasion presented itself.

Hence he is a preoccupied with the idea that he does not know of his living and sleeping life are to be understood at all. B-ball, H-ball, Squash Tournaments Start

By JOE McMENIMEN

It is tournament time around the country: in Boston, Pot- tsmouth, and Utica, with the E.C.A.C. hockey tournament; in Blacksburg, Kent, and Wichita, with the N.C.A.A. basketball tournament. Here at P.C. we have a few tournaments of our own, handball and squash are underway now, with basketball to begin shortly. All, of course, are sponsored by the P.C.I.A.A., under the supervision of Pete Louthis, director, and Bill Han- cock, head referee.

Handball and squash are being run on both a singles and doubles basis, with the basket- ball run on a club basis.

The basketball league looks like a repeat of the football league of last fall. Currently leading the pack are the Boston Celtics, and the Albertus A.鸫s. Both teams are comprised of the two teams who battled it out on the gridiron for the football championship. The Cel- leries are led by footballers, Joe Tangley, Jim Twomey, Ned Ri- don, Jim Bishop, and Dick Neal. Meanwhile Albertus A.鸫, not to be outdone, has recruited, Vinny O'Donnell, Pete Ryder, Bill Killelea, Jack Kirk, and Ken Renu- sis.

While these two teams possess the best intramural records, there will be other teams in the pack, all capable of winning the tourney. There will be eight teams in the field, with Boston and Albertus already selected from among New Bedford, New Jersey, Waterbury, Met A, Providence, Western Mass., Phi- Chi and Tri-State. Tri-State looms as a darkhorse candidate, and they are led by a former All New Hampshire basketball player, in Baby Bill Degnan from Concord.

Puckster Record Poor; But Coach Satisfied

BY TOM COVILL

The PC freshman hockey team recently wrapped up their season with a record of two wins and thirteen losses. Lack of depth, plus the loss of four players during the season were the main problems with which Coach Lou Lamoriello had to deal. Richard Johnson, one of the best prospects on the squad, was incapacitated for the entire season with a broken thumb, and three other boys were lost midway through the season due to academic diffic- ulties.

Despite their dismal record, Coach Lamoriello was very sat- isfied with the performance of a few of the frosh sextet. Their record does not tell the whole story, as is shown by the fact that seven of the thirteen losses were by two goals or less. He cited "the performances of Jerry Murphy, the team's high scorer, and Phil Sousa, and called them "two of the best penalty killers around." The basis for this statement is that only five goals were scored against them while killing fifty penalties.

While scoring goals was the major problem for the puck- sters, the defense and goals played well. Ron Martell, Jay Tivnan, Jack Otis, and Harry Towne were the defensive stand- outs. Towne, a graduate of Hope High School, merited high praise from his coach as the team's most improved player. He was deemed "a pleasant sur- prise" and given a good chance of making the varsity next year, along with three or four others.

Hawks . . .

For two years the score stands all even at two wins each. "Revenge" (to quote the St. Joe's cheering section) will come in the odd year. "Walk." Dec. and "the Hun" will be back with a fine supporting cast and the taste of pure victory will be PC's yet.

SPORTSDESK

By VINCENT MAROTTOLI

Take four busloads of students without chaperons, add an exorbitant amount of alcoholic beverages, mix them on a five-hour trip and you have the ingredients for a horror show that would rival the works of Edgar Allen Poe.

Unfortunately, I found myself in the midst of the setting for this short story. Perhaps it is more of a drama, since the script has been frequently reenacted, almost as if it were repertory theatre.

I am referring to the most recent incident which took place en route to and from the Palestra last week. And the most disturbing aspect was that such conduct seems to have become the accepted thing.

The raucous conduct exhibited by most of the students involved defeated the very purpose of sponsoring such trips: to present a good image of wholesome student support of college-sanctioned events.

It is a difficult task to isolate the sources which in- stigated such conduct. But surely, the lack of super- vision of those elements who don't know when to stop, or the perhaps good-natured intent of the drivers who stop to allow the students to furnish themselves with liquor, did nothing but fan the situation.

The cause, as I see it, originates from an assumption that such conduct is expected of a college student. It has so infested the thinking of some people that inci- dents of this nature will continue here, but at other colleges, unless proper measures are taken.

A member of the organization who subsidizes the trip should accompany the group, equipped with the authority to curb such occurrences before they expand.

The drivers of the vehicles, as representatives of the college, should be impressed with the fact that favors such as liquor stops are not wanted, and if they continue despite the warnings, will result in a sudden loss of patronage from this institution.

And if these measures are not successful, the only other solution is to prohibit any further trips of this nature.

The responsibility lies ultimately with the indi- vidual. But, as substantiated by this and similar inci- dents, the individual often lacks the will or the wisdom to restrain himself.

Thus the responsibility is shared by those groups who sponsor the trips. If they are unable to act, I sug- gest that they use their subsidy money for better pur- poses. The college will be better off without it.

"Give me an F! Give me an R!... The cheers kept coming, even in defeat and 800 miles from the scene of the end of a dream. But they had a new ring... a ring of loyalty and pride.

The Friars returned to Providence yesterday and over 500 faithful turned out for what has become a PC tradition — a rally in victory or in defeat. Nissen officially welcomed the team back and then turned the podium over to Fr. Heath. Fr. Heath asked the assembled, "Are you here to applaud or to honor?" The hall club. The honors which he said he was here to give carry with it respect for those who carried their heads high in defeat and a desire to enable their ability to bounce back even from heartbreaking losses. The manner in which the team carried itself definitely stamped it as one deserving of honor not applause.

Coach Mullaney was the next to receive the applause from the crowd and there cannot be any question that it is a man who instills much of the innate class that Friar ball clubs possess. To see yelling and screaming at the team and summarized his true feelings when he said, "I can't find the words of gratitude for what they gave me this season. The team played above its potential all year long. They're our team." Coach Mullaney pointed to the high ratings and psyching up of our opponents as extraordinary pressure that made conditions extremely difficult, but he added, "They made the ratings stand up.

Bill Blair, who ended his career as the nation's number one foul shooter, thanked the students on behalf of co-captain Jim Benedict and the rest of the team. He summed up the mood of the team in general and his own personal code by saying, "We gave away a lot of height, but we made it up in hustle.

The '65-'66 edition of the Friars left the stage as basketball champions in America. As the players sang the alma mater, the cheers began to spell out their name and fill the auditorium. "We're losing some exceptional seniors," Mullaney had said... but we are getting some great ones back. And the Hawk will die again!

Game Comments

For anyone unfamiliar with the nearly gruesome details of the R.I. team's journey into the South, they are pretty much the same. For the Rams, the problem was mostly a height disadvantage while the Friars experienced problems with both the full and a second-set of shots. Both teams kept the Friars from really moving out. Although he stumbled on Walker scoring, Ramsey decided to use the man to defense in the second half to try to increase his lead. This year his luck held out. Does Ramsey still feel the same about Walker after playing him twice and still beating the Friars? "Walker is really tremendous... great!

Coach Mullaney admitted what most of the Friar faithful feared. "We were beaten by a team that is a year ahead of us." He expressed surprise that more Friars did not use the zone since the full and a second-set games were so successful. His attempt to try and bring out the zone in the second half was probably not too much. He had obviously drove the TV audience away and then get them to drive toward the basket instead of wasting precious seconds far out from the hoop. But to beat the Hawk defense (tenacity is an understatement) would have required more from his team really had — and that

Hockey Senior Bow Out

With Great Final Effort

By Tom Hutton

Providence College's hockey seniors came up with perhaps their best game of the season last Saturday night as they dropped a 2-0 decision to a powerful Boston University sextet at the Boston Arena. The second-ranked Terriers scored their second goal in an open net as Coach Zellio Toppazzini lifted his goalie in the last minute in favor of a sixth forward. It was the final game of the season for the seniors as they would hang up with a rather disappointing record of 11-4-3.

Six seniors made their last appearances in Friar uniforms. They were: John Campbell, Bob Buonaccorsi, Andy Branchaud, Fred Sullivan, Brian Kelly and Frank Brander. Campbell was the regular goalie this season and was primarily responsible for the 7-14 to the season record. Over the last 10 games "Dane" averaged about 40 saves a game. Buonaccorsi also served goalie who spent most of his last season on the bench, put on a great performance Saturday when he came in on the second period after Campbell had been ejected for fighting. "Bonnie" allowed only one goal in 28 shots.

Branchaud, from Woonsocket, served in the middle of the defense as he centered the "check-in-line" between wings Sullivan and Brander. Branchaud had his best year ever as he finished third in goals scored and is currently ranked as fifth over-all. Known better perhaps for his hustle, Sully has been tabbed the "Hammer" of the Providence squad. Incidentally Sully took Sunday off and reported Monday for baseball practice where it looks like he has a starting outfield position nailed down.

Rounding out our rundown of seniors we come to the co-captains, Kelly and Brander. Kelly, a captain from West Point and vice-president of the class of '66, proved to be one of the most inspirational captains the sextet has ever had. Always a team player, Kelly was always with a game, painfully-taped sprained ankle. Brander, the captain from the West coast, was also in light of the fact that he had put the Terriers in position and probably the entire field of runners to secure his third place in the finals of the NCAA championships.

In other sections of the meet, Dane Caufield showed the kind of performance one would expect from a "4:22, while Ray Van Egge was 10:30 on his way with a 4:31.2 clocking.

Dave Gavitt: Often Unsung - Never Outdone

By Brian Mahler

On a summer day in 1963, lady luck smiled on Providence College when Dee Rowe, athletic director at Wesleyan Acad- emy, met his old classmate, Fr. St. George of Providence College. Just a week after the completion of days gone by, Fr. St. George mentioned that the position of assistant professor of history at Providence was open. Dee forwarded this information to a good member of his coaching staff who applied for the job. Two days later, when he was and early that September, Dave Gavitt came to Providence College.

Before his arrival at P.C., Dave was a successful high school and college athlete.

At Westerly, Rhode Island High in New Hampshire, he made all-state teams in basketball and baseball. From there he went to Dartmouth where he earned three varsity letters in baseball and three in basketball. After graduation, Dave went with AT & T and worked in Washington before joining the Army. Following his discharge in the fall of 1961, he joined the coaching staff at Worcester Acad- emy. A year later he came to P.C.

During his stay at Providence, Dave has proved to be both efficient and popular. Though probably best known as Freshman basketball coach, Dave is also the coach of the varsity tennis team. As Joe Mullaney's right hand man, Dave scouts future opponents and recruits future prospects for the Friars. He has also been named liaison officer between the administration and the athletic department. During the summer months Dave had coached in the Cape Cod Base- ball League and last year he was general manager of the Rhode Island Indians.

Last June Dave received his Masters Degree in History, but his future plans do not include teaching. Dave would like to be a head basketball coach, but only if the right offer comes. He has contributed to the success of P.C. and if he leaves he will be missed, for Dave Gavitt is a rare combination of ability and personality.

Barry Brown and Jerry Riordan made history this past weekend as they became the first ever to win the I.C.A.A.A. indoor track championships in Madison Square Garden last Saturday. They have qualified for the N.C.A.A. Indoor Track Championships to be held at the University of Detroit, Michigan, on Friday and Saturday of this week.

Barry Brown, having set the pace throughout the entire race, was involved in one small event with a time of 8:59.5, giving way to eventual winner Ed- mond O'Reilly of Georgetown University, only in the final few yards. He is currently ranked as fifth overall in the intercollegiate ranks as a two-miler, with a best at 8:59.6 to his credit.

Jerry Riordan crossed the finish line in third place in the 1-2 mile meet of two miles, thereby setting down his spot in the N.C.A.A. finals in Detroit. His time of 4:11.5 was an impressive victory in view of his qualification at 4:11.7 last week. The team that he has led one way or another most the entire field of runners to secure his third place in the finals of the NCAA championships.

As for next season, the out- looking is a fine one. Coach Lou Lamoriello has a few prospects which may be able to fill the shoes of the seniors who have been elected for fighting. "Bonnie" allowed only one goal in 28 shots.
