Faculty Appointments Revealed by Vice-Pres.

(Public Information Office)—Three members of the Providence College faculty have been promoted to the rank of associate professor, Dr. Paul van K. Thomson, vice president for academic affairs, announced today.

The promotions, effective July 1, were awarded to Dr. Edward R. Boyko of Providence, department of chemistry; Dr. Rene E. Fortin of Woonsocket, department of English; and Dr. Joseph E. Robertshaw of Centerville, department of physics.

A native of Passaic, N. J., Dr. Boyko is a 1951 graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and he received both his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Rutgers University in 1954 and 1956 respectively. Prior to joining the Providence College faculty in 1961, he had been employed in research capacities by the General Electric Company, Westinghouse Electric Company and American-Standard Corp.

Dr. Fortin, assistant director of the Arts Honors Program at the College, joined the faculty in 1958. He is a 1955 graduate of Providence College and received both the Master of Arts degree and Ph.D. from Brown University.

Dr. Robertshaw, a member of the PC faculty since 1961, is a native of Providence. He received the Bachelor of Science degree from Providence College in 1956, and the Master of Science and Ph.D. from Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1958 and 1961 respectively.

Chafee to Lecture

John Chafee, governor of the State of Rhode Island and leader of the state's Republican party, will lecture tonight in Aquinas Lounge at 8:00 p.m. Mr. Chafee's topic is the philosophies and objectives of the Republican party. The speech is sponsored by the Political Union.

The speech tonight follows the announcement of Mr. Chafee's future plans in politics. Today he is supposed to announce whether he will run again for governor or start a campaign for a seat in the U.S. Senate.

Jeremy Lord, president of the Political Union, wanted the Cowl and the student body to note the balance that the Union has included in scheduling speeches. In December the Union invited Senator Claiborne Pell, one of the state's leading Democrats, to speak. There have been representatives from two extremes in American politics—the far left Norman Thomas of the American Socialist Party and the far right Lawrence Bunker of the John Birch Society. Also, the Union has sponsored a Viet Nam debate and a program given by a pacifist organization.

The lecture by Governor Chafee will be preceded by a "brief but important" meeting of the Political Union at 7:30. Following the speech, there will be a question period.

Fr. Haas Speaks to Congress At Wednesday Night Session

The Very Reverend William Paul Haas, O.P., spoke to the Student Congress on Wednesday night, March 16. Father Haas welcomed the opportunity to talk to the Congress, since it provided an opportunity for students to ask questions and for him to give a progress report on Providence College's future development.

The President stated that since assuming office he has become aware of the fact that many things hang together in the administration of a college and its future development. He pointed out the fact that before a new library is built new books must be purchased to fill it. The College has already embarked upon such a program to purchase new books or replace old and useless ones. Father Haas also mentioned the fact that it is not too premature to talk about a Student Union. He stated that as soon as there would be a way to undertake such a project he would be in favor of it.

Following Father Haas, Mr.

Daniel McKinnon, insurance agent for the Student Congress medical plan, briefed the body on the insurance losses for the past two years. His recommendation that the Congress renew its contract for two more years was favorably acted upon.

Father Stephen McCormack, O.P., was named Student Congress Man of the Year. Father McCormack, who recently resigned as moderator of the Congress, was sighted for his outstanding efforts in promoting student government.

A formal complaint was lodged against Daniel McKinnon, '67, candidate for Student Congress President, and the

The President also said he

Editorially Speaking Suggestion on Theology

In a little over two months the Class of '66 will see the hallowed halls of Providence College for the last time. It seems hard for many of us to realize that our stay here is nearing its end and I'm sure most of us will graduate with mixed emotions. Yet, whether we are one of those hard boiled cynics seeing nothing but evil in the school, or one of those misty-eyed sentimentalists trying to prolong our stay at the College, we all realize, in spite of many changes this year, that there is still much to be improved on—a fact which brings me to the point of my editorial.

Since the heart of any school lies in its curriculum, it is to this curriculum to which we must turn when we speak of movement. Beautiful new buildings, re-decorated offices, these all help, but they are no more than "icing on the cake" as the old saying goes when compared to the real core of the school. It is with this in mind, therefore, that I would like to direct my attention to the two most controversial subjects in the minds of all PC students — the theology and philosophy courses, their value, importance, and necessity.

To begin with, theology is, we suppose, a necessary evil in Catholic colleges. I say evil not because we are anti-religious in any sense, but rather because we are not in total agreement with the material used to teach theology nor in the manner in which it is taught. Caught in an age of disrupted values and moral upheaval, the modern college student is looking for answers, answers to his own doubts and answers which will point him toward traditional belief in an age rapidly losing all sense of tradition. The student looks to God but he receives only divisions; he looks for the Word but receives an outdated textbook written in "Latinized" style. Teachers wonder why theology is the most heavily cut course in the school, but when one teacher refused to answer any questions, another puts divisions on a blackboard for 50 minutes, and another reads in a monotone voice all period, I don't think we need go too far for answers.

What we are looking for then is not to take religion out of the Catholic curriculum but rather to "put it back in" by making it more meaningful to the modern student who, after all, is the proper object of theology. It is very disturbing to sit in the cafe and hear from many students that they honestly believe they are in danger of lessening their faith simply because of multiple experiences with the theology course. I do not wish to say that this is the case with all students not do I wish to imply that it is the fault of all theology teachers, but, by the very fact that it does exist in many cases, I do not see how the problem can be avoided. It is ironical than in a time when Vatican II has made great strivings in updating the Catholic Church that it has had little or no effect on the smaller institutions within the Church — such as Catholic colleges (though I do admit some colleges are making strides already).

What then is the solution to this real problem? Though I would like to very much, I must admit that I have no definitive answer, but then that has not been my purpose. I have simply tried to show that the problem does exist and that it is serious enough matter to be of extreme concern to the administration as a whole. Maybe a solution lies in cutting theology from lethargic semesters to three invigorating ones and substituting a scripture course instead. This is a suggestion—philosophy next week!

Around the Campi

Worcester, Mass.—(I.P.) — A booklet, published by the Student Government at the College of the Holy Cross, reveals that in May of 1965, the Student Congress adopted a new Constitution, abolishing itself and creating the Student Government.

In this new structure, the legislative branch is known as the Student Senate, composed of representatives elected on the basis of one per dormitory corridor and one per fifty off-campus or day students. The booklet lists the following services and programs:

Curriculum Evaluation Report — A comprehensive survey and evaluation of the courses and professors of Holy Cross; published every spring.

Orientation Handbook — The guidebook for incoming Freshmen on the events and traditions of the College; published in September.

Collegiate Events Calendar — An authoritative listing of collegiate activity on New England campuses.

Student Life Report — An in-depth study of life within the four walls of the Campus and recommendations for improving it.

Student Directory — A complete listing of names, addresses, phone numbers of the entire student body as well as all schedules and important information for the academic year; published in October.

Book Exchange — A centrally located market for the sale of used textbooks operated by the Student Government at the beginning of each semester.

Religion on the Campus Report — A survey of student attitude and opinion on the place of religion, worship, and the liturgy on the campus.

Print Shop — The mimeographing and printing services operated by the Student Government featuring low-cost flyer publication for campus activities.

Summer Placement Services — Co-ordination and presentation of information and applications for summer employment in conjunction with the College Placement Office.

Washington Seminar Program — Participation in the summer internship program established by the federal government for the various congressional and administrative offices in the nation's capital.

Equipment Rental — Tools and materials for the use of students and student activities at a nominal rental fee.

Student Government Newsletter — A bulletin providing information on current and future activities of the student government.

All in all, it appears that the Providence College Student Congress stands up fairly well in comparison to the Student Government of Holy Cross. It is quite possible that the Student Congress could improve itself in regard to a couple of the listed activities above.

FROM THE EDITOR

A perennial activity of the senior classes at the College has been the attempt to have transcripts sent to graduate schools within a reasonable period of time.

This year the seniors were promised that the transcripts would be sent out earlier and as early as possible.

However, it seems that the situation has not improved appreciably. Many seniors have received letters from the graduate schools to which they have applied asking the seniors why they (the graduate schools) have not received the first semester marks.

Why must the seniors be subjected to this situation year after year? If all the students of this school received their marks nearly a month ago, why haven't the graduate schools received the same marks?

The irony of the whole matter is that some seniors did have their marks sent out on time. Why can't all of the seniors receive the same fair treatment?

Tomorrow is election day and I strongly urge all members of the student body to exercise their right to vote for those students who will be the leaders in the Student Congress next year.

The Cowl has attempted this year to give the student body a chance to read about the candidates for the office of SC president. It is important that your vote be based on the abilities of the candidates rather than on their personalities. I realize that this has been said before, but the man who fills the office of SC president is in a position to do a great deal for the student body. Only a man with ability, character, and integrity can do the job properly.

position in scholarship athletics, and extracurricular activities, the University reported recently.

In a letter to 135 college presidents where Sigma Chi has chapters, University Relations Director Lyle M. Nelson said both the chapter and the fraternity system at Stanford "continue to demonstrate their strength. All of us familiar with the chapter remain firmly convinced of the students' sincerity of purpose, loyalty to the national fraternity, and sense of responsibility. They fully merit and will continue to receive the support of Stanford in this controversy."

Native of Greece Begins Teaching Career at PC

A touch of Greece has been added to the College's sociology department this semester in the person of journalist, translator, author and sociologist, Mr. Georgios Pan Piperopoulos.

Mr. Piperopoulos was born in Greece in 1942. His writing career began at 12 when he won a composition of idea prize, and by 17 he was publishing sport articles in the Greek North, Macedonian, and New Epoch, among others. In 1959-60 he wrote for the Greek North an anthology of short stories. He also won a national literary award in 1960.

In 1960, he came to America and entered New York City College where he majored in social sciences. At City College, he was a member of the varsity wrestling team, president of the Hellenic Society, chairman of the Student Activities Board, director of the International Film Festival, president of the Greek Society of New York, lecturer for the Freshman Orientation Program, chancellor of the senior Lock and Key Honor society, and was member of the Sigma Alpha honor society.

He was awarded the Student Government Outstanding Service award, and the Best Foreign Student award. He was a guest at the International Conference held in spring, 1962, sponsored by the U.S. State department and George Washington University and was later invited to the International Weekend at Rutgers in the fall. He was the only Greek student in America to be recognized in the 1964 edition of Who's Who.

While at City College he also worked on the college newspaper, The Campus and was editor with the Atlantic Greek daily, the largest Greek-American daily in America. He also participated in the Harlem Youth Program and the Neighborhood Youth Corps.

Upon graduating, Mr. Piperopoulos enrolled at the University of Massachusetts where he received his M.A. degree. At the university he wrote a series of guest editorials in the Collegian, the school's newspaper, and in 1965 he translated and published the Negro Protest by Dr. Kenneth Clarke.

Mr. Piperopoulos is currently working for his Ph.D. while working as the U.S. correspondent for the Draisis Press Organization in Greece. He is also a research assistant for an evaluation project, Progress for Providence. He is writing a novel in Greek dealing with a realistic outlook of a Greek-American. He also hopes to publish by next fall a book on social problems in collaboration with Professor Stanfield of the University of Massachusetts.

Mr. Piperopoulos finds Providence College exciting and hopes to hasten the process of bettering the sociology curriculum by adding subjects and making its courses really worth while.

Commenting on his several years in America, he said, "I feel I have become a marginal man, partly Greek, partly American—which makes a good sociologist for America but a bad Greek back in Greece!"

Because he is compelled to serve in the Greek army, he expects to leave America in two to three years. After his service is completed, he said he would probably stay in his homeland for the next few years to serve as minister of Social Welfare. He plans, in addition, to write a sociology book for Greeks. Mr. Piperopoulos added that he eventually hopes to return to PC.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor:

It has been said that men who do the most are often recognized the least. This idea holds true at Providence College. I am thinking of the men who set and clean up rooms for various academic and social functions on this campus—the men of the maintenance department.

I would like to thank them and their supervisors for the great assistance which they have given the Political Union this year.

The case where they deserved the most credit involved the recent Blood Drive held on campus. Through their help and invaluable assistance the blood drive was a complete success.

This was due to the immediate response which I received from that department whenever I needed such things as chairs, tables and the like. They were always right there, willing to place them wherever needed.

It is my opinion that these men deserve more credit than they usually receive.

My congratulations and thanks go out to all the men of the maintenance department for their unrewarding, but necessary jobs.

Regimental Inspection

Company K, PERSHING RIFLES, is preparing this week for its second Regimental Inspection. On March 29, an inspection team from Regimental Headquarters, Northeastern University, will rate Company K's efficiency on the Drill Floor and in the Staff work.

The first phase of the inspection is usually held at the Cranston Street Armory, where the whole Company is inspected in ranks, with emphasis on the enlisted men. Then the Company moves back to the college where the Regimental Team inspects the Orderly Room, the Files, and each officer's management of his section.

The inspections during the year plus the correspondence involved in running a Company determine the Best Company Award, which is given at the last Drill Meet in Boston on April 30. Company K, always one of the best in the nation, has been doing exceptionally well this year, scoring a 90 on the last inspection tour. The P/R's hope to improve upon this score next week.

A native of Budapest, Dr. Guth was educated at the University of Vienna and was later research associate at Zurich, Leipzig, and Vienna. In 1937, he joined the faculty of the University of Notre Dame where he became research professor and established the polymer physics laboratory. He has been associated with Oak Ridge since 1948.

The Society of Rheology awarded its 1965 Bingham Medal—its highest honor—to Dr. Guth for his work in establishing quantitative foundations of the kinetic theory of rubber elasticity.

(Continued from Page 1) would give General Taylor "special assignments" and "seek his advice on diplomatic, military, economic and strategic problems that come to my desk."

General Taylor, who gained a reputation as an advocate of greater American military involvement in the Vietnamese war, especially in that obvious policy area.

In addition, the President had asked General Taylor "to undertake a review of all the practices and policies of our Government in the broad fields of assistance to free peoples who are threatened by Communist terror and subversion.

General Taylor, who desired to devote more time to his personal affairs, cited this wish in submitting his resignation as ambassador in July. The President, noting the 45 years the General had served his country, wishes to respect this desire.

For General Taylor, the assignment means a return to the inner workings of the White House, where he worked for three years in the Kennedy Administration. He resigned as Chief of Staff of the Army in 1959 in disagreement with the Eisenhower Administration's policies on nuclear warfare. But shortly after the Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba in April, 1961, General Taylor was recalled by President Kennedy to serve as White House military advisor.

Then in 1962, with the mounting military crisis in Vietnam, General Taylor was made Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, which he held until his appointment as Ambassador to Vietnam in mid-1964.

When appointing General Taylor, President Johnson said the new consultant role "will give his country the benefit of his extraordinary experience and wisdom while permitting him at the same time to meet his personal and family obligations.

(Continued from Page 2) son noted, the number of fraternity pledges at Stanford had increased from 400 to 497, with no corresponding gain in campus enrollment. The University has invested several million dollars in eight new fraternity houses and plans for five more are well advanced.

Is it not possible that, now that Providence College is expanding, the fraternity system could be introduced to the College? It may have its disadvantages, but the advantages seem to far outweigh the disadvantages. After all, just what are we going to do with Chapin Hospital, if and when we get it?

PC Graduate Is Wounded During Vietnam Conflict

Marine Corps Lt. Daniel M. Walsh, a member of the Providence College Class of 1965, has been wounded in Vietnam.

According to unofficial reports, the young lieutenant's wounds, to the shinbone and thigh, are not serious.

Lt. Walsh joined the Marine Corps while still at PC, under the training program here, and was commissioned a lieutenant upon his graduation last June.

He has been in Vietnam only since last November and previously had been in Hawaii.

Many Openings For AF Officers

The Air Force recruiting office in Providence announced yesterday that it has opened all categories of training through the Officer Training Program. Applications are being accepted at the present time for immediate consideration.

The training categories include pilot and navigator training, scientific, technical, and administrative fields.

The Officer Training Program is a three-month course at San Antonio, Texas, leading to a commission as a second lieutenant in the Air Force Reserve with an immediate call to active duty upon commission.

Interested students should contact the Air Force recruiting office in downtown Providence.

Auto Registrations Proceed Slowly

Rhode Island motorists have been slow in renewing their 1966 motor vehicle registrations. Registrar James F. Williamson stated that it appears likely that a large number of car owners will be caught in a last minute rush if the pace of registration renewals does not pick up. Thus far, there have been 200,000 motor vehicle registrations renewed, out of a total vehicle registration of 432,000.

The Registrar again advised all car owners to mail in their applications and avoid a last minute rush. Checks or money orders should be made payable to the Registry of Motor Vehicles. Do not send cash, as the Registry will not be responsible for cash sent through the mail.

Past

The Company's first engine, the Wasp, took to the air on May 5, 1926. Within a year the Wasp set its first world record and went on to smash existing records and set standards for both land and seaplanes for years to come, carrying airframes and pilots higher, farther, and faster than they had ever gone before.

In recent years, planes powered by Pratt & Whitney Aircraft have gone on to set new standards of performance in much the same way as the Wasp had done in the 1920's. The 727 and DC-9 are indicative of the new family of short-to-medium range jetliners which are powered by the highly successful JT8D turbofan. Examples of current military utilizations are the J58-powered Mach 3 YF-12A which recently established four world aviation records and the advanced TF30-powered F-111 variable-geometry fighter aircraft.

Your and the Future

Take a look at the above chart; then a good long look at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft—where technical careers offer exciting growth, continuing challenge, and lasting stability—where engineers and scientists are recognized as the major reason for the Company's continued success.

Engineers and scientists at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft are today exploring the ever-broadening avenues of energy conversion for every environment... all opening up new avenues of exploration in every field of aerospace, marine and industrial power application. The technical staff working on these programs, backed by Management's determination to provide the best and most advanced facilities and scientific apparatus, has already given the Company a firm foothold in the current land, sea, air and space programs so vital to our country's future. The list of achievements amassed by our technical staff is a veritable list of firsts in the development of compact power plants, dating back to the first Wasp engine which lifted the United States to a position of world leadership in aviation. These engineering and scientific achievements have enabled the Company to obtain its current position of leadership in fields such as gas turbines, liquid hydrogen technology and fuel cells.

Should you join us, you'll be assigned early responsibility. You'll find the spread of Pratt & Whitney Aircraft's programs requires virtually every technical talent. You'll find opportunities for professional growth further enhanced by our Corporation-financed Graduate Education Program. Your degree can be a BS, MS or PhD in: MECHANICAL • AERONAUTICAL • ELECTRICAL • CHEMICAL ENGINEERING • PHYSICS • CHEMISTRY • METALLURGY • CERAMICS • MATHEMATICS • ENGINEERING SCIENCE OR APPLIED MECHANICS.

proper authorities by Michael Doody, '68, and Daniel Blessington, '69, for hanging campaign posters before the legally scheduled time. Richard Cuffe, '67, replied to Edward Dunphy, '68, as to why the rule was interpreted that the class day ended at 6 p.m. instead of 12 o'clock midnight. Mr. Cuffe replied that the posters should have come down before the class ending day. He stated that it was his personal neglect that one of Mr. McKinnon's posters remained up and as such he apologized.

Malcolm Holmes, '66, went on record as disapproving the spirit of the resolution. A resolution introduced by John Cullinan, '66, that the Congress as a whole reject the complaint made by Mr. Doody and Mr. Blessington, was passed.

Gregory Smith, '63, asked Edward Dunphy, '68, Chairman of the Bus Committee, why liquor was allowed on the buses that went to the St. Joseph's game. Mr. Dunphy replied that since he did not go down by bus someone had allowed the bus driver to stop at a package store. He further added that only one complaint had been made so far. Mr. Smith made it clear that the fact that the incident occurred at the liquor store was not good for the reputation of the College.

Five athletic resolutions were passed by the Student Congress congratulating: (1) James Walker for being named All-American, (2) William Blair for being the number one foul shooter in the nation, (3) Barry Brown and Jerry Riordan for qualifying for the NCAA finals, (4) Coaches Mullaney, Toppazini, and Hanlon for having winning 20 games for the eighth consecutive year.

Congress Candidates . .

years, the Dean's List every semester, a full tuition scholarship for four years from the Sears & Roebuck Company.

McKinnon: Membership in the Rhode Island Scholastic Honor Society, runner-up for the title of "R. I. Schoolboy Athlete of the Year" in 1963, Blackstone Valley "Rotarian Schoolboy of the Year," based on academic and athletic achievements.

What are your specific plans, if elected?

Giannelli: Generally, to make the students more aware of the functions of the Congress, especially its function as representing the students to the administration; to have the students avail themselves of the opportunities to use the Congress as a channel.

Specifically, I would have the Student Congress desk blotter and directory distributed early in the school year; mixers in Raymond Hall; effective transportation for sports events; I would support the Dillon Club and also the classes regulating the sale of basketball tickets at Alumni Hall.

McKinnon: To consolidate the Student Congress into a more functional and useful tool of the student body, to have the SC, upon a thorough investigation, give a detailed report on exactly what the ticket situation for basketball games is and could be made; to insure that no weekend would go by without a social function being held, either on campus or within a reasonable and reachable distance for the student; to try to the utmost of the SC's ability to unite and create a cohesive student body between the dorm and day-hop students; to have a more accessible and workable relationship between the students and the administration in order to help the students with their problems.

What do you consider to be the purpose of the Student Congress?

Giannelli: The Student Congress is the service organization of the student body. While attempting to provide the students with every possible benefit, it is the obligation of the Congress to effectively represent student views and needs to the administration. Therefore, I would designate "service" and "representation" as the dual roles of the Student Congress.

McKinnon: In my opinion the Providence College Student Congress is the backbone of the student body. It is the only means by which the students may become an integral part of the college. The congress should represent and uphold the student body's point of view when trying to arrive at an amiable solution to all campus problems. The congress should set standards for its membership, conducive to the college's motto, "A Providence College man is a gentleman." The congress should stimulate a love and loyalty for Providence College that will carry over into graduate days.

What do you feel qualifies you for this office?

Giannelli: The practical experience that I have gained as Congress sergeant-at-arms and as a class officer would enable me to serve the student body within the framework of the Congress and its activities. Furthermore, my participation in campus activities and clubs in addition to my congress experience would aid me in effectively representing the students on the Student-Faculty Board and the Student-Administration Board.

McKinnon: I feel that my experience as a member of the Student Congress for the past two years has fully prepared me for the office of president of the congress. In that time I have served as representative for the Class of 1967 and also secretary of the congress. My experience gained serving on the executive board of the congress has given me invaluable knowledge as to how things should be done and how they shouldn't be done.

As the founder and organizer of the "John J. Dillon Club," serving as its executive board chairman, and coordinating all its business and social activities for the first year and a half, I feel adds to my qualifications to seek the office of president.

Another factor not to be taken lightly, the time I have spent in the congress doubles my opponent's time.

Along with the above mentioned, I will bring to the office of president drive, sincerity of purpose, and a deep willingness to serve the student body well.

Do you have any additional comments?

Giannelli: No comment.

McKinnon: The right to vote is an important and sacred franchise. March 24, 1966, is a day when all students should vote to decide who will be entrusted to run their student government for the next coming year.

I respectfully ask for your help in the campaign and for your vote on March 24; but regardless of your decision, I urge that you exercise your right to vote and elect the man you feel has the integrity, judgment and dedication to meet the political, scholastic, and social needs of the Providence College student.

Friar Council Holds Third Degree

The honors of the major degree of the order were bestowed Sunday on a class of 41 candidates from the newly formed Friar Council No. 5787.

Friar Council was instituted last December on the campus at Providence College and is the first college council ever to be formed in Rhode Island.

Peter J. Driscoll of Staten Island, N. Y. was chairman of the class named in honor of the late Rev. Bernard P. Shaffer, O.P., former superior of the Dominican Community and a member of the faculty at the college.

District Deputies Leslie D.

Lemieux and John R. Reynolds and their staffs officiated at the ceremonies which were held at the Rev. I. J. Bouffard council home in North Providence.

Grand Knight John P. McBride of Teaneck, N. J. presided at the meeting and introduced State Deputy John W. Holland who welcomed the new members to the order.

Other speakers included State Warden Joseph E. Dailey, Jr., and the Rev. Damian R. Myett, O.P., Chaplain of Providence College and also Chaplain of Friar Council.

A collation followed in the council lounge.

Soph Class Ring To be Presented By Co. Designer

The significance of the design of the sophomore ring has been outlined by Mr. George A. Flynn, designer for Dieges & Clust, the ring's manufacturer.

The ring will incorporate three basic thoughts, according to Mr. Flynn: 1) the growth of PC, 2) the fiftieth graduating class, and 3) a tie-in with the new president, Father Haas.

Points one and two, Mr. Flynn said, were "achieved by continuing the torch on the ring's standard 'side' — around the palm (ring's bottom) and having it emerge onto the class side as a modern or contemporary torch."

The flame itself forms the numeral fifty "In other words," he said, "it is the traditional PC torch of truth spanning fifty years to the present day graduate."

Concerning the third thought, Mr. Flynn said: "The bold concept of the Friar is reminiscent of Spanish art and sculpture (the Dominican Order originated in Spain) and suggests an aesthetic quality. The new look relates to the new president, Father Haas, known for his progressive attitude as well as his lively interest in art."

Officials from Dieges & Clust are on campus today, taking orders for rings in Alumni Hall's cafeteria annex until Friday.

Linkmen Begin Practice; Hurt by Graduation Loss

With the advent of spring, the PC Golf Team is ready, once again, to invade the neighboring courses.

Although crippled by the loss of three seniors, Bruce Gilmore, Pat DiPadua, and Mike Reavey, the outlook is good. Coach Prisco feels that, "We lost three strong men through graduation and we've picked up a few good boys. As a result this year's team is not quite as strong, although it does have a great deal more balance."

Returning from last fall's squad are Senior Captain Joe Monahan, Jack Guiragos, Craig Galipeau, Dave Greatbanks, Dennis Webber, Dave Adamonis, Bill Sampson and Paul Siman. The squad normally carries 10-12 men with seven of those being regulars and the remainder being alternates.

Any improvement over last year's fine 11-3 record could prove to be quite difficult. Many of the East's better teams, including B.C., Holy Cross, URI and Trinity, are on the schedule this season.

Last Fall the Friar foursome of Webber, Guiragos, Galipeau and Greatbanks qualified as one of the two teams (out of 22) chosen by the ECAC in this area. URI was the second choice. They went to Long Island, New York, where they placed seventh.

The first practice session is scheduled for tomorrow in preparation for their first match on April 22.

The New England Tournament, in which the Friars will be a participant, is currently set for the 12th and 13th of May. Each participating school will send a five-man team in an attempt to capture the individual and team championships. Generally the winner of the N. E.'s is considered for one of the two NCAA eastern tourney bids.

Thus the prospects for this year's edition of the Friar Golf team rests upon their ability to take in the slack left by graduation.

The Boston Celtics had a comparatively easy time in its win over the Tri-State club, 44-29, as Joe Tangney led all scorers with 14 points. Amarul kept Tri-State in the game for the first half, but Boston's superior rebounding proved to be too much for the losers. Albertus A also had a rather easy time as its big men, Pete Ryder and Vin O'Donnell, grabbed almost every rebound. The final score of 37-26 is close only in the final tabulation as the tough man-to-man defense employed by Albertus A had its opponent, New Haven A, off-balance all night.

The semi-finals will be held tonight at 5:15 p.m. in Alumni Hall, with the Boston Celtics vs.

Albertus A; and Met A vs. New Jersey A. The two winners will then advance to the final game tomorrow night at 5:30 p.m. in Alumni Hall.

A brief run-down on the four semi-finalists is as follows:

BOSTON CELTICS—undefeated in league play, loom as pre-tourney pick. Led by Joe Tangney, have good balance with Dick Neal, Joe Twomey, and Jim Bishop hitting the boards, could be tough to stop.

ALBERTUS A—Finished second, with two losses, got off to a good start wilted at finish. With quarterlies out of the way, they will have a full team to challenge oston. Jack Kirk, sole senior, is the floor leader, backed up by Vinny O'Donnell, Pete Ryder, with Bill Killea on the bench ready to help out.

MET A—Always a contender, reached finals year, but lost a lot through graduation. However, Terry May can be counted upon to have his team psyched up for the game.

NEW JERSEY—Manuel Lagos utilizing his knowledge as a basketball coach, has put together a respectable team that will not be taken for granted.

Volleyball

All clubs interested in entering the second annual volleyball tournament are asked to register their teams at the coaches office. Deadline for entries is Friday, March 25, and play will begin the week of March 28, and finish up after Easter break. Six men take the court at once, so it is recommended that team captains, rather than have one large team break it up into two smaller teams of six to eight men, thus giving everyone a chance to play.

Pool

Ray Kelly is setting up a pool tournament. It will be run with the aid of the Carolan Club, but carried on on a team basis. All those interested are to see Ray in Stephen 107, and sign up.

Tennis

The final games of the fall tennis tournament are going to be played soon. All those who did not finish their schedule from last fall are to see Mr. Louthis to be rescheduled.

SPORTSDESK

By John Cieply
Assistant Sports Editor

Occasionally, in a large college with a diversified athletic program, personal heroics or glistening records in individual competition go unreported. Masters of games, especially in intramurals, rarely receive the recognition in student publication accorded to interscholastic stars.

Such is the case with two seniors, Jack Kirk and Roger Rossomondo, who, although they are only 5'8", are giants of the handball courts. Their records for three years are practically unblemished.

In the last two years they have teamed up to win the doubles in both the Carolan Club and the Intramural tournaments. Jack won both singles in 1964 and Roger took the crowns in 1965. This year the doubles should fall easily in both tournaments and one or the other should take the singles in the Intramurals. The only thing that could prevent them from meeting in the finals is the fact that Roger was beaten by Carl Romanovitch, '68, a comer in the area, to put him in the loser's bracket.

They have never lost a game in doubles to students (although Fr. Fallon and Fr. Hall have used their greater experience for several victories). Jack has lost only to Roger, and until his latest setback, Roger had lost only to Jimmy Register in the semifinals two years ago. But there is more here than just an unbelievable record.

Just watching these two perform is a rare treat. At last year's finals I witnessed one of the most exciting matches I have ever seen in any sport. In preparation for the encounter Roger had been running one to three miles a day for a month in addition to spending his Easter vacation in Florida on the outdoor courts continually practicing. Jack had eased off the vigorous athletic program he had followed for two years due to other commitments and was just regaining his game.

The match that followed exhibited the complementary nature of their games which makes them so devastating as a team. Jack plays a volley game and is so quick that he can return a shot no matter how close he is to the wall or what position he is in. His diving returns are morale shattering to an opponent. Fr. Hall describes him as "quiet but effective." Roger, on the other hand, comes out and immediately slams into the walls, with real vigor, and dives onto the floor to accustom himself to contact so that he will never quit on a shot. His warmup itself is brutal. But even then you are not prepared for his fiercely competitive attitude which results in an all out effort. Roger won that match with a combination of brilliant "kills" and stamina, wearing Jack down in the third game.

But even their personal rivalry is not the whole story. They have encouraged as many as twenty-five students, and maybe many more through these, to take up the game. In the last two years "our equipment was always out on loan," Jack once remarked. Also, an alumnus and frequent opponent of theirs, Mr. Vincent Patience, donated a dozen handballs and pairs of gloves to the athletic department. The handball revival which they helped to start and which is evident from increased use of the courts and more entries in the tournaments, should continue to grow.

Tonight Jack and Roger meet for what might be their last championship, head-on encounter before they move on to Cornell medical school. The match is at 6:30 in the Alumni handball courts. Jack said, "It should last a while," and I recommend it.

Doherty, Lamoriello To Captain Pucksters

By TOM HUTTON

In its annual election last week, the hockey team selected two junior forwards as captains for the 1966-67 season. The captains-elect are Jack Doherty and Nick Lamoriello.

Jack, a business major from Boston, Mass., came to PC in 1963 as a graduate of St. Sebastian's High School in Newton, Mass. At St. Sebastian's, Doherty was a leading scorer and captain in his senior year. Perennially, one of the best independent teams in Massachusetts, the Saints in Jack's senior year beat the eventual New England champs, Melrose, 7-0.

While at Providence College, Doherty has finished high in the scoring in both his sophomore and junior years. A left-wing on the "yellow-line," along with Lamoriello and Jerry Menard, "Moose" showed that he was one of the best all-around hockey players on the squad.

"There is more to hockey than just scoring. A good hockey player has to be able to forecheck and backcheck as well as put the puck in the net."

"As for next year," continued Doherty, "we should be in pretty good shape. We're losing only two of the first 12 forwards through graduation and with the return of eligibility of two of the E.C.A.C. starters of two seasons ago, we could go a long way."

Nick, an economics major from North Providence, is carrying on the Lamoriello tradition in the Friar Black and White. His brother, Lou, was the sextet's captain during the 1962-63 season.

An all-stater at La Salle Academy, Nick played on a team that won the New England championship in 1961. Other members of this squad included former Friars: Dan Sheehan, Bill Warburton, Chuck Gaffney and Tom Fecteau. The goalie from that team was Jack Ferriera who passed up an offer from P.C. and went to B.U. where he has made All-American two seasons in a row.

"Looking back at that year," remarked Lou Cimini, La Salle Academy hockey coach, "I remember that Nick had the best fakes in around the cage of all the forwards. I knew that he would be a success in college; he was a natural."

Commenting on next year, Nick said that the pucksters should enjoy a good season. "The big problem will be replacing goalie John Campbell. John kept us in a lot of games this year. We had a good goalie on the freshman squad this year and I think that he could

Last Saturday, the Friar track team almost copped the Connecticut Relays team crown at Storrs on running strength alone. Despite the powerful field event performances of every other team in the meet, the Friars were still leading going into the final event, the mile relay.

Steve Hernandez' outstanding lead-off leg, backed up by a determined trio of Fazekas, Donnelly, and Powers, was not enough, however, to off-set a great Yale quartet. The Eli's took the .relay and the meet, besting the Friars by three, while Central Connecticut's second place in the relay was good enough to edge the Friars for runner-up honors by a single point.

The fact that there was no mile run (PC's forte) did not faze Brown, Riordan, or Campbell. The trio finished in that order in the two mile, with Barry and Jerry both breaking the nine year old meet record. Brown's winning time was 9:12.9 while Riordan's 9:18 also surpassed the old mark of 9:21.4.

Distance is usually PC's strength and the medley relay proved no exception. Jerry Riordan (880), Joe Adamec (440), Don Gavin (¾ mile), and Brown (mile) carried the black and white standard past second place BC going away. Jerry grabbed the early lead and successive leg kept up the pace for a 50 yard lead and 10:21.5 clocking at the tape.

The two mile relay was a different story. Gavin, Donnelly, and Fazekas kept the team in contention and a good effort from Bob Powers pulled out an 8:08.4 time and a second place.

Not to be outdone, the Friar freshmen scored a strong second in their two medleys, distance and sprint. The team was over-all very happy with its showing, since it was in a real sense a team effort.

O. T. Win and Surprise Upset In Intramurals

By Joe McMenimen

The 1965-66 Varsity basketball season may be over, but for the intramural league, the issue is far from settled. The Boston Celtics, Albertus A, Met A, and New Jersey A, all advanced into the semi-finals after wins this week.

In perhaps the biggest upset of the play-offs, Met A downed the Waterbury club, 42-37. For the Met team, the victory was fitting revenge as they reversed the decision of last year's final game. Led by the strong rebounding of Rusty Frame and Ralph Imperato, the winners were able to control both backboards and limit Waterbury to one shot at a time. Jack Cullinan was a standout in defeat for Waterbury as he scored eight points in the last two minutes, but the rally fell short and Met A had its revenge.

The other three quarter-final games ended with the expected outcomes, but not in an ordinary way. For the New Jersey A, it was a game of catch-up and hang-on as their win over the South Shore 49'ers came only after two overtime periods. Down 12 points with eight minutes to go, the Jerseyites rallied to tie the score on a

Defense and Hitting Set; Injuries Plague Pitchers

By PETE MEADE

"This is the earliest that we have ever been outdoors." With these words Coach Nahigian has summed up the progress of the 1966 Varsity baseball team. Only with good weather are the Friars permitted to practice outdoors and sharpen their hitting and fielding skills, and this spring has provided the team with ample time.

Daily intrasquad games, brisk infield and outfield drills, and concentration on the fundamentals have highlighted the practices to date, with the emphasis being placed on defense right now.

"We try to prepare ourselves mentally for the season now in order that the players will react properly to avoid mental lapses during the later stages of the season."

Coach Nahigian has stressed defenses against the variety of base-running tactics which opposing teams will undoubtedly employ, such as the double steal. Working on relays and cut-offs from the outfield, this year's edition of the baseball Friars has been improving in its timing and is progressing rapidly.

With the season opener only nine days away, Coach Nahigian has been testing his pitching corps thoroughly, but is experiencing some difficulty. Sore shoulders, aching backs, and torn muscles, are hampering the progress of the pitching staff and could prove to be a major problem in the early part of the season.

Carolan Club to Host Five School Tourney

The Carolan Club's Sixth Annual Invitational Basketball Tournament will get under way this evening at 7 p.m. at Alumni Hall.

Representatives from six different colleges will participate in the event, with P.C. sending two squads—the Dorm League champs and an all-star team.

Tonight the "all stars" will face Brown's entry, Delta Tau Delta, which was the winner of their Fraternity League. Preceding this game, an all star team from Holy Cross will play one of the two teams representing Bryant College.

On Thursday, the other four teams will square off, with the R.I.C. all star team facing the U.R.I. Intramural champs at 7, and the P.C. League champs playing the other Bryant team at 8:30.

Tournament directors Buzz Lagos and Kevin Newman have announced that everyone is invited to attend these "tilts," and there is no charge for admission.

(Schedule of Tournament Teams listed on Page 9.)

Defending state champions are the Providence College Perspirations, who have just won their second straight league championship. Composed mainly of seniors, the Perspirations have now won 28 consecutive games and are undefeated since the organization began two years ago. In recording their unblemished record, the Perspirations have been sparked by the fine shooting of Joe Tangney and Buzz Lagos, the excellent board work of Dick Kel and John Prassl and the fine
