GE College Bowl Invites Friars to Participate

Providence College has been invited by General Electric to appear on the G.E. College Bowl, on Sunday evening, October 30, 1966. This is a tremendous opportunity for the college to achieve national exposure for our academic programs. This program is carried by more than 200 stations over the NBC television network, with an average viewing audience of about 15 million people. It is broadcast live and in color, Providence College will be the challenger of that week’s defending team.

Mr. Edward C. Brennan has been named by Father Haas to be the coach for PC, and it is his duty to supervise the selection of the team.

In order to field a representative team, preliminary competition will be open to the whole student body. Anyone interested will be allowed to take the preliminary, forty minute examination which will be held on Tuesday, May 3, at 3:15 in Albertus Magnus. A list of those interested should register for the examination at the Public Information Office before May 1.

The cut-off point has not yet been determined. Those selected from this preliminary group will be put through a series of tests which will include a formal oral examination. Of the eight finalists only four will appear on the air.

The preliminary examination will consist of 125 questions to be answered in forty minutes. Short written answers must be submitted (in multiple choice test). The areas to be covered are ancient and modern European history, American history, American, English and European literature, mathematics, physical and natural sciences, economics, current affairs, classical and popular music, art, mythology, languages and trivia. A sample question from the exam is “Who killed Cock Robin?”

In addition to the game itself, the college is given the opportunity of a minute color film advertising the facilities of the college. This will be narrated by one of the students.

Mr. Brennan joined the college faculty in September as an instructor in psychology. Prior to teaching here he was an instructor at Marywood College, a junior college in Scranton, Pennsylvania.

Weekend for Parents Initiated on Campus

The first annual Freshman Parents Weekend will be held on April 29 and May 1. Fr. Hass in commenting on the project and its purpose stated, “many parents do not see the campus till graduation; some manage to visit once when their sons first investigate or arrive at it and particularly many local parents may never have a special occasion to come to the college. The parents should learn about what their sons are doing and the kind of facilities and activities available to them.”

Parents are cordially invited to participate in this unique family event, something that astonishes even the students.

The parents will be afforded the opportunity to meet the professors at a reception held in Alumni Hall at 6:00 p.m.

NOTICE

Mr. Gousie announced during the Freshman Parents Weekend, dorm students, if you are not attending, will eat lunch in Alumni Hall at 11:30 and dinner in Raymond from 5:30 to 6:00.

Senator Kennedy Supports U.S. Policy In Viet Nam

Last Monday evening Providence College had the great pleasure of presenting Senator Edward Kennedy. The senator received a warm and rousing reception by an audience believed to be well in excess of four thousand people.

Senator Kennedy began his talk on a light note but as the moments became more grave and tragic in Viet Nam, the tone of the lecture was Viet Nam. The Senator began by discussing the historical development of the U.S. in the Viet Nam crisis. He then went on to say that the U.S. should stand steadfast on her South East Asian policy on the basis of the Geneva agreements of 1950. Senator Kennedy very strongly said that from 1956 on there has been increasing activity from both the Viet Cong and the Communists. This activity, led by Ho Chi Minh, has divided into four distinct areas:

a. individual guerrillas;

b. group attacks on specific units in battle with government and American forces — which stage we are in at present; and
c. — battle forces fighting on a major scale.

The key question at this point was where does the U.S. stand today? Senator Kennedy viewed four alternatives for the U.S. in our stance in Viet Nam: 1. escalation of the war which he believed would be an overwhelming mistake and more than likely lead to a third World War. 2. withdrawal — some view the war, he said, as a local struggle and not vital to the National interests of the U.S. during the 1960s. But Senator Kennedy also pointed out that if the U.S. withdrew the Viet Cong movement would be successful because the career of the U.S. in Southeast Asia would be undermined even though not all the countries could or would follow their Cominform crunching blows. Senator Kennedy also stated that since the Test Ban Treaty Russia has been interested in spreading Communism but through a non-war manner.

To the Editor:

We are enjoying the time we are at the College, and we have been enriched by the experience. However, we feel that the administration does not always respond to our needs.

In the past, we have been disappointed by the administration's response to our concerns. For example, when we raised issues about the mist of confusion, the administration did not provide a clear response. This has led us to question the effectiveness of the administration.

We believe that the administration should be more responsive to the needs of the students. We hope that they will listen more often to our concerns.

We are looking forward to the future, and we hope that the administration will improve its response to our needs.

Sincerely,

ROOMMATES REVISITED

This morning's mail brought a letter from a student at a prominent Western university (Princeton). "Dear Sir," he writes, "in a recent column you said it was possible to get along with your roommate if you try hard enough. Well, I'd like to see anyone get along with my roommate!" Mervis Trunz (for that is his name) practices the ocarina all night long, keeps an alligator, wears knee-cymbals, and collects airplane tires. I have tried everything I can with Mervis Trunz, but nothing works. I am desperate. (signed) Desperate.

But dear Desperate, really tried everything? Have you, for example, tried a measure so simple, so obvious, that it is easy to overlook? I mean, of course, have you of course to share your Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades with Mervis Trunz?

To have a friend, Desperate, you must be a friend. And what could be more friendly than sharing the bounty of Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades? Who, upon entering a room, likes to find that it is a prominent Western columnist, walking the Dean's cat every afternoon for ten cents an hour. Basil and E. Pluribus, roommates at a prominent East-western university (Oregon) were at an impassable impasse.

But Mervis Trunz, but nothing works. I am desperate. (signed) Desperate.

No, dear Desperate, your problem with Mervis Trunz is far from insoluble. In fact, as roommate problems go, it is pretty small potatoes. Compare it, for example, to the classmate of your roommate! Basil and E. Pluribus, roommates at a prominent Eastern university (Oregon) were at an impassable impasse. Basil could study all day and Pluribus could not stay awake past nine p.m. If Basil kept the lights on, there was too bright for E. Pluribus to sleep. If E. Pluribus turned the lights off, the room was too dark for Basil to study. What to do?

Well sir, these two intelligent American kids found an answer. They got a miner's cap for Basil! Thus, he had enough light to study by, and still the room was dark enough for E. Pluribus to sleep.

It must be admitted, however, that this ingenuity solution had some unexpected sequelae. Basil got so enchanted with his miner's cap that he switched his major from his 15th century poetry to mining and metallurgy. Shortly after graduation he had what appeared to be a great stroke of luck: while out prospecting, he discovered what is without question the world's largest fieldspars mine. This might have made Basil very rich except that nobody, alas, has yet discovered a use for fieldspars. Today Basil, a broken man, squreens out a meagre living as a stlagmatine in Alsagea Cheese.

Nor has E. Pluribus fared conspicuously better. Once Basil got the miner's cap, E. Pluribus was able to catch up on his long-lost sleep. He woke up nine days refreshed and vigorous—more vigorous, alas, than he realized. It was the answer to his prayers. Now E. Pluribus spends all his time in line with his classmates, waiting to shake the Dean's hand. At last his turn came, and E. Pluribus, full of strength and vigor, ran out of the auditorium, alas, somewhat shamefaced—so firm, indeed, that all five of the Dean's knuckles were permanently fused.

The Dean sued for a million dollars and was awarded a dime. Today E. Pluribus, a broken man, is paying off his debt by walking the Dean's cat every afternoon for ten cents an hour.

Beach Boy Concert...

Beach Boys have acquired a very polished sound for recording and personal performances. They now use all the modern electronic techniques for needing the box wax. In light of these observations the Beach Boys can be counted on for offering a night's worth of entertainment.

It is the policy of the Beach Boys to include within their act two additional groups. The groups appearing with them will satisfy the fan of the new breed of rock and roll, and the fan of the standard comedy routine. The Lost play an assimilation of many different kinds of music—rock, folk, blues, jazz—but their forte is the new rock-folk or rock-blues sound. They have received national exposure with "Maybe More Than You" "Back Door Blues." The group has been featured in concert with Sonny and Cher, The Supremes and others, and their popularity at colleges and in teenage nightclubs is unrivaled in New York and New England.

The second group, the Uncalled for, Three, present an exercise in electric antics and quips on everything from television commercials to ventriloquist. They have appeared regularly at Biller Endcoffee house and guest appearances on "Shindig."

Tickets have been all sold out since last week and will continue to be sold at the ticket office in Alhambra theater until 3 p.m. It is advisable to purchase the tickets as soon as possible, since the remainder is to be made available to the Providence general public.
AED Holds Banquet To Induct Members

The Providence Chapter of the Alpha Epsilon Delta, the national pre-medical honor fraternity, initiated its new initiates with an awards program followed by a celebration banquet. Father, a member of the editorial board, and a contributor to the college literary publication, Mr. Porter brings considerable experience to the editorship of next year's Alembic. As a member of the Cowl staff for the past three years, he served as a reporter and fine arts reviewer; he is a host and commentator on WDOM's "Symphony Hall," and will be Entertainment Editor of next year's Cowl.

The new editor sees the college literary publication as "an image of the college itself, reflecting the intellectual and creative tenor of a liberal arts school." In noting the Alembic's progress over the past years, he felt that "not only the work done for Providence College and the students honored were:

- Father Paul Haas, O.P., was installed as the pre-professional society as an honorary initiate and the President also delivered the main address at the cocktail and roast beef affair. Father's talk, pertinent to professional schools for the coming year.
- The conventions are bi-annual, most of the AED members are able to attend at least one of these rewarding experiences.
- As part of its program objectives, the AED recently held a meeting between juniors and seniors to discuss the Medical College Admission Test which the juniors fake in May. A cake was delivered to initiate the financial burden of the convention expenses was held in front of St. Vincent Church on March 27 and the parishioners proved very enthusiastic.
- The chapter activities for the remainder of the year will include a dinner during the second weekend of May at the benefit of Our Lady of Fatima Hospital. A drive in the late fall proved very successful for the club. The location of the clambake is only 15 miles from the college. Refreshments, food and dancing with "Rick and the Rogues" will all be provided. There will be games and twenty acres to get lost in.
- Saturday night will include refreshments, dancing, music by "Bob and Ikers" and life-jackets for the boathouse. The boat will leave from the State Pier in front of the Shipyard at 7:15 and return at midnight.
- A 10:30 Mass in Saint Joseph Chapel followed by a Communion breakfast at Maria's in Wrentham, Massachusetts. This event will be held at the King Philip in Scituate, Rhode Island, will be held from 11:30 to 3:30.
- The chapter activities will be held at the Junior Stag Night on Friday, May 6, 1967.
- On Saturday, May 7th, a clambake at Chopmist Hill Inn in Scituate, Rhode Island, will be held from 8:00 to 1:00 a.m., and will be held on Friday, May 6, 1967.
- The focal point of the weekend will be the Junior Prom to be held at the King Philip in Scituate, Massachusetts. This will be a formal (black tie) and formal affair. Favors for both guys and girls will be distributed, and a queen will be chosen. The Prom is from 8:00 to 1:00 a.m., and will be held on Friday, May 6, 1967.

Opportunity Given To Sociology Majors

An opportunity for Providence College sociology majors to earn $1.75 per hour while conducting sociological research has been announced by Mr. Georgios Pan. Piperopoulos, member of the college’s faculty and research associate with the Progress for Providence program.

Progress for Providence is an agency which attempts to bring the disadvantaged poor closer to their pressures. It is operated by the Division of Community Services of the City of Providence.

Progress for Providence, Inc., has been in contact with PC in the past, using the campus for the orientation of the summer interviews employed on the "Teenagers’ Probe"; through the Reverend Very. V. C. Dore, O.P., ex-president of the college and member of the Agency of Directors; through utilization of volunteer students working in various P.P.P. program, etc.

"The present project, however," Mr. Piperopoulos said, "constitutes the beginning of what might be termed as a long-lasting and mutually beneficial cooperation not only for Progress for Providence College, but primarily for the Sociology students at the College who are given a well compensated and useful practical experience in the field, under my supervision.

 Providence College, he said, will be involved in the first option of the project, which is coding and punching the information gathered for IBM computers. Fifteen students are now employed as coders. Father George McGregor, O.P., is acting as a consultant for the project.

Mr. Piperopoulos hopes to find positions for fifty to seventy-five students next year.

Letters to the Editor

That is liberalism in its purest sense. Can you not in like manner be equally as liberal and leave us with our own philosophy? When I matriculated at Providence I did not then know of the value of what I was then being taught until I got out into the hard, realistic world. Perhaps more of all that was taught to be eventually hit me square between the eyes and now I know the value of it all. In all our present-day and relevant thought I can best sum an argument against it all, and again if memory serves me correctly it goes thusly, as written by the old Irish poet, Thomas More: "Go wing thy flight from star to star, From world to luminous world As far as the universe spreads its bannèd wall, Take all the pleasures of all the spheres, And multiply each by a million years, And one moment of heaven is worth them all! I realize that I have taken certain liberties without discussion had with the administration but everything herein contained I assure you, is intended in the best interest of Providence College, the Dominican Fathers and certainly of your entire student body.

Sincerely yours,
James E. Bobolan

To the Editor:

This weekend an "unwritten law" of Providence College was enforced by a priest and a Pinkerton guard, upon a female visitor of a resident student. The law holds that no girls are allowed on this campus. What is the justification for this misogynic overtones of this law? Why haven't the students been informed of this law in writing before its embarrassing enforcement?

COLLEGE STUDENTS
EARN YOUR TUITION and then some . . .

Many students do . . .
with the modern Hood Ice Cream mobile unit. Manley Solomian has found, through past experience, that college students make excellent mobile route salesmen. Sales have been high with almost every college student on this program.

If you need to "earn your way," a Hood mobile truck is the perfect way to do it. Hood mobile trucks are available on either lease or purchase plans. With a minimum investment, you can make as much money as you wish.

Many of our student vendors net as much as $2,000 for the summer.

He is free from a sterile formalism, is a pioneer in using contemporary ways to work with, for and among 100 million non-Catholic Americans. He is a missionary to his own people—the American people. He utilizes modern techniques to fulfill his mission, is encouraged to call upon his own innate talents to help further his dedicated goal.

- Is the vital spark of serving God through man has been ignited in you, why not pursue an investigation of the priesthood? 1. Repulse in space, if something goes wrong with a vehicle in orbit, how can it be fixed? Answers must be found. If large-scale space operations are to become a reality, for this and other assignments Air Force scientists and engineers will be called on to answer in the next few years, we need the best brains available.

2. Lunar landing. The exact composition of the lunar surface, as well as its structure and propulsion characteristics of the space vehicle, enter into this problem. Important study remains to be done. Is there a possibility that the Air Force could be the one to do it?

3. Life-support biology. The filing of nebulous needs over long periods of time in space is one of the most pressing subjects for Air Force scientists to investigate. The results promise to show how much modifications for our life on earth, as well as in outer space, are possible.

4. Space orientation. The orbital problems of a spacecraft, including its ability to maneuver over selected points on the earth, are of vital importance to the military utilization of space. There are plenty of assignments for young Air Force physicists in this area.

5. Synergetic plane changes. The ability of a spacecraft to change vehicle can also be crucial to space operations. Where but in the Air Force could such a get the chance to work on such fascinating projects right at the start of their careers?

6. Space propulsion. Important tests must be made to determine how the pilots of manned spacecraft will react to long periods away from the earth. Of course not every new Air Force officer becomes involved in research and development right away. But where the most exciting advances are taking place, young Air Force scientists, administrators, pilots, and engineers are on the scene.

7. Pilot performance. Important tests must be made to determine how the pilots of manned spacecraft are to react to long periods away from the earth. Of course, not every new Air Force officer becomes involved in research and development right away. But where the most exciting advances are taking place, young Air Force scientists, administrators, pilots, and engineers are on the scene.

won a mile leg on PC's 4 mile course was 440 man Steve Hen-andez. Finishing behind Georgetown, Rondell, and St. John's, the team set a new PC record of 16:18. Donnelly ran 1:57 for his 880, Hernandez 50.5 for the 440, Rondell 3:11 for 440 and Brown 4:19 for the anchor mile.

The fact that these two chamпионаты runs are on separate days at the Penn Relays will prove an advantage to a team that races are won the track and only next Friday and Saturday will reveal the true outcome.

More than a few eyes will be on the black and white. Just to cool down, the Friars won the Westery 5 mile road race for the 5th consecutive year last Sunday. Brown was second,
Rondell 5th, Campbell 6th, Crooke 8th, and Paseo 9th for the Friars.

Maj. E. Hornstein
Killed In Action

A Mass for the late Major Edmund Hornstein has been scheduled for Thursday, April 28, by the ROTC cadet brigade.
Major Hornstein was recently killed in action in Vietnam.

It's golf time again and the Friar's prospect for the PC oftering the fairways with the same deadly accuracy that characterized last year's impressive 11-3 season.

Last Friday P.C. took the Rhode Island State Championship in convincing fashion by besetting both URI and Brown 6 and 1. The Friars were led by Dave Adamosin and Bob Carr, both of whom earned a score of 77. The victory was the Smith Hilliers' first over the Easts in three years.

Commenting on his team's prospects, Coach Prisco had to say, "We have good overall balance. I am optimistic but it is difficult to tell how a team will do until it experiences the pressures of match play." Coach Prisco thinks that Holy Cross and Boston College will provide the biggest test for the Friars.

Captain Joe Mahan is also optimistic. "We are as good as, if not better, than last year's team. We have better overall balance."

There is a misconception on campus, noted by Coach Prisco, that students are not welcome to watch the matches. "This is not true," he said. "We indeed welcome students to all our games and the experienced players are only fifteen minutes away from school.

Schedule of upcoming matches:

April 28—Lowell Tech and St.
Anselm College

April 29—Merrimack at Kirbrake C.C.

May 3—Tufts and Springfield at Metacomet C.C.

May 10—Holy Cross and Boston College.

Friar Nine Nips Assumption

BY PETE MEADE

A bases-loaded single to right by Barrett Sabadich capped a two out, ninth inning rally as the Friars edged the Assumption Crusaders at Hendricken Field last Monday. Ken Benouis, in relief of Jimmy Jones, was the winning pitcher, as Providence ended its four game tailspin with the 5-4 victory, bringing the season’s ledger to three wins against five defeats.

For the Friars, this victory ended a scoring drought during which they managed to score only ten runs in the last six ballgames.

Coach Alex Nahigian summed up the trouble of the Friars to date:

"After the opening game, the team went into a batting slump. Leaving men on base, and failing to produce the clutch hit when we need it, have been causes contributing to our losses."

At the beginning of the season, hitting appeared to be the strong point for Providence, but has since failed to live up to expectations.

"This past week the boys went into their slump, they all began to press and try harder at the plate, but you cannot hit when you are not relaxed. I have tried shuffling the lineup and using different men to get some base hits, but so far the breaks haven’t been going our way."

These breaks that Coach Nahigian was talking about are explained by Greg Walsh, the first baseman, who listed the Friars’ first line replacement at third for the season:

“In the game against Boston University we turned over what we believed to be an inning ending double play, only to have the runner called safe. After that three runs were scored by the Terriers and they were 4-1 behind. Instead of being out of the inning and still in the ballgame, we left the field trailing by three." After Monday’s victory, the break appear as if they are going to come for Providence. With two men on and two out in the bottom of the ninth, the Friars scored four runs in rallying from 4-1 back to 5-4 in the bottom of the ninth inning. An Assumption committed four consecutive errors before Saradinick’s game-winning single ended the contest.

The bright spot for the Friars so far is their defense. With Saradinick and Bill Peeling working together, the team has been getting the double play when needed.

“We have been turning over a couple of doubles plays each game. The defense has done its job as indicated by the fact that Providence has only been out of one contest, that being the 10-2 loss to Northeastern.”

Explaning the shape of the team for its final stretch drive, Nahigian said: "Our pitching has been adequate, but not really outstanding. Joe Twoone has been a two hit heartbreaker in his outing against Fairleigh Dickinson earlier in the season. Outside of Twoone’s effort, the rest of the staff has pitched well enough to win most games. If the hitters come to life, Providence is going to give the rest of its opponents a very difficult time."

PC Tennis Team Gets Late Start; To Face Crusaders at Home Friday

By Brian Maher

The debut of the 1966 edition of the Varsity Tennis team has been postponed twice because of rain and cold weather. Coach Dave Gavitt feels that this may hurt the team for now it must open against a strong squad from rival Brown University. But the Friars hope to be competitive in the Ivy League.

Coach Gavitt expects a successful season with the keenest competition coming from Brown, Tufts, Holy Cross and Springfield. He feels that the intensity played by the players this year is far greater than that of years past. The boys have worked out on their own during the off-season and the coaches feel that it will pay off. In a recent practice match against Bryant a few weeks ago, the squad played to an overall 9-3 win.

This year’s "racket squad" will be composed of six regulars and five alternates. In each match there are six singles and two doubles with a point being earned for each win. Here is a closer look at the players:

Kevin Phelan—Sr., Bristol, Conn.—Number one player, probably has the most potential of any player in school’s history. Very strong with big service, with consistency he’ll be tough to beat.

Bill Watters—Sr., Newport, R.I.—Big surprise, was number six last year but worked hard over the summer; serve is his biggest weapon.

Emile Martineau—Jr., Cranston, R.I.—Has shown great improvement, plays his best close to the net, needs some work on the serve.

Brian Mahan—New Bedford, Mass.—Has developed greatly, excellent strokes and good potential, may be surprise. Charlie Haddieck—Soph., (Continued on Page 9)

DEFENSE AND HUSTLE IS FROST STRENGTH; HITTING NEEDS WORK

By VIN PAPIN

"Outstanding defense ... a lot of hustle ... need a few more base hits ..." These, in the words of Coach Vin Cuddy, are the assets and liabilities of this spring edition on Freshman baseball.

Their record thus far, 9-2, is not a true indication of the team’s overall ability. The defense has been "outstanding" in all phases while the offense has not yet shown that it can come up with that big hit. Both losses have been by one run (1-0 to Holy Cross and 2-1 to URI) and in both there were men in scoring position, needing only a hit to bring them around. One bright spot, however, is the hitting of first baseman Andy Marvell. Although he is small as first baseman go, Andy has come up with two extra base hits thus far.

The defense is led by a very strong pitching corp which consists of Ed Dempsey and Steve Nelson (sophomore), left John Kowalski (put in at about six innings against URI), and Mike Ryan and Cal Pavesic. Both the infield and outfield have been platooned thus far in order to give everyone a shot at his position. Martella has been at first base while Jack Nesdlik and Phil Souza share the chores at second base. At short both John McGuire and Bob Labanara have been working while Vin Cimini is at third.

The catching chores are being shared by Gene Murphy and Chad Conner, both of whom can also play the outfield.
