Awards and Honors

Announced by College

A Freshman Class of approximately 750 students will be wandering helplessly around campus next September. If they are seen in need of help, please assist them for they are the remnants of 2509 high school students who applied for admission to PC this year.

Fr. Gardner, O.P., the Dean of Admissions, released several statistics concerning the first class of the new decade. From the number of those wanting to matriculate, 1322 were accepted. As of May 12, 621 seniors cancelled their admissions and 683 have committed themselves. As of the present, there are facilities for only 750 freshmen. Of those accepted, 900 applied as resident students and 587 applied as day students.

The number of applicants this year is 116 up from last year final total of 2509. The fact that there are too many applications sent in and insufficient facilities to accept a majority of admissions has prompted the Admissions Office to reset the applications deadline from April 1 to March 1 next year. Fr. Gardner admitted, "You can consider too many."

The number of states and foreign countries which will be represented by the freshman elect is uncertain. The Admissions Office, however, did detect a surprising number of transcripts from secondary schools who have never negotiated with P.C. Also, the freshmen who received P.C. funding from the Northeast guidance counselors for their students. An indication of this can be that the high school outside the Providence area which will probably be best represented by the Class of 70 will be the Bergen Catholic of Oradell, New Jersey.

The freshmen may compete for the 122 monetary achievement awards offered by PC. In addition to this, sixty-nine grants are available to the freshmen. These grants include partial scholarships to the brothers of the undergraduates. A portion of the quarter's million dollars that is being requested from Congress will also be appropriated for freshmen in need.

Getting into Providence College was easier for the Class of ’66 than for their yearmates. According to Fr. Gardner, “the overall admission process did tighten up.” Fr. Gardner also said that there are students who were rejected this year that would have been accepted three or four years ago indicating a rise in the attitude of the average freshmen are the College Board scores which have been steadily rising with the number (Continued on Page 6)

Humanities Major Elected
As COWL Senior of the Year

John Nissen, a Humanities major, has been elected overwhelmingly, as “The Cowl Senior of the Year” by the members of the faculty and administration.

Some of the activities and things John has participated in during his career at Providence College are: Dean’s List (by semester) 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, Student Congress, Vice President, junior year; President, senior year; Who’s Who; Arts Honors 1, 2, 3, 4, 5; Friars Club, and a member of the Student Faculty Board and the Student Administrative Board.

The present editorial board of COWL nominated those persons who, in the opinion of the board, met with the requirements of the award—satisfactory scholarship, service to the College as manifested in the support of extra-curricular activities, pride in the College, character, personality, and quality of leadership demonstrated over four years as a student of the College.

Various members of the faculty and administration select Brown with 25 points and will vote for three seniors in order of preference. Points were awarded on a 3.5-1 basis.

John received 48 points in the balloting followed by Barry Deasy.

Committeemen Announce Final Plans for Senior Gift

Final plans for “Project 60,” the senior class gift, have been announced by the gift committee.

Under the plan each member of the Class of 1966 will be asked to pledge $100 over the next five years. The goal is $660,000.

Actual solicitations for the money will not start until late summer or early fall, according to Bill Smith, class agent and committee chairman. This will allow the members to adjust to new jobs, service or graduate school.

Mr. Smith also said that some of the members of the class have indicated a willingness to pledge more than $100, some wishing to give $250. Because of this, the Committee is now accepting immediate process for the United States Pacific Trustees. Those interested in the project should contact Mr. Richard L. Kind, Room 10, McDermott Hall, at once.

Review and Awards Ceremony
Culminates Brigade’s Exercises

The culmination of the year's training activities was realized this past Sunday in Hendrickson Field as the Providence College ROTC brigade took part in the Fifteenth Annual Final Review and Awards Ceremony.

Among the dignitaries present in the reviewing stand were the Very Rev. William P. Hane, O.P., President of the College; Dr. Paul A. Robinson, President of Rhode Island Junior College; Dr. Paul van K. Thomsen, President of Brown University; and Father Dean of Seminaries at PC; Brig. Gen. Maurice Fournier, Asst. Commanding General 76th Inf. Div.; Mr. Robert Reisman, Civilian Aid, office of the Secretary of Army; and Brig. Gen. John V. Deasy, Commanding General, XLIII Corps Artillery. Father Hans spoke briefly to the brigade and the officers to the parents and friends present, after the cadets, under the command of Cadet Colonel Dennis J. Quinn, had passed in review.

"Thumbs up . . . or down!"

Threats, laughter, signs of relief, groans of revenge—there's ONE thing about a teacher evaluation to be appreciated at least: it is cut to an absolute minimum!

Aside from this rather negative approach, there are some aspects of a survey issued by the University that are potentially invaluable to both students and faculty in attempting improvement.

It has long been the contention of critics of the educational system that the situation presented in the classroom is one of the most difficult to judge accurately. There's no problem with the situation presented in the classroom critics of our educational system that are so prone to frown is one of the most difficult to judge accurately. There's no problem with the situation presented in the classroom critics of our educational system that are so prone to frown.

In one particular instance, a certain "professor," apparently in disagreement with the students, stays that he is really a study of the faults of the professors in that survey. It seems that the worst the evaluation could be accused of was a bit of unnecessary vagueness, but some professors convinced (?) of the malicious intent of it, refused to accept unsigned evaluations, and/or did not comply with the request that they be not perused by the professor before being turned into the Dean.

As a solution the evaluation itself was hardly without its drawbacks. For one thing, the opinion of both the student himself and the professor (perish the thought that there should exist such a one as he) were made evident, and this should not be so. For another, many students realized that the course material is handled in the classroom and, if you aren't convinced, try changing one. The real problem exists in accurate appraisal of a professor's performance, for no one but the student himself really knows how the course material is handled in the classroom.

Adieu!

Adieu are always difficult to render both because they tend to lose their sincerity with overuse, and also because any real sentiment is buried in trite emotionalism. But the Senior Class is leaving, and so it is time for saying adieu. So without lauding their accomplishments in a burst of nostalgia, or costing their failures in a last act of editorial kindness; may we simply wish our graduates "Godspeed" and refer them to the advice re-printed here below.

This open letter was originally published in the May 23 issue of the Cowl, 19 years separate the two classes, but the problems of facing the uncertainty of life that greeted the Class of '41 are distinctly similar to those which our grads will face. The letter was written when the world was immersed in a "hot" war; but we feel its advice will certainly carry some glimmer of meaning even in this age of "cool" wars.

Gentlemen:

You will soon graduate. Armed with a scarcity of experience and a wealth of ambition you are entering a world in which the philosophy of free men is threatened with extinction. You leave disillusioned.

You are disillusioned because being caught in the maelstrom of human events your rosy-eyed visions of the future are clouded with uncertainty. Uncertain, doubtful, skeptical, and disillusioned you go forth feeling that your four years of study, effort, and labor have been wasted. You cannot now see the value of your education here at Providence College; it would be folly to suppose that you did. The principles that you have been taught may not be reigned in a day, or a year, or a lifetime. You cannot balance and weigh the merits of your learning merely because you have your diploma in hand. Rather, when that wisdom comes, you will appreciate and see clearly the fundamental teachings which we have been so privileged to acquire. If you waver in these doctrines that have been instilled in your minds you may give up the ghost and fall into the rank and file of those who used to be, the limbo of forgotten men."

GERALD G. McCLURE

Theology, Q. 166 and 167, where the virtue of studiousness is concerned as a part of temperament. The question is particularly significant at this time with "Spring Fever" slipping into the picture with a touch of final tournaments. Restraint is demonstrated by studying only those things that are intended to be studied and to the extent that are applied directly to your needs.

There are some who exist solely for the ball field, and others wouldn't know what, or where, a ball field is. Study when your needs call for study, and relax when the body calls for relaxation.

MEMO—
FROM THE EDITOR

On June seventh, our seniors will be graduated. It will be the fulfillment of four years of training and preparation. They will leave the campus and embark upon life in their chosen field.

During these four years, they have learned much. Now it is time for them to put to practice the knowledge they have acquired. The college graduate is the backbone of our nation's strength. They have been given much, and now they are expected to give what they received to others.

They are educated men, and as such, they will be looked upon by others to give guidance and leadership. Their influence will be unbounded. They must always be alert and cognizant of the role they are playing to build our civilization into a cultural and intellectual stronghold.

This influence will either be good or bad. If they lose sight of their potentiality and fall into the heresy of placidity, the easy way out, it will be bad. However, if they put into practice what they have learned and remember the true relationship of values, it will be good. Their students, co-workers and families, as well as their Church and country, will be better because of them. Most important of all, their lives will be happy, well adjusted and profitable.

To those to whom tomorrow is hopefully entrusted, these timeless words of Archibald MacLeish are directed:

"We shall not have peace . . . until the world we wait for has been born. But it will not be born until we recognize it, until we shape it with our expectation and our hope. The new worlds do not bring themselves into being. Men's minds, when they are ready for them, find them. The labor and the longing must be ours . . ."

"Thumbs up . . . or down!"

To the Editor:

Dear Virginia,

I have read your letters, editorial and otherwise, with great interest and I find you are disturbing. We must not be afraid to tell you that the PC may be the cause of some students coming to the conference. It is not only a myth and a reality. We must learn and accept that the conference is a key. I know the number of peasantists and other people who have not seen any good in the conference since Adam bit into the apple.

Don't be misled, Virginia, by the speeches of the PC orators. The world is full of those Puritans against whom we have to keep our eyes open, and those imbeciles to whom we have to be on our guard.

I have been on the faculty for the past two years. I have been on the faculty for the past two years. During this period, I have had the opportunity to observe both the freshmen and junior members of the college. I can give you my own impression of this establishment.

When I came last year, I was told by one of our student editors that he had been trained for a few weeks. But he had been told that he had to meet some intellectual standards in order to be considered. When he came as the student editor told me the first time that he had met the requirements, I was here with the wonderful attitude of a student. This repeats, at least ten other Dominicans within the next two days. It was obvious that they agree with them. They also said "There is a very fine feeling between us and the lay faculty." Again, I have found this an understatement.

The PC Gentlemen is trustworthy. My students with rare exceptions have always turned up in their assignments at least two weeks after the deadline.

He is Loyal. Anyone who attended the Silver Jubilee at the college can testify to this. If he had seen any change in the attitude of the students, he found that remarkable. He found the students vital, alert, interested. Without him to put an udder into their attitude of the students. This was by the old standards as such a statement once in a while is only meant to assure the continuance of this spirit of "comradelyness".

There are some organizations on campus which tend to destroy the basketball games. Perhaps the Friars Club shares the image of the Friar brothers. It is very well handled. Improvements to the Friars Club were presented with music of considerable beauty and well as diffi-

Finalists Announced In Bowl Competition

Twenty-four students are among the finalists in the O.E.
College Bowl contest, it has been announced by Edward C.
Brennan, coach for the PC team to be selected.

Twelve of the finalists are juniors, six are sophomores and six are freshmen. They met with Mr. Brennan on Monday,
May 10, to talk over the problem facing the IRC next year will be membership.

With the graduation of the Class of 1966 there will be a lack of upperclassmen to fill the posts. Special attention will be placed on the recruiting of upperclassmen next year to balance the expected influx of members of the Class of 1970.

of years. At least 1,000 applicants were qualified and could have been easily accepted if faculty, space, and library limitations were not present to force the administration to set a 750 student maximum for the Freshman Class.

The College is also considering applications rendered from 271 students from various universities, colleges, and junior colleges. This number far surpasses any number of previous years.

The quality in the extremes of ability also indicates an intelligent Freshman Class. Thirteen students were accepted into the N.I.H.'s Honors Science Program and some were granted the opportunity to take Arts Honors courses. However, the College Board Scores indicate a need for only twenty-three students to take a remedial reading course which will be offered in the summer (this course will be offered for the first time at PC this summer, has been given at various other institutions for a few years).

The College will be officially open to freshmen during Freshmen Week beginning September 12.

Guidance Officer Appointed

Raymond E. Thibeault, a retired Army officer, has been named guidance and placement officer for Providence College, the Very Rev. William Paul Haas, O.P., college president, announced today.

Mr. Thibeault will be responsible for student career guidance and counseling and will operate the college's placement office effective May 23.

Mr. Thibeault retired from the Army last July as a Lieutenant Colonel. His last military assignment was as an assistant professor of military science with the Providence College ROTC. Since that time, he has been teaching at Nathaniel Greene Junior High School, Providence.

Class Gift...

The committee decided to solicit larger gifts. The hope of acquiring large pledges led the committee to place the goal at its present sum. There are at present 3,000 members of the senior class and with each member of the class pledging $100, the goal would be $300,000. Also figuring in on the decision for a higher goal is the prospect of earning interest on the money while it is banked during the five-year donating period.

After making his pledge, the member will be able to choose a plan for giving his money throughout the five years. Mr. Smith said that the pledge may, however, be paid in one sum.

All gift money will be sent to the alumni office here at the college. Participation in the project will qualify a member of the class as an active member of the Providence College Alumni Association with its many privileges, including basketball tickets at reduced rates, etc.

Mr. Paul Connolly, executive alumni secretary, will manage the funds for the class. Mr. Smith will remain responsible for the gift until it is given to the school at the fifth-year reunion. The traditional presentation will take place at the Parents Night activities on the night before graduation.

The committee felt that the administration is in a better position to judge the future needs of the college and therefore did not put any specific stipulations on use of the money, except that it be used in some physical object—a room in a new building, for instance.

The climactic event in a schoolboy runner's career is usually the cross-country meet that can come to a freshman cross-country squad is winning the team championship in the ICAA meet. At this year's event in Rhode Island, Herbie Duggan was a member of the top two-mile relay at Providence. At the end of his first, and what was to be his last, cross-country season at PC, he was a member of the ICAA frosh championship squad. But his career, as promising as champions Brown's and Riordan's have proven, was cut short by an ulcer. The story here is not, however, yellowed clippings, but the fact that Richie Duggan did not stop producing.

The final attraction of any track and field meet is popularly known as the mile relay. On the program it says "4 X 400," which means a team composed of four unique runners known as "quarter milers." Some teams specialize in them, others just carry them along as a kind of necessary evil. You've got to respect a fine distance coach who admits that coaching the shortest distances is not his forte. So in the fall of 1964, Rich Duggan had not only his first好的season, but the fact that the relay team didn't seem to have a problem. Duggan had come through again.

As a result of their opening night effort in Boston, the relay team remained one of the major indoor meets but things were never quite the same. The breaks didn't come and the mile relay ran most of its races with only one man who actually trained for the quarter mile. Steve Hernandez and Joe Underd. Under Duggan's guidance, each has broken the 50-second barrier in the 440 at least three times on a relay leg and each has tied the school record of 49.8 from a start.

Coach Hanlon has done a tremendous job developing the Friar distance medley into one of the best in the East. His runners carry respect into their major encounters throughout the East. His team is pitching a medley to be hurt by PC ... but Richie Duggan has changed all that. A typical comment on the efforts of his proteges was overheard at a recent meet. "You're the best, but the first time I've ever seen the quarter leg on their relay gain ground instead of losing it!"

Next year Richie moves into the high school coaching ranks at the helm of a team of his own. It's a great opportunity for him and one that he has earned. He'll tell you that he has learned a lot from Coach Hanlon and from the fellows he has coached. Hernandez and Adamec will tell you that Our Lady of Providence High is gaining more than just a coach.

Rich Duggan we say the best of luck ... and thanks.

Boston College ended the Friars' three game winning streak yesterday with a 3-1 victory at Newton. Sophomore Bernie Norton, experiencing control problems, fell victim to the fine hurling of Pettingill, normally the short-end of last year's New England champs, URI, finished far down on the list.

In the individual department, Joe Monahan carded a fine 74 in the second round while John dropped to an 82. Danny En- posito of UConn shot 76 and 77 respectively, including a birdie on the 18th, to tie Joe and therefore cause the sudden death playoff. Dan Wehber shot an 80 and an 83 while Dave Adamsos carded an 86 and an 84. Craig Galipeau was high- man on the team (65 and 80) and his score did not count on the team totals.

During that eventful second round the PC captain was among the early finishers and thus he was left with a four hour wait until Enposito finished. On the first extra hole both players narrowly missed for a birdie and had to settle for a par. The 20th, as it proved to be, will fulfill the role of story for both. Dan had a two foot putt in to sink for a par but put too much on it and as a result he missed both that and the following putt. He had to settle for a double bogey. Joe took his time and as a result and his in two putts for a bogey and the match.

Commenting on the adverse weather conditions which plagued most of the match, Cap- tain Monahan said, "The weather (cold and rainy) actually helped some of us. Coach Prisco called for some foul weather and as a re- sult our game wasn't thrown off too much." Joe also added that the team was waiting for this match to come around 20th. "They all felt that they could make a very respectable show- ing." The Friar Linkseron's record is now 7-2. This includes a 3-1 win over Nichols College and 1-0 win over Stonehill on Mon- day at the Medesett Golf Club triangular meet.

The NCAA's next on the list for the golfers Coach Prisco said that their win in narrowly missed New England does not guarantee a bid. He did say, however, that the chances are very good. Of course, of course, are today's match and the final round this week at the University of Connecticut, both can be very tough.

The team will close out its schedule this week when it hosts URI today, travels to Stonehill for its final match of the season on Saturday against the Coast Guard.

Overview: Foul Weather in Comeback; NCAA Bid to Play in California Likely

Boston College ended the Friars' three game winning streak yesterday with a 3-1 victory at Newton. Sophomore Bernie Norton, experiencing control problems, threw several wild pitches and walked eight batters in accepting the loss. All of the wild pitches figured in the scoring. He also drove Sullivan in with the Friars' only run on a fielder's choice.

Greg Walsh and co-captain Jack O'Rourke paced the hitting performances. Each had 2-for-4 with a single in the six run, 3-1 victory at Newton. Sophomore Bernie Norton, experiencing control problems, fell victim to the fine hurling of Pettingill, normally the short-end of last year's New England champs, URI, finished far down on the list.

In the individual department, Joe Monahan carded a fine 74 in the second round while John dropped to an 82. Danny En- posito of UConn shot 76 and 77 respectively, including a birdie on the 18th, to tie Joe and therefore cause the sudden death playoff. Dan Wehber shot an 80 and an 83 while Dave Adamsos carded a 3-1 victory at Newton.
