The general trend, however, is that most upperclassmen don't think that teachers aren't adhering to the policy. As a result, juniors and seniors argued. "If every student was required to take a fifth course, we would have to hire 40 or more (new) faculty members. As a result, tuition would have to be increased."

Dr. Primente answered this objection by saying that many courses are underenrolled and it would be phased-in over a four year period, thus spreading the costs involved in hiring new faculty over four years. Dr. Hugh F. Lena, chairman of the sociology department, feels that if the proposal is passed, it would be especially hard on student bodies of the five course curriculum. Lena said that some students could not longer make all 300 and 400 level courses 25% more difficult.

Many of the faculty members present agreed with Dr. Mackay that teachers aren't adhering to this policy. As a result, juniors and seniors have more free time on their hands.

One argument in favor of the proposed five course curriculum is that most schools of comparable size to PC have a five course requirement per semester. The policy now is that juniors or seniors may still take a fifth course at no extra cost, whereas a freshman or sophomore is charged over $400 to do this.

Flynn in as first OCRO president

By Carol Persi

The elections for the 1980-1981 Resident Board were held on Thursday, February 28. There was a 31% student voter turnout. The voting areas were in the lower level of Slavin Center during the day and at Raymond Cafeteria during dinner. The students were notified of the results that same evening.

The new Resident Board president is Tim West. West is a member of the Class of 1982 and is a marketing major from Hanover, Mass. He has been a Joseph Hall resident for two years. His activities include lacrosse and the Knights of Columbus. West was quoted as saying, "I feel that the Resident Board is somewhat of a labor of love between students and the administration, whose primary purpose is to further improve the quality of life. I am familiar with the work done by the Board last year, although I haven't really sat down with Bill Pearl to discuss certain objectives. I would like to continue the College's Corner, to really keep it maintained. I would also like to formulate a residence plan for freshman housing. It is a tough situation when first arriving to a new school and not having a guaranteed place to live. I am eagerly anticipating the work I know this Board can accomplish."

Patrick Leyden was elected Resident Board vice-president. He is also a member of the Class of '82, a management major, and is from Brooklyn, New York. In addition to his new position, Leyden is involved in many other activities. He is a member of the Orange County Rugby Club, the Knights of Columbus, and responsible drinking (CORD). Leyden looks to the Board as this manner, "I'd like to look into a cooperative for the off-campus students to provide them in the future, with cheaper home heating oil and food. I'm meeting with other Peteck next week to get started on it."

"I also want to establish the office as a place where off-campus students can take all of their legal problems to get competent advice. "Also, we want to get a center of off-campus housing so that students can find housing without referrals before they pound the pavement."

These are the first officers of OCRO. The members of their main tasks will be to get the those proposals to the Board firmly in the administration and the community of the College. Their personal experiences will benefit each of them as they carry out their duties as officers of the new OCRO.

CORD favors 18/20 split in drinking age reform

By Steve Sylvia

Yesterday, the Committee on Responsible Drinking (CORD) held a press conference at Brown University's Alumni Hall to make public their proposals on the drinking age. The committee was formed by area college students in response to the House bill raising the drinking age to 20. Among those present were State Senator Stephen Fontunato, State Representative Kevin McKenna, former State Senator Edmund Berardinelli and representatives from area colleges.

CORD is supporting the alternative proposal presented in the General Assembly for an "18/20 "split" in the drinking age. This would allow 18 year olds to consume alcoholic beverages in bars and restaurants, while restricting sales of liquor (in package stores, etc.) to 20 year olds. CORD believes that raising the drinking age to 20 will not solve the real problem, which is unsafe driving due to uncontrolled drinking. In fact, it reportedly only encourages drinking in the wrong places, such as "cruising" in cars, because it forces those that are under-age out of controlled atmospheres (i.e. college bars and restaurants) into bars and restaurants. CORD believes that this is a better solution to the problem.

A study done by the Catholic University showed that more alcohol is consumed by high school students, whereas the drinking age is above 18 in than in states where the drinking age is 18 or below.

Therefore, CORD has the following proposals: A) Issue a junior operator's license to 16 year old drivers which would restrict driving after 9:00 p.m. except for special employment purposes. At age 18, a senior operator's license, without the special restrictions, would be issued. B) Require all 16-20 year old driver's license applicants to pass a certified driver's education program that would include a written examination on traffic rules, driving alcohol and drinking, and a mandatory six-hour behind-the-wheel training. In addition to five to ten hours of classroom education on the serious consequences of drinking and driving, and a mandatory six-hour behind-the-wheel training, the driver is licensed only after passing a written examination on traffic rules, drinking alcohol and driving, and a mandatory six-hour behind-the-wheel training. C) Increase the penalties for minors who purchase alcohol, for persons in possession of alcohol on high school campuses and for driving alcohol and drinking.

CORD hopes that these proposals, along with better enforcement of the laws regulating the consumption of alcohol will curb alcohol abuse among the state's youth.
Inter-collegiate intra-state group
A state-wide meeting was held at URI on Thursday, February 28, on the topic of programs and services for commuter students. Student Services personnel from colleges in Rhode Island attended.
Representing PC were Rev. John A. McMahon, O.P., assistant vice president for Student Services and George J. West, ’80, student assistant for Student Services.

Among topics discussed at this meeting was the problem of how to involve the commuter student in the activities of the college. Father McMahon observed that PC is a giant step ahead of other area colleges. Most others do not have a student organization for commuter students like our very active Dillon Club. Consequently, especially through George West, PC was in a position to offer some positive concrete suggestions to other area colleges which were enthusiastically received.

An outcome of the meeting at URI was an agreement on the part of the area colleges to meet again and form an intra-state inter-collegiate group to address itself to the needs and concerns of commuter students.

37 students opt for European vacation
classes start April 21’st
By Lewis DiPrete
On Friday morning last, an initial conversation was held for students going to Europe this semester.
For the soon-to-be-wandering juniors, there was the noticeable presence of teary-eyed seniors. Many were too excited to be nervous. One female told her baby sister to take good care of Mom and Dad, while another promised her parents she’d be home before Christmas. One couple were exchanging promises of faithfulness when the girl exclaimed, “Don’t worry. I’ll be home before Christmas.”

The juniors going over seas had high expectations for Europe; learning the language, meeting the diverse people and drinking plenty of beer. One girl, Holly Clifford, said she’d miss her relatives, roommates and friends (except J.C.), but said that this is one opportunity that she couldn’t pass up.

Dr. Gousie, one of the speakers at the meeting, gave a short summary of what was to be expected for the first five days of the trip.
Flying out of Kennedy Airport February 29, they landed in Frankfurt, Germany on Saturday morning. Immediately, they spent the night. Then they visited Munich for two days and saw the fabulous Fasching, the German equivalent of Mardi Gras. The group’s final destination, via bus ride, was Fribourg, but not before an overnight stay on beautiful Lake Constance in the Swiss-German Alps.
Finally, after that little vacation, they arrive in Fribourg to be placed in various rooms and apartments throughout parochial Fribourg.

After a short meeting with Brother Bangs, resident director, and boarded a bus to Heidelberg, Germany, where they spent the night. Then they visited Munich for two days and saw the fabulous Fasching, the German equivalent of Mardi Gras. The group’s final destination, via bus ride, was Fribourg, but not before an overnight stay on beautiful Lake Constance in the Swiss-German Alps. Finally, after that little vacation, they arrive in Fribourg to be placed in various rooms and apartments throughout parochial Fribourg.

The Registrar’s Office has installed a new registration procedure, effective for the upcoming registration in April. The major innovation will be the absence of faculty representatives from each department during the actual registration. Each student must have his tentative schedule completed and approved before he comes to register. This will create a considerable decrease in actual room needed for registration, so the location has been changed from Harlin’s Auditorium to Slavin 110.

A new three-part drop-add slip will be another new addition to registration procedure. It will eliminate the long lines of students waiting in ‘64 Hall to drop or overroll in courses. If a student wishes to overroll, he will have to go to the professor who will teach the course and obtain the professor’s written approval. The department will then receive one copy of the add slip, the student will keep one, and will return the third to the Registrar’s Office at some time during the drop-add period.

A student who wishes to drop a course can do so at the actual registration, since only his signature is required on the drop slip. Of course, a student will be able to drop a course later on as well, following the same procedure and making sure the Registrar’s Office freight copy of the drop slip.

This new registration procedure may be the forerunner of a new, more elaborate registration system.

Workshop: test anxiety

By Judy McNamara

March 5, 1980

The Counseling Center had received much positive feedback from students attending a workshop held March 15th. Phillips, the personnel and vocational counselor of Providence College, acted as director of this workshop. The main function of the program was to familiarize students with the stress associated with examination and work. Phillips concentrated on relaxation techniques. The workshop was brought back by the students to relieve tension.

Although this workshop was similar to the one held in October, Phillips concentrated more on the personal experience the students attending. If you missed this helpful workshop, don't get tense about it. Just drop into the Counseling Center. And next time you get worried about a test, sit back, relax, and remember that stress can be relieved.

SC proposes $10 fee hike

By Steve Sylvia

March 5, 1980

The Student Congress held two meetings last Sunday, March 2. In the first meeting, an amendment to the President's Board's bylaws was unanimously approved. This amendment gives the Resident Board complete control over the reservation and use of the "Colonel's Curm." Also, a resolution was passed and sent to the Committee on Administration, asking for a $10 increase in the student activity fee. This increase, they assert, is needed to offset the effects of inflation and the monetary loss that will be incurred by classes and organizations if the drinking age is raised to 20. Although, at this time, the SGA doesn't seem to be interested in getting rid of the drinking age, this resolution could be the start of another fee hike that will help the resident board officers and students.

The Fine Arts Committee announced the Poor House Puppets will appear on Wednesday (today) in '64 Hall. The price is 50 cents. The Travel Committee reported a successful Brains vs. Whalers trip. They also cancelled the March 15th bus trip to New York, and are in search of an alternative date. The possibility of the hockey team making the ECAC finals is still a possibility. The Social Committee proposed having Debby Howard at the Last Resort Coffeehouse on March 11th. It was released before the committee plan to have the Green Castle Band for April 18th.

Also, the committee declared that auditions for PC students who feel they are qualified to play at the Coffeehouse will be held on March 13th, from 2-5 p.m., at the Last Resort. The BOG's sound system will be used.

The Film Committee announced three showings of "Midnight Express," for March 16th, 18th, and 20th. The Last Resort Committee will present the band Changing Times at the Resort next Thursday. If you like 100% oldies, this is the band to see. Tickets will be on sale this week in the BOG office.

The Programming Committee announced the March 27th hino-Nite in association with the PC Chorus.

The Dillon Club announced that the Florida trip is closed, and the Bermuda trip will continue to sell until the day of departure.

Residents and visitors will be impressed by the input of students and administration.

Maura Conway won the position of Resident Board secretary. Conway is a sophomore and a humanities major. She is from Storrs, Conn., and is currently a resident of Aquinas Hall. She delivers for E. and J.'s, works at the concession stand during basketball games, and is a very active member of the sophomore class. Conway stated, "I haven't been really able to get with the officers yet but to further acquant myself with them. However, I do know that we will work together as a team and set goals that will help the resident students." Kane Grant, the new Resident Board treasurer, is a sophomore accounting major from Northfield, Conn. Her other activities include working with Congress, the American Marketing Association, Aquinas Dorm Council treasurer, and working in Raymond Cafeteria. She was available for comments.

The officers' term will formally begin following a swearing-in ceremony, to be held in the near future.

Parents Weekend: How to make a good thing better

Strictly speaking, Parents' Weekend is a great idea. Each year, it is designed to more fully acquaint parents with Providence College, its students and faculty. More importantly, however, the weekend offers an excellent opportunity for parents to visit with their kids in their own environment — to see first hand about 30 minutes for their meal, finally the buffet line kept people waiting about 30 minutes for their "Blackstone Delight." Unfortunately, lines weren't the only by-product of this overcrowding. Seating space at the Raymond Hall dance was very limited. An estimated one-third of the guests had no choice but to stand, with the tables filling up all too quickly. It naturally follows that if RNA Hall itself was declared academically ineligible, the Friars were not left with much, but what he induced the team to accomplish was admirable.

Walters said he would stress defense this season. The zone defense that the Friars thrashed against such top teams as Duke, St. John, Georgetown, and Louisville was nearly impenetrable. The final stats tell the story, the Friars averaged more points per game this year than did the opposition.

Walters was an emotional coach and was often tagged for techni-

BOG 'missing the boat'? all groups deserve vote

The Providence College Board of Governors during the last two weeks, has been in the process of drawing up a set of proposed bylaws to their constitutions. This attempt is a wise idea, since, given the present capacity, the BOG has long outgrown their old guidelines. Thus, an update is definitely in order.

After reviewing these proposed bylaws, the Cowl Editorial Board feels that the BOG may have "missed the boat" in the formulation of these guidelines by overlooking an important feature which is of primary importance to any student organization: specifically, we mean the assurance that the club and its members are protected from repercussions and the BOG's impact as a valuable organization, since they would no longer attempt to represent the total student body.

The Board truly is dedicated to promising the best interests of all students, as their bylaws state, they will welcome all representatives of the groups.

We realize that these bylaws are just proposals and, incidentally, have, incidentally, been tabled indefinitely. However, the Cowl Editorial Board feels the BOG has drawn up both their own function and the implications of these bylaws. Again, the student activities fee represents the sum total of payments from the entire student body, not a select few.

Are these proposed changes really "an attempt to consolidate power for the BOG" as the Dillon Club alleged in their open letter to the Board? Nothing could be further from the truth.

The situation was hardly less difficult to eliminate all crowding. To decrease the problems of future years, we advocate limiting this event to only sophomore and junior parents only. Presently, it is open to all classes with the exception that of freshmen. Seniors already have a "Parents' Day" included in commencement week activities, and their absence would reduce the problem somewhat.

The space available in Alumni Gym would provide a possible alternative to Raymond Hall as a site for the dance. The gym offers a considerably large area for seating and dancing. This move might bring a more pleasant, relaxing atmosphere.

Finally, perhaps the most difficult suggestion to implement involves strictly limiting ticket sales. This is easy to recommend, but very tough to practice since the interest in Parents' Weekend is so extensive. Although this solution would solve many problems.

This is not an attempt to downplay the success of the weekend. On the whole, it was a most enjoyable time. Again, we do feel that "You can always make a good thing better."
To PC with love

Dear Editor:

Once again I need your help. My students from my two years of teaching may be wondering how to contact me. They can reach me in care of Johnson & Wales College. I told many of my fellows in the College. I told many of my friends in general. This offer is just to keep my friends and old students in touch. This offer is just one way I can keep my promises to my students. It's a way for me to show my love for my fellows in general.

Each of us here are on our own. We are in college. We are taking the best we can from the fresh new experience. We are quite safe and secure. The "kids" suddenly found the rules reversed. We dictated what was to be done. We are in college. We must find the one in which our parents, and a little more of ourselves, find our little world here at PC?

Does Congress care?

Dear Editor:

On February 25th in '64 Hall the Providence College Republicans sponsored a Public Forum discussing the drinking age in Rhode Island. It was ironic to note this most important issue, that could very well alter life here at PC, generated almost no interest from our Student Congress. Only one member of Congress was present, this being freshman class rep. Jean Ludwig. It is the job on Congress to represent the student body that elected them to office, unfortunately it seems we have elected incompetent officials, who would rather have a few pitchers at the Rat instead of being at this most important event.

It seems to us that non-Congress members such as Dave Rinaldi, who participated in this Forum, Andy Kushner and others who have worked very hard to fight this bill will have more of an effect than our elected Congress. We hope that in the future the Congress members will attempt to address the problems that the Providence College community faces.

My last game as a Friar

By Ned Cummins

Last Thursday afternoon, amidst the arena's rowdy fans, the alumni and locals, the Friars played their final game at the Civic Center. The majority of the Friars were from our recent graduating classes. There were former Friars, Fr. Roy, and former Friar coach, coach Wilson. It has been a very enjoyable season. The Friars finished third in the conference and are now going to the national tournament.

Ned Cummins

Many other comments were made by students and faculty members. It was a great season and everyone was excited for the Friars to do well in the national tournament. The Friars' final game was an exciting one and everyone was rooting for them. The Friars' season was successful and everyone was proud of the team. The Friars' season was a great experience and everyone will miss them when they graduate.
Students needed to join varied expeditions

Have you ever wanted to walk mountain sheep in Alaska, storkel and photograph a Caribbean reef, observe elephants and cheetahs in Africa? The Expedition Training Institute, a non-profit national field school for high school and college students, is offering 21 research expeditions in the natural and environmental sciences this summer. Over 300 students from across the country are expected to participate.

Based in Boston, the Expedition Training Institute was founded by members of the Explorers Club and Lowell Thomas—world renowned explorer and honorary president of the Institute. Executive Director Jim Elder explains, “We felt that combining academic field research and the wilderness experience would offer young people pre-professional training in the natural sciences and a chance to explore their own special interests in the outdoors. ETI is unlike most other outdoor programs in that students actually contribute to original scientific research through observation and data collection on an expedition.”

The research expeditions are intended to supplement traditional classroom learning. Acadeically, however, is not the only area in which students receive training. They are also taught skills such as mountaineering, scuba diving, first aid, kayaking, and navigation, to allow safe travel in and out of the wilds where the field research is to be conducted.

Small groups of students are led by university professors, experienced outdoorsmen, and teachers. Projects usually last from three to four weeks and cost about $800. Both academic credit and scholarships are available.

What kind of students is the Expedition Training Institute looking for? “A diverse, lively, and motivated group, ages 16-24 with strong academic ability and serious interests in science and the outdoors,” says the Director.

For more information and application forms, write to the Expedition Training Institute, P.O. Box 93, Beverly Farms, Massachusetts 01915, or call (617) 922-6577.

Infirmary speaks on emergency room gripes

From time to time during the school year Student Health receives complaints about local hospital emergency rooms. Complaints about Saint Joseph’s Hospital are the most frequent—not because it is not well run, but rather because we utilize it the most.

The staff in emergency rooms work well, trained, experienced people who deal with trauma and tragedy daily, such as injuries from a serious accident, death, a heart attack or stroke, a badly battered child, etc. The job of an emergency room doctor or nurse often involves notifying or consoling a loved one. The job is never easy involved in notifying or consoling a loved one. The job is never easy.

In an emergency room where the complaint that the E.R. staff is not available at any hospital E.R. is the best.

From time to time we also hear the complaint that the E.R. staff is not available at any hospital E.R. is the best.

It is true that when we are ill or injured we experience anxiety and a desire to be treated immediately. However, this is often an imposibility. The acutely ill patient is always treated first. All other patients follow.

In the most efficiently operated doctor’s office, there is often over an hour’s wait. That is because the physician/patient is dealing with people who have needs and anxieties that demand extra attention and time during a visit. Therefore, even the most efficient scheduling can, and does, fail.

In an emergency room where every patient is unscheduled and has many needs, there is often a very long wait. A possible solution to this problem would be to have two types of emergency rooms—one set up to handle critical cases and one to handle less critical cases. However, this is not available at any hospital E.R. in the state.

Social work

The Social Work Alliance is conducting research on the effects of the policy on the campus. Based on their preliminary findings, they have decided to interview the students who have been affected by the policy. They hope to gather more information on the impact of the policy on the students who have been interviewed.

The Student Board of Governors recently wrote a rough draft of new bylaws.
These new bylaws have yet to be fully discussed, revised, and re-worded within the BOG itself.
These new bylaws have not been taken to any kind of vote and have not been processed through the proper channels...They haven't been voted on by the BOG, the Advisory Board, or the Student Congress.

The BOG is overseen by the Student Congress and the Advisory Board. It is not an organization which is freely handed a large amount of funds to spend without supervision.

The BOG is not limited in representation. Any Providence College undergraduate student who wants to get involved and who meets the necessary requirements (e.g. 2.0 cum) can try out for chairperson positions on any BOG committee. These selections are made each spring.

The BOG is not consolidating its power.

The BOG cannot maintain any control over the student activity fee...The amount of funds allocated to the BOG which come from this activity fee is decided by the Student Congress.

The BOG is comprised of students who volunteer many hours of their free time to bring this school quality entertainment...It can sure use the help of fellow students.

Terriers no match for powerful PC squad

By Michael Burke

The Lady Friars hockey team added to their string of victories last Wednesday as they blanked the BU Terriers, 8-0, in PC’s final regular season home game. Alexis Sgobbo’s first period hat trick contributed to the five goal lead held by the Lady Friars before that period was half over. At the end of the first period, the Lady pucksters ended BU’s hopes for a comeback with the help of their defense, which was inspired by John Lenahan. TheLady Friars have been there each and every time the Lady Friars have played on their home ice.

No one but the goalies prevailed at the end of the half. Providence’s Center, Debra Kirrane (8), came back to the Terrier zone to allow a Lady Friar to score. Sgobbo completed her hat trick to open fire from the point. The Eagles hung tough and passed it to Susan Duffy for goal number three. Not 30 seconds later, Sgobbo added to their string of victories with a high slap shot that enabled right winger Tiernan, and Jill Spencer started the game to make it 5-2. The last goal of the game came with just 19 seconds left in the period. Steve Evangletta and Terry Horgan had one lone BC defender to beat. Evangletta made a move towards the goal, blasting the defensemen to move after him, and passed it to Horgan who made it 6-2.

Bruce Raboin slapshot from the center of the circle pulled within one when Mike O’Neil made a nice move around Friar goalie Mary Ann McCoy to pop it into the net. The Lady Friars came on a little sluggish in the cautious opening minutes of the first half, but before the first half was over, they had settled down and opened up a nine point lead.

Captains Jeff Whisler and Mike Bolstad fought for two quick goals in five minutes and never looked back.

Steve Anderson found Mike Bobst alone in front of goalie Doug Ellis and with just 15 minutes gone, it was 1-0 Friars. Three minutes later Mike Bobst took the other end of a pass and carried it all the way down ice.

O’Neil made a nice move around the goalie. Three minutes later Mike Bolstad pulled within one when Mike O’Neil made a nice move around Friar goalie Mary Ann McCoy to pop it into the net.

If the Eagles were going to stop Colucci defending the zone, the Terriers had to move after him, and pass it to Horgan who made it 6-2.

Close call costs Friars contest

By Ed Rohl

In their first round action of the Big East Tournament, the Providence College Friars came a breath away from upsetting the nationally ranked Redmen of St. John’s. But that one breath, which blew the whistle on Rudy Williams with six seconds left, deprived the Friars of a hard fought victory.

This was the second time that PC met St. John’s within a week. In their last regular season game, the Friars were favored Redmen for a full 40 minutes before losing, 68-62. When the two teams met again on Thursday afternoon, many expected the improved Redmen out of conference to roll over the Friars. But instead, they were frustrated in their own backcourt. Getting from cold Friar shooting and some favorable calls to barely escape with a 68-64 win.

Never did St. John’s break this game open with big leads.

Although their advantage peaked to seven points, they were unable to run away from the Friars, PC closed close in the first half by doing what they have done well all year: playing solid defense and finishing the shots.

While the offensive effort came first, the defense was inspired by John Nolan. Nolan's efforts were supplemented with hustle and quick hands led to five seals against a guard combi­nation powered by Illinois's Reggie Carter and a quick, confi­dent Bernard Rencher.

Although they trailed 27-25 at the half, the Friars found their own footing. PC’s team effort was causing damage and turnover. The Friars were using their own tandem of unknown guards, Nolan and freshman Ricky Tucker, were handling both offensive and defensive assignments with equal fervor.

A Tucker drive inside against St. John’s big men, often, either getting the basket or drawing the foul. Rick Hunter, meanwhile, provided some tough rebounding against a much stronger Redmen front line.

As well as they played in the first half, PC showed their strength and determination in the second. They pressed hard at points in the opening five minutes of play, and their overall game defense allowed the Redmen to accumulate their lowest point total of the year. Hunter’s play under forced pressure by Walnut Creek’s Reggie Carter and a quick, confident Bernard Rencher.

Carter was called for travelling. The Friars worked patiently for their last shot and got it with 0:06 left on the clock when Williams dribbled baseline and hit a short jumper.

The Friars had a true buzz, and in-and-out shots were all that stood between defeat and a big upset.

Few lost opportunities, turnovers and in-and-out shots were all that stood between defeat and a big upset.
