BOG elections
Connor, Manning opposed
By Donna Bunn

The BOG will hold elections tomorrow for next year’s Executive Board. The offices are vice-president, vice-chairman, and secretary; each has two contenders. All of the candidates are members of the junior class.

President candidate L.J. Manning is a political science major from Pittsburg, PA. He has been chairman of the BOG Committee for the past two years and served as a representative to Student Congress during his freshman year. When asked what he would like the BOG to accomplish next year, Manning replied, “I have an objective to create a more workable relationship with Student Congress and other student organizations. I would also like to continue the well-rounded programming of student-oriented events that the BOG demonstrated this year, especially in light of the drinking age being raised.”

Dan Connor, a business management major from Milton, MA, is also running for the office of president. He is presently chairman of the BOG Lecture Committee. In stating his goals for next year, Connors said, “The BOG has been very successful this year, but if the drinking age goes up next year, the BOG will be forced to change. Obviously, the health and welfare programs will focus on non-alcoholic events such as the Film, Coffeehouse, Video and Travel Committees. The biggest asset the BOG will need next year is creativity, which can come from the students and the proper leadership, the entire board can be innovative, and imaginative as well.”

This year’s vice-presidential candidate is Nancy Ficke and Mark O’Rourke. Turtle comes from Windsor, CT, and majors in health services administration. She has served on the BOG for three years, formally as a member of the Publicity Committee and now as its chairperson. Mark O’Rourke, a marketing major from Arlington, MA, has served two years on the BOG and is presently chairman of the Film Committee.

Liz O’Leary and Mike Joyce are both running for the office of treasurer. O’Leary, a business management major, hails from Westfield, MA. She is currently a member of the Social Committee and Coffeehouse Committee. Joyce also served previously as the chairman of the Ring Weekend Core Committee and Coffeehouse Committee.

The BOG will hold elections on April 15th to make the competition a success. He stressed his appreciation to the Cowl Club and in particular, to the club’s president, Cecilia Scott. Scott, a sophomore from Taunton, MA, first became involved with the Special Olympics as a summer job. She felt it would be a good project for Circle K, a service organization of the school, to undertake. Scott proceeded to get in touch with Evangelista, their efforts culminating in Saturday’s tournament.

A highlight of the day was an appearance by Ernie DiGregorio and John Nolan, who handed out awards. Scott stated that this was a treat for all the players, who were anxious to do some handshaking with their idols.”

Congress proposes $10 activity fee hike
By Joyce Simard

At the Student Congress meeting held on Sunday, March 16, Mary Ellen Burke, chairman of the Faculty Survey Committee, reported that the results of the Faculty Survey, conducted last semester, will be released in booklet form prior to spring registration. This year’s survey was conducted by Marie Robitaille, former chairperson of this committee.

Dave Mullhern, chairman of the Athletic Board, announced that ravers for intramural softball will be available sometime next week. The season will begin after spring vacation.

The Food Committee will be conducting a survey in regard to the dinner served by Raymond Cafeteria. R.A.’s will distribute the surveys to resident students who will be required to rate each item from 1 to 5, with 1 being the least appealing and 5 being the most appealing.

Sign-ups for the Committee on April 18th will be held in the Center Office. Interviews will take place on Tuesday, March 25.

Counties hosts Special Olympics

By Karen Ryder

On Saturday, March 15, Alumni Council was the setting for a Special Olympics basketball tournament, under the leadership of the president, to raise funds for the Special Olympics Club. The proceeds are to be used in the future for other various causes.

Steve Evangelista, the executive director of the Rhode Island Special Olympics, described the organization as “73 program of sports training and athletic competition for the mentally retarded.” In 1966, at the start of the program, it had 60 members in Rhode Island. Today, that number is over 200, with approximately 30 teams in all. The Rhode Island chapter of the Special Olympics, was responsible for making this the first such competition at PC in history.

The tournament included five teams from the Providence College Athletic Association and 15 teams from the Home Park Athletic Association. The games were played at the Rhode Island Coliseum. The tournament was won by the team from Providence College, with a score of 26-24.

The tournament was a success and the Special Olympics Club was able to raise $1500.00. The money will be used to help support the Special Olympics programs.

Congressweek festivities set
By Steve Sylvia

Patti Liston, chairman of the 1980 Congress Committee, announced the special events planned for this year’s Congress week. They begin on Monday, May 12, with a kick-off in front of Slavin from 4-6 p.m. Entertainment will be provided by “Hanging Women from Trees.” Buses will be provided by “Hanging Women from Trees” to get the students to the site.

Among the events planned for the week are a special event for seniors, a special event for juniors, and a special event for sophomores. The events will take place on Thursday, May 15, and will be held in the Great Hall of the Providence College Administration Building.

The Commencement Ball will be held Friday at the King Philip in Wrentham. A choice of roast beef or chicken cordon bleu (chicken stuffed with ham and cheese) is available for the entire meal. Open bar and dancing will round out the evening.

Missing: one blackjack table
By Lewis DiPrete

As part of Parents’ Weekend, two weeks ago, the senior class sponsored the annual Casino Night in the Rafferty. According to PC’s 62nd President, Good, the event was a huge success. It was attended by over 100 people and raised over $5000.00 for the senior class.

For those wishing to go to individual events, the prices will be as follows: Tuesday, $6 per person; Wednesday, $12.00 per person; Thursday, $15.00 per person; and Friday, $20.00 per person.

Inside:

New PID — Page 2

Inquiring photographer — Page 5

Women’s hockey news — Page 8

Women’s hoop news — Page 11

“Boom! Here it comes that’s real, true because it’s here.”
News

Anne Manchester takes over as PID

By Donna Bazin

Anne Manchester, a 1975 graduate of Providence College, recently returned to PC as the new Public Information Director. She replaced Joe McAher, who is presently Public Information Director.

Anne Manchester's main functions will include overseeing PC public relations and official college statements. She is editor of the Providence College magazine and of the Alumni Update Newsletter. Manchester graduated from PC in '75 with a BA in humanities, from Purdue in '78, with an MA in public communications and journalism. While at Purdue, Manchester participated in the Providence-in-Europe program in 1973-74, and worked for the CNN as well as being a photographer for the yearbook.

At Purdue she was a graduate teaching assistant in the department of communications. After graduation from Purdue she worked at Channel 12, WPRI. She worked as a field reporter, in promotions and production, and also in camera and electronic graphics as a communications producer. She also did occasional talk shows for WPRI.

Since September, 1978, Manchester has been a visiting lecturer at the continuing education program at PC, in the department of business administration.

Manchester will be very beneficial to PC as Public Information Director. Her former experience will be of excellent assistance.

Manchester remarked, "It is good to be back; I feel as if I am coming home. There have been a lot of good changes. Women seem to be gaining momentum, with a viable role in all phases of campus life. People are really starting to notice them.

OCRO sets objectives

The newly elected officers of the Off-Campus Residence Organization held their first meeting on Wednesday, March 12. President Ed Flynn and his officers presented their short and long-term plans, which they hope will insure the OCRO's success.

The immediate objective of the OCRO is the publication of a renter's manual. This manual will include the answers to common legal questions to which apartment dwellers often cannot find answers. It will also provide information concerning local oil companies, the utilities, food stores and other apartment related issues. Manuals of this kind have been a great success at both Brown and URI.

OCRO will also begin to organize a comprehensive apartment listing. Presently, student apartment hunting is done chiefly through word of mouth information. OCRO feels that an apartment listing would make the task more efficient and convenient for the students. Local landlords would also be able to use the listing system to advertise any new apartments that become available for rent. In addition, OCRO discussed the possibility of establishing an oil and food cooperative and an off-campus shuttle service which would operate at night.

The OCRO has set many goals for itself. The success of this new organization is greatly dependent upon the student body, and thus the organization is very receptive to any comments or suggestions from apartment dwellers.

The officers can be reached at the following numbers: Ed Flynn, president, 751-5493; Dennis Gallagher, vice-president, 751-5493; MaryBeth Holland, treasurer, 421-491; Jim Learn, secretary, 351-2779.

Students to rank campus food

The 1980-81 Food Committee is already hard at work striving to meet the needs of those who satisfy their appetites at any of PC's three dining facilities. Whether it be Alumni Cafeteria, Raymond Cafeteria or Murial Lounge, anyone frequenting these spots can play an active part in the improvement and evaluation of the overall operation of the cafeteria.

The committee depends mainly on feedback from the students in order to produce new ideas and suggestions. These suggestions are then presented to the Executive Food Committee, which is comprised of such people as Rev. Walter Heith, O.P.; Paul Wyssell, manager of Alumni Cafeteria; Joseph Murphy, manager of Raymond Cafeteria.

The committee has found that the suggestion box in the cafeteria does not provide an accurate idea of the general consensus of student opinion. In view of this situation, the committee has devised a set of three surveys, the first of which will be issued by R.A.'s this week.

Basically, the survey asks students to score, on a scale of 1-5, every item that is served in the cafeteria. The points will indicate the type of items that the R.A.'s would like to receive in their R.A.'s. A survey will then be conducted in this direction can leave their name and box number in the suggestion box. It is stressed that any and all comments to the Food Committee are welcomed.

1980 Commencement Bids

- general deposit—$20.
- formal cost—$45.

NECESSARY TO PURCHASE BID

On sale March 28, 31 and April 1, 2, 14-25 in Slavin Pit from 9:30 a.m.—4:30 p.m. For further information contact Dorian Murphy, 3209 (box no. 2785).

Seniors

Continued from Page 1

The 1980-81 Food Committee, explained that the results of the survey will be beneficial to the students, in that the cafeterias will not serve any two meals of the same rank at the same time.

The actual institution of any new long-range goals will depend on the feedback from the students in their R.A.'s, either today or tomorrow.

Any long-range goals will depend on the results of the survey. The results of the survey will then be used to determine the type of meals that the students would like to receive. The committee can objectively see where the items fall in respect to popularity with the students. It is stressed that students not put zero as an evaluative score, because this would defeat the purpose of the survey.

It is also important that the students be consistent when making their evaluations.

The actual institution of any new long-range goals will depend on the feedback from the students in their R.A.'s, either today or tomorrow.

The committee can objectively see where the items fall in respect to popularity with the students. It is stressed that students not put zero as an evaluative score, because this would defeat the purpose of the survey.

It is also important that the students be consistent when making their evaluations.

"I feel like I'm coming home."

Around the campus

Debby DeMichele will give a piano recital at 3:00 p.m. Sunday, March 23, in '64 Hall.

The BOG will present a lecture by Ron Beeler on "The Exploitation of Youth" at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, March 23, in PC's three dining facilities.

The art department is having a display of art and sculpture on exhibit in Slavin 207 and 217.

The 1980-81 Food Committee is sponsoring a Cut-A-Thon in Slavin Pit from 1:00 p.m. on Monday, March 23.

The Business Club presents

"Exploitation of Youth" at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, March 23, in the recital hall in the music building.

Business Lecture

"Exploitation of Youth" at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, March 23, in '64 Hall.

Art Display

The art department is having a display of art and sculpture on exhibit in Slavin 207 and 217.

Cut-A-Thon

The Pastoral Council is sponsoring a Cut-A-Thon in Slavin Pit from 1:00 p.m. on Monday, March 23.

Student Congress

Meeting

Sunday, March 23

7 p.m.—Slavin 203

Open To All Students

Student Congress Meeting

Sunday, March 23

7 p.m.—Slavin 203

Open To All Students

Prepared for:

MCAT*DAT*LSAT*GMAT*GRE
GRE PSCH*GRE BIO*PCAT
OCA T*VAT*MAT*SAT*TOEFL
NMBI.III.III.ECFM*FLEX*VQE

NBDB 1,11,111.241VILE
Flyer Programs & More

Visit Any Center And See For Yourself
Why We Make The Difference

151 Weybosset St.
Providence, RI 02903
(401)273-6630

Open To All Students

Prepare for:

MCAT*DAT*LSAT*GMAT*GRE
GRE PSCH*GRE BIO*PCAT
OCA T*VAT*MAT*SAT*TOEFL
NMBI.III.III.ECFM*FLEX*VQE

NBDB 1,11,111.241VILE
Flyer Programs & More

Visit Any Center And See For Yourself
Why We Make The Difference

151 Weybosset St.
Providence, RI 02903
(401)273-6630

Open To All Students

Prepare for:

MCAT*DAT*LSAT*GMAT*GRE
GRE PSCH*GRE BIO*PCAT
OCA T*VAT*MAT*SAT*TOEFL
NMBI.III.III.ECFM*FLEX*VQE

NBDB 1,11,111.241VILE
Flyer Programs & More

Visit Any Center And See For Yourself
Why We Make The Difference

151 Weybosset St.
Providence, RI 02903
(401)273-6630

Open To All Students

Prepare for:

MCAT*DAT*LSAT*GMAT*GRE
GRE PSCH*GRE BIO*PCAT
OCA T*VAT*MAT*SAT*TOEFL
NMBI.III.III.ECFM*FLEX*VQE

NBDB 1,11,111.241VILE
Flyer Programs & More

Visit Any Center And See For Yourself
Why We Make The Difference

151 Weybosset St.
Providence, RI 02903
(401)273-6630

Open To All Students
The United States is rudely awakening to the fact that it never was, nor will be the New Garden of Eden. The present generation is paying dearly for the past generation's mistakes; and opportunity exists in America only as a word in the dictionary.

The person on welfare as well as the person on the job, according to Cummings, must ask themselves time and time again: "Why should I bother working when I'd just be running fast running will, and no better off than before?" Nowadays people feel that if they make more money they'll only spend more, commented Cummings.

"The cause of inflation," commented Cummings, "is the same thing: we can't spend now pay later." Americans feel that if they don't spend now, right now, this very instant, everything will reduce in value or tomorrow things won't be worth what they are today.

Consumer prices increases, said Cummings, are high and still soaring—at about an 18 percent annual rate—with gas prices, which averaged $1.11 in January, almost doubled in 1979. To curb this disastrous inflation psychology, which according to Cummings began as far back as 1913 when the Federal Reserve was set up, Cummings proposes reduced rates to stimulate savings and a "laissez faire" (hands off) policy of economy so that bankers can get back to business.

"Another answer to the problem was the idea of wage price control," said Cummings, "but such a plan creates dissolutions of its own; and people who are hurt by it are the ones who shouldn't be hurt." In setting up a Price and Wage Control Commission to put a halt on everything, said Cummings, the government is creating a budget of $10-15 billion. If he were emperor instead of crown prince—three million dollars, three million people, 225 offices in 25 states and a winning, weightless smile—are liabilities plenty enough to recommend him for such a title—he would do the same thing since 1979.

In setting up a Price and Wage Control Commission to put a halt on everything, said Cummings, the government is creating a budget of $10-15 billion. If he were emperor instead of crown prince—three million dollars, three million people, 225 offices in 25 states and a winning, weightless smile—are liabilities plenty enough to recommend him for such a title—he would do the same thing since 1979.

"Another answer to the problem was the idea of wage price control," said Cummings, "but such a plan creates dissolutions of its own; and people who are hurt by it are the ones who shouldn't be hurt." In setting up a Price and Wage Control Commission to put a halt on everything, said Cummings, the government is creating a budget of $10-15 billion. If he were emperor instead of crown prince—three million dollars, three million people, 225 offices in 25 states and a winning, weightless smile—are liabilities plenty enough to recommend him for such a title—he would do the same thing since 1979.

"Another answer to the problem was the idea of wage price control," said Cummings, "but such a plan creates dissolutions of its own; and people who are hurt by it are the ones who shouldn't be hurt." In setting up a Price and Wage Control Commission to put a halt on everything, said Cummings, the government is creating a budget of $10-15 billion. If he were emperor instead of crown prince—three million dollars, three million people, 225 offices in 25 states and a winning, weightless smile—are liabilities plenty enough to recommend him for such a title—he would do the same thing since 1979.

"Another answer to the problem was the idea of wage price control," said Cummings, "but such a plan creates dissolutions of its own; and people who are hurt by it are the ones who shouldn't be hurt." In setting up a Price and Wage Control Commission to put a halt on everything, said Cummings, the government is creating a budget of $10-15 billion. If he were emperor instead of crown prince—three million dollars, three million people, 225 offices in 25 states and a winning, weightless smile—are liabilities plenty enough to recommend him for such a title—he would do the same thing since 1979.

"Another answer to the problem was the idea of wage price control," said Cummings, "but such a plan creates dissolutions of its own; and people who are hurt by it are the ones who shouldn't be hurt." In setting up a Price and Wage Control Commission to put a halt on everything, said Cummings, the government is creating a budget of $10-15 billion. If he were emperor instead of crown prince—three million dollars, three million people, 225 offices in 25 states and a winning, weightless smile—are liabilities plenty enough to recommend him for such a title—he would do the same thing since 1979.
Money squandered as administration dawdles

There is no excuse for wastefulness in any area, and especially not in the realm of finances. It is ironic then, given this present period of economic pressure, that a flagrant instance of financial wastefulness exists right here on Providence College campus. Specifically, we are referring to the security gatehouses on River and Huxley Avenues. These gatehouses were constructed in early January for the purpose of tightening security on both upper and lower campus. Completed at a cost of roughly $50,000, most agreed that this expenditure was worthwhile, since it would insure better campus security.

Presently, the gatehouses are in full operation. The Editorial Board of the Cowl favors the idea of security, but the page they serve is another story. The final step involves a flagrant instance of financial design and is ready for distribution. The final step involves receiving the "seal of approval" and the president of the College, Rev. Thomas R. Petersen, O.P. Herein lies the problem. The proposed policies have been under his consideration for nearly one month, yet no action has been taken.

The most disturbing part of this entire situation concerns the fact that these houses are being staffed by guards who have been given no rules for their operation. The College is, in essence, paying these guards to go into the gatehouses and do nothing. The houses have been staffed for one month and the College has expended over $4,000 on wages for these personnel to do nothing. In the future, these gatehouses should not have been constructed in the first place, nor designed to cost so much.

The Cowl Editorial Board considers this to be an example of excessive wastefulness. In the interest of economy alone, the gatehouses should not have been staffed until a policy was accepted. This has been a waste of not only money, but also manpower and time. The Editorial Board of the Cowl urges Father Petersen to consider the policies proposed by the Safety and Security Committee, and take action before more precious time and money are wasted.

Did you ever wonder why...

In an attempt to provide some food for thought, the Editorial Board of the Cowl poses the following questions for your consideration.

Did you ever wonder why:

- There is such a limited number of trash receptacles on campus?
- The periodic ads you need to complete a reference paper are always "missing" from the library?
- You always manage to get sick during the hours that the doctor isn't in the infirmary?
- Dintrapp and "cup 'n' gasp" get to be the miracle cure-all drugs at the grant infirmary?
- Raymond Kaelinger doesn't add diet salad dressing to his menus?
- A crucial toilet tissue shortage always occurs during Slavin mixers?
- PCs students with classes in Harkins apparently all feel drawn to enter and exit by the same side door?
- With all the paved walkways on campus, students ignore them in favor of trudging through mud, snow, etc.?
- The people who are always the first to complain are the last to offer their help?
- The security gatehouses, on which the College recently spent approximately $50,000, still aren't functional?
- After you wait for 10 minutes in a beer-ticket line at a mixer, and then wait another 10 minutes to arrive at the head of the beer line, they run out just before you serve?
- Night desk personnel manage to fit in some of their beer drinking on the job?

Why there are no screens over the windows in the men's dorms?

- B.T. sandwiches, Raymond Cal's popular luncheon favorite are only served about once a month?
- The Information Desk in Slavin Center is always out of change when the vending machines downstairs swallow your money?
- The trek back from Louie's at 12:00 midnight always seems so much longer than the walk to Louie's?

THE COWL

Published each full week of school during the academic year, and one summer edition during June by Providence College, River Avenue and Salton Street, Providence, R.I. 02918. Second class postage paid at Providence, R.I., Slavin Center, P.O. Box 2981, 865-2214.

Editor-in-Chief

Maureen J. O'Hare '80

News Editor

Kathleen M. Hansen '80

Features Editor

Maureen Poole '80

Copy Editor

Stephen L. Walsh '80

Sports Editor

William J. Armstrong '81

Photography Editor

John Kennally '80

Business Manager

John E. Duffy '80

Advertising Manager

John A. McMahon, O.P.

Circulation Manager

Student Life

Kathleen M. Hansen '80

Advertising Representatives

Celeste Bergeron, Barbara Brady.

Subscription rate $4.00 per year by mail. Student subscriptions $4.00 included in tuition fee.

The opinions expressed herein are the opinions of the editorial board and do not necessarily represent the opinions of the administration or the student body of Providence College.
Inquiring Photographer
Are you trying out for the Friars Club? Why or why not?

Mary Anne Viola, '83
"Yes, because they are really funny, quite good people."

Ronnie White, '82
"No, I considered it, but I decided I didn't want to be a Friar. I don't think I fit the image."

Liz O'Donnell, '82
"No. I felt I had a more competitive position for a summer job if you know in advance what your interviewer wants to hear, or what an employer would like to read in a letter of application," she says. "Here is a list of eight important "do's and don'ts" for summer job seekers that Lapin compiled while interviewing the 30,000 employers who turned out for the summer help through the 1980 Summer Employment Directory of the United States.

1. Most summer employers want people with leadership and public relations capabilities. Be assertive in a personal interview, show energy and enthusiasm. Asking questions shows you're interested. In a written application, mention experiences that show your potential to fill leadership and sales-orientations held in clubs, organizations or businesses.

2. Employers hire people who look and act healthy. Be careful about your appearance in a personal interview. Stand up straight, sit up straight and don't slouch.

3. When you apply for a summer job, make sure you present only as a presentation, not only appearance (of course, you should typeset nicely), but also content. Don't say, "I want to spend the summer in Maine," or "the money." Employer think you care more about the scenery than about his summer theater.

4. When you get an application, blank or not, from an employer, respond immediately, and fill out the form completely. Employers are looking for people who get the job done fast and thoroughly.

5. Don't apply for a job if you can't stay for the whole season. Employers expect you to keep your own commitments. Many employers will pay you a bonus on your base pay through the summer only if you stay the whole season. School starts before Labor Day,也许 you should talk to the administration about extending your period of employment to cover more than the summer, or for and everybody the same length of time.

6. If you have good speech and communication skills and an outgoing personality, you'll have a better chance in a summer job interview. An articulate person has a definite edge over someone who's more reserved and shy.

7. If you want a high-paying position in an expensive resort, you must bring some professionalization to the job. That means experience in a similar job and also a professional attitude. Professionals don't just work from 9 to 5 o'clock, and they don't have to tell you what to do. They show initiative and imagination on their own.

8. Think of yourself as a product. What can you do? Who could use your skills, for example, babysitting, newspaper routes, work on school papers, play the organ and your enthusiasm. Package your self-appropriately, with a well-written resume, and market yourself self-sufficiently.

9. Think of your position as editor of the 1980 Summer Employment Directory of the United States. It makes it possible on the most interesting year-round job in the world and it contracts employers across the country to update the Summer Employment Directors. You talk to some really wonderful people that don't have to worry about their employment, work at your own pace, and think you care more about the scenery than about them.

10. You're in a better competitive position if you get the job done fast and thoroughly. Employers are looking for people who get the job done fast and thoroughly.

Hints for the summer job search

Looking for a summer job?" More people than ever are looking for summer jobs, according to Lynne Lapin, editor of the 1980 Summer Employment Directory of the United States (Writer's Digest Books; paperback, $6.95). Lapin warns, "It's going to be a good summer job—something you can put on your resume after graduation—you'd better apply before the end of April. The best summer jobs go fast."

Getting a summer job often depends on learning the special things summer employers look for in a job candidate, Lapin says. "You're in a better competitive position for a summer job if you know in advance what your interviewer wants to hear, or what an employer would like to read in a letter of application," she says. "Here is a list of eight important "do's and don'ts" for summer job seekers that Lapin compiled while interviewing the 30,000 employers who turned out for the summer help through the 1980 Summer Employment Directory of the United States.

1. Most summer employers want people with leadership and public relations capabilities. Be assertive in a personal interview, show energy and enthusiasm. Asking questions shows you're interested. In a written application, mention experiences that show your potential to fill leadership and sales-orientations held in clubs, organizations or businesses.

2. Employers hire people who look and act healthy. Be careful about your appearance in a personal interview. Stand up straight, sit up straight and don't slouch.

3. When you apply for a summer job, make sure you present only as a presentation, not only appearance (of course, you should typeset nicely), but also content. Don't say, "I want to spend the summer in Maine," or "the money." Employer think you care more about the scenery than about his summer theater.

4. When you get an application, blank or not, from an employer, respond immediately, and fill out the form completely. Employers are looking for people who get the job done fast and thoroughly.

5. Don't apply for a job if you can't stay for the whole season. Employers expect you to keep your own commitments. Many employers will pay you a bonus on your base pay through the summer only if you stay the whole season. School starts before Labor Day, maybe you should talk to the administration about extending your period of employment to cover more than the summer, or for everybody the same length of time.

6. If you have good speech and communication skills and an outgoing personality, you'll have a better chance in a summer job interview. An articulate person has a definite edge over someone who is more reserved and shy.

7. If you want a high-paying position in an expensive resort, you must bring some professionalization to the job. That means experience in a similar job and also a professional attitude. Professionals don't just work from 9 to 5 o'clock, and they don't have to tell you what to do. They show initiative and imagination on their own.

8. Think of yourself as a product. What can you do? Who could use your skills, for example, babysitting, newspaper routes, work on school papers, play the organ and your enthusiasm. Package your self-appropriately, with a well-written resume, and market yourself self-sufficiently.

9. Think of your position as editor of the 1980 Summer Employment Directory of the United States. It makes it possible on the most interesting year-round job in the world and it contracts employers across the country to update the Summer Employment Directors. You talk to some really wonderful people that don't have to worry about their employment, work at your own pace, and think you care more about the scenery than about them.

10. You're in a better competitive position if you get the job done fast and thoroughly. Employers are looking for people who get the job done fast and thoroughly.
Rev. Edwin Ignatius Masterson, O.P.: businessman to priest

By Kathy Hansen

Perhaps you’ve seen him. He often walks along campus paths with a friend, in the late afternoon. He’s a sharply dressed, charming man who finds people delightful. And, he has St. Francis’ love for animals in his blood.

In 1937, Father Masterson headed the business department. In 1938, he stopped teaching. Since his retirement, he has the job of getting the papers at the front door for the Dominican students who are going for the priesthood.

By the time Father Masterson graduated with a liberal arts degree in 1928, he became not a priest, but a businessman, first as a loan officer for Metropolitan Life in New York City, then as a public accountant with the Audit Company of America. Ordained in 1933, he returned to PC in 1935 after completing advanced studies, to teach both accounting and auditing.

Back then, Harkins Hall was the only building on campus. Father Masterson recalled that Harkins housed not only classes, but the Dominican’s quarters, the library, and auditing.

Since his retirement, he has the job of getting the papers at the front door for the Dominican students who are going for the priesthood. He’s Rev. Edwin Ignatius Masterson, O.P.

Father Masterson first came to PC as a student, in 1924. The College was an all-male establishment, and “practically all the students were going for the priesthood.” Yet, when Father Masterson graduated with a liberal arts degree in 1928, he became not a priest, but a businessman, first as a loan officer for Metropolitan Life in New York City, then as a public accountant with the Audit Company of America. Ordained in 1933, he returned to PC in 1935 after completing advanced studies, to teach both accounting and auditing.

Direct from UCLA, Notre Dame and Georgetown...

Class of ‘82 presents the RAY BOSTON band
This Saturday, March 22
9 – 1
Upper Slavin

Happy Saint Patrick’s Day!
Dore’s soliloquy!

By Lori Evangelho

I found the quietude which now hangs in the vacated halls. Everyone has abandoned the dormitory for the long winter weekend. After the last traveler closed the door behind her a quiet stillness crept up on me. The echo of pinting rustling feet, scuffling in slippers to the bathroom didn’t awaken me. Only the morning light peering through the crack of the shutters, the sound of pitter pattering feet scuffling in the stillness crept up on me. The echo of the silence, the stillness, the sound of the morning light peering through the crack formed an atmosphere of loneliness as loneliness and temporarily walloped in my disillusion. I allowed myself to feel like a misfit, like a native revisiting her homeland after years abroad: the newness attracted me as well as repelled me.

I treaded silently, afraid that I might disrupt the calm soliloquy of droning silence. I even took off my slippers and went barefoot. I don’t know why I was being so considerate of an empty building. I had never taken my slippers off before, even when it was 2:00 a.m. and everyone was asleep.

Gradually, the hall’s silent reassurance was comforting; it wrapped me in an eddying wave of continuous thought. Mesmerized by its engulfing charm, I could hear my thoughts clearly as well as its own. At first the building’s immensity was disconcerting and its brick stave imposing. Later I welcomed the blanketing breath of silence harbored within the walls, and it was then that I began to listen to its tale of character. Uninhibited by the constant bustle of students, the dormitory whispers untold secrets. Acting as overseer, Dore promises to watch over each closed off room and its treasured contents within: whether they be the worn cases bumping against her knees or the overflowing trash can in the study lounge. No one will know who forgot to wash the toothpaste out of the sink; the same person who forgot to turn the shower faucet off and left it drip-drip-dripping. Nor will anyone know who so generously allotted herself an extra vacation—a long week instead of a long weekend—and left Monday, not Thursday, four days before she was supposed to.

Dore’s biggest change as being the new massive brick building with white framed windows. Far from the main campus it remains aligned to its character. Magnificent fibers of life weave their delicate web within those secure walls. The window’s onyx glass so long the doors stand open. Disdained sunlight peers into the room mid-morning. Sunlight’s reflection dwells within continuous diligently spinning fine silken threads, the first of their community. The delicate web of personhood waits up to the necked ceiling and drapes down over the dangling bulb into the dimly lit corridor. Silver strands spindle along the black railing which hugs the central stairwell. Some day each finely waddled cocoon will shed its hardened skin and a woman will emerge with wings.

Night of passion

Looking for a passion-filled night? Try the PC Poetry Reading featuring Brendan J. Galvin, Thursday, March 20th, at 8 p.m. in Aquinas Lounge.

Galvin, poet, fiction writer, and critic, has given innumerable readings and has received an abundance of awards and honors. The reading, sixth in the PC Poetry and Fiction Series for 1979-80, is open to all. Refreshments will be served.

VOTE NANCY TUTTLE BOG Vice-President #1 on the ballot

• 3 years BOG experience
• Publicity Committee Chairperson

Demonstrators Wanted to demonstrate & sell new household products at malls, auditoriums and fairs in the New England area. For details call

Ray Boston

Brendan Galvin

521-3539

Flowers for any occasion or no occasion at all

50 Radcliffe Ave Providence, R. I.
Mission: rescuing runaway youths

Rev. Bruce Ritter, O.F.M., has a special calling: he rescues runaway youths from sex peddlers. This Sunday, Father Ritter will speak in '64 Hall at 7 p.m. "These are not the pretty poor," says Father Ritter, the Franciscan priest who has founded a haven for teenage prostitutes, runaways, and con artists. "Since the children have nothing to sell but themselves, they're easily victimized by the so-called victimless crime of prostitution."

Father Ritter, an expert on prostitution and child pornography, founded and directs New York City's Covenant House, where thousands have sought help. The lecture is sponsored by the Board of Governors, the Counseling Center, and the Chaplain's Office. Admission is free.

PC sings the flu blues

By Jeff Esposito

This season, this time of year, this opportunity for misery known as the flu season, is here. Whether it snuck up or was blatant in its attack on us is not the central question. It is here and we all have to cope with it—with pills, with bedrest, with chicken soup. The flu brings more than aches and pains, and not stop the flu. It rolls in on the campus. The flu season makes all people hate winter. Snow becomes that white stuff, and most would rather die than sing Christmas carols. The flu season also makes all students love spring. "Hang on, spring's coming," they bubble—fair-weather friends in the most literal sense.

Yet, T.S. Eliot shrewdly observed "April is the cruellest month." He probably never had the flu.

When it comes many things happen—none of them very good. Of course the body aches, the throat becomes sandpaper, the disposition becomes nonexistent. Friends disappear, trying to preserve themselves. The infirmary is a poor substitute for the little bedroom you left behind.

When you become well enough to go back to classes and see how much work has been missed, your academic life passes before red, tired, aching eyes. Soon, everyone knows you plus a couple of distant acquaintances contract the flu. It is very simple to see what a real community we have when everyone is playing pass the hot potato flu.

The flu season makes all people hate winter. Snow becomes that white stuff, and most would rather die than sing Christmas carols. The flu season also makes all people love spring. "Hang on, spring's coming," they bubble—fair-weather friends in the most literal sense.

Yet, T.S. Eliot shrewdly observed "April is the cruellest month." He probably never had the flu.

COA interviews

By Steve Sylvia

Interviews for the student representative to the Committee on Administration will be held next week by the Student Congress. To be interviewed, a student has to sign-up in the Congress office by Friday, March 21, at 4:00 p.m. The COA is made up of faculty and administration who advise Rev. Thomas R. Peterson, O.P., president of the College, on the day to day operations of the school. Information given to Father Peterson by the COA members is helpful in his final decision making. In the past year, the COA has reviewed such things as the fieldhouse, the guidance center, and the Chaplain's Office. Admission is free.

Student talent search

The International Association of Students in Economics and Business Management is looking for talented, motivated Providence College students to join the local chapter of the world's largest student-run organization and participate in our 1980-81 activities.

The Providence Water Color Club will present an Open Graphic Show at the Club Gallery, 6 Thomas Street, from March 16 through April 4. An opening reception will be held on Sunday, March 16, from 2:00 to 5:00 p.m. Gallery hours thereafter will be Tuesday-Saturday, 12:30 to 3:30, Sundays, 3:00 to 5:00 p.m.

This Time – Make it Stella Artois

Stella Artois (Ar-twa) is part of a brewing tradition that began more than 600 years ago in the year 1366. The robust, hearty light lager taste comes from old world brewing that patiently insists that every drop is matured a full 63 days. Today in more than 50,000 bars and restaurants all across the Continent, Europe's discriminating beer drinkers ask for the great taste of Stella Artois. Now you can, too.
Continued from Page 1

DiGregorio is also an honorary member of the Special Olympics Board of Directors, and Dave Guitt, the Athletic Director of PC, is the honorary head coach. Funding wise, Evangelista explained that the organization depends mainly on "corporate contributions and fund-raisers." Companies such as McDonald's and Coca-Cola also make contributions of food, for the various competitions.

The cheerleading competition, which was judged by sophomore Sarah Williams, saw South County, Bristol and Newport as top winners. Newport, Bristol and Cranston took first place in divisions A, B, C, respectively.

Olympics

Continued from Page 10

In closing, let me just stress that if you want the food better, in more quantities or in more variety, join the Food Committee and get something positive done. Otherwise, eat, shut up and laugh. A lot.

Wildcats take EAIWA title,
Lady Friars take second

The story was familiar. A strong Lady Friar squad played their hearts out but came out on the short end of the score against, you guessed it, UNH. In a game in which the unofficial national women's hockey title was staked, UNH preserved their three year dominance over the Lady Friars.

The second period splurge was not quite enough however. Kathy Bryant scored on a three on two break at 15:56 of the final period. Gaul Griffith finished off the scoring several minutes later with a tally at 16:29.

The Lady Friars had kept the Wildcats hands full with strong forechecking. The explosive Wildcat offense was held in check and the Lady Friars were able to take the lead early in the game.

Kathy Lenahan, who figured in both goals for the Lady Friars, scored an unassisted goal at 11:21. Cindy McKay set up Marcy Riordan for two goals, at 14:40 and 16:09, and UNH skated off with a first period lead, 3-1. In between McKay netted a goal of her own.

The Lady Friars turned the tempo of the game around and dominated on offense in the second period. Mary Ellen Pannalecher for two goals, at 12:24 and 16:09, and UNH skated off with a first period lead, 3-1. The second period splurge was not quite enough however. Kathy Bryant scored on a three on two break at 15:56 of the final period. Gaul Griffith finished off the scoring several minutes later with a tally at 16:29.

The Lady Friars had kept the Wildcats hands full with strong forechecking. The explosive Wildcat offense was held in check and the Lady Friars were able to take the lead early in the game.

Kathy Lenahan, who figured in both goals for the Lady Friars, scored an unassisted goal at 11:21. Cindy McKay set up Marcy Riordan for two goals, at 14:40 and 16:09, and UNH skated off with a first period lead, 3-1. In between McKay netted a goal of her own.

The Lady Friars turned the tempo of the game around and dominated on offense in the second period. Mary Ellen Pannalecher for two goals, at 12:24 and 16:09, and UNH skated off with a first period lead, 3-1. In between McKay netted a goal of her own.

The Lady Friars turned the tempo of the game around and dominated on offense in the second period. Mary Ellen Pannalecher for two goals, at 12:24 and 16:09, and UNH skated off with a first period lead, 3-1. In between McKay netted a goal of her own.

The Lady Friars turned the tempo of the game around and dominated on offense in the second period. Mary Ellen Pannalecher for two goals, at 12:24 and 16:09, and UNH skated off with a first period lead, 3-1. In between McKay netted a goal of her own.

The Lady Friars turned the tempo of the game around and dominated on offense in the second period. Mary Ellen Pannalecher for two goals, at 12:24 and 16:09, and UNH skated off with a first period lead, 3-1. In between McKay netted a goal of her own.

The Lady Friars turned the tempo of the game around and dominated on offense in the second period. Mary Ellen Pannalecher for two goals, at 12:24 and 16:09, and UNH skated off with a first period lead, 3-1. In between McKay netted a goal of her own.
Saturday, March 22—Steve Dubius and Joe Protenza, 8 p.m.—1 a.m.
(advance ticket sales only—available in BOG Ticket Office)

Sunday, March 23—‘An Unmarried Woman, ’ starring Jill Clayburgh,
7&9 p.m.— $1.00 with PC ID

Tuesday, March 25—‘Evening Coffeehouse’ with entertainment by PC
students, Kathy Bennet and Bob McGair, 9—12 p.m.

(Morning Coffeehouse—8-11 a.m.—Monday- Friday)

The Lecture Committee presents

Father Bruce Ritter
Sunday, March 23
’64 Hall, 7:30 p.m.

Bus Trip
to
Old Sturbridge Village
$2.00
with PC ID
Saturday, March 23
(Presented by the Travel Committee)

B.O.G.
Elections are Tomorrow, March 20
for •President
•Vice-President
•Treasurer
All are encouraged to vote!
Loss to Cornell last Friday wasn't the first

Ironically, the Friars had a chance to eliminate their playoff nemesis, Cornell, before the regular season in which they were only compiling a .500 record. Cornell put on a fine performance against the Friars, which was then ranked second in the East, 5-2.

Despite one of the sloppiest starts of the year, the Friars escaped the first period with a 1-1 tie. Bruce Robinett was called early for an interference infraction against Cornell in the Boston Rink, Cornell would have been a nemesis. Cornell, before the

PC downs Clarkson in consolation, 6-5

In a consolation game played at the Boston Garden Saturday night the determined Friars rallied to a 6-5 victory over the Clarkson Golden Knights. PC entered the third period trailing by 4-1 but managed to tie the score, 5-5, with 26 seconds left. In overtime, who else but captain Jeff Whisler put in the game winner with 1:15 left in the first extra period.

Providence knew they had a tough game ahead of them. They were mentally and physically exhausted from Friday's game, so the pace was slow in the opening period. Friar nemesis Greg Neilson wasn't tested until midway through the first Clarkson powerplay. He responded well to the Knight pressure and made some daring leg saves. At the 15:37 mark, Bruce McDougall controlled the rebound of a Nolan save to give Clarkson a 1-0 lead.

In the second period, Denis Martin quickly got PC on the board when he backhanded a shot by Jim Colucci that broke the ice. But the lead was short lived as less than two minutes later Jonathan Edwards had a breakaway and the score was tied again. That was to be the last time Colgate had a chance to pull an upper.

A quiet, calm pep talk by Lamotello in between periods kept the Friars poised and kept our composure that all year long we've remained poised and kept our composure. "I said that all year long we remained poised and kept our composure and I couldn't see why we shouldn't do it in the next period." Well, regardless of what he said, it was the desire of his players who wanted the game more than Colgate did.

The Friars tied it up on a Randy Fridgehad a breakaway and the score was tied again. That was to be the last time Colgate had a chance to pull an upper.

The question at the start of the period was, would the Friars come back, only ahead. Sullivan scored the eight goal of the game to give the Friars the lead. But the lead was short lived as less than two minutes later.

The Friars started rolling in the third period. Whisler's shot from the face-off circle gave him his second goal of the contest and a 6-5 win for his team with 1:15 left in the first overtime period. It was Whisler's record 124th straight game.

Cornell University overpowered Dartmouth 5-1 for the ECAC Championship in a contest played after the consolation game. It was Cornell's 7th all-time championship, a feat duplicated by no other team. Cornell had a .500 record during the regular season but began to improve at the end of the year. They defeated the Friars on their last game of the season to make the playoffs and upset top seeded BC to advance in the tournament.

BOG Concert Committee presents Jonathan Edwards

'64 Hall

Tickets $3.00 w/PC ID

On sale now—while they last!

March 21
Lady Friars take hoop title

It was to be a weekend of upsets. First Queens then BU fell to the tough Lady Friars as they captured their first ever Eastern Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women Northeast basketball championship.

Lynn Sheedy and Mary Ann McCoy were the headliners for the Lady Friars, but they were supported by a seeming cast of thousands. Joan Finneran, Rita Fraser, Peggy Egan, and Madeline McCoy all contributed to what was maybe the finest show in Cambridge two weekends ago.

The Lady Friars, who were seeded fourth going into the EAIAW's, played at Harvard, March 8 and 9, opened the play-offs against top ranked Queens University, 70-54, in an AIAW tournament game at Alumni Gym, Saturday night.

The Lady Knights took control of the game from the start, doubling PC's score at the half, 32-16. Despite the loss, it was a memorable game for the Lady Friars. Co-captains Lynn Sheedy and Mary Ann McCoy saw their college careers come to an end before an unbelievable crowd of 1,076.

Sheedy and McCoy, both having topped 20 in career points, led the Lady Friars in scoring with 18 and 13 points respectively. Junior standout Kathy Dwyer, back in action after an injury early in the season, added 8 points to the Providence effort and sophomore sensation Rita Fraser contributed 6 points. Madeline McCoy was very strong defensively, snatching many rebounds. Linda Wage, Joan Finneran and Sue Hutson played well for PC in their first national tournament. Freshmen Peggy Egan and Jayne Binirowski also did their share to aid the Lady Friars.

For Everyone at PC

Smoking Survey of Smokers and Non-smokers

From March 18th thru March 21st

PLEASE PARTICIPATE

Help us to achieve the best collegiate record in the state.

ELMHURST HAIR SALON

Complete Hair Care for Men and Women

for appointment call 621-8054

523 Eaton St. Corner of Eaton and Smith St.
Red four goal rally sinks Friars

By John Brandolino

It was all that an ECAC playoff game should be. There was action, tension, the controversial calls, and the comeback. When it was all over, Cornell University had turned a last period 5-2 deficit into a stunning 6-5 victory over the Friars.

In the second period, Providence led 4-1 after three unanswered goals in five minutes. "Then, we played defensively, rather than offensively," commented defenseman Jim Cohoeci, "and they came right back at us.

Cornell took advantage of two powerplays and capitalized on shots from the point to wrap it up with four goals in the final period. Early in the contest, both teams had trouble controlling the puck. As the players warmed up, so did the tempers. The play before and after the whistle was heated and rough. Late in the first period, the Friars started the scoring during a Big Red hooking penalty. Steve O'Neill saw Jeff Whisler flying down the right side. One quick pass later, captain Whisler had the puck by Red goalie Darren Elliot. But the Friar lead didn't last for long. With 33 seconds left in the period, Cornell's captain Doug Berk knocked the puck by Scott Fiske to even things up.

Hustle was the name of the game in the second period.

What will be remembered?

By John Brandolino

If anyone had walked into the Providence locker room at 12:30 a.m. last Saturday they would have sworn they walked into a funereal parlor. "They got a couple of goals from the blue line," an emotional coach Lamoriello said softly. "They were just getting the bounce at the right time. We had a couple of chances to put the game away. Someone, up there just didn't want us to win.

It was the ECAC semifinals and the Friars let a 5-2 lead dwindle in the last period of play. That's what the people will remember. But what about the things that will be lost in their memories? How the winningest team ever in PC history battled from an 0-4 start to be ranked fifth in the nation and second in the ECAC. Will they remember that last year at this time—comeback.

After that, it seemed as if Providence controlled the tempo. However, a controversial Cornell goal in the second period, just 32 seconds left, narrowed the margin to two. The Red goal light didn't go on after the apparent score and it took the goal judge and the referees a few minutes to decide that it counted.

"I never went in. I was right there," said Martin. "We gave them a little incentive.

Early in the final period a goal scored on a 2 on 1 break cushioned the Friar advantage. Scott Kleinendorst tapped a pass to Paul Stasiuk, who had the left side of the net wide open. It was then 5-2.

Ironically, it was then time for Cornell to begin doing what it did last year at this time—comeback.

The Friars had turned a 4 goal period scored on a 2 on 1 break cushioned the Friar advantage. Scott Kleinendorst tapped a pass to Paul Stasiuk, who had the left side of the net wide open. It was then 5-2.

The Friars had nothing to gain in their consolation game against Clarkson on Saturday. Captain Whisler commented, "It's hard to get up for a game like this. There's nothing to gain. Last night, I fell asleep at 4:30 and woke at 10:00. It was hard. But we did it.

They did it, alright. They stormed back after being down 4-1 in the final period and 5-4 with less than two minutes left. Whisler scored the winning goal in overtime.

"Two things carried them between the second and third periods, character and pride. They showed it tonight," said Lamoriello, after the game.

"My feeling is something for my kids to be proud of. We're a good a representative for the NCAA's as anyone else. Because of our season, and because of what just happened here tonight.

A consolation game, that's what people will remember it as.