PC Welcomes Class of 1984

Livingston Biddle

Addresses Largest PC Class

Providence College held its 62nd commencement exercises on Monday, May 19, and made history by graduating the largest class since the college opened in 1919. In all, 1,141 men and women collected undergraduate, graduate, and continuing education degrees. No Ph.D.'d were conferred this year. Along with this, six honorary degrees were presented to leaders in the fields of music, education, sports, business, and the arts.

Livingston L. Biddle, Jr., Chairperson of the National Endowment for the Arts, was this year's keynote speaker. He was also awarded an honorary doctorate of fine arts. In his speech, Biddle spoke of the importance of art and education in molding the human spirit. He stressed the development of new insights and ideas which can lead to accomplishment of your goals in life. He also mentioned the democracy that exists in America which allows this freedom to choose.

News—Class of '84 over 1000, Page 2

Editorsials-No room at the inn, Page 4

Features—Freshman News, Page 6

Metro-Update—Discover Providence, Page 10

Sports—Trendy is on to Moscow, Page 12

1980—the beginning of a new decade, the dawn of a new era, a little bit of hope? Despite the general overcast view of today's little bit of hope? Despite the decade, the dawn of a new era, a bright, warm spot for many United States at the Summer Olympics every four years to represent the select group of athletes chosen and former hoop mentor, Dave Gavitt, our own athletic director special at PC this year, as the head college hoop players from all over of shaping a team selected from travel and the previous week of The US Basketball Team is very 1980—the beginning of a new side of the Atlantic, ours is not to The team arrived in Providence in mid-May, tired from all their travel and the previous week of trials, but they were eager to start practicing. The next two weeks or so were a continuing cycle of intense practices and workouts—a challenge for any Olympian—but they kept up with the pace and loved every minute of it.

There are people like Bill Hanzlick from Notre Dame. He graduated this year but they will have to send him his diploma during graduation he was at the Olympic basketball trials in Kentucky. It's Isaiah Thomas, the little kid from Indiana. Fans around here dubbed him "greased lightning." Isaiah wants to go to Kentucky. It's Isaiah Thomas, the Olympic trials, we all felt that it was time to go on, to give our young men a chance to play against the best competition we could find, because all the players wanted to play. We are pleased that the Olympic basketball Association players have agreed to give their time to play a five game Gold Medal Tour. Our Olympians are really looking forward to playing the pros because they feel the competition will be even better than what they would have received in Moscow. People do not feel very good about America right now. The country needs to feel good about its young people. See Olympics, Page 2

That is perhaps education’s greatest gift—the development of the eye, and ear, and mind." He advised the graduates to "strengthen your own inner qualities—those special to you and your dreams can be realized." The love of PC basketball was evident with the introduction of Lenny Wilkins, one of the greatest players in the school’s history and a member of the Class of 1960. Now the coach of the National Basketball Association's Seattle Super Sonics, he was given a doctorate of humanitarian service.

Others who received honorary degrees were C. Alexander Peloquin, music director of the Roman Catholic Cathedral of Saints Peter and Paul; Sirer D. Francis de Sales Hefferman, O.P., president of Albertus Magnus College; John T. Riley, retired president of Kelco, a division of Merck & Co., Inc., a worldwide health products firm; and Virgil C. Dechant, supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus.

The exercises began with the traditional playing of Pomp and Circumstance and the procession of the Class of 1980. A few tears were seen, as well as the flashing of cameras by proud parents and friends. As the class was seated, Rev. Thomas Ertle, O.P., chaplain of Providence College, gave the invocation. They were welcomed to the Civic Center by Rev. Thomas R. Peterson, O.P., Governor Joseph Garrahy, and Providence Mayor Vincent A. Cianci, Jr.

The smiles brightened when all of the recent graduates held their diplomas in their hands. It was a celebration of personal, spiritual and intellectual achievement.

As in past years, the most popular major chosen by undergraduates was business, which drew 31 percent of the bachelor's degrees. It was followed by political science (10 percent), biology (6 percent), English (5 percent), and social work (5 percent).

Fieldhouse Construction Starts

Providence College officially broke ground for construction of its new fieldhouse/recreation center on Friday, July 11th, in the Alumni Hall parking lot. The Very Reverend Thomas R. Peterson, O.P., President, Reverend Robert J. Gavitt, O.P., President for Institutional Planning and Development, and Dave Gavitt, Athletic Director, participated in the ceremony, along with representatives of Kelco, division of Merck & Co., Inc., a worldwide health products firm; and Virgil C. Dechant, supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus. The Fieldhouse is being erected adjacent to Alumni Hall which was built in 1956. Plans by the architectural firm of Robinson, Green, and Beretta call for linking the two buildings in order to utilize the existing locker rooms and show- ers in Alumni Hall.

The purpose of the new facility is to service the recreational needs of the student body. No varsity teams are to use the facility except those teams who will be delegated to Alumni Hall, giving students maximum use of the new building. The fieldhouse will have a 25-meter swimming pool, an Olympic-size running track, seven racquetball courts and five multi-purpose courts for tennis, basketball and volleyball.

USA! USA! Olympic Basketball at PC

by Ellen Harrington

of them college students, are of a select group of athletes chosen every four years to represent the United States at the Summer Olympics. These young men are the Olympic Basketball Team. The US Basketball Team is very special at PC this year, as the head coach is our own athletic director and former hoop mentor, Dave Gavitt. Coach Gavitt, along with his assistants Dee Rowe from Connecticut and Larry Brown from UCLA, were given the task of shaping a team selected from college hoop players from all over the country.

The team arrived in Providence in mid-May, tired from all their travel and the previous week of trials, but they were eager to start practicing. The next two weeks or so were a continuing cycle of intense practices and workouts—a challenge for any Olympian—but they kept up with the pace and loved every minute of it.

There are people like Bill Hanzlick from Notre Dame. He graduated this year but they will have to send him his diploma during graduation he was at the Olympic basketball trials in Kentucky. It's Isaiah Thomas, the little kid from Indiana. Fans around here dubbed him "greased lightning." Isaiah wants to go to Kentucky. It's Isaiah Thomas, the Olympic trials, we all felt that it was time to go on, to give our young men a chance to play against the best competition we could find, because all the players wanted to play. We are pleased that the Olympic basketball Association players have agreed to give their time to play a five game Gold Medal Tour. Our Olympians are really looking forward to playing the pros because they feel the competition will be even better than what they would have received in Moscow. People do not feel very good about America right now. The country needs to feel good about its young people. See Olympics, Page 2
PC Construction Begins: Breaking ground for $5 million recreational center at Providence College are, from left, Dana Newbrook, vice president of the architectural firm; David Kehew, Director of Admissions; Bob Peterson, P.O., president of Providence College; and Robert Bailey, chairman of the Board of Trustees.

While the price of a college education continues to skyrocket, the cost of attending Providence College parallels increases in many area colleges.

Tuition, room and board have increased $840.00 since last year, setting the new total at approximately $6,402.00 for the 1980-81 academic year. This includes a $324.00 hike in room and board and a $500.00 hike in tuition.

Rev. Thomas R. Peterson, O.P., president of Providence College, earlier this year attributed these costs to higher energy rates, inflation and the state of the economy. These factors thus, undoubtedly affect other colleges as well. A spokesman for the University of Rhode Island stated that while costs for next year have not yet been determined, there will be a substantial increase over last year's approximately $2,600.00 figure.

Tuition: Up, Up and Away
by Karen Ryder

At the opposite extreme is the price of obtaining an Ivy league education. The Brown University total for the 1979-80 year was in the area of $8,500.00. The tuition alone, for 1980-81, at $6,140.00, is only $260.00 less than the total cost of attending PC. With room and board and health fees, the area of $2,260.00, Brown's grand total is expected to reach $9,800.00. Brown College anticipates an overall increase of $900.00. This marks a prior rise in 1979-80 for tuition and $2,426.00 for room and board. All told this is a $554.00 hike in the cost of attending PC.

On the lighter side in Massachusetts is Stonehill College, which has had an estimated $655.00 hike in tuition, room and board. Stonehill remains about $477.00 cheaper than PC, making it one of the less expensive private institutions in the area.

PC Construction Begins: Breaking ground for $5 million recreational center at Providence College are, from left, Dana Newbrook, vice president of the architectural firm; David Kehew, Director of Admissions; Bob Peterson, P.O., president of Providence College; and Robert Bailey, chairman of the Board of Trustees.

While the price of a college education continues to skyrocket, the cost of attending Providence College parallels increases in many area colleges.

Tuition, room and board have increased $840.00 since last year, setting the new total at approximately $6,402.00 for the 1980-81 academic year. This includes a $324.00 hike in room and board and a $500.00 hike in tuition.

Rev. Thomas R. Peterson, O.P., president of Providence College, earlier this year attributed these costs to higher energy rates, inflation and the state of the economy. These factors thus, undoubtedly affect other colleges as well. A spokesman for the University of Rhode Island stated that while costs for next year have not yet been determined, there will be a substantial increase over last year's approximately $2,600.00 figure.
In Memoriam
Reverend Edward L. Hunt, O.P.
The Reverend Edward L. Hunt, O.P., former chairman of the art department and professor at Providence College for 44 years, died July 16. He was 76. During his career as a priest-educator, Fr. Hunt taught courses in mathematics and art. His efforts in expanding the course offerings led to the establishment of the art department at the college in 1970. He was named first chairman of the department, a position he held for eight years.

Fr. Hunt was an alumnus of Catholic University in Washington, D.C., where he received a B.S. degree in 1925, and a Ph.D. in Architecture in 1928. He was ordained a Dominican priest in 1936.

Evan Cerwonska
Evan Cerwonska, 18, of Cranston, died during June. He was the son of Dr. Ronald Cerwonska, chairman of the Business Department and a recent graduate of Cranston East High School. His brother, Brian, was a member of the class of 1980.

David Lowe
David Lowe, a member of the class of 1980, died suddenly a few days after graduation. He had graduated Magna Cum Laude.

Your prayers and thoughts are asked for these members of the PC family which we have lost this summer.

Fred Ryan, 19, a member of the class of 1983, died during July after being struck by a car in El Paso, Texas. At the time he was working as a salesman for the Southwestern Company of Nashville, Tenn. A graduate of Scituate (Mass.) High School, he had just completed his freshman year at PC. Ryan was on the Ultimate Frisbee team and a member of the Order of the Shillelagh. While at PC he lived in Guzman Hall.

Rev. Edward L. Hunt, O.P.
Evan Cerwonska
David Lowe
We've finally made it
Welcome to the housing horror show at Providence College where once again no formal housing policy has been developed and incoming freshmen are being forced to live off-campus. This year's show features a bumper freshman class of 1,100 students. "Isn't that a little high?" you ask. "Too high," is the resounding response from those who believe, there is still a surplus of 220 students, of whom many need housing in September. Those unable to get dorm space have been referred to Off-Campus Housing which is under the direction of the Residence Office. In past years this problem was handled by the Admissions Office with no particular person set up to deal with it. This year, however, Ed Flynn, president of the Off-Campus Resident Organization, has set up shop in the Student Congress Office to find apartments for students. At this writing, approximately 130 students have been handled by Off-Campus Housing. Of these students, 63 have made arrangements for September, 35 have decided to commute, 12 have decided to not attend PC, and 20 are still searching. The problems for these freshmen are obvious and inexcusable. It's difficult enough to make the transition to a college at age 17 or 18 year old to adjust to life away from home, but asking him/her to live off-campus is too much. Blaming the Admissions Office is not the answer either. Simply, values by the administration to act is the cause of the headache. The only cure will be initiation by Fr. Peterson to develop a definite plan of action. Procrastination on this matter will no longer be tolerated by the student body.

The Cowl Editorial Board feels that all incoming freshmen should be guaranteed housing on campus. There will be a certain number of upperclassmen forced to live off-campus, but this is far less severe to students than being forced off-campus in their freshman year. Those upperclassmen forced off-campus should be limited to juniors and seniors only, giving sophomores guaranteed housing also.

Therefore, it is necessarily concerned with enabling students to seek knowledge and practice virtue. In a world facing economic disaster, rampant crime, and a choice between Carter and Reagan, these goals seem rather lofty, a bit impractical, and just plain inattainable. Should we abandon these educational goals merely because they require college administrators, professors, and students to strive for a quality education? I answer with a resounding NO!

In the remainder of this article I would like to discuss the quality of liberal arts education offered at Providence College through discussion of the curriculum requirements imposed upon the student. The term "offered" is a carefully chosen one, for the responsibility of achieving a quality education ultimately lies in the hands of the student. Personal motivation, serious course selection, and study habits are variables only the student can control. PC offers the student a chance to receive an excellent liberal arts education, however the decision to succeed or not to succeed can be made only by the individual.

One must realize the objectives of a liberal arts institution before assessing its success or failure in preparing an individual to become a responsible member of our democratic society. PC, in the 1976-80 handbook reads, "the goal of all liberal education is the freeing of the mind from the restraints of ignorance, and the elevation of the spirit to an awareness of the values which enrich human life with dignity and significance. A liberal education,
Forum for Ideas

Welcome to PC, Class of '84. Usually when a new student begins, he or she finds that six weeks can become the "Baptism by Fire." Much of the first term is spent in orienting classes, purchasing books, and just getting to know your roommate. This is the time to hammer away at her/his teeth with Arm and Hammer baking soda and comb her/his hair with a brush on the floor of the room with Lily of the Valley fragrance. The situation can often seem hectic, complex, and somewhat absurd. But don't worry, things will work and fall into place. One question that often arises during the first few weeks is: "How can I get involved?"

For some one who has just arrived at PC it is important for you to know the first maxim: PC IS PEOPLE. It's not buildings or academic departments only, but PEOPLE. When you leave in 1984, the subjects you have majored in will play a very important role, but the people you will meet will outlast any textbook jargon you have there.

There are many people on the PC staff who are involved with many aspects of its day to day operation. There are students from various backgrounds and personalities. No matter who you are or what individual you are, we all have something in common—the desire to be needed and accepted. That's where it's at. Reach out to people and try to discover the hidden talents everyone has. There is still something to offer. We're all important. The message is rather simple—Living things don't like to be forgotten. You've probably noticed that the majority of courses are offered at a liberal arts institution. It's a good idea to try to be involved in as many clubs as possible. This will make the college years more enjoyable.

By Robert A. Cavilino

Liberal Arts

Continued From Page 4

The statement is a bold one. The Western Civilization program at PC is a truly unique educational opportunity. At a time when other similar programs were being phased out of liberal arts institutions, PC professors were aggressively formulating a course that would become an encompassing view of the development of western civilization. The integration of philosophy, religion, literature, and history creates a viable approach to this type of course.

The course is a rigorous introduction, perhaps not the ideal, to Emilie Asterio's politics, with the first and last year students being encouraged to go on to the philosophy department. Although the course is a difficult one for students that do have complaints, the most common is that Civ should be cut down to a 4 credit course or 3 credit one. However, integration of the four materials could not survive such a reduction. Such an action would remove the original goal of the program.

It is interesting to note that the Civ program, a basic move by the administration, has achieved great success in the midst of controversy. The program has been highly praised by many specialized and less restrictive approaches to course requirements. Schools across the country have commented the Civ program. Dr. Fortier, chairman of the Civ program, has been hired at another institution to create a similar program there. He has said that he receives a deal of confidence and support the program from educators at various US universities. The course continues to grow here at PC; next year Dr. Fortier is hoping to bring in a Civ tutorial program.

Discussion and Philosophy

The PC student is required to take 6 credits in religion and 6 in philo­sophy. While this requirement has been the subject of controversy within the student body, especially in the past few years, the school continues to require it.

The Cowl

Page 5

Typists, Writers, Layout, Photographers

JOIN THE COWL STAFF

First Meeting: Monday, September 8, Slavin 109

The Student Congress, of course, is the center of student action. It is through this group that students can get involved or just understand more about what is going on at PC. As freshmen interested in getting involved or just understanding more about what is going on at Providence College, there are many ways to get involved. Some suggestions are:

1. Sign up for membership in the various organizations.
2. Become involved in Student Congress meetings.
3. Become involved in the faculty survey committee.
4. Become involved in the student faculty liaison program.
5. Become involved in the student government organization.
6. Become involved in the student activities committee.
7. Become involved in the student body council.
8. Become involved in the student government association.
10. Become involved in the student government association.

The Student Congress is divided into several committees. The Academic Research Committee investigates the academic sector of PC. This committee keeps watch on the many elements of the curriculum. There is also an academic grievance board which helps students to resolve problems regarding which students can express any concerns they may have on an academic grade or matter.

The Ways and Means Committee is responsible for handling all campus elections. The Faculty Survey Committee surveys students about their views of the performances of professors in their courses. There is also an annual Faculty Survey Manual.

The Food Committee tries to bring in more variety to the Raymond Cafeteria menu. They have made considerable progress in this endeavor.

The Ethics Committee oversees Congress members and makes sure that they are fulfilling their duties. The Finance Committee distributes funds to the various organizations and clubs on campus. The Legislative Committee regulates club constitu­tions and club performance by means of the Campus Council Bylaws. Congress also has a junior and senior member on the College Corporation which makes long term policy decisions for the college. The Committee on Administration has a student member also. This committee regulates the short-term policies of the College.

Dear Editor:

On behalf of the students of Providence College, I am writing in order to bring attention to the fact that Providence College is no longer the College of the Benedictine Monks. In fact, our college is now known as Providence College. It is true that the monks have left, but they have left an important legacy behind. This legacy is the Providence College tradition.

The Providence College tradition is a long-standing tradition that has been passed down from generation to generation. It is a tradition of hard work, dedication, and academic excellence. It is a tradition that has been a source of pride for students, faculty, and staff alike.

As a student of Providence College, I am proud to carry on this tradition. I am proud to be a part of the Providence College family. I am proud to be a part of something that is greater than myself. I am proud to be a part of the Providence College tradition.

Sincerely,

John Doe

President, Providence College
Features
Freshmen: College enables you to know yourself.

by Bill Sullivan

High school graduation seems paradoxical, an event that somehow brings forth from everyone an admixture of different feelings—some happy, some sad; some excited, some apprehensive. After each chapter finished, the next beginning. Yet when the pages of your life continue to turn, will you enter into the next with similar dreams of happiness and success as you were taught by the way you interpret this chapter. What adventures do you, the open-minded and bound students, have over your other friends who may interpret this chapter differently? What do you expect to learn, to accomplish, to become, from your efforts? In the next few paragraphs you will recognize the answers to these questions more than anyone else.

College is an opportunity that you have earned and one that must be utilized. It’s an advantage that potentially opens the door to career, to challenges you may not become the one who will make decisions, create laws, lead men, and invent new technologies for the future. It’s an advantage that potentially allows you to compete with yourself against the clock—a clock that is wound by success. It’s an advantage that potentially allows you to open the way for you to become the one who takes on the responsibilities of the great decisions, create laws, lead men, become the one who will make the differences.

The Counseling Center: Not for seniors only

Here at PC we have one of the best counseling and career placement centers in the northeast. Under the direction of Jackie Kierman, it provides assistance in selecting a major, college transition, and lending an ear to those in need.

Unlike high school guidance counseling, there are no assigned counselors at PC. All the services are voluntary and you make the appointments yourself. The staff need to talk to someone. Of the most important things to remember is that you can’t always solve your problems by yourself—occasionally a friend may not understand the difference.

Besides dealing on a one to one basis, the counseling center also deals with group workshops on such subjects as dealing with depression, choosing a major and developing study skills.

All services are confidential and are open to the whole student body. The office is located in Slavin 210. Remember...don’t wait for a crisis...act now!

The COWL: PC’s newspaper

The Providence College student newspaper is The Cowl, which is published every Wednesday of each full academic week. This summer edition attended Majors Night. The Knights are also responsible for many of the blood drives that are held on campus. The upcoming year hopes to see the initiation of a regular program of hospital and nursing home visitation.

The college has planned a full schedule of events for this academic year. A new addition to the regular schedule will be the inclusion of guest lecturers to speak on such interesting topics as drug abuse, alcohol awareness, and local politics. The Friar Council can become involved with. Local talent will also be a welcome addition to enhance the social aspect of the council.

Friar Council will be led this year by Grand Knight Bill Sullivan and a group of dedicated and enthusiastic officers and chairmen who plan to provide the Council with the initiative to take an active part of the life here at PC. By combining social events and educational activities the council offers something for everyone. The ladies’ auxiliary is associated with the Knights and offers women an opportunity to get involved in these worthwhile activities.

Friar Council invites men 18 years or older who are participating Catholics to join this Catholic fraternity. Selection is based on the qualities that the candidates are judged on: enthusiasm, personality, and Catholic awareness. All interested may receive more information by contacting Jim Hertin, the newly appointed membership director, or by attending a meeting for all interested candidates to be held this September. Hope to see you there!

Intramurals

Intramurals and recreation at Providence College offer students individual and team competition as well as recreational opportunities to occupy leisure time. The program is self-governing, run by an athletic board of seven students. Freshmen interested in becoming active board members can sign up at the intramural office when school begins.

Activities offered this past year included football, basketball, volleyball, hockey, softball, handball, platform tennis, swimming, physical fitness, frisbee, judo and self-defense, racquetball, weight-lifting, Supersports Competition, simmastics, and dance workshops.

The Athletic Board is admin- istered by officers, of which the president and vice-president are elected. Students seeking one of the other three seats of secretary, treasurer, and coordinator must attend a meeting at the Athletic Board Office.

They are then appointed to these posts. The Board solicits your suggestions and help and will "expand the program in any way to meet the needs of the students."
The BOG: PC’s social side

The Providence College Board of Governors is the seat of social, cultural, and recreational activity on the campus. Its purpose is to complement the academic growth of the student.

The club is run by five officers and a list of committee chairmen, along with representatives from the Student Congress, Resident Board and Dillon Club. The organization itself is broken up into separate committees, each of which work in their own areas.

The social committee plans mixers and other social events for the students, featured every year is the “Halloween extravaganza,” in which the entire student union is used for two bands and a costume contest.

Cultural development on the campus is the responsibility of the fine arts committee.

The video committee is responsible for taping the campaign speeches of students running for class offices. These video tapes are viewed in the lower level of Slavin during campaign time.

The publicity committee, as the title implies, publicizes BOG events through ads, flyers, handouts or any other advertising media.

There is a committee responsible for running the Last Resort, PC’s on-campus coffee house.

BOG concert committees have brought such names as Livingston Taylor, J. Geils, Jonathan Edwards, and Fountainhead.

This year the BOG sponsored lectures by such noted personalities as Steve King, Bill Lee, and George Plimpton. King has authored such thrillers as Carrie, and The Shining, while Bill Lee filled his usual “Spaceman” role and discussed many topics of interest. Plimpton has been involved in all types of professional sports and writes about his “adventures.” These lectures are always both interesting and entertaining.

The travel committee offers package trips, both large and small. A small trip might be something like a bus trip to New York, or a ride to Harvard University to watch the Friars play hockey. A larger trip would be a flight to Florida for a week of vacationing.

There are many responsible positions open on these committees, and anyone interested in becoming a member of the BOG can sign up in the BOG office which is located in Slavin 212.

Pastoral Council needs your help

The Providence College Board of Governors. In view of its goal to unite the student body, the club sponsors a variety of social events among which are mixers and bus trips. In addition, the club’s profits from these events are often used to support local charity organizations.

The Dillon Club also organizes low-cost travel packages for the students during the year. Easter vacation trips to such exciting places as Florida and Bermuda are always well-received.

The club office also aids students in finding off-campus housing. The club often works in conjunction with landlords to provide information on available sites.

The Dillon Club will be led this year by Jane Silviera. Meetings are held every week which enables members to discuss upcoming activities, form committees to plan their events and report on club progress.

Any student interested in joining this fine organization can do so by signing up in the office located in Lower Slavin Center (Room 120).

The Friars Club serves PC community

The Friars Club was originally founded for the purpose of welcoming visiting athletic teams. It was based on a similar organization at Dartmouth College called the Coreen Key Club. Over the many years since its formation in 1928 the club’s duties have been changed to include many other activities. The Friars Club today acts as a service organization for our College community.

One of the important functions of the club and its membership is to give perspective members and their parents a tour of the campus and promote the positive aspects of obtaining a post-secondary education at PC. Other functions of the Friars Club include assisting at registration and graduation, ushering at hockey games, and organizing the Oktoberfest, Parent’s Weekend, and Alumni Weekend. The club also works in conjunction with the Chaplain’s Office and the Admission’s Office.

As a non-profit organization budgeted by the College the Friars Club holds several functions each year for the benefit of charity organizations.

There are 55 members in the club, with 14% being seniors, 32% juniors, and 14% sophomores.
What Freshmen Should Know

1. Don’t plan on going home every weekend because you will miss an important part of PC. The social life on the weekends is great.
2. There are three sets of doors that lead to Raymond Cafe. The center doors are ALWAYS locked, so don’t even try to get in through them.
3. The Rat is the on-campus bar. It is located on the lower level of Slavin Center and is open seven nights a week. A word to the wise: don’t go every day.
4. Bring a long slicker, high boots and an umbrella and you will be all set for Providence weather.
5. Volunteering your services is a great way to get involved and to meet people. The Crawl, the BOG, Pastoral Council, Veritas, Big Brothers and Sisters and the different majors’ clubs (marketing, art, economics, etc.) are some of the organizations that need your help. Another thing, if you join now you may find yourself an editor, chairperson or president by the time you are a junior or senior.
6. Everyone has a mailbox. Check it every day.
7. If you want one of those thick, cold drinks made with ice cream and milk like the ones served at an ice-cream parlor, ask for a “frappe” (pronounced “frapp”). Rhode Islanders don’t make milkshakes like the rest of the country.
8. The Last Resort should not be last on your list of places to go.
9. Freshman year is not easy. Get used to spending at least three or four hours each night studying somewhere. (Please believe us. We’re not joking.)
10. Don’t expect your roommates to be your best friends. You may get along very well, but if you don’t there are approximately 3,500 other people in this school with whom you can associate.
11. CIV tapes are great in an emergency, but you can’t always get the tape you want when you want it. You will find that going to CIV class is more comfortable and less of a hassle. It also takes less time.
12. Intramural sports are a good way to get involved and work off tensions (or extra pounds).”
13. If you don’t like beer, don’t let ignorant people pressure you into swallowing it. After all, you wouldn’t make them drink your urine if they didn’t want to, right?
14. Skipping meals at Raymond Cafe doesn’t pay off. Ordering out for pizza every night can get expensive, especially when you have to buy all new clothes, two sizes larger.
15. If you want to look like a freshman, the first questions you ask new acquaintances should be:
   A. “Do you go here?”
   B. “What’s your major?”
   C. “What year are you?”
   D. “Where are you from?”
   If you give it a little thought, you can come up with better, more imaginative “ice breakers” than these.
16. Meagher Hall is pronounced “mahr,” or if you are a local, “mahh.”
17. If you are hungry and you don’t want pizza, Park Place is a new restaurant that will deliver almost anything, from a hot omelette and toast to a grinder.
18. If you’ve got a “bome to pick,” chances are that you’re eating a Raymond Cafe hamburger.
19. Mural Lounge, downstairs in Raymond Hall, has grinders, ice cream and all sorts of munchies after 7:00 p.m. The Silver Truck parks on Huxley Avenue, in front of Dore Hall at night, and also has grinders and hamburgers.
20. For a male to enter a women’s dorm, give her name, the name of the woman he would like to see, and if he can think of it, the phone number. The attendant at the desk will call and ask the woman if the young man’s presence is desired. If so, he is free to proceed.
21. For a female to enter a male dorm, she must place her hand on the doorknob, pull open the door, then ambulate up the stairs to her destination.
22. Free ice-skating for freshmen, second-year, third-year and fourth-year students is available at Schneider Arena. Check it out.
23. The Financial Aid Office has listings for on- and off-campus jobs for those who didn’t get one, free of charge, from the Tutorial Center in Guzman Hall. They can really help.
24. Be careful when you sneak food or beverages into the library. You will be found out.
25. When attending off-campus parties, never do punch, never do punch, never do punch, no matter who is serving it.
26. If you feel like cooking, you can get one, free of charge, from the Tutorial Center in Guzman Hall.
27. The BOG is not short for “bogus.” It is a worthwhile organization, so volunteer to work for it.
28. Don’t eat the yellow crust that forms on the top of the mayonnaise in Raymond Cafe.
29. When dining in after-meal provisions, beware of loose change, you won’t have to change, you won’t have to change, you won’t have to change, you won’t have to change, you won’t have to change, you won’t have to change.
30. Find out who your advisor is and get to know him or her.
31. “Raymond Cafe Steinsburgers.” Ingredients: Vulcanized rubber beef flattened to perfection in our own kitchen by industrial steam rollers and served luke-cold on a sesame seed bun.
32. Season hockey and basketball (or crawling) distance and which usually contain a sea of familiar faces. A note of caution to the unsuspecting: Annie Street lawn parties are strongly objected to by the Annie Street residents.
33. Mondo (mon’ doe) n. a species of homo sapiens which inhabits Club Fantasy on the weekends and has, on occasion, been sighted in Alumni Cafe.
34. The Board of Governors wishes to welcome you to Providence College Board of Governors.

The Board of Governors wishes to welcome you to PC. The BOG is a very active and visible student involvement. The BOG’s function is to program the social and cultural events of the college. Through our thirteen committees, we schedule over one hundred events per year for your enjoyment. We hope that you become familiar with “The Last Resort” on lower campus, where much of our activity takes place. To join the BOG sign-up for one of the following committees at the Club Fair in September:

- Films
- Social
- Fine Arts
- Concerts
- Last Resort
- Programmer

Coffeehouse
Lecture
Travel
Video
Publicity
Ticket Office

Research & Development

To: Class of 1984
From: L.J. Manning, President, Providence College Board of Governors

The Board of Governors wishes to welcome you to PC. The BOG is a very active and visible student involvement. The BOG’s function is to program the social and cultural events of the college. Through our thirteen committees, we schedule over one hundred events per year for your enjoyment. We hope that you become familiar with “The Last Resort” on lower campus, where much of our activity takes place. To join the BOG sign-up for one of the following committees at the Club Fair in September:

- Films
- Social
- Fine Arts
- Concerts
- Last Resort
- Programmer
Memories: Commencement Week '80

"We've only just begun"
Metro-Update

SHOPPING

Westminster Mall and Downtown
(take RIPTA buses from Smith Street)

Warwick & Midland Malls—RI’s largest shopping complex
(take Rt. 95 South to Rt. 295 North or take RIPTA buses from downtown)

Lincoln Mall
(take Rt. 146 North or RIPTA)

CULTURAL EVENTS

Ocean State Performing Arts Center
Providence Civic Center
Trinity Square Repertory Company

These are all downtown and offer the best in concerts, plays, shows, and sporting events.

DISCOVER PROVIDENCE

The capital of Rhode Island

Top—Downtown
Left—Westminster Mall
Right—Weybosset St.
Bottom—Thayer St.
(East Side)

THE EAST SIDE

Whether shopping or going for entertainment, visit this historic part of Providence. The home of Brown University and Rhode Island School of Design, it offers many of the area’s best cultural events and night spots.

FOOD

For delivery call:

- Park Place, 831-7402
- E & J Pizza, 751-2251
- Subworld, 861-3737

plus visit the Silver Truck & Mural Lounge
Frosh Recruits: looking good

With the loss of only one of last year's starters, basketball coach Gary Walters hit the road in earnest this year in search of some top players. Here is an unofficial list of recruits who have been impressed with the PC environment and have decided to enroll:

- Martin Burns, a 6-8 forward from Dartmouth High School, N. Dartmouth, Mass.
- Sean Cantey, a 6-7 forward from Tabor Academy, Dover, Mass.
- James Cholakis, a 6-5 guard/forward from Albany High School, Albany, N.Y.
- J. Carl Hill, a 6-1 guard from Princeton Day School, Trenton, N.J.
- Marlin Burns, a 6-8 forward from Dartmouth High School, N. Dartmouth, Mass.
- Sean Cantey, a 6-7 forward from Tabor Academy, Dover, Mass.
- James Cholakis, a 6-5 guard/forward from Albany High School, Albany, N.Y.
- J. Carl Hill, a 6-1 guard from Princeton Day School, Trenton, N.J.
- Miles McPartland, a 6-7 forward from Carle Place High School, Westbury, N.Y.
- Otis Thorpe, a 6-9 center from Lake Worth High School, Boynton Beach, Fla.

Coach Walters is optimistic about the upcoming season. However, people must be patient, for PC is still in its rebuilding stage. Walters commented, "These guys are tough, play good defense, and play smart ball. Anything less is a reflection on me and I won't tolerate that."

NHL drafts five Friars

This year's National Hockey League draft made five Providence College players especially happy and gave head coach Lou Lamoriello a bright outlook on the 1980-81 season. Dan Miele and Randy Velischek, both freshmen, were drafted in the third round. Miele went to the Washington Capitals, and Velischek to the Minnesota Northstars. Kurt Kleinendorst was drafted fourth by the New York Rangers, while brother Scott went in the fifth round, also to New York. Finally, Bruce Raboin, a sophomore from Minnesota, was drafted in the eighth round, also

George Jackson, a 6-5 guard/forward from John I. Leonard High School, West Palm Beach, Fla.

NHL drafts five Friars

150 years after Peter Ballantine brewed his first ale, we've struck gold again. With America's first super premium ale. We call it Brewer's Gold. It's lusty and full-bodied, like the imports. But with a golden amber taste of its own. An ale man's ale, like no other. Because there is no other super premium ale.

On Peter Ballantine's 150th anniversary, we invite you to lift your spirits. And ours.

A super premium ale by Ballantine

Looking Back

This year's National Hockey League draft made five Providence College players especially happy and gave head coach Lou Lamoriello a bright outlook on the 1980-81 season. Dan Miele and Randy Velischek, both freshmen, were drafted in the third round. Miele went to the Washington Capitals, and Velischek to the Minnesota Northstars. Kurt Kleinendorst was drafted fourth by the New York Rangers, while brother Scott went in the fifth round, also to New York. Finally, Bruce Raboin, a sophomore from Minnesota, was drafted in the eighth round, also Faithful Friar fans are not to worry, however, as all five draftees will return to PC. Lamoriello states that this year's "underaged draft" offers the players a chance to develop their skills to the fullest, while at the same time earn a college degree. "Being recognized by a professional team while still in school gives the boy a special — incentive to strive for a life-long dream," says Lamoriello.

It's difficult to imagine improving on last season's superb record of 19-4, but with coach Lamoriello now working with five professional prospects, bettering that mark is certainly no dream.

1979-80... Looking Back

Above: Coach Lou Lamoriello—The Guiding Light.
Below: The Friars' Head Cheerleader.
Ray Treacy falls short at trials...

by Kevin Burke

The marathon—some succeed, some fail. Some suffer great fatigue, while others grow extremely dizzy. Some experience blindness and may even meet with severe depression. Each marathoner is affected differently, but every runner must face the inevitable physical and psychological wall of pain. During the course of this 26 mile, 385 yard run, the body undergoes traumatic chemical change and no amount of training can help one avoid this pitfall. Providence superstar Ray Treacy knows this marathon experience only too well. May 19 was a blistering hot day in the normally chilly city of Ireland. After completing a brilliant sophomore campaign in both cross-country and track, Treacy geared all of his training towards this one particular race in May, the Irish National Marathon. A place among the top three finishers would earn him a spot on Ireland’s Olympic Team. However, that fierce heat and humidity took its toll on each man, and Treacy was no exception. After running with the leaders for a good portion of the race, Treacy developed a large blister on his foot and was forced to withdraw. The race was eventually won by Pat Hooper.

Treacy will not experience the thrill of competing in Moscow this summer, but two more years of cross-country and track as a Friar await him.

...brother John off to Moscow

Ray Treacy may be kept away from the Olympics in 1980, but his brother John does not plan on staying home. John has worked hard for a gold medal. Although undecided and away for a 1978 graduate of Providence, is a six-time all-American and has twice captured the World cross-country championship title. He is Ireland’s best hope for a gold medal. John’s chances for a medal are far more realistic. And it will be very interesting to see if Treacy can match his efforts with the final lap kick of the amazing Miruts Nyambui, who attends Providence.

Lax-men set for new season

by Paul Hennings

Due to the growth and popularity of lacrosse, more and more colleges are adding the sport to their athletic programs. Notre Dame and the “Big Ten” universities are examples of such schools. For the first time last spring, Providence became actively involved with lacrosse. The PC men’s lacrosse team finished its first season as a varsity sport under the leadership of Athletic Director Dave Gavitt and Intramural Director Jerry Alaimo.

The season was highlighted by victories over Boston University and Western New England. Head coach Eaton, in his first year, played an important role in filling the starting lineup. With a roster composed mainly of freshman and sophomores, the team posted a not so impressive record of 4-8. However, it is anticipated that the team will retain a nucleus of fine players. Former captains Jim Porell and Jeff Pierce were lost to graduation, but three other players: John MacCaffery and Dennis McNeny last year’s “Mac,” a defenseman who also captains the football team, and McNeny were unanimously elected by their teammates.

The team was highlighted by victories over Boston University and Western New England. Head coach Eaton, in his first year, played an important role in filling the starting lineup. With a roster composed mainly of freshman and sophomores, the team posted a not so impressive record of 4-8. However, it is anticipated that the team will retain a nucleus of fine players. Former captains Jim Porell and Jeff Pierce were lost to graduation, but three other players: John MacCaffery and Dennis McNeny last year’s “Mac,” a defenseman who also captains the football team, and McNeny were unanimously elected by their teammates.

The team was highlighted by victories over Boston University and Western New England. Head coach Eaton, in his first year, played an important role in filling the starting lineup. With a roster composed mainly of freshman and sophomores, the team posted a not so impressive record of 4-8. However, it is anticipated that the team will retain a nucleus of fine players. Former captains Jim Porell and Jeff Pierce were lost to graduation, but three other players: John MacCaffery and Dennis McNeny last year’s “Mac,” a defenseman who also captains the football team, and McNeny were unanimously elected by their teammates.

The VAB, which is composed at present of forty members, will be under the leadership of Athletic Director Dave Gavitt and Intramural Director Jerry Alaimo. The VAB, which is composed at present of forty members, will be under the leadership of Athletic Director Dave Gavitt and Intramural Director Jerry Alaimo. The VAB, which is composed at present of forty members, will be under the leadership of Athletic Director Dave Gavitt and Intramural Director Jerry Alaimo. The VAB, which is composed at present of forty members, will be under the leadership of Athletic Director Dave Gavitt and Intramural Director Jerry Alaimo.

Participation, promotion, and leadership are good words to describe the all-new Varsity Athletic Board which has been given the task of bringing bigger, more enthusiastic crowds to PC sporting events. The Board was formed during finals in May under the leadership of Athletic Director Dave Gavitt and Intramural Director Jerry Alaimo. The VAB, which is composed at present of forty members, will be under the leadership of Athletic Director Dave Gavitt and Intramural Director Jerry Alaimo. The VAB, which is composed at present of forty members, will be under the leadership of Athletic Director Dave Gavitt and Intramural Director Jerry Alaimo. The VAB, which is composed at present of forty members, will be under the leadership of Athletic Director Dave Gavitt and Intramural Director Jerry Alaimo.

According to Alaimo, "Students are the key to the potential success of the Varsity Athletic Board—people who believe they can make our athletic programs better and who have the dedication and enthusiasm to do it."

The members of the VAB met on July 12 and 13 at PC to begin making plans for the fall season. Plans included a brochure, a VAB Day for the fall season, and a few other surprises for September and October. Membership is not closed by any means—the VAB needs more interested, enthusiastic Friar fans to help make the Board successful. There will be a membership drive in the fall, so watch for announcements at the first meeting in September! I compliment both President Carter and the United States Olympic Committee on their wise decision to boycott the 1980 Summer Olympics. Still, it is disturbing that people insist that "politics and the Olympics do not mix." The fact is, it would be nice if political affairs did not meddle with the Games, but unfortunately they do in many ways. Next, I question the International Olympic Committee on its reasoning for choosing Moscow as the site for the 1980 Games. A country that breathes religious, racial and political discrimination does not deserve this honor.

The Olympics are of very little importance when one considers what a major war could do to us. The Soviet Union has taken actions which violate world peace, and they must pay the consequences. It would be difficult for me to enjoy the Olympics this year, knowing that the country hosting them had 70,000 troops in a country that did not want them there. Certainly, a boycott is a very strong move, and one that hurts many people. However, with current world situations as they are, it is the correct move. I honestly believe that a red-blooded humanity which loves peace at heart should be able to make the necessary sacrifices in defense of the right.

I sympathize greatly with the American athletes, for they are indeed suffering a great personal tragedy, but one that they will endure.