Pat Steir’s “Self Portrait” on display with 11 other works at Bell Gallery, Brown University, through Oct. 11.

Et. Cetera...

- BOG Faculty Lecture Series scheduled for Tuesday evenings in the Last Resort to cover diversified topics.
- Anyone interested in teaching a mini-course such as bartending, arts and crafts, etc. contact Laura Foley.
- Tickets on sale for Trinity Square plays at Student Services in Slavin. Price: Only 50c.
- Man of LaMancha tickets available. Only $3.00. On sale at Student Services Desk.

---

Points of Interest

BUS IT DOWNTOWN

Buses operate every ten minutes from Downtown Providence to Smith Street and River Avenue every ten minutes.

SEE THE CITY!!

WHAT'S WHERE?

P 3
Editorials

P 6
Commentary

P 7
Features

P 9
Arts/Lesuire

P 12
Sports

P 14
New COA Member:
Dr. Susan Marsh Appointed

By Cathy John

The Committee on Administration (COA) is the highest decision-making body at Providence College. The COA consists of nine members, both administrators and faculty, as well as one student representative. It is chaired by Rev. Thomas R. Peterson, O.P., president of the College, Other administrators who hold seats on the committee include: Rev. Robert A. Morris, O.P., executive vice president of the College, and vice president for institutional planning and development, Dr. Paul van K. Thomson; vice president for academic administration; Dr. Joseph L. Byrnn, vice president for business affairs; Rev. John G. McCrevey, O.P., vice president for student services, and Rev. John Davis, assistant to the president.

The student representative to the committee, chosen by Student Congress each spring for the following year, is senior Jim O’Connor. Faculty representatives on the committee include Dr. James Tattersall, an associate professor of mathematics and the appointed member of the Division of Mathematics, and the newly appointed Dr. Susan Marsh, assistant professor of political science. Dr. Marsh was recently appointed to the committee. She is a member of the faculty who was elected to the COA by the BOG.

Chairmen of the concert committees are chosen by the elected members of the BOG. This year there are three groups planning the concerts: Denis Mcenery, a senior; Jeff Donovan and Peter Wolfe, who are juniors.

In addition to the three groups, the COA meets on a weekly basis to review the plans of all three groups and plans for the concerts.

Last Thursday, September 17, The Knights of Columbus sponsored another successful Blood Drive. Pictured above is a PC student extending an arm.

Concert Chairmen Plan 81-82

By Cathy Graziano, BOG Staff Correspondent

Chairmen of the concert committees are chosen by the elected members of the BOG. This year there are three groups planning the concerts: Denis Mcenery, a senior; Jeff Donovan and Peter Wolfe, who are juniors. The three work together as the concert planning committee, and their goal is to plan a successful Blood Drive. Pictured above is a PC student extending an arm.

You're interested in management. Add It To Your Schedule

You're career oriented. You want management training and leadership experience. Experience that will be on the resume in a management career — or any career you choose.

You want management training and leadership experience. Experience that will be on the resume in a management career — or any career you choose.

You're an individual seeking experience in problem analysis, requiring decision-making skill in simulation. You're interested in a challenging experience that will define your future career as a manager or leader.

For more information contact:
Cpt. Jay Johnston
Call (401) 865-2471 / 2472
Write: US Army ROTC
Providence College
Providence, RI 02918
Visit Room 164 Alumni Hall

What Do You Want From College?

Management Training? Add It To Your Schedule

NO. What's it Worth?

You're career oriented. You're interested in management. You're an individual seeking experience in problem analysis, requiring decision-making skill in simulation. You're interested in a challenging experience that will define your future career as a manager or leader.

For more information contact:
Cpt. Jay Johnston
Call (401) 865-2471 / 2472
Write: US Army ROTC
Providence College
Providence, RI 02918
Visit Room 164 Alumni Hall

OPEN FOR BUSINESS!

“Fiori's Sandwich Shop”
44 Admiral Street
274-777
Orders to Go, Open at 11:00
Largest, Largest, Sandwiches in Town!
Italian Food, Grinders and Hot Weiners!

SHORT WALK FROM P.C.!
Reprinted from The Chronicle of Higher Education

Although the federal government has reduced the number of grants and loans given to college students by its Department of Education, more money will be available to students participating in the Reserve Officer Training Corps this fall.

Duty officers trained as education directors, the Air Force associate in the Defense Education Directorate, made two-year awards to 53 Air Force officers, particularly full Senate late last week.

The Defense Department hopes to broaden faculty development, for in a dynamic and constantly changing business world, he feels it is important to use it to a local need than I apply it to a local need than I...
Scholars Recognized In Economics, Political Science

By Karen MacGillivray

Pi Sigma Alpha is a political science honor society. A chapter of this society was established at PC on February 8, 1972, and the PC chapter is known as Epsilon Chi. Pi Sigma Alpha was founded at the University of Texas as a national honor society in October, 1926. In 1949, this society was admitted into the Association of College Honor Societies, representing political science. There are now approximately 200 chapters of Pi Sigma Alpha in the country.

The PC chapter, Epsilon Chi, currently has 11 members. They are: Deborah George, president; Joel Kaufman, vice-president; Cheryl Morrissey, secretary-treasurer; Steven Angarella, Rosemary Connolly, Timothy Duggan, Marybeth Holland, Frank Manni, Roberta Mooney, Lori Ann Ricci, and Alisen Roe. Their faculty advisor is Neil Romans, associate professor.

The economics department also has an honor society called Omicron Delta Epsilon. A chapter of this society was established at PC on February 8, 1972, and the PC chapter is known as Epsilon Chi. Omicron Delta Epsilon is the result of a merger between two honor societies: Omicron Delta Gamma and Omicron Chi Epsilon. Omicron Delta Gamma was founded in 1915 by a union of the economic societies of Harvard University and the University of Wisconsin. Omicron Chi Epsilon was founded in 1920. In 1949, this society was known as Pi Sigma Alpha was founded at the University of Wisconsin, representing political science.

There are now approximately 200 chapters of Pi Sigma Alpha in the country.

PC’s Familiar Faces Are Winners in Journal Contest

Providence, Rhode Island, September 9, 1981: The members of Hospital Trust National Bank’s Providence College Office staff have all been winners recently in the Providence Sunday Journal magazine “The Puzzle” contest. Surrounded by their newspapers and Journal T-Shirts are: (Seated l-r) Dottie Parks, Banking Officer and Manager, a Warwick resident; Patricia F. Sullivan, Michael Sweat and Thomas Sorbo, a Riverside resident, Puzzle T-shirts are awarded to ten winners, chosen by lot from among correct entries.

E & J PIZZA

600 Douglas Ave., Providence specials good all semester!

Delivering your favorite pizza, grinder or spaghetti everyday from 4:30 p.m. to 1:00 a.m.
CALL 751-2251

“Hey, this place looks great! Are you sure we’re on the PC campus?”
Enjoy Providence

Take heed PC resident-students—there is life beyond campus! As a matter of interest there is even a city out there with a good many things to do.

By the time one is a senior at Providence College, you will no doubt have heard the complaints about falling into a social rut. For those of you who think there is nothing beyond the realms of Louie’s, Brad’s, and Geister’s you have yet to discover the cultural offerings of Providence, R.I.

Unfortunately, many students, particularly from out of state, tend to write the city off as “boring,” while those from the area are the wiser.

Take a look at The Cowl’s new section, The Marquee, and you will see what you have been missing. For example, Lupo’s Heartbreak Hotel, in the heart of downtown Providence, often has a variety of good bands as well as an assortment of interesting characters in an environment resembling early garage.

There are also fairs and festivals which are open to the public as well as art exhibitions at the Rhode Island School of Design.

The East Side and the Arcade are two particularly good places to spend an afternoon, whether to shop or just browse, through their many boutiques.

For those who are interested in drama, The Trinity Square Repertory Company downtown performs many outstanding shows, in keeping with its tradition of excellent local theater.

So, PC students, you have no reason to limit yourselves any more. The Editorial Board of The Cowl suggests that you extend your interests. While the College’s various organizations do provide us with an excellent assortment of entertainment, it would not hurt to try something different. After all, the essence of a college education is the development of a well rounded person.

Better Safe

Common Sense: A Safety Must

Just about one year ago, Providence College was stricken with what, at the time, was an unheard of occurrence on this campus. In separate incidents, two female co-eds, while walking alone across campus, were sexually assaulted by a knife-wielding assailant. Fortunately, both of the young women escaped harm.

While sexual assault may be an almost daily occurrence at many universities and large institutions, it is something that a small school like PC rarely, if ever, hears about.

So when those two incidents occurred within a week of each other, they severely disturbed the peace and quiet of the PC campus.

Since that time, some changes have been made to prevent a repetition of such attacks. For one thing, the addition of the shuttle bus has been a means of keeping off-campus students from having to walk to and from the College at night.

There are also many new lights, particularly in the area of the President’s House, the scene of one of the attacks.

The Editorial Board of The Cowl expresses its thanks to the administration for taking measures to increase the safety and security of the students at PC.

However, no matter how many safety measures have been or will be taken, there is only one we should all carry with us: common sense.

Let it not be forgotten that the first attack occurred in a well lit area near McBurnett Hall at a fairly early hour. The area is well travelled with students going to and from the Library and within earshot of the all-male dorm. This would certainly seem a safe place to walk. Yet the attack occurred there as the young woman walked from the Library to Aquinas Hall.

The Editorial Board of The Cowl emphasizes the importance of never walking alone, particularly to female students. It is easy enough ask for an escort from a security guard or a friend, and the benefit may last you a lifetime.

Dear Reader:

The news staff of The Cowl will be running a series of articles on the off campus residence situation at PC. These articles will present a number of different outlooks including the perspectives of landlords, student tenants, housing personnel at the College, and OCBO members.

The series will begin next week, in the September 30 issue. I hope you will enjoy this most informative series of articles.

Sincerely,

Marybeth Holland
Editor in Chief carry nonmover munitions, which cost only $80,000 each.

The Phoenix, of course, would have been safer to use. But the American pilots didn't want to waste the expensive missiles on the Libyans. So they saved the taxpayers $1,266,000 by downing the two Libyan planes with Sidewinders.

AIRPLANE COMPLAINT

The nation's airlines have already lost millions because of the Libyan controllers' strike. And there was nothing the airlines could do to stop it. The controllers are fighting the government, not the airline industry.

Now the airlines are complaining that the government is giving them another kick in the wallet. Here are the details:

WATCH ON WASTE: The Navy wants to add a dozen new cargo ships to its fleet to serve the Pentagon's rapid deployment force. But the commissions come out of the airlines' pockets. Just Uncle Sam's. One OMB official told us the airlines' claims were "hogwash."

---

Fieldhouse Has A Proper Name

Dear Editor:

We would like to take this opportunity to respond to The Cowl editorial of Sept. 16, 1981, concerning the Corporation decision to name the new fieldhouse after Rev. Thomas R. Peterson, O.P., the president of the College.

Few people realize the influence of Father Peterson in making non-varsity sports an important part of the PC community. As president, Father Peterson has established a fulltime intramural director as well as being responsible for initiating the Fieldhouse Feasibility Committee in October of 1979.

It is true that Mr. Cuddy, Father Begley, and Father Taylor were all instrumental in the building of a nationally prominent varsity athletic program. However, the expressed purpose of the fieldhouse is not to accommodate varsity athletics. Rather, it is to promote non-varsity athletics for the entire student body.

As the student representatives to the Corporation of Providence College, we reaffirm and uphold their unanimous decision of June 22, 1981. We believe that without Father Peterson's work in the building of the Peterson Recreation Center (or the fieldhouse by any other name) new would never have been a reality.

Kevin M. Donovan, '83
James T. McGuire, III, '83
Student Representatives to the Corporation of Providence College

---

PC's Drinking Policy:

Monitor Consumption?

Dear Editor:

O these college days filled with freedom and boredom, laden with love's painful song of the one who's done us wrong. O these college days burdened by classes and reports, somehow are made survivable by our weekend liquor supplies.

O these college days our parents are far from here, so comes maturity and responsibility as youth passes with a tear.

---

...Too Restrictive!

Dear Editor:

After spending the summer working in a bar, I was left frustrated and angry with PC's latest drinking policy. While the administration wasted hours of meetings that could have been used constructively (housing policy, have they accomplished their objective? What was their objective? Is this a sincere attempt to encourage and work with students to solve problems?), which was a failure, is only an example of things to come.

As a legal drinker, I resent being carded twice, having my meal cards switched, and all of all, being told exactly how many beers I can buy. Maybe I'm being unrealistic, but I've never seen

---

Letters

Commentary

JACK ANDERSON and JOE SPEAR

WEEKLY SPECIAL

Letters
only a few of us feel that mathematics provides tools that we can use competently to increase our understanding. A few of us take to science and enjoy it. Most of us feel that science and mathematics are beyond us. We resign ourselves to living in ignorance of the world around us. We despair when we face problems that require scientific competence. We take refuge in passivity. We rely upon the experts who have repeatedly proven themselves unreliable. A central reason is the irrational and anti-intellectual ethos of specialization that governs scientific education. Professors find it necessary, believe it to be the task of ultimate importance, to instruct students into their disciplines. It seems to be a matter of honor to require one's students to master an obscure language before they are allowed to discuss things that all of us care about. It is not necessary to survey the phyla of the plant and animal kingdoms in order to understand the exquisite delicacy of the living world. But it is the rare biologist who possesses the patience that is required.
Dr. Kane, From Eng. to P.C. Learns While Teaching!

By Colleen Vigneaux

Straight from the University of Liverpool in England, Dr. Daniel Kane has made Providence College his academic home for the 1981-82 year. Dr. Kane has come to PC because he hopes to establish a better understanding of the students and faculty in the American educational system.

Dr. Kane has traveled extensively and has studied and taught in various areas of the world. Before making his journey to Providence, he was an assistant professor in the Middle East, teaching for three years in Jordan.

He's been in the States for less than a month and has already made it home. He notes various contrasts between the United Kingdom and the United States. Obviously, the way people talk is very different. He also notices the quickened pace of life and constant concern for the future that American students experience.

He thinks PC has a very pleasant physical environment and a sense of belonging, a feeling that not all universities did not give. The school gives him a very friendly atmosphere. The students are very polite and the faculty don't know the story so we really didn't think about it anymore.

The Bernstein agency was presented to the campus before even years and many pictures of the campus were taken before even the seven-foot statue is considered to be Truth is Eternally Learning While Teaching!

Dr. Kane, new economics professor.

Business Department Plans a Good Time

By Joan Whalen

Thinking back to previous President's Day we have vague but fond memories of waking up late, taking a shower to shake off the results of one too many from the night before and then proceeding to the front of Slavin where serious partying began, complete with brew, a band, food and friends. This year's President's Day, however, has a slightly different twist at the request of Father Petitsign. Each department has been asked to provide a variety of informal morning activities during which students can be acquainted with members of their department.

The business department started off the day on a religious note with an 8:30 a.m. mass Guzman Chapel offered by Father Ertle for the members of Mr. Gemma's classes. The well attended liturgy was then followed by a continental buffet which took place in Koffler Hall, the well-known headquarters of the business department.

coffee and doughnuts students had an excellent opportunity to casually meet and converse with their assigned professors. The majority of students were eager to be acquainted with students who had previously known as merely a name on their roll call sheet. Perhaps some looked upon this gathering as a chance to earn brownie points with the professor of their least favorite class.

In the afternoon a hit more physical meeting of faculty and student body occurred when the two met in a softball game on Lower Campus. After much groaning and sweating and straining it was still highly debatable who won. Bill Ribeudo, president of the Business Club still maintains that the students were the victors. Also taking place throughout the day was a raffle of PC memorabilia tickets which had been distributed to those students who had attended their business classes the previous Thursday and Friday.

As the day progressed students began to gather outside Slavin for the part of President's Day that was more familiar to most of us. And as dusk closed in and we sipped our last brew and the band played the last tune, it looked as if President's Day would continue to be an annual event due to the success of the morning's activities.

Mr. & Mrs. Slavin: Not Just The Brunt of Student's Jokes

By Erin Donahue

We walk by it at least once every day and at first we wondered what it was all about. Then we just got used to its being there. The seven-foot statue is constructed from bronze and weighs 900 pounds. It's title is Verizon Eternitil Jueves which translates to Truth is Eternally Young. It was presented to the College at the 1974 commencement exercises by Joseph (Bo) and Alice Bernstein.

Joseph Bernstein had attended Hope College and then transferred to PC. His stay here, however, was short, three weeks. He became the founder and retired chairman of the board of his downtown clothing business. His interest in art came from his son who was an artist and his daughter who married a sculptor. Alice Bernstein also paints and sculps.

The Bernstein agency was handling a fund drive for PC and the agency head commented that he would like to give the Dominican Institute a piece of sculpture.

Gilbert Franklin, a Rhode Island School of Design sculptor, carved the statue. It took many years and many pictures of the campus were taken before even making the sketches. Franklin was a Fellow of the American Academy of Rome and won the Prix de Rome in 1948.

The statue depicts a young man and woman stepping forward from a cloak that represents home, family and school. Franklin was known to say, "The young people are stepping out of the classical fold that shields them from the outside world."

So there is a story behind Mr. and Mrs. Slavin. They are watching over Providence College. Step by step and bell or sound they're always around.

Features

Dr. Kane, From Eng. to P.C. Learns While Teaching!

By Colleen Vigneaux

Straight from the University of Liverpool in England, Dr. Daniel Kane has made Providence College his academic home for the 1981-82 year. Dr. Kane has come to PC because he hopes to establish a better understanding of the students and faculty in the American educational system.

Dr. Kane has traveled extensively and has studied and taught in various areas of the world. Before making his journey to Providence, he was an assistant professor in the Middle East, teaching for three years in Jordan.

He's been in the States for less than a month and has already made it home. He notes various contrasts between the United Kingdom and the United States. Obviously, the way people talk is very different. He also notices the quickened pace of life and constant concern for the future that American students experience.

He thinks PC has a very pleasant physical environment and a sense of belonging, a feeling that not all universities did not give. The school gives him a very friendly atmosphere. The students are very polite and the faculty don't know the story so we really didn't think about it anymore.

The Bernstein agency was presented to the campus before even years and many pictures of the campus were taken before even the seven-foot statue is considered to be Truth is Eternally Learning While Teaching!

Dr. Kane, new economics professor.

Business Department Plans a Good Time

By Joan Whalen

Thinking back to previous President's Day we have vague but fond memories of waking up late, taking a shower to shake off the results of one too many from the night before and then proceeding to the front of Slavin where serious partying began, complete with brew, a band, food and friends. This year's President's Day, however, has a slightly different twist at the request of Father Petitsign. Each department has been asked to provide a variety of informal morning activities during which students can be acquainted with members of their department.

The business department started off the day on a religious note with an 8:30 a.m. mass Guzman Chapel offered by Father Ertle for the members of Mr. Gemma's classes. The well attended liturgy was then followed by a continental buffet which took place in Koffler Hall, the well-known headquarters of the business department.

coffee and doughnuts students had an excellent opportunity to casually meet and converse with their assigned professors. The majority of students were eager to be acquainted with students who had previously known as merely a name on their roll call sheet. Perhaps some looked upon this gathering as a chance to earn brownie points with the professor of their least favorite class.

In the afternoon a hit more physical meeting of faculty and student body occurred when the two met in a softball game on Lower Campus. After much groaning and sweating and straining it was still highly debatable who won. Bill Ribeudo, president of the Business Club still maintains that the students were the victors. Also taking place throughout the day was a raffle of PC memorabilia tickets which had been distributed to those students who had attended their business classes the previous Thursday and Friday.

As the day progressed students began to gather outside Slavin for the part of President's Day that was more familiar to most of us. And as dusk closed in and we sipped our last brew and the band played the last tune, it looked as if President's Day would continue to be an annual event due to the success of the morning's activities.

Mr. & Mrs. Slavin: Not Just The Brunt of Student's Jokes

By Erin Donahue

We walk by it at least once every day and at first we wondered what it was all about. Then we just got used to its being there. The seven-foot statue is constructed from bronze and weighs 900 pounds. It's title is Verizon Eternitil Jueves which translates to Truth is Eternally Young. It was presented to the College at the 1974 commencement exercises by Joseph (Bo) and Alice Bernstein.

Joseph Bernstein had attended Hope College and then transferred to PC. His stay here, however, was short, three weeks. He became the founder and retired chairman of the board of his downtown clothing business. His interest in art came from his son who was an artist and his daughter who married a sculptor. Alice Bernstein also paints and sculps.

The Bernstein agency was handling a fund drive for PC and the agency head commented that he would like to give the Dominican Institute a piece of sculpture.

Gilbert Franklin, a Rhode Island School of Design sculptor, carved the statue. It took many years and many pictures of the campus were taken before even making the sketches. Franklin was a Fellow of the American Academy of Rome and won the Prix de Rome in 1948.

The statue depicts a young man and woman stepping forward from a cloak that represents home, family and school. Franklin was known to say, "The young people are stepping out of the classical fold that shields them from the outside world."

So there is a story behind Mr. and Mrs. Slavin. They are watching over Providence College. Step by step and bell or sound they're always around.
The Sorcery of Superstition

By Linda Zaccardo

Legend has it that a magic ointment rubbed onto one's skin would transform a man into a wolf-like creature that makes nocturnal excursions attacking animals and humans alike, devouring raw flesh, and then returning into human flesh again. Superstition advises that seven years of bad luck is won by he who breaks a glass mirror. Countless modern myths of UFO's are told and retold again. Legends, superstitions, and myths: do they still exist today?

Dr. Raymond Sickinger addressed this question in the first of a series of lectures presented by the Lecture Committee and BOG on Monday, September 14, at the Last Resort.

Many people have a desire to resolve the mysterious and the unknown, claimed Sickinger. When science and religion fail to give adequate explanations, man attempts to deal with the unknown by making it material. In times of insecurity, however, unreasonable fears prevail with fear, and man develops legends, superstitions, and myths to answer the unanswered. There are many people today who still believe in various superstitions such as a lucky horseshoe, or Friday, the 13th. The South County, Rhode Island, is second only to Transylvania in reporting of vampires. Other people have claimed to have seen such creatures as the legendary Big Foot, or the Lochness Monster.

Living in a world where changes so rapidly as new doors open into the unknowns of space exploration, will we revert to the anxieties which drive us to the creation of new myths to explain the hidden mysteries? Or can we leave the inexplicable unresolved until we find the true answers which sometimes prevail?

Dr. Sickinger captured the audience with many entertaining tales. The informal atmosphere at the Last Resort combined with a short but informative discussion, and free refreshments, provided a relaxing evening. Future lecture topics are also eye-catchers because they are not strictly academic, but of an interesting nature. It is well worth the effort to take the time out to attend one of these lectures which are very well presented.

Creative Corner

Please send stories or poems to Frai Box 2981

By S.J.J. Veggie McGuire

"boys will be boys" is a popular expression which has been used to magically explain away mischievous evil doings by males, as if there were something inherent in the masculine soul that directed it toward such conduct. Often, those members of the group "boys" include both the baby and the senior citizen, making it difficult to conclude that the age of the male in question is of importance at all. I am pretty well aware of the types of behavior the "coutous" in stereotypically expected to exhibit. Clearly, there is permitted a certain vulgarity of language that suggests a strated superior capacity to consume alcoholic beverages, a "playful" violence (violation is ever really just playful), and a large number of other redeeming qualities. Ultimately, is without a doubt a marked prowess with women.

Thoughts While Not Shaving

By S.J.J. Veggie McGuire

Boys will be boys is a popular expression which has been used to magically explain away mischievous evil doings by males, as if there were something inherent in the masculine soul that directed it toward such conduct. Often, those members of the group "boys" include both the baby and the senior citizen, making it difficult to conclude that the age of the male in question is of importance at all. I am pretty well aware of the types of behavior the "coutous" in stereotypically expected to exhibit. Clearly, there is permitted a certain vulgarity of language that suggests a strated superior capacity to consume alcoholic beverages, a "playful" violence (violation is ever really just playful), and a large number of other redeeming qualities. Ultimately, is without a doubt a marked prowess with women.

Does Your Personality Match?

By Maureen M. Malley

A new feature called Friar Forecast has been added to The Cold which predicts the week ahead. It depends on whether you, whether you see it seriously or not.

The predictions will be taken from a variety of astrological sources and then a profile of a well-known horoscological zodiac.

This week, a "partial personality trait" is featured. See if one or more of the characters are your friends won't tell you.

Taurus

March 22 through April 20
Positive qualities—strength, power, persistence, emotional stability, integrity, and communicative ability. In negative form, they become obstinate, blind prejudiced, and lacking reason.

April 20 through May 21
Positive qualities—strength of purpose, patience, steadfastness, and conviction. In their negative form, they become obstinate, blind prejudiced, and lacking reason.

Gemini

May 21 through June 20
Positive qualities—acuteness of perception, deductive reasoning, and flexibility. Expressed in their negative form, there becomes suspicious, and self-hating.

Sagittarius

November 22 through December 21
Positive qualities are optimism, courage, cheerfulness, logic, honesty, daringness, and enthusiasm. Negatively, they become reckless, emotionally confused, careless, lacking in tact, and fickle.

Capricorn

December 21 through January 19
Positive qualities are determination, stability, wisdom, and good judgment. Negatively, they are selfish, narrow in thought, ruthless, rigid, snobbish, depressive, and lonely.

Aquarius

January 20 through February 19
Positive qualities are vision, individuality, tolerance, freedom, inventiveness, originality, and genius. Expressed negatively, they become eccentric, neuraltic, detached, self-centered, and uncooperative.

Pisces

February 19 through March 20
Positive qualities are sensitivity, compassion, sensitivity, spiritual awareness, psychic communication, philosophical insight, and a healing potential. Negatively, they become睥ised, apprehensive, masochistic, idolizing, and weak of will.

MINERVA PIZZA HOUSE
1406 Douglas Ave., North Providence, R.I.

Delicious pizzas and hot oven grinders.
"CALL YOUR ORDER BEFORE YOU LEAVE HOME THEY WILL BE READY ON ARRIVAL."

10% DISCOUNT WITH PC ID

353-5155
353-5155

Frey Florist & Greenhouse
The Friars’ Favorite Florist

"We deliver!"
50 Radcliffe Ave Providence, R. I.

Frey Florist & Greenhouse
Soap Opera Syndrome
Daily PC Addiction

By Michele Griffin

Have you noticed how quiet this campus becomes in the middle of the day? Don't get the impression that everyone is studying, because that idea is in left field. It's called the "Soap Opera Phenomenon." The way this campus has been designed, it should be called the Soap Opera Syn¬ odrome. A Soap Opera Anonymous chapter would be a good start in breaking the habit. Imagine sitting in on a meeting.

"My addiction started when Laura was in Canada and Heather was barely a character in the Anonymous chapter would be a good start in breaking the habit. Imagine sitting in on a meeting.

"My addiction started when Laura was in Canada and Heather was barely a character. I watched General Hospital (a.k.a. G.H. or GH) when I was about 13 years old, so that gives me a plus 5 rating on the ad¬diction scale. When I was in ninth grade, watching my favorite soap opera was a way to escape the everyday pressures. I got sick of soaps, too. There is just so much I will tolerate as far as the story line, and the rate they move along permits a once a week viewing. I've reformed.

This campus is definitely addicted. When it gets to the point where you're planning activities around your favorite soap, you, too, have Soap Opera Syndrome. Good Luck fellow addicts!!! I think we're all hooked! Doesn't it make your heart sing to hear your favorite characters talking?"

Discover the Coffeehouse
Entertainment Plus...

By Michele Griffin

One may be surprised to find that a gathering place on cam¬pus which does not serve alcoholic beverages, is drawing amazing crowds. Where is it, you ask? Why, the BOC Coffeehouse at the Last Resort, of course! Nancy Cavallero, a manager of the Coffeehouse, said that it has been marred by cruelty, violence, and immorality. The true story of Don Juan we

- SHAVING. Continued from Page 10
military commander at Seville) whose daughter Juan had seduced. Afterward, the "healed" the saint. The story had when his statue accepts Don Juan's mocking invitation to dinner and before desert and coffee, Juan is dragged off to Hell. Each artist has presented us with his own interpretation of the morality or immortality of the main character, and it is this that is the greatest interest to the PC student whose roommate has dreams of men. In the Mozart and Moliere versions, Don Juan is called by both a "Libertine," but the opera viewer or play reader must judge whether or not Juan holds his beliefs of conviction or of laziness. I vividly recall the words he said to his sidekick, Sgaranelle, (the Sancho Panza, if you will, of the Don Juan legend) in Moliere's play. Translating from the French, "I believe, Sgaranelle, that two and two are four and four are eight." Period. It appeared that the book was undeniably one of a pursuit of individual pleasure, no matter what that pleasure might be.

Don Juan de Terraon, a name which might just represent the real, historical figure from whose life the legend arose, was not able to charm everyone. The story has that he had a cruel, immoral conduct which reached such a limit that he was abducted by local Franciscan monks who took his life to prevent his crimes from con¬tinuing. It is believed that they later officially blamed a falling statue, from which the legend of the come-to-life statue which leads Juan to Hell may have arisen.

The true story of Don Juan we may never know, but I take it upon myself to issue a warning to those "Don Juans" of Providence College: A Dominican at times can be as fierce as two Franci can monks, and there are many statues around campus. I think again of that certain friend and colleague I guess from now on we should call him "Cassanova."

Creative Corner
Sea Mist

From the sea I come, Granting you fair wishes. All the tides chorus my meaning, A mist, salt-drenched air encompassed My soul. Here I stand on the threshold of the ocean. Awaiting my innerself to surf upon the waves.

Diane Cinquegrana
The Stones wanted a “localized” concert in “a city like this, a smaller town,” said the mayor, and they did not want security and safety problems that notion of their appearance would create.

“The rest of the press was extremely fair,” said Clanci in a press conference about 12:30 on the lawn of his house. “The one thing I felt I was being used,” he said. “I felt I was being used.”

The Rolling Stones concert at the state’s largest arena, the Providence Civic Center never came off and by 12 Saturday morning, Mayor C. A. Clanci Jr. and promoter Frank J. Russo were lambasting Channel 6 for not going along with other Rhode Island news outlets that had agreed to withhold news of the concert.

The city and the promoter had agreed that the news embargo Friday evening under the Stones threat of no concert, no concert. The Stones wanted a “localized” concert in “a city like this, a smaller town,” said the mayor, and they did not want security and safety problems that notion of their appearance would create.

The Rolling Stones coming to Providence is big news and news outlet broke the embargo. Russo to withhold the story so it will be about a concert that never happened. Russo said the Stones chose the Ocean State as a concert site because “of our one of the top locations in the country,” Russo said. In attacking Channel 6 at his press conference, Clanci said that the station said that Hart decided not to use the story after getting a phone call from Russo at 5 p.m. warning that disclosure would kill the concert.

The Rolling Stones coming to Providence is big news and news outlet broke the embargo. Russo to withhold the story so it will be about a concert that never happened. Russo said the Stones chose the Ocean State as a concert site because “of our one of the top locations in the country,” Russo said. In attacking Channel 6 at his press conference, Clanci said that the station said that Hart decided not to use the story after getting a phone call from Russo at 5 p.m. warning that disclosure would kill the concert.

The Rolling Stones concert at the state’s largest arena, the Providence Civic Center never came off and by 12 Saturday morning, Mayor C. A. Clanci Jr. and promoter Frank J. Russo were lambasting Channel 6 for not going along with other Rhode Island news outlets that had agreed to withhold news of the concert.

The city and the promoter had agreed that the news embargo Friday evening under the Stones threat of no concert, no concert. The Stones wanted a “localized” concert in “a city like this, a smaller town,” said the mayor, and they did not want security and safety problems that notion of their appearance would create.

The Rolling Stones concert at the state’s largest arena, the Providence Civic Center never came off and by 12 Saturday morning, Mayor C. A. Clanci Jr. and promoter Frank J. Russo were lambasting Channel 6 for not going along with other Rhode Island news outlets that had agreed to withhold news of the concert.

The city and the promoter had agreed that the news embargo Friday evening under the Stones threat of no concert, no concert. The Stones wanted a “localized” concert in “a city like this, a smaller town,” said the mayor, and they did not want security and safety problems that notion of their appearance would create.

The Rolling Stones concert at the state’s largest arena, the Providence Civic Center never came off and by 12 Saturday morning, Mayor C. A. Clanci Jr. and promoter Frank J. Russo were lambasting Channel 6 for not going along with other Rhode Island news outlets that had agreed to withhold news of the concert.

The city and the promoter had agreed that the news embargo Friday evening under the Stones threat of no concert, no concert. The Stones wanted a “localized” concert in “a city like this, a smaller town,” said the mayor, and they did not want security and safety problems that notion of their appearance would create.
WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 23
THERE WILL BE A
LAST RESORT RENOVATIONS
COMMITTEE’S
ORGANIZATIONAL MEETING AT THE
LAST RESORT
AT 6:30

THURSDAY, SEPT. 24
THE B.O.G. SOCIAL COMMITTEES IS HAVING AN ORGANIZATIONAL MEETING IN THE
B.O.G. OFFICE (RM. 101)
AT 4:00

THURSDAY,
OCTOBER 1
THE CONCERTS
COMMITTEE
presents

"BEAVER BROWN"
IN ’64 HALL
SHOWS AT 7:30 AND 10:00
PRICE IS $4.00
TICKETS ARE ON SALE
MONDAY, SEPT. 28
IN BOG OFFICE (ROOM 101)

SATURDAY, SEPT. 26
LAST RESORT SOCIAL featuring
“SAND DOLLAR”
from 9:00-1:00
TICKETS ARE
AND ARE ON SALE
THURSDAY AT 12:00 IN BOG OFFICE.
VALID PC I.D.
REQUIRED.
(LIMIT TWO PERSONS) ONLY
THOSE OVER TWENTY ALLOWED!
SHOWS ARE AT
8:00 AND 10:00
TICKETS ARE
$1.00 AND
ARE SOLD
AT THE DOOR
FROM 8:30
-11:30
FREE ADMISSION

SUNDAY, SEPT. 27
THE FILM COMMITTEE
presents

‘THE STUNTMAN’
TUESDAY,
SEPT. 29
THE LAST RESORT
presents

A COFFEEHOUSE
WITH “PHIL FRAGLE”
FROM 8:30
-11:30
FREE ADMISSION

MONDAY,
SEPT. 28
FACULTY
LECTURE SERIES
presents
Mrs. Lynch and
A Panel Discussion
at the
LAST RESORT
AT 7:00
FREE COFFEE AND DONUTS!

ALL
WELCOME

ALL
WELCOME
The Providence College girls' field hockey team opened their season last Thursday on an encouraging note, shutting out the University of Bridgeport by a score of 3-0.

The Lady Friars started the scoring early when Junior Monica Glyn scored on a penalty shot just 1:43 minutes into the first period. Providence continued to apply steady pressure on their opponents, keeping the ball in the Bridgeport end for most of the game. Such hard offensive pressure produced the second goal for the Friars 27:37 minutes into the first half. Freshman Donna Salvoni from Natick, MA., put the ball past the Bridgeport goalie while classmate Liz Noble collected the assist. At the halfway mark, the Lady Friars held a two goal edge.

However, the second half was not as one sided, but the Providence defense remained flawless. With 10 minutes remaining in the game, sophomore Jackie Glader scored the third and final goal for PC. Senior tri-captain Paula Monahan collected the assist. Time soon ran out for Bridgeport, as Providence went on to earn their first victory of the season.

Coach Katie Denning was most impressed with her team's play as "everyone played well as an attack unit." This was a constructive first game for Providence, as they face a much tougher schedule than last year. This fall, they will be playing UNH, the University of Connecticut, and the University of Massachusetts, all of which are among the top teams in the country.

Tennis Squad Records Victory Against RIC

By Susie Lessing

The women's tennis team started off on the right foot when they defeated Rhode Island College on September 17 by a score of 6-1. This year's team promises to live up to the excellent record of last year (19-5) even though they lost five seniors from the squad. According to Coach Gail Sullivan, "We have a very strong singles line-up and our first doubles team of Diane Delaunier and Anne Marie Mancini was undefeated last year."
PC eight wins, one loss; Springfield—four wins, four losses; Hinds—three wins, five losses; URI—three wins, five losses; and UConn—two wins, six losses. All three were in the last game filled with great excitement, the final game was by far the most thrilling.

It was between Providence and Springfield taking the first game, 15-12. But Providence after a close back took the next game, 15-8. With games tied, the pressure was on at the start of the third game, Springfield took it. And the Lady Patriots held their own, applying stiff pressure all the way. Even after playing the last game of the season, after disagreement in calls, the Lady Patriots came up on top, winning the tournament with a 14-16 victory.

All who missed this competition, it was a definite loss, but for the Lady Patriots, whose long hours and hard work obviously paid off in triumph — we congratulate you.

Junior Liz Calvini showing winning in recent PC Volleyball tournament.
Bentley runner succumbs to Friar defense.

Gridders Bow to Bently 9-6

By Richard Testa

In a game that featured a quick kick, a few fake punts and a few bombs, not to mention rain and a wind chilled 40 degree temperature, the PC Fighting Friar Club Football team lost 9-6 to Bentley College in a rematch of last year's New England Championship game. If you remember, the Friars won that contest, 9-7, at Boston College, so it's safe to assume that these Friar-Falcon battles are of the defensive type. In fact last Saturday afternoon Providence was shut out in the second half and Bentley got inside the Friar 20-yard line only twice in that half. But the Falcons cashed in on their opportunities and took advantage.

Bentley took the opening kickoff and started their first series of downs on their own 31 yard line. Three running plays later they were on the Friar 35. But PC touched their line and received the ball when the Falcons failed to convert on a kick, a few fake punts and a few bombs. This turned out to be the remainder of the first half started, Joe Piro proved they had the momentum going into the half-time huddle and when the second half started, Joe Piro proved they didn't lose it. The sophomore forward continued the scoring streak with back to back goals in the final 10 minutes of play.

The 10 minute overtime period proved to be one in which the Friar offense would dominate and the defense would be close to perfect. Alaine Carroll, a junior from Natirar, Mass., initiated the Providence scoring at the six minute mark giving the Friars all they needed to win. Teammates Ralph D’Andrea and Eric Lamendola had thrown for 87 yards and a TD in the first half and there were no scoreboard and four different “official” opinions. PC’s 5’9” quarterback threw his fourth straight pass right into the arms of tight end Padula and the Visitor went scoreless for the first 12 minutes. Morris held Fairfield to one goal apiece. Providence had the momentum going into the half-time huddle and when the second half started, Joe Piro proved they didn't lose it. The sophomore forward continued the scoring streak with back to back goals in the final 10 minutes of play.

The 10 minute overtime period proved to be one in which the Friar offense would dominate and the defense would be close to perfect. Alaine Carroll, a junior from Natirar, Mass., initiated the Providence scoring at the first overtime period to come away with a 4-1 victory over Barrington last Wednesday. The Black and White were frustrated after 90 minutes of tough soccer in which they were dominated and could produce just one goal. Junior Tim Farrell broke the scoring drought at the 25 minute mark of the first half, putting the Friars on the scoreboard. PC had the edge for a mere five minutes until Barrington retaliated with the last goal of regulation time. The 10 minute overtime period proved to be one in which the Friar offense would dominate and the defense would be close to perfect. Alaine Carroll, a junior from Natirar, Mass., initiated the Providence scoring at the six minute mark giving the Friars all they needed to win. Teammates Ralph D’Andrea and Eric Lamendola had thrown for 87 yards and a TD in the first half and there were no scoreboard and four different “official” opinions. PC’s 5’9” quarterback threw his fourth straight pass right into the arms of tight end Padula and the Visitor went scoreless for the first 12 minutes. Morris held Fairfield to one goal apiece. Providence had the momentum going into the half-time huddle and when the second half started, Joe Piro proved they didn't lose it. The sophomore forward continued the scoring streak with back to back goals in the final 10 minutes of play.

As the fall sports scene gets underway, the Providence College community awaits in anxious anticipation for the scheduling of sporting events by the Intramural Athletic Board. Intramural sports, at any college, are an important ingredient to students as well as faculty. Here at PC, we are fortunate enough to have a brand new recreation complex, equipped with an indoor track, swimming pool, racquetball courts and a basketball court which may be converted for tennis and volleyball usage.

As freshmen, we were advised to be “well-rounded” students. The fieldhouse is an important to all of us as dorm regulation is to Col. Delcorso. So, when Western Civ has you down in the dumps or you’re just plain tired of the party life, drop on over to the Recreation Center for a dip in the pool or just a game of hoop with your buddies.

Sweep Barrington, Fairfield

Bootsers Bounce Two Victories

By Toby Shea

Coach Bill Doyle’s varsity soccer team let loose with three goals in the first overtime period to come away with a 4-1 victory over Barrington last Wednesday. The Black and White were frustrated after 90 minutes of tough soccer in which they were dominated and could produce just one goal. Junior Tim Farrell broke the scoring drought at the 25 minute mark of the first half, putting the Friars on the scoreboard. PC had the edge for a mere five minutes until Barrington retaliated with the last goal of regulation time. The 10 minute overtime period proved to be one in which the Friar offense would dominate and the defense would be close to perfect. Alaine Carroll, a junior from Natirar, Mass., initiated the Providence scoring at the six minute mark giving the Friars all they needed to win. Teammates Ralph D’Andrea and Eric Lamendola had thrown for 87 yards and a TD in the first half and there were no scoreboard and four different “official” opinions. PC’s 5’9” quarterback threw his fourth straight pass right into the arms of tight end Padula and the Visitor went scoreless for the first 12 minutes. Morris held Fairfield to one goal apiece. Providence had the momentum going into the half-time huddle and when the second half started, Joe Piro proved they didn't lose it. The sophomore forward continued the scoring streak with back to back goals in the final 10 minutes of play.

In the game against Fairfield on Saturday, Providence started slow but took advantage of their opportunities and ended up with a winner by the score of 4-2. On a rain soaked field that was hazardous and barely playable, the two very well matched teams went scoreless for the first 12 minutes. Mark Longwell (who ended up scoring both Providence goals in a losing effort) put the visitors in the lead, 1-0. This wasn’t to last very long, however, as the next four goals were tallied by the Friars.

Near the end of the second half, opportunity knocked for PC as Tim Farrell and freshman Dave Fremiere answered with one goal apiece. Providence had the momentum going into the half-time huddle and when the second half started, Joe Piro proved they didn't lose it. The sophomore forward continued the scoring streak with back to back goals in the final 10 minutes of play.

In the game against Fairfield on Saturday, Providence started slow but took advantage of their opportunities and ended up with a winner by the score of 4-2. On a rain soaked field that was hazardous and barely playable, the two very well matched teams went scoreless for the first 12 minutes. Mark Longwell (who ended up scoring both Providence goals in a losing effort) put the visitors in the lead, 1-0. This wasn’t to last very long, however, as the next four goals were tallied by the Friars.

Near the end of the second half, opportunity knocked for PC as Tim Farrell and freshman Dave Fremiere answered with one goal apiece. Providence had the momentum going into the half-time huddle and when the second half started, Joe Piro proved they didn't lose it. The sophomore forward continued the scoring streak with back to back goals in the final 10 minutes of play.