TV Soaps Hot on Campus

General Hospital, Luke and Laura (played by Finola Hughes and Kylie Williams) in this week's episode. See story, Page 9.
Wed., Nov. 18
Chess Club Meeting—4 p.m., McDermott 14
Chess Club Tournament—4 p.m., Slavin Pit.
Business Club Meeting—7 p.m., Slavin 217.
Student Congress CPR Course—7 p.m., Slavin 113.

Student Congress Faculty—7 p.m., Slavin 102.
"Charismatic Renewal" by Aurelie Hagstrom—7:30 p.m., Aquinas Lounge.
Prayer Meeting—9:30 p.m., Guzman Chapel.

Thurs., Nov. 19
Economics Dept.—Faculty/Student Meeting—4 p.m., Slavin 203.
K of C Meeting—7 p.m., Slavin 113.
Student Congress Academic Research Meeting—Guest Speaker, Mr. Seigle—7 p.m., Slavin, '64 Hall.

Fri., Nov. 20
K of C Sale of Hospital Gowns—9 a.m.-4 p.m., Slavin lower level.
Student Congress CPR Course—7 p.m., Slavin 102.
"Charismatic Renewal" by Aurelie Hagstrom—7:30 p.m., Aquinas Lounge.
Prayer Meeting—9:30 p.m., Guzman Chapel.

DOMINICAN APOSTOLIC VOLUNTEER PROGRAM
Are you interested in a year of service in continental U.S.A.? Come to an informative meeting to learn more about the AVP.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 18 — 7:30 PM
AQUINAS CHAPEL
Arrange for an interview with AVP director, Sister Barbara Ott, O.P., by calling 2127 or 2216.

Points of Interest

Exams Approaching:
Bids for Library Seats on Sale
1st Day of Reading Period!

MATH HELP SESSIONS
Stephens 2
2 + 2 = 4
Monday-Friday
2-4 p.m.
Prepare for finals early!

CROSSWORD PUZZLER

THEATRE UPDATE
The Pawtucket Community Players will hold auditions for the comedy Heaven Can Wait at Pawtucket Congregational Church, Walcott Street, Pawtucket, on Monday, November 9, 1981 and Tuesday, November 10, 1981 at 7:30 p.m. Actors, actresses and technical workers needed.

Pawtucket Community Players present the musical You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown at Pawtucket Congregational Church, Walcott Street, Pawtucket, November 6, 7, 8, 13, 14, 15 and November 20 & 21. Curtain time: 8:15 Fri. & Sat., 7:30 Sun. Reservations 728-2690.

WHAT'S WHERE?

WHAT'S WHERE?
nominations and campaign debate. The major points of the secretary of the Class of '83, and its creators Judy McNamara, organization elections.

... was passed to change the time held on Sunday, November 8, a major congressional resolution which will be held on Tuesday, March 23, 1982. Nominations and campaign period will be the week prior to those elections, starting on Monday, March 15, 1982, and running through Monday, March 22, 1982.

2) Elections for the Board of Governors will follow the Congress elections with nominations and campaign period to be conducted from Wednesday, March 24, 1982, through Monday, March 30, 1982. Elections will be held on Wednesday, March 31, 1982.

The remainder of the resolution concerns various other elections for campus organizations and representatives. Preparation members will be elected on Friday, April 22, 1982. Their nominations and campaign period will run the week prior to that date, immediately following the Easter recess.

3) Elections for the Athletic Board, O.C.R.O. Resident Board and Dorm Council will be held in September of the current school year.

4) The freshman class elections (the future Class of 1986) will be held in October.

5) Dillon Club elections will be held in November.

Most importantly, the final point of the resolution read: "This calendar will serve as a model, with respect to time and order, for future Congressional terms for the Student Congress of Providence College." In other words, the present Student Congress has passed this resolution with the hope that the change in Congressional terms will become permanent with future Congresses. The dates for the elections will naturally change in correspondence with school calendars.

According to Giovino and McNamara, who presented the resolution after a great deal of preparation, there are many advantages to the new congressional terms which have resulted in the passage of the bill. Among these advantages listed, perhaps the most important is that the "April to April term will provide a more workable and unified term on correspondence with college calendars and other organizations (i.e. B.O.G.). Equally important is the fact that the senior class will remain an active and represented part of Congress. Prior to this schedule, the senior class had only one representative position on the Congress for their final semester here.

In addition, the change in Congressional terms for class officers particularly effects the freshman class. Supporters of the resolution felt that freshman class officers did not have time to prove themselves in Congress during the short months between October and February elections. According to McNamara, the freshmen officers "should have the chance to prove they're leaders," which they will according to the new election schedule.

The new election schedule also posed a solution to the Congress budget allocations which will now coincide with office terms. Finally, the resolution provides for class officers during their sophomore and junior years with the option of planning and organizing their Junior Ring Weekend and Commencement Week themselves rather than establishing a Core Committee to do so.

Perhaps you've considered running for class office but couldn't figure out why elections were held in the middle of February, the middle of second semester. Well, if the term of office from February to February has held you from running in the past, it should not inhibit you any longer. Because at the Student Congress meeting held on Sunday, November 8, a major congressional resolution was passed to change the time and schedule for all Student Congress and campus organization elections.

The resolution, entitled "The McNamara-Giovino Bill" after its creators Judy McNamara, secretary of the Class of '83, and Rob Giovino, president of the Class of '82, passed by a vote of 38 for, seven against and one abstention after 46 minutes of solid debate. The major points of the resolution which will be held through the year, include the following:

1) Executive Board nominations and campaign period to be held on Tuesday, March 23, 1982. Through Monday, March 8, 1982, and elections will be held on Sunday, November 8, 1982.

2) Elections for officers for the House of Delegates for 1981 and 1982, will be held on Tuesday, March 23, 1982. Nominations and campaign period will be the week prior to those elections, starting on Monday, March 15, 1982, and running through Tuesday, March 30, 1982.

3) Elections for the Board of Governors will follow the Congress elections with nominations and campaign period to be conducted from Wednesday, March 24, 1982, through Monday, March 30, 1982. Elections will be held on Wednesday, March 31, 1982. The significance of this schedule of elections is that the Executive Board class officers and BOG officers will all be elected before the Easter vacation.

4) Elections for the Athletic Board, O.C.R.O. Resident Board and Dorm Council will be held in September of the current school year.

5) The freshman class elections (the future Class of 1986) will be held in October.

6) Dillon Club elections will be held in November.

Most importantly, the final point of the resolution read: "This calendar will serve as a model, with respect to time and order, for future Congressional terms for the Student Congress of Providence College." In other words, the present Student Congress has passed this resolution with the hope that the change in Congressional terms will become permanent with future Congresses. The dates for the elections will naturally change in correspondence with school calendars.

According to Giovino and McNamara, who presented the resolution after a great deal of preparation, there are many advantages to the new congressional terms which have resulted in the passage of the bill. Among these advantages listed, perhaps the most important is that the "April to April term will provide a more workable and unified term on correspondence with college calendars and other organizations (i.e. B.O.G.). Equally important is the fact that the senior class will remain an active and represented part of Congress. Prior to this schedule, the senior class had only one representative position on the Congress for their final semester here.

In addition, the change in Congressional terms for class officers particularly effects the freshman class. Supporters of the resolution felt that freshman class officers did not have time to prove themselves in Congress during the short months between October and February elections. According to McNamara, the freshmen officers "should have the chance to prove they're leaders," which they will according to the new election schedule.

The new election schedule also posed a solution to the Congress budget allocations which will now coincide with office terms. Finally, the resolution provides for class officers during their sophomore and junior years with the option of planning and organizing their Junior Ring Weekend and Commencement Week themselves rather than establishing a Core Committee to do so.
Alumni Director Appointed Theodore J. DeNicola

Theodore J. DeNicola of West Warwick has been appointed an assistant director of Alumni Development at Providence College, where he will be responsible for assisting in the overall management of PC Alumni Development and public relations programs relating to the College’s Loyalty Fund campaign. In particular, he will direct PC’s Loyalty Fund activities in the states of Rhode Island, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and Massachusetts.

Prior to joining the PC staff, DeNicola served as a statistician for three years for the Job Development and Training Division of the Rhode Island Department of Economic Development. He was named resource specialist for the Division in 1979 and was responsible for reviewing program management to insure compliance with federal regulations for the CETA funded Job Search Program. A 1974 alumnus of the College, DeNicola is married to the former Virginia Votta, who is employed as assistant head nurse for the intensive care unit at Miriam Hospital.

OBITUARY
Joseph F. Long, ’84

Joseph F. Long, Jr., a member of the sophomore class here at Providence College, died suddenly early this past Saturday morning, November 11, 1981. Joseph was born on November 3, 1962 to Joseph F. and the late Ilene M. (Hanafin) Long of 26 Woodruff Road, West Warwick, R.I. A psychology major here at PC, Joseph belonged to the Order of the Shielghelp Club on campus, and was a resident of Joseph Hall for the past year and a half. Funeral services were held for him yesterday at his hometown.

TANG HUIHUN

Our Grapefruit Mist is the better bitter. It’s easy to get mixed up with ‘cause the liquor’s already in it.

Faculty-Senate Reviews Issues: Course Legislation Passes

By Karen MacGillivray
Faculty-Senate Staff Correspondent

The Providence College Faculty Senate met for the third time this year on Wednesday, November 4, in Aquinas Lounge. After the minutes of the September 23 meeting were read and approved, Mrs. Marilyn Walsaka was introduced as the new recorder of the minutes.

The first announcement of the meeting was that a special committee has been formed to evaluate the DWC program. The committee is to consist of the Director of the DWC program, Dr. Rene Fortin, two teachers who are presently teaching on civil rights, and two teachers who have not taught civil rights. The teachers chosen for these positions include Dr. John Primiano and Dr. Paul Travers, both present team teachers, and Dr. Richard Lambie and Ms. Ann O’Connell. Their evaluations and observations of the DWC program will be given to the Faculty Senate itself.

The new chairman of the Faculty Senate committee were introduced during the committee report. Dr. David Tattersall is the chairman of the committee on Academic Affairs. Mr. Gustave Cote is chairman of the College Council. Ms. Virginia Votta is the Bellhouse Ball chairman of the Alumni Association of the College. The president of the Executive Committee is Dr. Raymond Sickinger.

The new chairmen of the various senate committees were introduced during the committee report. The chairman of the Committee of Academic Affairs was Dr. Donald Leavy. The chairman of the Faculty Development committee was Dr. Carol Crafts. The chairman of the Faculty Senate was Dr. Rene Fortin, O.P., and he conducted a flag-raising ceremony at 9:00 a.m. in front of Harkins Hall.

Faculty-Senate Meetings

The new chairmen of the Faculty Senate committee were chosen for these positions in reading and study skills courses (Courses 101 and 102.) The Academic Affairs Committee reported that renovations should be completed in Harkins Room 306 by next semester. The room will be a new faculty lounge.

Two pieces of legislation were debated and passed on to the Senate floor. The first piece of legislation concerned college course reading and study skills courses (Courses 101 and 102.) The Committee on Studies had approved these courses for freshmen and sophomore students, and also approved three credits for each one. The 101 course was proposed to provide foundations in study for needy students, and the 102 course was proposed to provide specific instruction in study. Dr. Stephen O'Brien proposed an amendment to the bill which was defeated. Two pieces of legislation were debated and passed on to the Senate floor. The second piece of legislation was proposed by Dr. Stephen O'Brien, O.P., who introduced the following amendment: ‘That courses 101 and 102 be offered to freshmen and sophomores in a co-credit basis, and to provide credit in three ethics and three credit courses for more than three credits, rather than for no credit. The amendment did not pass.’

The new chairmen of the Faculty Senate committee were chosen for these positions in reading and study skills courses (Courses 101 and 102.) The Academic Affairs Committee reported that renovations should be completed in Harkins Room 306 by next semester. The room will be a new faculty lounge.

Two pieces of legislation were debated and passed on to the Senate floor. The first piece of legislation concerned college course reading and study skills courses (Courses 101 and 102.) The Committee on Studies had approved these courses for freshmen and sophomore students, and also approved three credits for each one. The 101 course was proposed to provide foundations in study for needy students, and the 102 course was proposed to provide specific instruction in study. Dr. Stephen O'Brien proposed an amendment to the bill which was defeated. Two pieces of legislation were debated and passed on to the Senate floor. The second piece of legislation was proposed by Dr. Stephen O'Brien, O.P., who introduced the following amendment: ‘That courses 101 and 102 be offered to freshmen and sophomores in a co-credit basis, and to provide credit in three ethics and three credit courses for more than three credits, rather than for no credit. The amendment did not pass.’

The original proposition stating that courses 101 and 102 should be offered to freshmen and sophomores in a co-credit basis, was then voted on. It passed, with 22 members approving, three opposing and one abstaining. This legislation will involve incoming freshmen starting September first.

The second piece of legislation disagreed upon by the Senate in a 102-102 vote was a bill requiring all students to take three credits in ethics and three credits in philosophy. Last year, the Senate approved regulation which required students to take three credits in ethics and three credits in philosophy. This legislation will involve incoming freshmen starting September first.

The second piece of legislation disagreed upon by the Senate in a 102-102 vote was a bill requiring all students to take three credits in ethics and three credits in philosophy. Last year, the Senate approved regulation which required students to take three credits in ethics and three credits in philosophy. This legislation will involve incoming freshmen starting September first.

The second piece of legislation disagreed upon by the Senate in a 102-102 vote was a bill requiring all students to take three credits in ethics and three credits in philosophy. Last year, the Senate approved regulation which required students to take three credits in ethics and three credits in philosophy. This legislation will involve incoming freshmen starting September first.
Students Fight for Rights in DC: Focus on Education Issues

By Christopher Potter

Chip Berlet

The U.S. Student Association (USSA), the Washington, D.C.-based coalition of student body presidents that lobbies for student rights, is focusing its efforts on the 1981 legislative session in Washington. The group is trying to overcome some of the problems with Congress and keep alive the dream of a college system that is affordable for all students.

While the USSA began working closely with the American Student Association (ASA) several years ago, it has not been able to pull the groups away from social and political issues which are often in conflict. Consequently, the USSA has been unhappy over the group's treatment of foreign policy, rights of women's rights, and other non-education issues have broken with the organization.

According to the USSA's memorandum, "The role of the USA is to be our lobbyist on the Hill in Washington. They disseminate information, and give us support." Conversely, the group may reject proposals "as too unrealistic in terms of political breadth of its platform," Berlet added.

In the past, the USSA has been unrealistic in terms of political breadth. We're not strong enough alone to win issues.

The new emphasis is a mixed success. There are 40 SSAs according to the committee, and many of them "light years apart as far as development goes," observes Bob Bingaman, president of Associated Students of Kansas State (ASK). "Some of them exist only on paper." Some of the larger, more organized SSAs are strong USSA supporters, while others have considered severing ties with the national organization.

"There's definitely a trend toward more organized activity, toward making things more accessible to local students," said Penn State's Joyce Cheepum. "The role of USA is like our lobbyist on the Hill in Washington. They disseminate information, and give us support." Conversely, "If we're not going to focus, we're not going to get anything," said Bingaman.

Next semester the committee plans to sponsor between 12 and 15 movies, including five or six top films released in '81. The films will be presented on campus, and the charge is only $1 with a student ID.

The film committee is always looking for volunteers from the student body. "We get a lot of responses," said Bingaman. "It's simply a misperception. Ninety-nine percent of the films are on education issues, lobbying in Washington and elsewhere. America's higher education system is going through its worst time in history, with the Reagan cutbacks. We simply do not have time to work on anything else.

But she obviously takes charges of inefficiency seriously. After spending "a few weeks" on the fun side, last Friday night a comedy film festival was held in 1981 Hall. Every Friday night a comedy film festival is held in 1981 Hall.

In the past, the USSA has been unrealistic in terms of political breadth. We're not strong enough alone to win issues.

The new emphasis is a mixed success. There are 40 SSAs in the country, and many of them "light years apart as far as development goes," observes Bob Bingaman, president of Associated Students of Kansas State (ASK). "Some of them exist only on paper." Some of the larger, more organized SSAs are strong USSA supporters, while others have considered severing ties with the national organization.

"There's definitely a trend toward more organized activity, toward making things more accessible to local students," said Penn State's Joyce Cheepum. "The role of USA is like our lobbyist on the Hill in Washington. They disseminate information, and give us support." Conversely, "If we're not going to focus, we're not going to get anything," said Bingaman.

The film committee plans to sponsor between 12 and 15 movies, including five or six top films released in '81. The films will be presented on campus, and the charge is only $1 with a student ID.

The film committee is always looking for volunteers from the student body. "We get a lot of responses," said Bingaman. "It's simply a misperception. Ninety-nine percent of the films are on education issues, lobbying in Washington and elsewhere. America's higher education system is going through its worst time in history, with the Reagan cutbacks. We simply do not have time to work on anything else.

But she obviously takes charges of inefficiency seriously. After spending "a few weeks" on the fun side, last Friday night a comedy film festival was held in 1981 Hall. Every Friday night a comedy film festival is held in 1981 Hall.
Rugby Slaves Around Campus—What next for a fundraiser?!!!
McNamara-Giovino Bill: An Asset for Students

The Student Congress recently voted in favor of changing the period of its own congressional term. A bill, presented to the Congress by Judy McNamara, secretary of the Class of '83, and Rob Giovino, president of the Class of '82, proposes that Congress members should serve from April to April of an academic year, rather than from February to February, as is now the case.

The resolution is basically that Congress members would have an extra month to do their work in the office prior to the end of the spring semester, and an extra month after the beginning of the fall semester. With the proposed changes in effect, senior Congress members would have an extra month before the end of the spring semester and another month before the end of the fall semester, and thus would be able to plan the senior class commencement activities, should they desire to do so.

Overall, the term changes would mean a more unified calendar. The Board of Government officers, is overseen by the Student Congress, have their terms from April to April, so it is only logical that the two organizations should be somewhat synchronized.

Surprisingly, the Congress budget is determined on April 1, which means that Congress members have no members of the senior class have a seat on Congress for the very last period of the term, and this also leaves much of the Class of '83, and the members with no chairpersons to oversee them.

Secondly, McNamara feels that the selection of a committee to plan the senior class commencement activities, should be normal for a spring semester, and this also leaves much of the Class of '83, and the members with no chairpersons to oversee them.

The problem can arise when the Congress term expires on the 31st of March, as is now the case. Congress members should serve from April to April, of an academic year, rather than from February to February, as is now the case.

McNamara-Giovino Bill: An Asset for Students

The Student Congress recently voted in favor of changing the period of its own congressional term. A bill, presented to the Congress by Judy McNamara, secretary of the Class of '83, and Rob Giovino, president of the Class of '82, proposes that Congress members should serve from April to April of an academic year, rather than from February to February, as is now the case.

The resolution is basically that Congress members would have an extra month to do their work in the office prior to the end of the spring semester, and an extra month after the beginning of the fall semester. With the proposed changes in effect, senior Congress members would have an extra month before the end of the spring semester and another month before the end of the fall semester, and thus would be able to plan the senior class commencement activities, should they desire to do so.

Overall, the term changes would mean a more unified calendar. The Board of Government officers, is overseen by the Student Congress, have their terms from April to April, so it is only logical that the two organizations should be somewhat synchronized.

Surprisingly, the Congress budget is determined on April 1, which means that Congress members have no members of the senior class have a seat on Congress for the very last period of the term, and this also leaves much of the Class of '83, and the members with no chairpersons to oversee them.

Secondly, McNamara feels that the selection of a committee to plan the senior class commencement activities, should be normal for a spring semester, and this also leaves much of the Class of '83, and the members with no chairpersons to oversee them.

The problem can arise when the Congress term expires on the 31st of March, as is now the case. Congress members should serve from April to April, of an academic year, rather than from February to February, as is now the case.

The resolution is basically that Congress members would have an extra month to do their work in the office prior to the end of the spring semester, and an extra month after the beginning of the fall semester. With the proposed changes in effect, senior Congress members would have an extra month before the end of the spring semester and another month before the end of the fall semester, and thus would be able to plan the senior class commencement activities, should they desire to do so.

Overall, the term changes would mean a more unified calendar. The Board of Government officers, is overseen by the Student Congress, have their terms from April to April, so it is only logical that the two organizations should be somewhat synchronized.

Surprisingly, the Congress budget is determined on April 1, which means that Congress members have no members of the senior class have a seat on Congress for the very last period of the term, and this also leaves much of the Class of '83, and the members with no chairpersons to oversee them.

Secondly, McNamara feels that the selection of a committee to plan the senior class commencement activities, should be normal for a spring semester, and this also leaves much of the Class of '83, and the members with no chairpersons to oversee them.

The problem can arise when the Congress term expires on the 31st of March, as is now the case. Congress members should serve from April to April, of an academic year, rather than from February to February, as is now the case.

The resolution is basically that Congress members would have an extra month to do their work in the office prior to the end of the spring semester, and an extra month after the beginning of the fall semester. With the proposed changes in effect, senior Congress members would have an extra month before the end of the spring semester and another month before the end of the fall semester, and thus would be able to plan the senior class commencement activities, should they desire to do so.

Overall, the term changes would mean a more unified calendar. The Board of Government officers, is overseen by the Student Congress, have their terms from April to April, so it is only logical that the two organizations should be somewhat synchronized.

Surprisingly, the Congress budget is determined on April 1, which means that Congress members have no members of the senior class have a seat on Congress for the very last period of the term, and this also leaves much of the Class of '83, and the members with no chairpersons to oversee them.

Secondly, McNamara feels that the selection of a committee to plan the senior class commencement activities, should be normal for a spring semester, and this also leaves much of the Class of '83, and the members with no chairpersons to oversee them.

The problem can arise when the Congress term expires on the 31st of March, as is now the case. Congress members should serve from April to April, of an academic year, rather than from February to February, as is now the case.

The resolution is basically that Congress members would have an extra month to do their work in the office prior to the end of the spring semester, and an extra month after the beginning of the fall semester. With the proposed changes in effect, senior Congress members would have an extra month before the end of the spring semester and another month before the end of the fall semester, and thus would be able to plan the senior class commencement activities, should they desire to do so.

Overall, the term changes would mean a more unified calendar. The Board of Government officers, is overseen by the Student Congress, have their terms from April to April, so it is only logical that the two organizations should be somewhat synchronized.

Surprisingly, the Congress budget is determined on April 1, which means that Congress members have no members of the senior class have a seat on Congress for the very last period of the term, and this also leaves much of the Class of '83, and the members with no chairpersons to oversee them.

Secondly, McNamara feels that the selection of a committee to plan the senior class commencement activities, should be normal for a spring semester, and this also leaves much of the Class of '83, and the members with no chairpersons to oversee them.

The problem can arise when the Congress term expires on the 31st of March, as is now the case. Congress members should serve from April to April, of an academic year, rather than from February to February, as is now the case.

The resolution is basically that Congress members would have an extra month to do their work in the office prior to the end of the spring semester, and an extra month after the beginning of the fall semester. With the proposed changes in effect, senior Congress members would have an extra month before the end of the spring semester and another month before the end of the fall semester, and thus would be able to plan the senior class commencement activities, should they desire to do so.

Overall, the term changes would mean a more unified calendar. The Board of Government officers, is overseen by the Student Congress, have their terms from April to April, so it is only logical that the two organizations should be somewhat synchronized.

Surprisingly, the Congress budget is determined on April 1, which means that Congress members have no members of the senior class have a seat on Congress for the very last period of the term, and this also leaves much of the Class of '83, and the members with no chairpersons to oversee them.

Secondly, McNamara feels that the selection of a committee to plan the senior class commencement activities, should be normal for a spring semester, and this also leaves much of the Class of '83, and the members with no chairpersons to oversee them.

The problem can arise when the Congress term expires on the 31st of March, as is now the case. Congress members should serve from April to April, of an academic year, rather than from February to February, as is now the case.
Tips From the 'Skull'

Skull would like to once again thank The Cowl editors for clearing up my little difficulties. Any misunderstanding on my part was purely intentional. Congratulations are in order for the Providence Visitor for its recent coverage of the Davis columnist, who shall remain nameless, from their literary contributions. As far as I know, what Skull has read of this man, it is just as well that he remain nameless. I wouldn't want to embarrass him.

In Reverend Louis' words, when I'm going beyond the point of constructive criticism, there, padre, maybe the Inquirer will print your rantings. The Refomation is over, and I think the priests of religions to choose from without bickering with mine. Thank you.

How much longer is ILY going to be the NEW 94 WUV?

You know what is real fun? Fun is fighting traffic to get to the Cove Ome, it's gone in line with fights all around you, getting turned around for four hours, and then finding out ACDC had simply lost its charm without:

1. The sound of leaves, whether it's leaves crackling under foot or cracking in a cheery blaze in your backyard kindled by an enveloping youth with a Cricket tee, is suspicious and wants might be the reward.

2. The sound of Steinbrenner groaning.

3. The sound of chattering teeth as commuters packed on River Ave. trucked across the frozen tundra of Upper Campuses at 8 a.m.

4. The sound of car engines, including Skull's, turning to embarrass me.

5. The sound of loud curses as someone smokes or not. Besides, who really gives a spit if you get turned on or turned off. It is about time you were turned off. It is about time you were

6. The sound of loud curses as someone smokes or not. Besides, who really gives a spit if you get turned on or turned off. It is about time you were turned off. It is about time you were

7. The sound of the Patriots dropping another one.

8. The sounds of hunting. In Rhode Island fall is open season on duck, deer and pheasants.

9. The sounds of despar as The Cowl editors receive another Skullations article.

10. The sound of radiators clanking in off-campus apartments. The reason radiators clank, incidently, is that the dollar signs in the fuel keep banging against the metal pipes. An open note to Brooke Shields: Skull doesn't smoke either, but thinks that the real leers are those shallow people who base relationships on whether someone smokes or not. Besides, who really gives a spit if you get turned on or turned off. It is about time you were turned off. It is about time you were

Dear Editor:

Congratulations are in order for the Hay Bay Stay Boys, champions of the Men's Intramural Flag Football League. It was an honor to meet the men who are a credit to all students who understood, when Skull went to the athletic board for a

Skull

Congratulations HBSB

Debra Cohen, executive of The Hay Bay Stay Boys, champions of the Men's Intramural Flag Football League. It was an honor to meet the men who are a credit to all students who understood, when Skull went to the athletic board for a
Store 104 Now Friar's Desires

By Maribeth Andrew

Do you deserve a reward after testing your endurance on a Civ. dorm life would be complete

No longer must you be deprived of the essentials! Is something chocolate covered, that doesn't melt in your hand—but in your mouth—which you require? M&M's are stocked!—and in two varieties, plain and peanut, need I say more? Perhaps you've forgotten the taste of homemade treats—popcorn! I ask you, what caloric liquid named Tab, or some your defenses weakening and an attack of the munchies is hitting you, you can always count on Friar's Desires located in Lower Slavin.

A Spy Invades the Library

By Ray Marcaccio

I've been standing for two hours on a dark and lonely street in Brussels. The air is damp and cool—too cool for my light trenchcoat. The minutes pass by as the drizzle begins again. I take one last drag from my cigarette and throw it into a puddle. It's 1:40 and still no sign of my connection. I'm worried if they got H-4... At the end of the street a taxi's headlights reflect off the wet pavement. The car slows down and pulls over in front of me. I climb in the back seat with my hands glued to my Walther PPK revolver. The cab driver gives me a careful eye in the rear view mirror as I order him to drive me to 103 Rue de l'Espoir. I never met H-4 before. I only knew that if this is he, he will answer my next question exactly as my orders from Headquarters stated. Never taking my eyes off the broad face in the rear view mirror, I casually mention "I have a lead on that missing nuclear missile from NATO forces. HQ thinks that a radical group of physicists and engineers planning a nuclear attack on the Thomas Aquinas Institute located in New York. We have reason to believe that this group is centered in the library of Providence College. One tip says that there will be a mee­"

The orders stated: "Go to Phillips Memorial Library on Nov. 4 and take note of any suspicious people observing the student body. Report back to me by 11:00 p.m. You will meet H-4 in Paris next week.

The taxi pulled up to my Porsche 924 parked at 103 Rue de l'Espoir. "Good luck H-4 and be careful."

"Thanks H-4. Oh, by the way, be a good sport and keep my martinis filled in Paris.

Oct. 29, 12:30 p.m. I've just finished my dossier on Phillips Memorial Library. It is very impressive. There are close to 200,000 volumes, 40,000 bound books, and 11-3 and Sunday from 2 to 8. We need never go hungry again!

Whether after reading this caloric-ridden article you feel the need to alleviate your guilt in a bit of that precious carmel-colored, non-caloric liquid named Tab, or some your defenses weakening and an attack of the munchies is hitting you, you can always count on Friar's Desires located in Lower Slavin.

A Spy Invades the Library

By Ray Marcaccio

I've been standing for two hours on a dark and lonely street in Brussels. The air is damp and cool—too cool for my light trenchcoat. The minutes pass by as the drizzle begins again. I take one last drag from my cigarette and throw it into a puddle. It's 1:40 and still no sign of my connection. I'm worried if they got H-4... At the end of the street a taxi's headlights reflect off the wet pavement. The car slows down and pulls over in front of me. I climb in the back seat with my hands glued to my Walther PPK revolver. The cab driver gives me a careful eye in the rear view mirror as I order him to drive me to 103 Rue de l'Espoir. I never met H-4 before. I only knew that if this is he, he will answer my next question exactly as my orders from Headquarters stated. Never taking my eyes off the broad face in the rear view mirror, I casually mention "I have a lead on that missing nuclear missile from NATO forces. HQ thinks that a radical group of physicists and engineers planning a nuclear attack on the Thomas Aquinas Institute located in New York. We have reason to believe that this group is centered in the library of Providence College. One tip says that there will be a mee­"

The orders stated: "Go to Phillips Memorial Library on Nov. 4 and take note of any suspicious people observing the student body. Report back to me by 11:00 p.m. You will meet H-4 in Paris next week.

The taxi pulled up to my Porsche 924 parked at 103 Rue de l'Espoir. "Good luck H-4 and be careful."

"Thanks H-4. Oh, by the way, be a good sport and keep my martinis filled in Paris.

Oct. 29, 12:30 p.m. I've just finished my dossier on Phillips Memorial Library. It is very impressive. There are close to 200,000 volumes, 40,000 bound books, and 200,000 volumes, 40,000 bound books, and
By Judy McNamara

Meet Rosco He is the Cowp's choice for PC Dog of the Year. Moving off-campus these days calls for a lot of adjustments. First and foremost, you have to get yourself a cute little puppy to call your own. If you don't get a puppy then you're not part of the "in" crowd and not being part of the "in" crowd is not a fun thing to be at PC. Now once you choose the dog of your dreams, you must spend a good month training him. It takes time and dedication but the benefits are very pleasurable. For any tips on teaching your dog to sit, shake hands, and not piddle in the house, contact Jim Durkin or Tom Daley, the proud owners of Prince Rosco. Jim and Daley have spent long tedious hours giving Rosco their undivided attention, teaching him the best of table manners as well as how not to aggravate the library patrol lady. In all seriousness, the puppy craze has hit PC and every day another new furry face comes hopping across our blissful campus. After all a dog is man's best friend. He follows wherever his master leads. He never gives any back talk and if he is as cute as Rosco, he attracts lots of attention in various shapes and sizes, if you know what I mean. Oh, it is a dog's world, living at college and not going to classes, prancing through the library just to say hello; being fed, loved, admired, and doing nothing in return but being yourself. Puppies are so much fun except that they have to get bigger, eat a lot, and make a mess out of the Sunday paper. By the way the trick to paper training is to first teach your pup to go on the paper and then move the paper outside. (Pretty tricky, huh?) Well, Rosco is growing more and more each day and he is loved by so many members of the PC community, especially his lucky owners. He is a precious golden retriever and undoubtedly, the handsomest canine to hit PC. The Cow's Editorial Board recognizes Rosco's charming quality and urges all off-campus students to seek the unmatched companionship that puppy love can bring.

Meet Rosco, he's our friend.

By Judy McNamara
Dear R&P,

I just found out that the girl I am going to JRW with has a boyfriend who is coming up Saturday afternoon. She hasn’t told him that she is going with me but promises she will. He is staying in her apartment and can’t imagine picking her up with his approval. What should I do?

Double Date Dilemma

Dear D.D.,

Mention subtly to her that you wouldn’t mind taking someone else Saturday night. Hopefully he will be adamantly opposed to it. I just found out that the girl I am infatuated with doesn’t know my true affections. She graduated last year is also a full-time instructor of ceramics at both Bryant College and community college of Rhode Island. She will be adamantly opposed to it.

Mention subtly to her that you don’t know my true affections. She graduated last year is also a full-time instructor of ceramics at both Bryant College and community college of Rhode Island. She will be adamantly opposed to it.

Two Artists III

By Catherine M. Hession

Art Journal Staff

The artistic works of Thomas and Rosemary Morrissey combine for an exciting exhibition of ceramic sculpture and mixed-media drawings currently showing at the Hindle Art Gallery, Lower Campus.

Tom Morrissey presents several ceramic sculptures which involve a pleasing geometric, linear quality softened by earthy glazes and the natural color of raw clay. Several of the sculptural forms are tubular, vertical and horizontal constructions which visually transform the surrounding space into grid patterns. Thomas Morrissey received a Master of Fine Arts Degree from the University of Arizona and is a full-time instructor of ceramics and FIne Art at Commerical College of Rhode Island.

As many as 17 mixed-media drawings composed by Rosemary Morrissey span the walls of the Hindle Art Gallery. The scope of various mediums and techniques explored by Ms. Morrissey demonstrates an interesting but subtle boldness throughout her work. The abstract drawings and three-dimensional works are enriched by handmade paper. Rosemary is presently a full-time member of the faculty of Our Lady of Good Counsel School and part-time faculty member and instructor at both Bryant College and community college of Rhode Island. Ms. Morrissey received a Bachelor of Fine Arts Degree in Drawing from Arizona State University.

“TWO ARTISTS III” is truly a multi-media event to be experienced at the Providence College Hindle Art Gallery through November 22, 1981. On Tuesday, November 17, 1981, the gallery will feature a slide lecture and discussion led by the Morrisseys. The artists will speak about their work, and plan to demonstrate methods and techniques of working with ceramic sculpture following the slide presentation. The afternoon program will begin at 1:30 p.m. in the gallery and all interested are invited to attend.

The Morrissey exhibit is third in the gallery’s Fall Series of on-going exhibits of local professional artists. Please check with the Art Gallery, ext. 2461, for gallery hours.

Socik Hop Boppin’

By Erin Donahue

The 1950 years are gone forever but the spirit of those years still lives on as evidenced by last Saturday’s Sock Hop coordinated by the freshman class.

The evening was a huge success. A good number of people showed up dressed in their fifties garb, the girls in their skirts, bobble socks and poodle tails, the guys in their tee shirts, leather gang jackets, and the slicked back hair. The disc jockey, Tom Kellaway, the freshman eye Candy, strummed the fabulous “golden oldies” such as “Rock Around the Clock,” “The Twist,” “I Wanna Hold Your Hand,” and “Why Must I Be a Teenager in Love.”

Ken Kelway, the freshman class president, commented on the show of people. “We received a better turnout than we had expected for a profit, the mixer pretty much broke even but that wasn’t really a major concern as long as the class enjoyed themselves. Overall, they encountered no problems and everything ran smoothly. The freshman class officers would like to thank the upperclassmen and the Student Congress for their help and support for a great mixer.”

This event clearly demonstrated the freshman’s ability to put on a good show and they should be applauded for their efforts and the success of a great Sock Hop.

Turkey Day

By Susan Young

Since the early days of the Mayflower and the pilgrims Thanksgiving has been one of everyone’s favorite holidays. Thoughts of a traditional Thanksgiving remain with all of us, family gatherings, football games, turkey with all the trimmings, naturally, pumpkin pie.

Around campus the phrase “I can’t wait for Thanksgiving” is being exclaimed. November is coming quickly and most PC students are anxious to go home, many for the first time since September.

When the students were asked how they spent their thanksgivings most replies were the same: eating, eating, eating, and eating!

This Thanksgiving Providence College also welcomes the Yugoslavian basketball team, who will be playing PC on November 23. The members of the team will be spending Thanksgiving with different families in the Providence area, and they will be able to experience a traditional American Thanksgiving.

The excitement of Thanksgiving is something we all look forward to. It is a time to give thanks for all the things in life we often take for granted, and a time to enjoy family, friends, and good food.
While many people today are preoccupied with tracing their roots, Friar Council Knights of Columbus of PC took a trip to see theirs. Friar Council observed the "Heritage Day" — a day of Recollection on Saturday, November 14. Twenty members of Friar Council made a pilgrimage to St. Mary's in New Haven, the birthplace of the KofC and to the grave of Fr. Michael McGivney, founder of the KofC.

The day began with recitation of Morning Prayer in Guzman Chapel at 9:30 and an opening conference on personal sanctity and prayer. The group then left for Connecticut where their first stop was St. Anthony's Church in Prospect for Mass, Midday Prayer and a conference. The Mass was the Votive Mass for the Spread of the Gospel and the conference was on moral courage in bringing Christ and the Church to all men by word and example. Before leaving to visit the grave of founder Fr. McGivney, Fr. McMahon and the group visited a campus of the ideals of Fr. McGivney in founding an organization of Catholic men who as knights would be militant, courageous defenders of the Church. While at the grave of Fr. McGivney the group recited the Rosary. The group then left for St. Mary's in New Haven, the birthplace of the Knights of Columbus.

The Knights of Columbus were founded 100 years ago in 1882 in St. Mary's Church. Since 1882 the church has been staffed by the Carolinians. Fr. J. J. Cunningham, O.P., present pastor of St. Mary's gave the group a tour of the church and explained the extensive renovations being done by the Knights of Columbus as part of the observance of their centennial. Plans are being made to inter the remains of Fr. McGivney at St. Mary's and the cause for the canonization of Fr. McGivney is expected to begin this year.

The Friar Council group then visited the KofC Supreme National Headquarters in New Haven and were given a tour of the impressive 25 story building with an explanation of the day to the day operation of the headquarters for the largest Catholic Fraternity in the world with 1.3 million members and more than 7,000 councils.

Friar’s K of C Tours Roots

Oil prices are sky high in local apartments.

My Beloved Drowses

By Sue Robertson

Politics. It's just a big game of football, so now we have computerized football, so now we have computerized politics. Dr. Mark S. Hyde of the political science department lectured on the effects of computer technology has on political activity. After thanking the IOG for deviating a means to get the faculty involved with the students (the Faculty-Lecture Series), Dr. Hyde remarked on political changes. The basic theme was "Old Politics vs. New Politics.

"Old Politics" was based upon tightly organized political parties on state and local levels. The party role was played by personal organizations consisting of precinct captains whose job it was to keep the voter happy. This was done by granting small favors in return for political support. Dr. Hyde used the 1948 State Legislature campaign as a prime example of this system. Tip O'Neill was running for office and his vote-getter was the distribution of "snow buttons." The idea was that when it snowed, anyone with one of these buttons who was willing to shovel would be paid by the state for the day.

Since the days of "snow buttons," many ideas concerning campaign techniques have changed. "New Politics" is not as tightly structured as the "Old Politics." The party system has lost impact, and is secondary to polling primaries, TV advertising, and the like. The "new" system is based upon data processing techniques with the main strategy being the polls. Polls are used in attaining the attitude structures of the public. Surveys are also important to the candidate. Data, based on surveys allows the candidate to see which issues should be pushed in what areas. The press, media, television, and direct mailing have become vital aids for the candidate's campaign.

The effects of these technological approaches to political campaigns are various. Personal identification with a party has grown less important.

The functions of parties have been replaced by campaign consultants who direct the data processing and advise the candidate as to which routes are best. One might say we have a new party: the electronic party. This type of party, however, consists of just a single man, and the work is candidate election vs. party election.

If it is possible for a candidate to use a computer to screen and process data to determine the exact type of voter he desires; perhaps more beneficial would be a way for the voter to do the same so as to arrive at an ideal candidate!

Creative Corner

My Beloved Drowses

Lulled by the lazy heat, kissed tenderly by a gentle breeze, carressed tenderly by a golden beam of the setting, late summer sun, Enveloped by the warm, yellow glow of the wood-paneled room, mesmerized by the long, silent drone of the dying cicadas, a portent that the year is nigh done with corn and clover, with wheat that sways heavy ears that are airy, and barley that bows a graceful head.

Her lovely head relaxed, is couched in the padded pillow of her delicate hand;
Her dark, undulating hair lightly winnowed by a breath of shade-cooled air — shimmers in a pure aura of glorious sunlight; Her carob eyes hide behind leaden-lids and her pomegranate lips — like little flower petals — re slightly parted, Her lar gold limbs are abandoned, all.

My Floreintad nolad rests in a placid oblivion but this tumbled heart pines for its Delight.

Old Politics vs New

By Sue Robertson

Politics. It's just a big game of football, so now we have computerized football, so now we have computerized politics. Dr. Mark S. Hyde of the political science department lectured on the effects of computer technology has on political activity. After thanking the IOG for deviating a means to get the faculty involved with the students (the Faculty-Lecture Series), Dr. Hyde remarked on political changes. The basic theme was "Old Politics vs. New Politics.

"Old Politics" was based upon tightly organized political parties on state and local levels. The party role was played by personal organizations consisting of precinct captains whose job it was to keep the voter happy. This was done by granting small favors in return for political support. Dr. Hyde used the 1948 State Legislature campaign as a prime example of this system. Tip O'Neill was running for office and his vote-getter was the distribution of "snow buttons." The idea was that when it snowed, anyone with one of these buttons who was willing to shovel would be paid by the state for the day.

Since the days of "snow buttons," many ideas concerning campaign techniques have changed. "New Politics" is not as tightly structured as the "Old Politics." The party system has lost impact, and is secondary to polling primaries, TV advertising, and the like. The "new" system is based upon data processing techniques with the main strategy being the polls. Polls are used in attaining the attitude structures of the public. Surveys are also important to the candidate. Data, based on surveys allows the candidate to see which issues should be pushed in what areas. The press, media, television, and direct mailing have become vital aids for the candidate's campaign.

The effects of these technological approaches to political campaigns are various. Personal identification with a party has grown less important.

The functions of parties have been replaced by campaign consultants who direct the data processing and advise the candidate as to which routes are best. One might say we have a new party: the electronic party. This type of party, however, consists of just a single man, and the work is candidate election vs. party election.

If it is possible for a candidate to use a computer to screen and process data to determine the exact type of voter he desires; perhaps more beneficial would be a way for the voter to do the same so as to arrive at an ideal candidate!
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Date</th>
<th>Event Description</th>
<th>Details</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 2</td>
<td>FILM COMMITTEE presents &quot;MIRACLE ON 34TH STREET&quot;</td>
<td>'64 HALL, AT 7:00 &amp; 9:00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>THURSDAY, DECEMBER 3</td>
<td>CHRISTMAS COFFEEHOUSE featuring &quot;ALIAS AND PENCILS&quot;</td>
<td>in '64 HALL, 8:00-12:00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>THURSDAY, DEC. 3</td>
<td>FACULTY LECTURE SERIES presents FR. REGINALD HALLER</td>
<td>IN ST. CATHERINE OF SIENNA HALL, AT 7:00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 24</td>
<td>BUS TRIP HOME FOR THANKSGIVING VACATION</td>
<td>BUSES TO: BOSTON/SQ. SHORE — $6.00, HARTFORD — $9.00, NEW HAVEN/STANFORD — $9.00, PORTCHESTER/RYE/PORT AUTHORITY — $21.00, ALL BUSES LEAVE AT 3:00 AT SLAVIN CENTER, ROUND TRIP ONLY SOLD IN B.O.G. OFFICE</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FRIDAY, DEC. 4</td>
<td>B.O.G. FULL UNION MIXER WITH &quot;MARCELLES&quot;</td>
<td>9:00-12:00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SUNDAY, DECEMBER 6</td>
<td>TRAVEL COMMITTEE presents &quot;A CHRISTMAS CAROL&quot; at the CHARLES STREET PLAYHOUSE</td>
<td>TICKETS ON SALE DECEMBER 1 IN BOG OFFICE — 12.00 PER PERSON</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The BOG is proud to present A Week of Christmas Cheer—Dec. 2-6
SPY

(continued from page 11)

I listen to every work of music that isn’t hard to do, because this is the kind of work that can probably hear them. Finally, I’m convince that the story is not harmful to the world of the Aquinas Institution.

I am the storyteller of the circles. The story goes in and out of the library, and I am writing. In one corner a student slams his book shut and walks away. It is completely farcical because he can’t walk. To proofread is my student frantically writing on a desk. Yes! Yes! He must be writing his book. I look at the desk and see a nuclear bomb. He stands up, hurls loudly and walks away. I know that I have a split second to copy down the equation before his next splatter. I look at the writing and to my dismay, see that the student wrote the lyrics to McCartney’s “Live and Let Die.” I turn to my left and see a girl throwing crap on a guy in the next cubicle. Aha! I logically conclude that she must be the leader of the radicals passing messages on her to her group. I prepare to leave this place because what 20-year-old college student would want to be found half a second too late with paper? After several more pieces of paper are thrown, the guy’s eyes turn red and he starts screaming at the girl, packs up his books and says, “I’m not going to your stupid farm tonight, I’ve really got to study.” She looks at him bitterly and asks, “Why did you come to the library?”

He replies, “You’re right, I should have gotten a room in Harrington instead of the central area. Some students are talking about their IV profs while other view the future in their bigger point data. However, none are talking about the social revolution. Suddenly there’s a scream from one of the side stairwells. I leap forward to its source. I see my friend walking out of the room and head to the stairs when he is met by a man with an axe. My sweaty palm clings to the cold metal of my Walther PPK still hidden in my coat pocket. I fling away the man with the axe. The lights go off and we’re going to the Rat!” Their friends continue talking, and I decide to first stop and think about my Friday night.

WELFARE

(continued from page 11)

"I didn’t think they would be met at the hospital," she said. This had a sense of preposterousness in it, but it was, of course, preposterous in view of the debt he was accumulating by the moment. I repeated what the other person had told me in the interview, and the interview was going to take on tenacious. She gave me an appointment. This was the first of several times that I wondered how many people, more familiar to me than I, were going to build a city and did not meet with the expected hardships.

I was interviewed by a pleasant and decent young man. He filled out six or eight forms while we talked. He made a list of information about how many people should be included. I had to submit it. His explanations were clear. My friend would almost certainly be able to receive food stamps and general assistance. Disability benefits might be possible in the future, and help with medical bills was possible once the exact scope of his insurance coverage was clear.

My list of things to do included getting forms filled out by my friend’s bank, doctor, landlord and employer. It was also necessary to apply to a few social security programs before the interview and to help with medical state programs would be processed. This requirement remained in force even though I was absolutely clear that my friend could be assessed as fully for the receipt of the Federal programs. Finally it would be necessary for my friend eventually to appear in person, present some identification, fill out forms and sign some of the forms.

I pursued each element of the application process with great determination. Not only was I trying to find out how my friend would manage during the coming months, but the activity on his behalf was therapeutic for me. Any distraction from the task in hand seemed far more dangerous than the fear I faced was welcome. In moments of terror, of course, I realized that this young man might die in the next few months, and if he did, it would not matter whether he was in debt.

The form that the landlord filled out, along with the copy of my friend’s lease that I was required to submit, gave the welfare system information about his obligation to pay rent and the price he paid for housing. The bank provided information about the balance in his account. People cannot receive welfare unless they can prove that they have at least earned $200. (The Reagan administration is requiring status to examine the personal assets of welfare applicants, excluding car, house, immediate personal property, with the aim of disqualifying them if they have possessions worth more than $1,000. A television set and a few dressing gowns or a sports car (in a family.) The employer and doctor verified my friend’s job and medical situation. The doctor, of course, was the hardest person to track down. It took several visits to the hospital and many phone calls.

The interview at the social security office, along with the waiting, took half a day. Again medical and housing information was needed, along with a birth certificate. Getting the latter took a great deal of correspondence, for my friend turns out to have been adopted. Another visit around the library and I was talking. My professional opinion is that this process must be working out of another place because it would be to hold a secret meeting there as it is to study. Signing off, it’s.

NOTICES

Flat football deposits must be picked up by Dec. 4 in Room 203 of the fieldhouse.

The fieldhouse will be closed during the Thanksgiving break from Monday, November 23 to Monday, November 30.

---

Junior guard Ricky Tucker shows enthusiasm in upcoming baseball season.
Ladies Volleyball

‘Never Say Die’ Wins

By Christine Merlo

The Lady Friar’s Volleyball team is on the move once again after extending their winning season by capturing the Rhode Island State Tournament in 10 straight games.

PC was placed in a preliminary pool with Community College of Rhode Island, Barrington Academy and URI. In the rules for the preliminary round of the tournament, each team plays the other three contenders once, with the team having the best record advancing to the semi-finals. PC had won the right to advance to the semi-finals with a record of 3-2-1, we are still the second team were Jim McLean, sophomore halfback, who led the conference in rushing with 76 yards. Mark Peacock, a freshman linebacker; and Rusty Dubuc, a sophomore defensive back, were Friars named to the all conference team.

Three PC football players have been named to the New England Collegiate Football Conference all conference team. Jim McLean, sophomore halfback, who led the conference in rushing with 76 yards. Mark Peacock, a freshman linebacker; and Rusty Dubuc, a sophomore defensive back, were Friars named to the all conference team.

Footblall All-Stars

Reprinted from The Providence Journal

Three PC football players have been named to the New England Collegiate Football Conference all conference team. Jim McLean, sophomore halfback, who led the conference in rushing with 76 yards. Mark Peacock, a freshman linebacker; and Rusty Dubuc, a sophomore defensive back, were Friars named to the all conference team.

Three PC football players have been named to the New England Collegiate Football Conference all conference team. Jim McLean, sophomore halfback, who led the conference in rushing with 76 yards. Mark Peacock, a freshman linebacker; and Rusty Dubuc, a sophomore defensive back, were Friars named to the all conference team.

Nov. 20, Two divisions—men’s and women’s.

INTRAMURAL ANNOUNCEMENT

Sign up now for Intramural Hockey. Rosters are available in Room 203 of the Fieldhouse. A $30 deposit is needed and the deadline is November 20. Two divisions—men’s and women’s.
Snowbound Snows Climax
Hay Bay Rocks Psycho + 2

By Dan O'Connell
and Peter Dillahi

Snowbound, the team jumped to a quick 13-0 lead. Snowbound closed the gap to 13-7 on a pass from John O'Keefe to Steve Driscoll. But that was as close as Snowbound would get as the Hay Bay Stay Bays were to score again on a touchdown by George Mulroy to make the score 20-7. In the second half, the Hay Bays, led by the defense of Steve Calahan and the defense of Tim West, extended their lead to 39-7. Snowbound managed a final touchdown by John O'Keefe and the Hay Bays forced once again to make the score final score 45-13. The Hay Bay Stay Bays had exceptional teamwork and execution which proved to be the difference.

There was an estimated turn of about 300 people. The entire flag football season was a complete success thanks to the contributions of Joe Baccetta and Frank O'Brien, the president and vice-president of the Intramural Athletic Board.

Soccer Comeback Kids
Finish Off at 5-2-2

By Toby Shea

The women's soccer club, finishing at 5-2-2, ended its season with a very respectable showing in post-season play.

In the Rhode Island Women's Soccer Tournament, the Lady Friars beat Brown, 1-0, and then lost to the University of Rhode Island in sudden death overtime. The only goal of the game was scored by Steve Calahan of the University of Texas El Paso and picked up by captain Steve Binns.

This week, on the 10,000 meter course, Treacy set a new record of 29:32, eclipsing the record which he and Quinn had set in the same meet last year. Behind Treacy and Binns were Richard Mulligan fifth in 29:32, Richard O'Flynn eighth in 29:50, Paul Moloney ninth in 29:51, and Charlie Breagy eleventh in 30:20.

At the mile, there was a pack of two Boston University runners and four positions. The gap was led by Ray Treacy and Steve Binns, who had taken the number three position, followed in 23:47, with Paul Moloney h ad moved up with

The race had developed by the mile mark; where Quinn, Smith and Moloney came through in 2:45, with the only serious challenge being made by Dean Kimball of New Hampshire. At two and a half miles, with the two lead runners clear of the field, Mulligan moved past Kimball, and then Moloney went by just before the three mile mark. Fallo and Breagy both worked their way through the field to take eighth and ninth places, giving the Friars six runners in the top ten.

In addition to being the eighth straight title for the Friar harriers, it also marked the ninth straight year a PC runner won an individual NCAA title. It was the last cross country race for the school, as he is ineligible to compete in the NCAA championship meets.

This past fall, the Friars returned to Franklin Park to run the NCAA Qualifying meet, and with six runners in the top eleven, another bid to the National Championships in Connecticut became a certainty. The team was led by Ray Treacy and Steve Binns. There was not much of a race together, with the victory being given to Steve Binns.