

Business building dedication honors Koffler

By Judy McNamara

On Friday, November 2, at 4:00 p.m., a ceremony was held in Koffler Hall in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Sol Koffler and family. Mr. Koffler is the founder and chairman of American Tourister Luggage. Through the Koffler's gift of $200,000 to PC, the reconstruction and renovation of Koffler Hall was made possible, allowing a Business Department to come to life.

Guests received an invitation from the Corporation and faculty, requesting the honor of their presence at the dedication. Such respected figures as Governor J. Joseph Garrahy, Judge Giannini, Judge Pettine, and Rev. Thomas R. Peterson, O.P., attended. Students Congress members represented the student body at the dedication.

The Friars Club was there too. They were posted at Eaton Street to give directions and also served as valet parkers. Such tasks as handing out programs and taking care of the guest book were also ended upon the Friars.

The dedication commenced with a witty speech and solemn thank you to the Kofflers by Father Peterson. Mr. Sol Koffler then spoke, expressing his appreciation over the bestowing of such an honor on himself and his entire family. Dr. Ronald Cewonka, chairman of the business department, presented Koffler with a photo, depicting Koffler Hall and a plaque, citing Mr. Koffler as the honorary chairman of the business department. Governor Garrahy then read a proclamation from the state of Rhode Island, pointing out the many years of service the Kofflers have given to the state and to Providence College. Father Peterson elegantly closed the ceremony with a presentation of one dozen red roses to Mrs. Lillian Koffler.

Guests were invited to the unveiling of the dedication plaque. The ceremonies continued with an open-house tour of the building.

The dedication was very special to the Koffler family and their guests. Providence College reached out to thank two long-time members of the PC family who have given exceptional support our College. Koffler Hall stands strong and proud, thanks Mr. and Mrs. Sol and Lillian Koffler.

Congress approves ff Campus Residence Organization

By Joyce Simard

At the Student Congress meeting on November 4, Kevin Golden, chairman of the Legislative Committee, announced that the Student Congress has approved the "off-campus residence organization." This organization will officially represent off-campus residents. "It will provide a unity of purpose and direction among off-campus students, advise and educate them of their legal rights and responsibilities and refer them to legal advisors." This organization, which was initiated by the Life-styles Committee, will also assist students in finding suitable off-campus housing, a screening of landlords will be one way in which they will do this. Kerry Rafanelli, president of Student Congress, expressed the need for student participation in this project. "The off-campus residence organization will only be as successful as the people who want to get involved," he said.

Bob Goudie, chairman of the Committee on Administration sought opinions from Congress on a possibility of extending the time between classes from ten to fifteen minutes. "Many students and faculty members are concerned that there is not enough time between classes, especially when walking from Koffler Hall to Harkins Hall." If this extension does go into effect, class time will

Voter registration drive

By Steve Sylva

This Tuesday, November 13, the Student Congress, in conjunction with the Rhode Island Board of Elections will sponsor a voter registration drive on campus. All the members of the Student Association of Rhode Island Colleges and Universities are taking part in the drive in order to increase voter registration among college students.

Voter apathy among college students is widespread and this drive will hopefully increase voter interest among the PC community. Kerry Rafanelli, president of the Student Congress, stated, "It's very important for the students to register to vote in Providence because this will give them a voice in policies that will be directly affecting them." He added, "It's our job to provide this service to the students and create more awareness on campus." By getting as many students to register as possible, PC will be down "on paper" as having a voice in the community.

The rules for registration are as follows: Out of state students must register to vote in Providence and may register even if they are registered in their hometown (this will nullify their hometown registration). In-state students may register to vote in either Providence or their hometown or switch their registration from their hometown to Providence.

The voter registration will take place in Slavin Center from 10:30 to 2:30 p.m., from November 13-16. Each evening it will take place in Raymond Cafe from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m.

Art department, Pietrasanta celebrate tenth anniversary

On Saturday, November 3, 1979, the Feast day of St. Martin de Porres, a memorial Mass, the blessing of the St. Martin statue on campus, and an art exhibit and buffet, marked the tenth anniversary of the founding of the Department of Art and Art History and the Pietrasanta Summer Study Program at Pietrasanta, Italy.

The Department of Art and Art History was formally established on October 28, 1970. The first Pietrasanta Program took place the previous summer of 1970 with three students in attendance. While the Pietrasanta Program is under the direction and supervision of the Department of Art and Art History, it also falls under the control of the Providence-Europe office which has students studying at Fribourg, Switzerland, Coimbra and Lisbon, Portugal, and now in the Orient. The Pietrasanta Program is a two month study program in the fine arts and the humanities. Located during the month of July at Pietrasanta, the heart of the marble industry of the world, the students also study in London, Paris, Munich, and Rome. 190 students have participated in the program during the past ten years, with students coming from all over the United States. Attendance now is primarily from Providence College. The program also offers graduate credit in art history and Renaissance literature and History. In addition, there is a full-semester program now formally approved by the college.

The festivities began with a Mass in Aquinas Chapel, celebrated by Lawrence M. Hunt, O.P., the founder, first chairperson, and professor of art history of the Department of Art and Art History. Thomas M. Cosken, O.P., was homilist for the occasion. This Mass was offered in thanksgiving for the founding of the department and the Pietrasanta Program and in memory of those connected with the programs who have passed to their eternal reward: Marc Dupre and Mary Bevilacqua, art majors; Thomas McGlynn, O.P., first professor of sculpture in the Pietrasanta Program, Papa Bigi, of Pietrasanta, Italy; Terry Hauck and Carol Meunier, participants in the Pietrasanta Program.

Following the Mass, and in spite of the rain, all then gathered around the St. Martin de Porres statue, located between the Thomas Mathew McGlynn, O.P. In attendance were two sisters of Father McGlynn, and his nephew. Father McGlynn was a former faculty member of Providence College who went to Pietrasanta in 1956 to work as a sculptor. He spent twenty years there and the Pietrasanta Program was founded now himself and his studio. The program continues to use his studio as its center. Father McGlynn's collection of sculptures is now at the college. Three statues, the St. Martin, the St. Dominic, and a bust of Pope John XXIII were given by an anonymous benefactor to the Dominican Fathers and Brothers of the Province of St. Joseph with the understanding that they would be placed on the Providence College campus. The St. Dominic statue, located in front of Dominic Hall, will be dedicated at a later date to the memory of the ten girls who died in the tragic fire at Aquinas Hall.

Father McGlynn received an honorary Doctor of Fine Arts degree from Providence College in 1977 in recognition of his creative achievements, his influence on the artistic world, and for his part in the foundation of the Pietrasanta Program.

Following the blessing of the statue, the Pietrasanta Program art exhibit was opened at the Art Building on the Lower Campus. The exhibit will run through the Thanksgiving holidays. Due to the limited enrollment in the Pietrasanta Program, and given the enthusiastic response by the PC student body, those who are interested in the summer of 1980 should contact Fr. McAlister as soon as possible. He may be reached at 865-2310 or 2401. Acceptance is on a first come basis.

OCRO proposed to aid off-campus students

At a Student Congress meeting Sunday night, the establishment of an Off-Campus Board was voted on and unanimously supported. The purpose of the board is to unify the students living off campus and to alleviate some of the responsibilities that have previously been placed on the Dillon Club.

The move was initiated in Congress by Eileen Connor, chairman of the Lifesyles Committee. Until now, off-campus residents have been considered commuters. The Lifesyles Committee saw the need for a separate organization for off-campus residents, since their needs differ from those of commuters, who are presently represented by the Dillon Club.

Many off-campus residents encounter problems with neighbors, landlords and legal problems that they can't solve themselves and they have never had a separate organization that could give advice or lend support in these matters. The Off-Campus Board will serve as a unified voice by which off-campus students can communicate with other students, administration, and faculty of PC and with their neighbors and landlords. It will also advise the students of their basic legal rights and responsibilities and, if necessary, refer students to the legal counsel provided by the Student Congress. Attorney Paul Pisano handles the College's legal problems and many students have contacted him for advice. However, such a large number of students encounter legal problems that his office has been overwhelmed with student's requests for help. It is believed that many students' problems can be handled by the Off-Campus Board, thus alleviating the burden that has been placed on Pisano's office. The board will also aid students in finding suitable housing by providing listings of available housing, records of previous tenants, and apartment ratings.

The establishment of the Off-Campus Board must still be approved by Rev. Francis Duffy, O.P., vice-president for Student Services, but Student Congress is optimistic of this approval.

If all goes according to plan, Congress expects to hold a temporary election for officers of the board sometime in January. A regular election will be held the following September and subsequent terms will run from September to May. The four officers, chairperson, vice-chairperson, secretary and treasurer, will be educated in basic legal problems and will, in turn, be able to advise off-campus residents.

Two PC men attacked by six other students

A group of six men attacked two other men on the Providence College campus early Sunday morning, beating one of them severely, police said.

The victims, Edward B. Flynn 3rd, 20, and Michael C. Harris, 20, both of 26 Lancashire St., Providence, said they were walking through the campus at about 3 a.m. when their six assailants, all about 19 years old, started verbally abusing them. Of the six purported assailants, four are PC students; the other two were guests of a PC student and from another college.

One assailant attacked Harris, and when Flynn went to his defense, the rest of the group joined in the fight. Harris suffered a fractured hand and a possible fractured skull. Flynn had several cuts and bruises. Both were treated and released from St. Joseph's Hospital.

Lioce, ten year Journal veteran speaks to class

By Ned Cummiskey

"I became involved with newspapers for social reasons. It seemed at the time a way to stop future Vietnam from happening."

These statements were made by Tony Lioce, a reporter for the Providence Journal, last Thursday afternoon during a presentation to seven journalism students.

Lioce, who has been with the Journal for ten years, first started as a copy boy. "The job of a reporter is hectic and disorganized, but I thrive on it. Its definitely not a nine to five job, and if you're a type of person who has to get up at a certain hour and go to sleep at a certain hour, then the life of a reporter isn't for you," said Lioce.

"I'm paid to sit around and write about things, which is fun to me and a lot better than changing tires for a living." Lioce believes that he has called attention to small injustices, which have subsequently been corrected.

Anthony R. Lioce, Jr. was born in Providence in 1946 and has lived in Rhode Island for most of his life. He went to high school in Cranston and continued his education at Brown. "I figured the computer must have made a mistake and that's how I got accepted, so I thought I should go and find out what it was like up there and how those people thought."

In explaining why he thought the 70's were a time of apathy, Lioce said that society generally hasn't picked up what the 60's had. The 70's don't share the idealism of the 60's.

He went on to say that there were probably many reasons for the apathetic feelings of today, with the assassinations, Kent St.,

Lioce dealt briefly at the end of the talk with the controversy about himself and the article that he wrote last spring about the Biltmore Hotel. In the article, he said that he ate in one of the restaurants there and thought that the prices were expensive. Right after that article, he lost his daily column in the Journal and was switched to the Newport desk.

His superiors told him that they wanted someone who would be more consistent with the stories in the column. They wanted nice, human interest stories. But that's not what he wanted to write about. "They were probably right in replacing me, because that's not how I viewed my job," said Lioce.

"I don't like to do any one thing for too long because then it gets boring. From what I've heard on the street, I now think that the Biltmore did play a role in my change of assignments, but I don't think that it was a deep, dark, corporate conspiracy, but rather a knee jerk reaction by middle management, who had always regarded me as potentially dangerous."

Lioce said that he just received a new job with the Journal. He is now the music reviewer for the paper which is something that he has always wanted to do. "I'll now be writing exclusively about the music of this area and the news surrounding it, which I'm very excited about."

He said that Providence is a major market in the music industry, even bigger than Boston. I think this area is special in that way and will continue to grow in that direction. I would like to be a part of that," said Lioce. "I also like to live in this area. There are a lot of nicer areas in this country, San Francisco, Santa Fe, but he feels that none have the combinations of good life style and working conditions as Rhode Island. Lioce, Jr. is a PC student.

Around the campus

BOG Lecture

The BOG is sponsoring a "Nuclear Power Forum" tonight at eight o'clock p.m. in '64 Hall. Speakers will present the pros and cons of this controversial issue.

Interviews

There are two positions available on the Academic Grievance Committee. Any student interested in being on the committee may sign up for an interview in the Student Congress office. Interviews will be held on Thursday, November 8, in the Congress office. Applicants are required to have a 2.0 cumulative average.

Bus Trip

The BOG is sponsoring a bus trip to the play "Da" which is playing in Boston. The bus will leave PC at 6:30 p.m. on Thursday, November 8. Contact the BOG office for more information.

Caps and Gowns

Seniors will be measured for caps and gowns on November 13, at core registration in Harkins Auditorium. All seniors are asked to report to be measured at this time.

Raffle

The PC Art Journal is sponsoring a raffle. Tickets will be on sale from November 12 through 19 in lower Slavin between 9:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. Tickets are 50 cents each, five for $2.00. Third prize will be a case of Heinen.

Turkey Shoot

The ROTC Rifle Team is sponsoring its annual Turkey Shoot on Thursday, November 15 between 9:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. It will be held at the rifle range in the basement of Alumni Hall and shots are three for 25 cents. Try your luck! The prize is a turkey or a case of Heinen.

Cienci comments

By Lori Evangelos

"The governor in my opinion is a nice fellow, but he's controlled by the administration of this state," declared Rhode Island mayor Vincent A. 'Buddy' Cienci, Jr., a Republican in a predominantly Democratic state.

Cienci, who has indicated he might run for governor in the 1980 election, not only berated the Rhode Island state government and governor J. Joseph Garrahy, but also government in general.

"The more government gets involved, the more messed up things are going to be," Cienci told eight Providence College students in a press conference last Thursday, November 1.

Cienci pointed out that he thinks the Republican party has been disorganized in the state of Rhode Island. He said that the only Republicans elected are liberal and he used himself as an example in Rhode Island, "a basically conservative state."

"The Republican party, which I respect," said the Mayor, "does not have enough positions and didn't have enough strength to elect me." According to the Mayor, it was no "fluke" that he

Charge-a-Dalton, 79 receives top Army honors

By Kathy Lyons

By Thomas Brown

Two new "charge-a-call" phones have been installed on campus. One is located in the basement lobby of the library and the other is in the Harkin's Hall foyer. According to Ruth Donovan, the PC switch board operator, the phones have been in operation for about two weeks.

Mrs. Donovan explained that the phones enable a person to make a call without depositing money. The caller simply pushes "O" for operator and then proceeds to make either a credit card or collect call. In an emergency, or when someone is short of money, this type of phone is very useful, Mrs. Donovan points out. There is one drawback, however. The fee for using these phones is slightly higher than the fee for a regular pay phone, and may be 30 or 40 cents, rather than the usual dime.

In addition to one of the charge phones being installed in the basement of the library, another pay phone was installed there. Mrs. Donovan emphasized that the charge-a-call phones are only used for collect and credit card calls, and that the regular pay phones should still be used for standard toll calls.

Anyone wishing to use the new phones should keep in mind that Harkin's Hall is generally locked up after 10 o'clock p.m., but the phone in the library can be used until midnight on most nights.

Two phones will be installed in Slavin Center as well.

Lt. James B. Dalton, class of 1979, has recently been announced as an Honor Graduate of class 1978-79 conducted at Fort Sill, Oklahoma. Lt. Dalton has been honored as one of the top rated students in his officer basic course as a U.S. Army Field Artillery Officer.

Upon graduation, Jim began the Field Artillery Basic Course, which entails a demanding 10 week introduction to modern military management and leadership principles. The course places maximum emphasis on leadership ability and the effective management of personnel and material resources. As a graduate, Dalton was expected to demonstrate thorough proficiency in the operation of fire control computer systems. Also included in the basic course curriculum are varying phases of Field Artillery gunnery.

Dalton, an Education-Biology/Chemistry major, was a ROTC four year scholarship student. During his senior year at PC, he was the Cadet Battalion Commander, a member of the Cadet Officers' Honor Club, and the recipient of the George C. Marshall Award. Beyond his ROTC activities, Jim was an active member of the Physics Honors Society and a Dean's List student.

Lt. Dalton is also a graduate of the U.S. Army Airborne School, Fort Benning, Georgia, and is currently assigned to the U.S. Army 4th Infantry Division, Fort Carson, Colorado.

not be shortened. Goudie will bring the ideas of Congress members to the next Administration meeting.

Goudie also announced that the Planning Committee will soon begin re-evaluating all of the academic departments. Meetings will be set up for the administration, students, and faculty members in order to receive input. Students are encouraged to become involved with this evaluation program as it will affect them.

A full-time tutor, according to Goudie, is going to be hired for the PC athletes. "The money for this is coming from the athletic budget, which is generated from the profits the athletes bring in."

Dave Mulhern, chairman of the Athletic Board, announced that intramural hockey and basketball sign-ups will begin next week.

Student Congress treasurer Mike Welch stated that Student Congress will finance the Food and Variety Store if it is approved by the Committee on Administration. Also, a Campus Council meeting will be held on Tuesday, November 13, at 4:00 p.m.

Finally, tickets for Christmasfest, which is sponsored by the senior class, will be on sale beginning Wednesday, November 7.

Lioce

Island has. He added, "Where else could I live in a house that's 200 years old, that has four fire places and is a minute from the beach."

"The Journal isn't a great newspaper, but it's much better than most that I have seen. There are a lot of great and interesting people at the Journal and I get along with most of them," said Lioce.

He thinks that in the 60's, music was closely linked with politics and to a small degree it is still true today. "It's more prevalent in England today with the punk rock groups," he said.

"I like punk rock, but there is a lot of junk in it. But you find junk in all types of music," he said. "It's garage music, which is great," said Lioce.

To Lioce, music is something, "that a person takes out of himself and is a reflection of how things are in society. I enjoy listening to music. When I come home from work, I put on the Kinks, whereas some guys would go out and play football."

"I love the Kinks but I also like Perry Como, Frank Sinatra and Mozart. I don't like Manilow because he is to predictable," said Lioce.

He said that it bothered him to go to concerts at the Civic Center and see teenagers fighting. "I don't know if the drugs they are using today are different, but when I was young we used to go out and get ugly and have a good time, but we never threw bottles at one another. I don't think people back then were so groovy that they didn't do those things, but it seems as if kids today are meaner and that bothers me."

For a person who has had an up and down career so far, Tony Lioce seems to be doing just fine.

World Civilization: East meets West

A task force has recently been established by the Very Rev. Thomas R. Peterson, O.P., to examine the feasibility of an Eastern Civilization program. The possibility of incorporating a program such as this into the curriculum is a valuable idea in itself, simply because of the practicality of a knowledge of the eastern world.

The Editorial Board of the Cowl feels that such a program would definitely enrich the curriculum. Our main concern tion as the end all and be all. The western world constitutes merely five percent of the total land mass of the world.

The rising importance of the east, both economically and culturally, is affecting the whole world. As Father Peterson recently stated, "There are increasingly more opportunities for employment and careers abroad today in fields such as international trade, business, and politics. A working knowledge of a people's culture is almost essen-

"In the pursuit of a true liberal arts education, it is rather narrow of us to think of Western Civilization as the end all and be all."

regarding this proposal as an elective is the relative difficulty of selecting this course because of all the courses presently required of students. We, at the Cowl, suggest the blending of an Eastern Civilization program with Western Civilization, thus forming a program of "World Civilization."

In the pursuit of a true liberal arts education, it is rather narrow of us to think of Western Civiliza-tial to understand the people themselves. Students who have limited the scope of their study to the western world are at an obvious disadvantage in understanding the international or worldwide scene."

The Editorial Board of the Cowl hopes that Father Peterson's task force seriously considers the possibility of a World Civilization program. It would certainly be beneficial for students to receive a more balanced view of the world as a whole.

RAYMOND CAFETERIA

Murphy dishes out double helping of co-operation

Co-operation is the key to success. In the past year the Student Congress Food Committee, chaired by sophomore Steve "Veg" Maquire, has worked to improve the quality of food on campus, in Raymond and Alumni cafeterias, as well as in Mural Lounge. His efforts would have been futile if not for the co-operation of Mr. Joseph Murphy, director of Food Services and his food service staff.

The Food Committee meets monthly with Mr. Murphy and representatives from all the dining areas on campus. The food is first complimented and then criticized. It has become obvious that these meetings have proven beneficial since many improvements have been witnessed in all of the eating facilities.

The most substantial accomplishment which the committee can boast of is the alternate meal selection recently initiated. Students dining in Raymond for dinner now have a choice between two entrees. This gives students various selection. Congratulations are obviously in order for both Mr. Murphy and the Food Committee for this new development.

Additional renovations introduced by the Food Committee include the acquisition of an ice machine in Raymond Cafeteria, plus the deletion of some less desirable meals, and the introduction of some new ones. Mr. Murphy has also offered his services in assisting Sharon Treacy with the proposed food and variety store. As Treacy remarked, "He has been very cooperative in helping me establish the grounds for the food store."

These improvements have resulted from co-operation and concessions made on the part of both the committee and Mr. Murphy. The Editorial Board of the Cowl trusts that this spirit of co-operation will continue, thus insuring a high quality food service for the Providence College campus.

Letters

Theatre Arts answer again

To the Editor:

I would like to respond to the letter of Tom Keegan, '80. I think there is a misunderstanding stemming from a discrepancy in our separate views of Providence College. I see PC as an essentially academic institution (of higher education), while Tom Keegan seems to see it as something substantially less than that. Tom Keegan seems to value things quantitatively. (I prefer to do so qualitatively.) I am aware of the quantitatively limited number among the ranks of the PC theatricals, but I am all the more aware of the superior quality of the Providence College Theatre Arts program (good things come in small packages). Tom Keegan very slyly caught my metaphor, and managed to miss the message of my letter. Not one of us "three theatre revolutionaries" suggested the construction of an "elaborate entertainment center" (although if a $5.5 million dollar field house is not exactly just that, I do not know what is).

Perhaps my interpretation of William Shakespeare's "all the world's a stage," is a bit loose, but is it not a little interesting to note that his theatre was called "The Globe"? Concerning "and all the men and women merely players," is it possible that you took this figurative statement and literally interpreted this to mean that human nature necessitates our involvement in society as basketball players? As for flexing, hopping, and wrists flexing (am I presumptuous in assuming this statement was directed at us boys?), I think you will find a great deal more of this on any basketball court or athletic field than the stage. (Did you ever try to dribble a basketball without flexing a wrist?) To look at things quantitatively now, the score is five letters opposed to the field house to your one in its defense. I think the advice of a greater man than you or I or even the Board, namely Saint Paul, may put things in perspective: "Physical exercise has some value, but spiritual exercise is valuable in every way, because it promises life both for the present and for the future." That, I think, is the essence of the "real world." But while we are on the subject...

It is truly necessary for the Office of Registrar to hold course registration in Harkins Hall, thus preventing rehearsal of the theatre arts program production of Angel Street there when there are perhaps half a dozen equally suitable locations on campus for this procedure? I really do not mean to complain; I am just trying to earn my degree.

Sincerely,
Peter Cameron, '80

Papal thanks for Cowl

Dear Editor:

A copy of the recent feature article on "Pope John Paul II-A Student and His Dominican, Alma Mater" was sent to Rome upon publication. Luigi Cardinal Ciappi, O.P., recently responded and wishes me to express his appreciation and gratitude to the Cowl for its historical coverage of the Holy Father's Dominican education.

Sincerely,
Father James Driscoll, O.P.

Thoughts while shaving The Football Club, one of our important teams

By Tom Bowen

For all of those out there who haven't noticed, our college boasts a sports team that is ranked sixth nationally. It is the club football squad, and this past week, it easily knocked off the second ranked team in the nation.

Normally, when a college sports squad performs this well, it receives a great amount of fanfare and publicity. The players are given superior facilities to work with, and a close rapport generally exists between the team and the school. However, for a team that is rated so highly, the Friar football club receives a minimum of publicity, works under shoddy conditions, and has a relationship with the college that can best be described as shaky.

In fact, the club has a rapport with the school that is so shaky, there are some people who would like to phase the club right out of existence. At this point, the team is surviving on borrowed time, for it is not even sure if it will last through next season. With the money coming from the students activities fee, funds are limited.

Despite the adverse conditions that surround the club, it continues to reign. And now it has a chance to gain a berth in the National Championship Game. Furthermore, the football club owns the best won-lost percentage of all sports teams at the college over the last ten years. If the football club goes under, the school will have lost one of its more important teams.

Kelly's Keane Komments

From surveying the campus lately, it seems we have a new sport here at PC—that of smashing beer bottles. I realize that this relieves tension and provides immense pleasure, but there must be a better way of letting people know that we are NOT a suitcase college and that we most definitely were there this weekend! The justification that "it will decompose in twenty years" is false, and unless we get people to understand this, we're going to have a lot of cut and flattened tires this spring.

The big, new, black and white drums located at strategic points around campus are not there to mate with skunks, nor are they hiding places for Friars. They are, in fact, very handy for stashing trash.

"Have Pride in Your Campus" is not graffiti on the back outside of Harkins. That is SUPPOSED to be there and its effects are evident in the students we see scampering around the area scraping up any litter they can find and putting it ceremoniously into this box, with an angelic glow on their faces and their hearts bursting with a sudden surge of pride.

If EVERYONE hates the sight of broken bottles so much and the thought of cleaning them up and the people who break them, then who can we blame?

I propose that we decide right now that it is not "kids from other schools" or a "low flying jet getting rid of extra weight" or a "strong wind from URI," but it IS each and every one of us! We are ruining our own campus!

Don't litter. Stop those you see littering, pick up any trash that you can—and if you wanna smash—join the volleyball team.

I would like to clarify my response. I am not rebuking the proposed field house or Tom Keegan, nor the right of any student to voice opinions on these issues. I am angered that this paper was used to make unfounded and unsubstantiated statements against a department at PC, but much more importantly a fellow student. This type of slander should not and must not be tolerated. I feel I try to lessen the significance of this letter is unfair to the entire PC community. Therefore, I am asking that the Editor of the Cowl and Tom Keegan submit an apology to this paper. I think the Theatre Arts program is a fine one, and participants and certainly Peter Cameron, deserve a formal apology.

Since Providence College is a Catholic institution, it would be fitting for some form of Christian fellowship to exist among her students. We would be wise to respect each other as students, but even more, as Christians.

William F. Roberts
Class of 82

Apology demanded

Dear Editor:

In response to a letter printed in the Cowl by Tom Keegan last week, I would like to say that I was not only surprised at the senior's comments, but could not believe the Editor would permit such slander to be publicly relayed. Perhaps I thought the Cowl had more integrity than was presented in that issue.

On library improvement

Dear Editor:

A good library is more than just a quiet place to study. Improving the research material available to students should be high on the list of priorities at PC. When doing term papers, I often end up going to the Brown University Library because of its better facilities. Especially lacking at PC are the Political Science and sociology departments. The periodicals are either not available or missing, and the books are too often out of date. The college should take another look at this important area of student life when deciding where to improve. It isn't as visible as other improvements, but nevertheless is an important one.

Neil O'Brien, '81

WDOM appreciative

To the Editor:

On behalf of the staff and management of WDOM, I would like to take this opportunity to extend to the Cowl a sincere thank you for your interest in our proposed wage increase. The article recently published, as well as our advertisements, have generated a lot of interest and support that makes this project worthwhile, not only for Providence College, but for the surrounding communities as well.

I would also like to take this time to thank the college community for their support. It is very encouraging.

Once again, to all of you, thank you very much.

Sincerely,
Michael J. McCormack

Gucci, Izod or Purple Jackets

Dear Editor:

As I was innocently reading the Providence College Cowl, I noticed that I was lucky enough to be mentioned in Michele Ricciardi's article. It took me a while to get used to the idea of being called the "chick wearing the purple Classical High majorette jacket," but never the less, I must admit. I must admit, no one has ever asked me if I have ever heard of Dean sweaters, but I would love to take out a loan and buy one when I get older. As far as being a "halter woman," my exterior features are far too evident and I would absolutely feel awful if white standing at a bus stop and an accident

Letter goes to dogs

Dear Editor:

What exactly was the problem Michael C. Grimes so inconsistently attempted to state in his letter to you on October 31, 1979? Three things were clear: 1) He didn't care where students urinated. 2) His wife was bitten on campus last week. 3) He paid $1000 to see his name in print.

With all due respect to Mr. Grimes and the high esteem to which he claims, I find it amazing that he has remained at the admirable position he forthrightly stated. His thoughtless sense of self "expression left me more baffled than concerned.

How could a man of the advertising world be so careless in his presentation of an editorial letter? If sloppiness is a key asset to "real world" success, I feel many of us undergraduates will be doomed for the dogs.

Sincerely,
Michele Ricciardi, 1980

Halloween reruns

No need to run for the phone Halloween night.

As usual it was wall to wall lunacy throughout Slavin Center on Wednesday.

The Grim Reaper was there with sickle in hand.

Cowl

Jon Laing, Ken Cooperman and Mike Desautels kept the law in disorder in classic Keystone fashion.

It was a close call for Best Break between these two costume characters.

Larry Gallagher (r) and Johnny "Guitar" Meyer display some real machismo in Alumni Cafe.

It took all kinds to make this years Halloween another fantastic success and a really great time.

Goblins and ghouls and lions and tigers and bears, oh my!

October 31, Halloween night, Slavin Center was like something out of a fantastic dream, housing a wierd-but-wonderful assortment of what were once ordinary students. There were the McDermott Babies, the twelve Hershey's Kisses, not to mention Gang Green, from McViney. Monsters roamed about wildly; Disco Witches cackled through their glitter.

While those in costume lent entertainment to the night, Albatross and the Beagles highlighted the night with music. Refreshments were plentiful; fun was overflowing.

Part of that fun found itself in the form of prizes given to the best single, duo, and group costume. Bert Palmer captured single prize.

The best duo prize was won by Tom Brown and his girlfriend Wendy Rinebolt, who were costumed as a pay telephone and receiver. "The idea was Wendy's," Tom said. "We had a telephone cord between us. That's all that kept us together." Tom chuckled, "aside from mutual affection." Louis Macri and friends were awarded the best group prize, as they stomped the Halloween party as sheep. The prizes took the form of Molsen Ale, much appreciated awards.

The Halloween Party, sponsored by the Board of Governors, was a high success.

Upcoming BOG events for the week include tonight's "Nuclear Power Forum," to be held at 8 p.m. in '64 Hall, sponsored by the Lecture Committee, Thursday's bus trip to Boston to see the play "Da"; and the 9 p.m. concert to be held Friday night, in the upper level of Slavin Center, featuring Tom Stankas.

ROTC Cadets run for funds

Providence College ROTC Cadets, responding to a recent article in the Cowl in which the BOG encouraged support for a so called "Brain Run," ran 1391 miles during October and gathered over $700.00 in pledges.

A total of 35 cadets from the ROTC department ran in support of the charity which ultimately hopes to build a brain research center in New Seabury, Mass. Included among the many individuals and groups who sponsored the ROTC runners were the Army Reserve Officers Association, Major General Leonard Holland, Adjutant General of the State of Rhode Island, Mr. Robert Reisman, RI's Civilian Aide to the Secretary of the Army, Rev. Thomas R. Peterson, president of Providence College, and Colonel Herbert Moore, Commander of the ROTC Area in which Providence College is located.

Providence College's Cadet Battalion started gathering sponsors as soon as they read the Cowl article. Led by Cadet Battalion, Commander Richard Howe from Lowell, Mass., Cadets focused their running activities during the month of October in conjunction with the "United States Police Brain Run" which started last month in Phoenix, Arizona, and is headed for New Seabury, Cape Cod, where land has been donated for a Brain Research and Rehabilitation Center. The nationwide "run for funds" is being conducted to raise money for the center in memory of Doreen Grace, a 21 year old Acton, Mass. woman who died in 1976 of a brain disease.

Setting the pace for the cadets was Lee Felton, a senior from Massachusetts, who ran 244 miles during the month of October. A participant in the 1979 Boston Marathon himself, Cadet Felton is also preparing for a marathon next month in Foxboro, Mass. Also contributing significantly were cadets Steve Henley, Mike Moretti, Pat Cassidy, Brian Hoey, Kathy Lyons, Mark Waterhouse, John Pelouquin and Ed Tross.

The cadets were also running to improve their own physical fitness which is an integral part of the ROTC program.

Riddle: What is deeply involved in the college, has 19 appearances with the basketball team, and has its Christmas concert slated for December third? (Hint: they rehearse on the first floor of the music building.) But of course! The PC Band is the answer to this easy riddle.

The band is not simply the band. There is the stage and the concert bands. There is the pep band which appears at all the home basketball games. Speaking of hoop, the first home game pep band appearance in November 24, during the Thanksgiving break, it is very hard to miss the pep band, as they always sit in the "rowdy" section of the Civic Center and wear special rugby shirts.

The PC Band, like all college bands, plays an important part in college protocol. They perform on Freshman Parents' Day every year, not to mention the more special occasions such as Convocation and Cystic Fibrosis Telethon of last year. Doughty and determined musicians that they are, the band played at the Columbus National Bank concert, an outdoor event held October 10th. From what I hear, it is not that easy to play in the snow, even if it's October snow.

PC has not always been fortunate enough to have a band and John Swoboda is the individual responsible for bringing it about. Swoboda is director and conductor. The band council president is Tim Salley, and vice president is Dan Archetto.

When Arthur Fieldler attended last year's commencement, the band struck up "Stars and Stripes Forever," his personal favorite. He is reported to have made a point of saying that the band was very good. A remarkable compliment from a remarkable man, to a remarkable band.

Plant talk Bean Town Fern

Mephrolepis Evalta, Boston Fern, as it is known today, is actually a mutation of the sword fern, found near Boston in the 1890's. It is recognizable by its long, arching fronds that may reach as long as 3 ft., with short, close leaflets along its length.

The Boston Fern does best in bright, indirect, or filtered light. That is, light filtered through, perhaps a sheer curtain. Water when completely dry, and spray mist between thorough waterings.

Large pots of Boston Fern are more than likely to contain a group of smaller fern plants, and rather than transplanting into increasingly larger pots, it is generally easier to remove the smaller plants from the edge of the main pot, and start them on their own.

Fertilize mature ferns at two month intervals during the spring and summer. Do not fertilize during the winter.

Bright light and misting are the most important things to remember with the Boston Fern.

Questions concerning ferns or any other plants may be directed to Richard of Frey Frost, 50 Radcliffe Ave., Providence, 02139.

Pianist Fairleigh

Pianist Marlane Fairleigh, adjunct faculty member in the Providence College music program, will perform at Rhode Island College, 138 Roberts Hall, November 20 at 1:00 p.m. The entire program will showcase the music of composer Robert M. Boberg, assoc. Professor of Music, Rhode Island College.

Marlane Fairleigh appears frequently in both solo and ensemble concerts. She has also served as music clinician, adjudicator, and accompanist for events in the greater Providence area. Before coming to Rhode Island in 1975, Ms. Fairleigh taught at Hanover College, Indiana. In addition to teaching at Providence College, she is visiting instructor of Music at Rhode Island College. She and her husband James, Assoc. Professor of Music, Rhode Island College, often perform as piano duo partners, having recently appeared together in Atlanta at Emory University, Rhode Island College, and Providence College. Scheduled for the program November 20 is music for two pianos, performed by the Fairleighs; music for two pianos, eight hands, wherein the Fairleighs are joined by Audrey Kaiser and Robert Elam; works for piano duet; and the premiere performance by Dr. James Fairleigh of Boberg's Sonata, composed in the spring of 1979.

There is no admission charge.

Bud named champion

A panel of nine college students, known for their contributions to the field of beer drinking, sponsored by the Rolling Stone College Papers, recently tested 22 brews and selected Budweiser as the champion.

The beers were served in arbitrary pairs in identical glasses marked X and Y. Each beer was paired against different competition for each individual taster.

For fairness, an intricate system was devised so that each beer was given to one-third on the tasters in each of the beginning, middle and final rounds.

Beers from all over the world were judged, but Budweiser, produced by St. Louis-based Anheuser-Busch, came out on top.

Rolling Stone College Papers, an annual publication of Rolling Stone Magazine, reported that Hamm's captured second place and Foster's, an Australian brew, was listed third.

NOW YOU CAN EARN OVER $6,500 WITH ARMY ROTC.

Before you graduate from college! Because now, you can combine service in the Army Reserve or National Guard with Army ROTC. It's called the Simultaneous Membership Program (SMP). And, depending on your academic year when you enter, SMP can help you earn over $6,500.

Here's how it works. If you qualify and a vacancy is available, you become a member of an Army Reserve or National Guard unit as an officer trainee and, at the same time, enroll in the Army ROTC advanced course at your college. Your Reserve or Guard membership will pay you at the minimum level of Sergeant E-5, and you'll receive $100 a month during the regular school year as an Army ROTC advanced course cadet.

At the end of your second year of advanced ROTC, you'll be commissioned a second lieutenant and, assuming there's a vacancy, serve with a Guard or Reserve unit while you complete the requirements for your college degree. Upon graduation, you may continue service with a Guard or Reserve unit while pursuing your civilian career, or you can, if you prefer, compete for active duty as an Army officer.

So if you'd like to earn over $6,500 while you're still in college, get into SMP. Because SMP can help you do it. You can bank on it!

For further information, contact the Professor of Military Science at your school.

Veteran's Day: long weekend coming up

By Lt. Col. Robert Stieppok

Monday is Veteran's Day. The theme for this year's holiday observance is "A Grateful Nation Remembers." On Monday, a special remembrance will be seen, when the Postal Service issues a stamp picturing the Vietnamese Service Ribbon, and the words "Honoring Vietnamese Veterans."

There is also a special remembrance on the PC campus that has been here since 1948: the War Memorial Grotto. Dedicated to 68 PC graduates who died in World War II, the Grotto is a constant reminder of sacrifices made in every war.

Located in a quiet corner of the campus, near Aquinas Chapel and Dominic Hall, the Grotto was built through the efforts of Father Charles M. McKenna, once chaplain of Providence College. To raise funds for construction of the Grotto, Father McKenna staged what became one of the city's most popular annual events, the Penny Auction.

Press accounts called the memorial "the largest of its kind in the country," when it was dedicated on May 9, 1948. Large or small, the flag and field stone grotto, also called the Grotto of Our Lady of the Rosary, which Father McKenna hoped would be the "center of religious expression" on the campus, remains beautiful and fitting expression of gratitude to all veterans.

Graphic 11.: A replica of the new stamp, to be available after November 11. Other photos of War Memorial Grotto.

Women's hockey roundup Lady Friars hope to repeat last year's record of 16-3-1

By Ellen Harrington

With the winter season finally upon us, the Providence College girls' ice hockey team has taken to the ice for their sixth season. The Lady Friars, coached by Tom Palamara and Burt Palmer, are coming off a 16-3-1 season and are looking to be very competitive in their league.

The team didn't lose any of their forwards, and coach Palamara is looking to last year's scoring line of Mary Ellen Reardon, Kathy Lenahan and Connie Richer to keep up the good work. Freshmen Mary Beth Hannon and Cissy Bogosian on scholarship from Cranston will also be adding to the strength up front.

The defense is going through some readjustment after losing four players to graduation. Sue Duffy and Kelly Tiernan have moved back and are doing well in their new positions. They'll be defending goalsies Jill Spencer and Jessie Ford.

The girls play a twenty-one game schedule culminating in the First Annual Eastern Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women Championship (EAIAW) to be held at Schneider Arena March 7 and 8. It will include the four top teams in the east, decided by wins and strength of schedule.

PC ruggers suffer loss to City, 22-3

By Paul O'Riordan

The PC rugby team lost a hard hitting game against the Providence city team, 22-3, at Raymond Field last Thursday night. The vastly more experienced city team proved to be too much for the young PC team as they dominated most of the game. However, the PC team, plagued with injuries, did well considering the differences in age and size.

The season opens on Wednesday, November 14, when the Lady Friars take on Boston College at 7:00 p.m. at Schneider Arena.

According to Palamara, the outlook is good right now. "If we can put the talent we have together, and keep healthy, it looks like a good season."

The only PC scoring came from a penalty kick by Mike Corrigan. Kevin Kelley, a PC student who plays for the city team, scored twice. As coach Mike Trainor pointed out after the game, the match served as a good learning experience for the PC team.

Next Thursday night at 7:00 on Raymond Field, the rugby team will play Brown in what promises to be a good game.

Murphy, Doyle lead Friars Over AIC, 3-1

By Cheryl Gabes

The PC soccer team added another victory to their list of credits last Tuesday when they defeated AIC, 3-1. Entering into the game with a record of 5-4, the Friars hosted an opposition with a record of 3-10. The Friars held a definite edge over AIC in both strength and team ability.

The Friars were first to score, at 41:00 into the first half of play, and it was John Murphy with a sure fire kick past the AIC goalie. Billy Baker assisted on the goal and the Friars were on their way to another victory leading at half-time, 1-0.

It can be imagined that coach Doyle's halftime talk stressed the importance of teamwork and controlled footwork, for PC continued to control the game in the second half. Twenty-one minutes into the second half, Jay Skelton netted another goal for the Friars, this time assisted by John Murphy. The Friars' impressive 2-0 lead was soon challenged. Al Levakis of the Dominican Republic fired one past the PC goalie at 44:00, to put AIC on the board, 2-1.

Fifty-two seconds later, Alan Doyle scored on a penalty kick which resulted from a hand ball error by AIC. PC was forced to tighten their defense, which they did, and succeeded in making their 3-1 lead untouchable. The Friars went on to win the clash and upped their record to 6-4.

V-ballers place 9th at URI

By Mary Gibbons

The University of Rhode Island was the site of the most recent women's volleyball tournament. The tournament started on Friday, November 2, and continued through Saturday, November 3. Teams which placed in the top four of the regionals last year competed in this tournament. Such teams as Rutgers, Georgetown, the University of Delaware and Strasburg proved to be tough competition for the Lady Friars.

Providence played two matches on Friday evening. Delaware managed to down the Lady Friars in the first match but they went on to beat Central Connecticut State College in the later match. On Saturday morning, PC began a full day with a loss to a slightly superior Georgetown team. The Lady Friars rebounded and defeated Springfield College in two games and defeated the University of New Haven in a best of three match.

Their fine play brought PC to the finals. After the long day of hard play with little rest, PC fell to Navy in the finals. They finished an outstanding 9th in the tournament and 2nd in their bracket. The Lady Friars had every reason to be proud of themselves after such a fine showing.

Behind the excellent coaching of Mr. Dick Bage and the leadership of junior captain Joan Fenneran, the Lady Friars have continued to defeat their opponents while displaying their fantastic team effort.

With the return of sophomore Trish Curran along with regulars Sheila Deam, Linda Leonard, Sandy Ratcliffe, Kelly Keane and Liz Galvin, the Lady Friars are prepared for the Rhode Island State Championship to be held on Saturday, November 10 at URI.

PC Hockey Friars boast speed, new attitude for 1979-80

By Ron Ploccone

With November here, we are certain of two things, one—winter is nearing and two—the PC Pucksters take the ice to begin their regular season. This '79-80 season should be as exciting as ever.

So far, the team is in the process of getting the kinks out. With the summer layoff and new varsity players, the team has to reorient itself with each other and the rink. In the two exhibition games up to this writing, the Friars have won both. They played Holy Cross and Lowell University and according to coach Lamoriello "showed signs of improvement in each game."

Coach Lamoriello stated that the main difference from last year's team and this year's team is attitude. Last year's team "expected to do good things when they went on the ice." This year "nothing is taken for granted, they realize they have to work for everything they get."

The season will begin with junior Greg Nolin as the starting goalie. Nolin saw only limited action last year while in the shadow of standout Bill Milner. Sophomore Scott Fiske will back up Nolin.

Coach Lamoriello plans on carrying at least eight defensemen on his roster this year. Returning from last year, the Friars have Dan Haskins, Jim Colucci, Scott Klienedorst and Jon Hogberg. All saw plenty of playing time last year and their experience should be invaluable. Frank Johnson is coming off an injury plagued season and should also be an asset to the defensive corps.

The Friars' frontline was hurt most by graduation. Returning lettermen are Steve O'Neil, Denis Martin, Steve Evangelista, Paul Stasiuk, John Sullivan, Terry Horgan, and the team captain Jeff Whisler.

Another interesting aspect to look for when this team takes the ice is its overall skating ability. Speed is a factor on this Friars team, a quality most teams hope for each year. It should be a big advantage in breaking around the opponents' defenders.

This season there will be a new twist to the equipment worn by all ECAC hockey players. Each player on the ice will be required to wear a cage face mask. Masks are typically worn only after an injury has occurred to one's face. This rule was implemented to prevent eye and other serious injuries. Will there be more hitting in the corners, more elbowing, more stickwork now because of this preventive measure? You will have to attend the games to find out.

And speaking of attending games, there have been over 1200 student season tickets sold. Don Bello, ticket manager, has stated that there are still some student season tickets available. So do not be the only one not at a hockey game.

Captain Jeff Whisler's scrappy style of play should be an inspiration to teammates in upcoming season.

chosen from the 13-3 Lady Friars squad to represent the All Star Northeastern team. Goalie Marilyn Noble and forward Linda Wage were first team stars, with halfback Kathy Lenahan a second team selection and Monica Glynn a third teamer. Lynn Shedy, the team's second leading scorer, was a top candidate for all star honors until she was injured.

The Lady Friars were led in scoring by junior Linda Wage, who netted 29 goals. She was national champion. Due to their strong performance in the Eastern Regionals, the women's cross-country team has qualified to send runners to the Woman's National Cross-Country Championships to be held in Tallahassee, Florida, on November 17. PC is the only school in Rhode Island to qualify for the championship. It is still undetermined which runners will be sent to represent PC.

followed by Shedy who had twelve and Glynn who had five. PC's domination of plays is evidenced by their outscoring of opponents, 56-25. Goalie Noble had a good year, registering four shutouts.

Gridders crush Bentley, 35-7

By John Brandolino

The Providence College football game destroyed Bentley College's playoff hopes and closed in on a berth in the Nationals last Sunday by crushing the Falcons, 35-7, at Hendrick Field. The Friars bumped off second place Bentley and moved into the number two spot themselves with a record of 5-1-1.

PC gained possession of the ball first and gave Bentley a taste of things to come. Landers and Biga, as usual, let their talents run wild by carrying the ball from their own 35 yard line to the 44 yard line of the Falcons. Once there, the Friar offensive line plowed down the line of Bentley and Biga ran 44 yards for the first score of the game.

Bentley fought back during their first possession, but the determined linebackers of Providence forced a fumble which Kevin Clare scooped up. The home team began to eat up yardage again. After an excellent 70 yard drive, however, the Friars lost the ball as a result of a turnover on the two yard line.

PC's league leading defense kept the Falcons at bay by continually shutting them for losses. Bobby Fazo, Billy Christianson, and Mark Brady rolled over Bentley's backfield with hits that could well have been heard on Lower Campus.

Meanwhile, the Friar scoring machine was just swinging into the high gear. In the second quarter, P.J. Kelly hit for two passes for 40 yards which put the Friars on the 15 yard line of the Falcons. Bob Landers easily carried the ball in from there. Perkewich caught the extra point and upheld the Providence lead to 14-0. With less than a minute to play, Tom Biga returned a Bentley punt 63 yards. Biga's superb open field running and a successful kick gave the Friars the lead at halftime, 21-0.

The Falcons knew it would take a superb second half effort to overcome the Friars so their first drive was an all out effort. All they could manage was an off to the right field goal attempt. Providence followed with yet another successful drive led by the diving running of Biga as well as help on a roughing the passer call on Bentley. Landers jumped into the endzone for the fourth, PC touchdown to put the game out of reach. Later in the fourth quarter, Landers ran nine yards for another score to increase the Friar lead to 35-0. The shutout was spoiled when the Falcons scored on the last play of the game.

Bob Landers, who ran for 117 yards in Sunday's win over Bentley, is brought down after getting a few more tough yards.

Landers and Biga once again both ran for over a hundred yards (117 each). Their success all year has been remarkable for they are gifted runningbacks, but credit should be given to the offensive line which has done an outstanding job opening holes and providing downfield blocking on those long runs. P.J. Kelly completed four out of five passes for nearly 100 yards. Chuck Fox and Billy Christianson excelled as the awesome Friar defense held Bentley to only 182 total yards on offense.

Next week PC plays the University of Lowell. Lowell is undefeated and are ranked first in the country in club football. To get to the Nationals, PC must win this game. The two club football powers will play at Lowell on Sunday.

Tom Biga, the other half of the Friar galloping backfield, broke four runs of 44 and 63 yards on separate runs.

After finishing up their last two regular season games, the PC Lady Friars wiped out their competition in the Williams College Field Hockey Tournament in a most impressive style.

PC came out of their regular season match against Bentley in double trouble, losing both the game and one of their key players, Lynn Sheedy. The 4-2 loss was not as damaging as was the sprained knee of Sheedy's, which sidelined her for the remainder of the season. Linda Wage collected both goals for PC, but the shifts in positions required because of the injury to Sheedy left the Ladies to disorient to muster any strong threats.

In their final game of the regular season, PC came back to capture a 3-1 victory. Linda Wage scored all three goals to help the Lady Friars to finish with a 10-3 record.

In the Williams College Tournament, the PC squad destroyed all competition, outscoring them eleven goals to one in the two days of play.

Williams College was the first PC victim, falling 3-0 to a sharp PC Friar squad. Linda Wage scored one and Monica Glynn, Sheedy's replacement, put in the other two. Marilyn Noble kicked out 16 shots on goal to register the shutout.

Bates College felt the PC punch next in the 2-0 game in which PC again used strong defense and reliable scorers to settle the match. Linda Wage scored again, along with Sharon Clegg, while Marilyn Noble continued her standout performance in goal.

In their final game of the year, PC romped over Amherst College, 6-1. Wage had three goals, Glynn two and halfback Kathy Lenahan had one.

Overall, PC played their best games of the season at Williams. Great teamwork, according to coach Denning, made it impossible to pick one most valuable Friar. Four players were

Men's and women's B ball Squads to play exhibition

The PC men's and women's basketball squads will stage an afternoon of exhibitions this Friday, November 10, at 2:30 in Alumni Hall. This exhibition will be open to all students free of charge and will be the first look at this year's varsity squads for many students.

This is how the exhibitions will be run: the men's varsity team will scrimmage among itself for approximately twenty minutes, then the women make the court for about the same amount of time. The two squads will alternate for about two hours. The scrimmaging squads may not be the starting lineup of either squad, but the play should give PC hoop fans an idea of what to expect in the upcoming season.

The scrimmages will be followed by a reception in 64 Hall at 5:00. Coaches Gary Walters and Tim Gilbride, as well as players, will be there to meet and talk with students. Refreshments will be served.

It had been raining since early morning and when the starting pistol fired at two o'clock p.m. on Saturday, November 3, the soggy, mud-covered grounds of the Franklin Park course made racing conditions horrible. Coach Bob Amato looked into the gray, misty skies and commented, "Well, at least the guys from Ireland will feel right at home." By the end of the 8,000 meter race, Amato's words had proved correct.

The powerful Providence Harriers ran away with everything on Saturday, to capture the New England Cross-Country Championship. PC runners placed first, second and third in a field of 196 runners, and captured the title for the sixth consecutive year. Friar runners also placed tenth and eleventh to finish the race with just 27 points, one of the lowest scores any team has registered to win the event. Irishman Ray Treacy finished first with a time of 24:12. About twenty seconds later, Paul Maloney, another Irishman, crossed the finish line to take second place. Maloney was followed closely by senior Peter Crooke, an American who hails from Long Island. Dave Ball, a junior from Ireland, finished tenth, while freshman James Fallon, also from Ireland, placed eleventh.

Treacy, who took the lead around the one half mile mark, said that the wet grounds slowed him down a great deal on the hills and made the footing especially slippery and dangerous. "However, I felt confident about the outcome for Providence all through the race," he said.

Treacy's victory made this the seventh consecutive year that a Friar runner has finished first.

Among the thirty schools that entered the race, Providence was the only Rhode Island school to finish in the top ten. The University of New Hampshire finished second and Northeastern took third. Now that PC has the New England Championship captured once again, they can concentrate on the regional qualifying meet for the National Championships. This regional meet will take place on Saturday, November 10, and will once again be run over the Franklin Park course. The first three teams to place in this qualifying race will go to the National Championships, and based on their performance in the New England, Providence should certainly be considered one of the favorites.

Ray Treacy (325), shown here in the middle of the pack, passed everyone and finished first in the New England last Saturday.
