On Friday, November 2, at 4:00 p.m., a ceremony was held in Koffler Hall to honor Mrs. Sol Koffler and family. This ceremony is the fifth in a series of events scheduled to celebrate the tenth anniversary of the Art Department at Providence College. The event, attended by students, faculty, and guests, marked a significant milestone for the department, which has been offering art-related courses and degrees to students for the past ten years.

The festivities began with a ribbon-cutting ceremony, followed by a slide show of highlights from the department's history. The event concluded with a tour of the new Koffler Hall, which has been dedicated to the family's contributions to the arts and humanities.

Voter registration drive

By Steve Sylvia

This Tuesday, November 11, the Student Congress, in conjunction with the Rhode Island Board of Elections, sponsored a voter registration drive on campus. All the students attending the dedication of the Department of Art and Art History and the Pietrasanta Summer Study Program at Koffler Hall were asked to take part in the drive in order to increase voter registration among college students.

Voter apathy among college students is widespread, and this drive will hopefully increase voter interest. The PC community, under the leadership of Kerry Rafaelini, president of the Student Congress, staged its drive because it wants to have a voice in policies that will affect their lives.

The drive was organized by Dr. Ronald Cerwonka, director of Residence Organization. Approximately 150 students were registered on campus, and an art exhibit and lecture were scheduled to give directions and also serve as a source of information for the voter registration drive.

The drive was a success, and the Student Congress plans to continue its efforts to increase voter registration among college students.

Art department, Pietrasanta celebrate tenth anniversary

On Saturday, November 3, 1979, the feast day of St. Martin de Porres, a statue was blessed at the St. Martin statue on campus, and a art exhibit and buffet were held in honor of the tenth anniversary of the founding of the Department of Art and Art History and the Pietrasanta Summer Study Program at Koffler Hall.

The Department of Art and Art History was formally established on October 28, 1970. The first Pietrasanta Program took place during the summer of 1970 with three students in attendance. While the Pietrasanta Program is under the direction and supervision of the Department of Art and Art History, it also falls under the control of the Provence-in-Europe office which has students studying at Fribuerg, Switzerland, Caen, and Lisbon, Portugal, and now in the Orient. The Pietrasanta Program is a two-month study program in the fine arts and the humanities. Located during the month of July in Pietrasanta, the heart of the marble trade in the world, the students also study in London, Paris, Munich, and Rome. Ninety students have participated in the program during the past ten years, with 40 students graduating each year over the United States. Attendance is primarily from Providence College. The program also offers graduate credit in art history and Renaissance Literature and History. In addition, there is a full-semester program now formally approved by the administration.

The festivities began with a Mass in Aquinas Chapel, celebrated by Lawrence M. Hunt, O.P., the founder, first chairman, and professor of art history of the Department of Art and Art History. Father M. Coskren, O.P., was homilist for the occasion. This Mass was offered in thanksgiving for the founding of the department and the Pietrasanta Program and in memory of those connected with the program who have passed to their eternal reward: Marc Dupre and Mary Benko, art majors; Thomas McGlynn, O.P., first professor of sculpture in the Pietrasanta Program; Papa Bigi, of Pietrasanta, Italy; Terry Hauck and Carol Meunier, participants in the Pietrasanta Program.

Following the Mass, red roses were presented to Mrs. Lillian Koffler, with a presentation of one dozen red roses to Mrs. Lillian Koffler. The dedication commenced with a witty speech and solemn thank you to the Kofflers by Father Peters, M. Peter Peters then spoke, expressing his appreciation over the bestowing of such an honor on himself and his entire family. Dr. Ronald Cerwonka, chairman of the department, presented Koffler with a Koffler Hall and a plaque, citing Mr. Koffler as the honorary chairman of the business department. Governor Gerrahey then read a proclamation having a voice in the community.

The rules for registration are as follows: Out of state students must register in Providence and stay registered even if they are registered in their hometowns (this will nullify their hometown registration). In-state students may either vote in either Providence or their hometowns or switch their registration from their hometown to Providence.

The voter registration will take place in Slavin Center from 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. on Tuesday, November 19. Each evening it will take place in Raymond Cafe from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m.

At the Student Congress meeting on November 4, Kevin Golden, chairman of the Legislative Committee, announced that the Student Congress has approved the "off-campus residence organization." This organization will officially represent off-campus residents.

It will provide a unity of purpose among off-campus students, advise and educate them of their legal rights and responsibilities and refer them to legal advisors. This organization, which was initiated by the Life-styles Committee, will also assist students in finding suitable off-campus housing, a screening of landlords will be one way in which they will do this. Terry Rafaelini, president of Student Congress, expressed the need for student participation in this project.

The "off-campus residence organization will only be as successful as the people who want to get involved," he said.

Bob Good, chairman of the Committee on Administration sought options from Congress for a possibility of extending the time between classes from ten to fifteen minutes.

“Many students and faculty members are concerned that there is not enough time between classes, especially when walking from Koffler Hall to Harkins Hall.” If this extension does go into effect, class time will lose.

OCRO proposed to aid off-campus students

At a Student Congress meeting Sunday night, the establishment of Off-Campus Board was proposed. The congress voted on and unanimously supported the idea, which is to unify the students living off campus and to alleviate some of the responsibilities that have previously been placed on the Off-Campus Board. The move was initiated in Congress by Eileen Connor, chairwoman and representative of the Dillon Club. Until now, off-campus residents have been considered commuters. The Student Congress saw the need for a separate organization for off-campus residents, since their needs differ from those of commuters, who are presently represented by the Dillon Club.

Many off-campus residents encounter problems with neighbors, landlords and legal problems that they can't solve themselves and they have never had the opportunity to seek help. The Off-Campus Board could give advice or lend support in these matters. The Off-Campus Board will serve as a unified voice by which off-campus students can communicate their needs and responsibilities and, if necessary, refer students to the legal counsel provided by the Student Congress. Attorney Paul Pisano handles the College's legal problems and many students have consulted him for advice. However, such a large number of students encounter legal problems that his office has been overwhelmed with students' requests for help. It is believed that many students' problems can be handled by the Off-Campus Board, thus alleviating the burden that has been placed on Pisano's office.

The board will also aid students in finding suitable housing by providing listings of available housing, records of previous tenants, and apartment ratings.

The establishment of the Off-Campus Board must still be approved by Rev. Francis Duffy, O.F.P., vice-president for Student Services, but Student Congress is optimistic of this approval.

If all goes according to plan, Congress expects to hold a temporary election for officers of the board sometime in January. A regular election will be held the following September and subsequent terms will run from September to May. The four officers are: chairperson, vice-chairperson, secretary, and treasurer. These positions will be elected in open, public meetings. The Off-Campus Board will be able to advise off-campus students on these matters.

Two PC men attacked by six other students

A group of six men attacked two other men on the Providence College Campus early Saturday morning, beating one of them severely, police said.

The victim was Edward B. Flynn, 3rd, and Michael C. Harris, 20, both of 28 Lancaster St., Providence, said police, they were attacked by the students of their basic legal rights and responsibilities, and if necessary, refer students to the legal counsel provided by the Student Congress. Lioce, ten year Journal veteran speaks to class

Lioce dealt briefly at the end of the talk with the controversy about himself and the article that he wrote last spring about the Biltmore Hotel. In the article he said that Providence is a typical liberal city and that the Biltmore did play a role in the Democratic party. His superiors told him that they were probably right about the article and that he should have backed up his claim with facts. He was pleased that the article generated so much controversy, and he said that he was going to write about the Biltmore again in the near future.

Lioce, who has been with the Journal for ten years, first started as a copy boy. "The job of a reporter is very demanding and I have no idea how I made it," said Lioce. His definition of a good reporter is someone who has to get up at a certain hour and go to sleep at a certain hour. He feels that the life of a reporter isn't for everyone.

"I'm going to sit around and write about things that are fun to me and a lot better than changing tires for a living," Lioce believes that he has called attention to small injustices, which have subsequently been corrected.

Anthony R. Lioce, Jr. was born in Providence in 1946 and has lived in Rhode Island for most of his life. He went to high school in Cranston and continued his education at Brown. "I figured the computer must have made a mistake," Lioce said, "so I got accepted, so I thought I should go and try it but I wasn't sure whether I was going to be here and how those people were doing." Lioce commented on the controversy about himself and the article that he wrote last spring about the Biltmore Hotel. In the article he said that Providence is a typical liberal city and that the Biltmore did play a role in the Democratic party. His superiors told him that they were probably right about the article and that he should have backed up his claim with facts. He was pleased that the article generated so much controversy, and he said that he was going to write about the Biltmore again in the near future.

Lioce said that he just received a new job with the Journal. He is now the music reviewer for the paper which is something that he has always wanted to do. "I'll like to do any one thing for too long because then it gets boring," Lioce said. From what I've heard on the street, I think that the Biltmore did play a role in the election of assignments, but I don't think that it was a deep, dark, corporate conspiracy, but rather a knee jerk reaction by middle management, who had always regarded me as potentially dangerous.

Call phones

Two new "charge-a-call" phones have been installed on campus. One is located in the basement lobby of the library and the other is in the Harkin's Hall foyer. According to Ruth Donovan, the PC switch board operator, the phones have been in operation for about two weeks.

Mrs. Donovan explained that the phones enable a person to make a call without depositing money. The caller simply pushes "O" for operator and then proceeds to make either a credit card or collect call. In an emergency, or when someone is short of money, this type of phone is very useful, Mrs. Donovan points out. There is one drawback, however. The fee for using these phones is slightly higher than the fee for a regular pay phone, and may be 30 or 40 cents, rather than the usual dime.

In addition to one of the charge-a-call phones being installed in the basement of the library, another pay phone was installed there. Mrs. Donovan emphasized that the charge-a-call phones are only used for credit card or collect calls, and that the regular pay phones should still be used for standard toll calls.

Anyone wishing to use the new phones should keep in mind that Harkin's Hall is generally locked from 10 o'clock p.m., but the phone in the library can be used until midnight on most nights. Two phones will be installed in Slavin Center as well.

World Civilization: East meets West

A task force has recently been established by the Very Rev. Thomas R. Peterson, O.P., to examine the feasibility of an Eastern Civilization program. The possibility of incorporating a program such as this into the curriculum is a valuable idea in itself, simply because of the practicality of a knowledge of the eastern world.

The Editorial Board of the Cowl feels that such a program would definitely enrich the curriculum. Our main concern regarding this proposal as an elective is the relative difficulty of forming a program of "World Civilization, thus selecting this course because of all the courses presently required of students. We, at the Cowl, suggest the blending of an Eastern Civilization program with Western Civilization, thus forming a program of "World Civilization."

In the pursuit of a true liberal arts education, it is rather narrow of us to think of Western Civilization as the end all and be all. The western world constitutes merely five percent of the total land mass of the world. The rising importance of the east, both economically and culturally, is affecting the whole world. As Father Peterson recently stated, "There are increasingly more opportunities for employment and careers abroad today in fields such as international trade, business, and politics. A working knowledge of a people's culture is almost essential to understand the people themselves. Students who have limited the scope of their study to the western world are at an obvious disadvantage in understanding the international or worldwide scene."

The Editorial Board of the Cowl hopes that Father Peterson's task force seriously considers the possibility of a World Civilization program. It would certainly be beneficial for students to receive a more balanced view of the world as a whole.

In the pursuit of a true liberal arts education, it is rather narrow of us to think of Western Civilization as the end all and be all.

The Football Club one of our important teams

By Tom Bowen

For all of those out there who haven’t noticed, our college boasts a sports team that is ranked sixth nationally. It is the club football squad, and this past week, it easily knocked off the second ranked team of Harkers. That team is rated so highly, the Friar football club receives a minimum of publicity, works under shoddy conditions, and has a relationship with the college that can best be described as shabby.

In fact, the club has a report with the school that is so shabby, there are some people who would like to see the club completely out of existence. At this point, the team must be survived, in spite of the way that it is not even sure if it will last through next season. With the money coming from the students...

Kelly’s Keane Comments

From surveying the campus lastly, it seems we have a new sport here at PC—that of smashing beer bottles. I realize that this reflects tension and provides immense pleasure, but there must be a better way of letting people know that we are NOT a suitcance college and that we most definitely were here for the dogs.

Dear Editor:

As I am innocently reading the Providence College Cowl, I noticed that I was lucky enough to be mentioned in Michael Ricciardi’s article. I took it as a personal challenge to prove the idea in Michael’s paper. I went to the store, bought beer, and drank it. I think that it was a good experiment and that the article should be read by everyone who needs to be reminded of the reality of life.

Michael C. Grimes so incredibly

The significance of this letter is unfair to the entire PC community. Therefore, I am asking that the Editor of the Cowl and Tom Keegan submit an apology to this paper and the Theatre Arts program, along with its professors and particularly Peter Krag and David Keegan.

As a student of the Providence College Theatre Arts program and after having attended several performances, I have come to the conclusion that this letter is打着 an unfair issue.

On library improvement

By Neil O’Brien

A good library is more than just a quiet place to study. Improving the research material available to students should be viewed as one of the priorities of PC. When doing term papers, I often end up going to the Rosean University Library because of its better facilities. Especially lacking at PC are the Political Science and sociology departments. The periodicals are either not available or missing, and the hours are too limited.

October 31, Halloween night, Slavin Center was like something out of a fantastic dream, housing a world but wonderful assortment of what were once ordinary students. There were the McDermott Babes, the twelve Hershy's Kisses, not to mention Gang Green, from McKinney. Monsters roamed about wildly; Disco Witches cackled through their glitter.

As usual it was sold out well luminous throughout Slavin Center on Wednesday. It was a close call for Best Break between these two costumed character.

ROTC Cadets run for funds

Providence College ROTC Cadets, responding to a recent article in the Cowl in which the BOG encouraged support for a so-called "Brain Run," ran 1391 miles during October and gathered over $700.00 in pledges. A total of 35 cadets from the ROTC department ran in support of the charity which ultimately hopes to build a research center in New Seabury, Mass. Included among the many individuals and groups who sponsored the ROTC runners were the Army Reserve Officers Association, Major General Leonard Holland, Adjutant General of the State of Rhode Island, Mr. Robert Reisman, R.F. Cowlen, aide to the Secretary of the Army, Rev. Thomas R. Peterson, president of Providence College, and Colonel Herbert Moore, Commander of the ROTC Area in which Providence College is located.

Providence College's Cadet Battalion started gathering sponsors as soon as they read the Cowl article. Led by Cadet Battalion Commander Richard Howe from Lowell, Mass., Cadets focused their running activities during the month of October in conjunction with the "United States Police Brain Run" which started last month in Phoenix, Arizona, and is headed for New Seaburg, Cape Cod, where land has been donated for a Brain Research and Rehabilitation Center. The nationwide "run for funds" is being conducted to raise money for the center in memory of Doreen Grace, a 21 year old Action Man, woman who died in 1976 of a brain disease.

Setting the pace for the cadets was Lee Felton, a senior from Massachusetts, who ran 244 miles during the month of October. A participant in the 1979 Boston Marathon himself, Cadet Felton is also preparing for a marathon next month in Foxboro, Mass. Also contributing significantly were cadets Steve Heinley, Mike Moretti, Pat Cassidy, Brian Hoey, Kathy Lyons, Mark Waterhouse, John Peloquin and Ed Tom.

The cadets were also running to improve their own physical fitness which is an integral part of the ROTC program.

R to earn over $6,500 with Army ROTC.

Before you graduate from college! Because now, you can combine service in the Army Reserve or National Guard with Army ROTC. It's called the Simultaneous Membership Program (SMP). And, depending on your academic year when you enter, SMP can help you earn over $6,500.

Here's how it works. If you qualify and a vacancy is available, you become a member of an Army Reserve or National Guard unit as an officer trainee and, at the same time, enroll in the Army ROTC advanced course at your college. Your Reserve or Guard membership will pay you at the minimum level of Sergeant E-5, and you'll receive $100 a month during the regular school year as an Army ROTC advanced course cadet.

At the end of your second year of advanced ROTC, you'll be commissioned a second lieutenant and, assuming there's a vacancy, you'll receive $100 a month during the regular school year as an Army ROTC officer trainee. If it's October snow.

The band is not simply the band which appears in the home basketball games. Speaking of hoop, the first home game pep band appearance in November 24 during the Thanksgiving break. It is very hard to miss the pep band, as they always sit in the "rowdy" section of the Civic Center and wear special rugby shirts.

The PC Band, like all college bands, plays an important part in college protocol. They perform on freshman Parents' Day every year, not to mention the more specialized duties at the Commencement and Cystic Fibrosis Telethon of last year. Doughty and a transmission of musicians that they are the band played at the Columbus National Bank concert as outdoor event held October 10th. From what I hear, it is not that bad a show, even if it's October snow.

PC has now always been fortunate enough to have a band and John Swoboda is the individual responsible for bringing it about. Swoboda is director and conductor. The band council president is Tim Salley, and vice president is Dan Archetto.

When Arthur Fiddler attended last year's commencement, the band struck up "Stars and Stripes Forever," his personal favorite. He is reported to have made a point of saying that the band was very good. A remarkable compliment from a remarkable man, to a remarkable band.

Plant talk
Bean Town talk
Mephosto"s Evans, Boston Fern, as it is known today, is actually a mutation of the sword fern, found near Boston in the 1890's. It is recognizable by its long, arching fronds that may reach as long as 3 ft., with short, close leaves along its length. The Boston Fern does best in bright, indirect, or filtered light. That is, light filtered through, perhaps a sheer curtain. Water when completely dry, and spray mist between thorough waterings.

Large pots of Boston Fern are more than likely to contain a group of smaller fern plants, and rather than transplanting into increasingly larger pots, it is generally easier to remove the smaller plants from the edge of the main pot, and start them on their own.

Fertilize mature ferns at two month intervals during the spring and summer. Do not fertilize during the winter.

Bright and misting are the most important things to remember with the Boston Fern. Questions concerning ferns or any other plants may be directed to Richard of Frey Florist, 50 Radcliffe Ave., Providence, 521-3539.

Pianist Marlene Fairleigh, adjunct faculty member in the Providence College music program, will perform at Rhode Island College, 138 Roberts Hall, November 20 at 10:00 p.m. The entire program will showcase the music of composer Robert M. Bobry, music Professor of Music, Rhode Island College.

Marlene Fairleigh appears frequently in both solo and ensemble concerts. She has also served as music clinician, adjudicator, and accompanist for events in the greater Providence area. Before coming to Rhode Island in 1975, Ms. Fairleigh taught at Hanover College, Indiana. In addition to teaching at Providence College, she is visiting instructor of Music at Rhode Island College. She and her husband James, Associate Professor of Music, Rhode Island College, often perform as piano duo partners, having recently appeared together in Atlantic at Emory University, Rhode Island College, and Providence College.

Bud named champion
A panel of nine college students, known for their contributions to the field of beer drinking, sponsored by the Rolling Stone College Papers, recently tested 22 beers and selected Budweiser as the champion.

The beers were served in arbitrary pairs in identical glasses marked X and Y. Each beer was paired against different competition for each individual taster. For fairness, an intricate system was devised so that each beer was given one-third on the tasters in each of the beginning, middle and final rounds.

Of course! The PC Band is not simply the band which appears in the home basketball games. Speaking of hoop, the first home game pep band appearance in November 24 during the Thanksgiving break. Veteran's Day: long weekend coming up

By Lt. Col. Robert Stiepock

Monday is Veteran's Day. The theme for this year's holiday observance is "A Grateful Nation Remembers." On Monday, a special remembrance will be seen, when the Postal Service issues a stamp picturing the Vietnamese Service Ribbon, and the words "Honoring Vietnamese Veterans.

There is also a special remembrance on the PC campus that has been here since 1948: the War Memorial Grotto. Dedicated to 68 PC graduates who died in World War II, the Grotto is a constant reminder of sacrifices made in every war.

Located in a quiet corner of the campus, near Aquinas Chapel and Dominic Hall, the Grotto was built through the efforts of Father Charles M. McKenna, once chaplain of Providence College. To raise funds for construction of the Grotto, Father McKenna staged what became one of the city's most popular annual events, the Penny Auction.

Press accounts called the memorial "the largest of its kind in the country," when it was dedicated on May 9, 1948. Large or small, the flag and field stone grotto, also called the Grotto of Our Lady of the Rosary, which Father McKenna hoped would be the "center of religious expression" on the campus, remains beautiful and fitting expression of gratitude to all veterans.

Colds are in season

The common cold is almost an inevitable fact of life. There is no sure-fire prevention, but you may build up your resistance with proper sleep, eating three meals a day and getting plenty of exercise. There is no cure for the common cold, but medication can be given to alleviate some of the symptoms and to make you more comfortable.

The common cold is an inflammation of the membranes of the nose, throat and pharynx. It is a viral infection, not bacterial, therefore, antibiotics are not given. Symptoms include nasal congestion, sneezing, coughing, headache, general body aches, sore throat and, sometimes, a temperature.

There is no cure for the common cold, but medication can be given to alleviate some of the symptoms and to make you more comfortable.

The common cold is an inflammation of the membranes of the nose, throat and pharynx. It is a viral infection, not bacterial, therefore, antibiotics are not given. Symptoms include nasal congestion, sneezing, coughing, headache, general body aches, sore throat and, sometimes, a temperature.

Treatment consists of getting plenty of rest and fluids. Aspirin is taken to relieve the other general body aches. Decongestants and cough medication are taken to relieve the other symptoms of a cold. People with allergies and stuffy noses may breathe through their mouths while sneezing, thus causing a mild sore throat. Cough drops and gargling with warm water mixed with salt will help to soothe the irritated tissue. The dry heat in the rooms is another cause of sore throat.

Colds symptoms will usually last from one to three weeks. Sometimes a cold will lead to more serious problems because of improper treatment, not eating and drinking properly, not getting enough rest and not taking medications as prescribed.

You should report to the infirmary if: you develop shivering, the cold gets worse or if it lasts more than 3 days without improvement; you have a temperature of 100 degrees or above; there is blood in the mucus that you cough up; the sore throat becomes worse or you notice that your throat is red or spotted; you notice any foul odor from your mouth, ear; your nasal discharge turns yellow or green — this may indicate a bacterial infection; an earache lasts more than two hours.

Remember that you need at least 8 ounces of fluids every hour because it thins the mucous in the lungs and nose. You need energy to get well, so rest up!

You should be aware that coughing is a natural body mechanism for expelling mucus. Water thins the mucus and loosens phlegm and can soothe an irritated throat. A dry, hacking cough will often respond to honey mixed in hot water, tea and lemon juice.

Also, remember that alcohol and medications do not mix, so plan to skip it altogether, because taking medication for two days, parrying over the weekend, and then resuming your medication is not an effective treatment.

won the 1974 campaign race against incumbent and democratic mayor Joseph Dorley, but rather “a lot of hard work.” He attributed part of his success to the fact that “people today aren’t voting straight ticket anymore,” rather they are voting more and more for the man, not the party.”

Even though Cianci lashed Senator Howard Baker of Tennessee, the minority leader of the U.S. Senate seeking candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination, as “a great man”, the Mayor thinks Baker “can’t get elected”.

When asked if Senator Kennedy’s nomination as a presidential candidate would affect Cianci’s decision to run for governor in 1980, the Mayor defended his own position.

“Senator Kennedy is not going to make up his mind to run for me. I ran in the wake of Watergate when Republican was a dirty word and won. As far as I’m concerned you’ve got to stand on your own merit in any race.”

However, the Mayor’s merit was questioned at the press conference regarding his own guilt in the alleged raping of a coed when he was a law student at Marquette University. The New Times, a paper which according to Cianci is no longer in publication, first accused the Mayor of rape in 1978. The rape charge was brought against the Mayor by the coed victim, but the case was settled out of court.

“Of course I will deny any truth to that story,” contended Cianci, “and I said that magazine which is now out of business. The New Times was brought into the city of Providence to revitalize the paper’s stock because it was going bankrupt.”

“We are leasing towards tax leadership,” warned a raspy Cianci as he popped another throat lozenger into his mouth. He paused, then added, “You can see it with the current administration which just drifts along. For example, look at Quonset Point.”

“Quonset Point has all the facilities to be, and should be, the mecca of the east, but no, instead it just sits there like a movie set waiting for the actors to come on stage.”

Room 308 Harkins Hall has been the scene for many a press conference since Professor Ted T. Holmberg, the editor-publisher of the Pawtuxet Valley Times, began teaching journalism at Providence College. Holmberg periodically sponsors in-class press conferences in order to provide his students with practical, on-the-job reporting experience.

Lady Friars hope to repeat last year’s record of 16-3-1

By Ellen Hargerston

With the winter season finally upon us, the Providence College girls’ ice hockey team has taken to the ice for their sixth campaign. The Lady Friars, coached by Tom Palamara and Phil Murphy, are coming off a 16-3-1 season and are looking to be very competitive in their league.

The team didn’t lose any of their forwards, and coach Palamara is looking to last year’s scoring line of Mary Ellen Regan, Kathy Lenahan and Connie Richer to keep up the good work. Freshmen Mary Beth Hanlon and Cindy Bogosian on the top four players to graduation. Sue Hannon and Cissy Bogosian on good work. Freshmen Mary Beth year competed in this tournament.

In the top four of the regionals last year, the Friars rebounded and continued to defeat their forwards, and coach Palamara and Burt Palmer, are looking to be very competitive in their league.

The defense is going through some readjustment after losing four players to graduation. Sue Duffy and Kelly Tiernan have moved back and are doing well in their new positions. They’ll be defending goalees Jill Spencer and Jodie Ford.

V-ballers place 9th at URI

By Mary Gibbons

The University of Rhode Island was the site of the recent women’s volleyball tournament. The tournament started on Friday, November 2, and continued through Saturday, November 3. Teams which placed in the top four of the regionals last year competed in this tournament.

Such teams as Rutgers, Georgetown, the University of Delaware and Strasburg proved to be tough competition for the Lady Friars.

Provided played two matches on Friday evening. Delaware managed to down the Lady Friars in the first match but they went on to beat Central Connecticut State College in the last match. On Saturday morning, PC began a full day with a loss to a slightly superior Georgetown team. The Lady Friars rebounded and defeated Springfield College in two games and defeated the University of New Haven in a best of three match.

Their final game brought up to the finals. After the long day of hard play with little rest, PC fell to Navy in the finals. They finished an outstanding 9th in the tournament and 2nd in their bracket. The Lady Friars had every reason to be proud of themselves after such a fine showing.

PC ruggers suffer loss to City, 22-3

By Paul O’Brien

The PC rugby team lost a hard hitting game against the Providence city team, 22-3, at Raymond Field last Thursday night. The vastly more experienced city team proved to be too much for the young PC team as they dominated most of the game. However, the PC team, plagued with injuries, did well considering the differences in age and experience.

The PC scoring came from a penalty kick by Mike Corrigan. Kevin Kelly, a PC student who plays for the city team, scored twice. At coach Mike Tramor pointed out after the game, the match served as a good learning experience for the PC team.

Next Thursday night at 7:00 on Raymond Field, the rugby team will play Brown in what promises to be a good game.

Murphy, Doyle lead Friars Over AIC, 3-1

By Cheryl Gable

The PC soccer team added another victory to their list of credits last Tuesday when they defeated AIC, 3-1. Entering into the game with a record of 5-4, the Friars hosted an opposition with a record of 3-4-2. The Friars held a definite edge over AIC in both strength and team ability.

The Friars were first to score, at 41:00 into the first half of play, and it was John Murphy with a sure fire kick past the AIC goalie. Billy Baker assisted on the goal and the Friars were on their way to another victory leading at halftime, 1-0.

It can be imagined that coach Doyle’s halftime talk stressed the importance of teamwork and controlled footwork, for PC continued to control the game in the second half. Twenty-one minutes into the second half, Jay Sketton set another goal for the Friars, this time assisted by John Murphy. The Friars’ impressive 2-0 lead was soon challenged. Al Levulis of the Dominican Republic fired one past the PC goalie at 44:00, to put AIC on the board, 2-1.

Fifty-two seconds later, Alan Doyle scored on a penalty kick which resulted from a hand ball error by AIC. PC was forced to tighten their defense, which they did, and succeeded in making their 3-1 lead unassailable. The Friars went on to win the clash and uptied their record to 6-4.

Friars boast speed, new attitude for 1979-80

By Ron Piecone

With November here, we are certain of two things, one—winter season should be as exciting as their regular season. This '79-80 season should be as exciting as ever.

So far, the team is in the process of getting the kinks out. With the summer layoff and new varsity players, the team has to reorient itself with each other and the rink. In the two exhibition games up to this writing, the Friars have won both. They played Holy Cross and Lowell University and according to coach Lamoriello "showed signs of improvement in each game."

Coach Lamoriello stated that the main difference from last year's team and this year's team is attitude. Last year's team "expected to do good things when they went on the ice." This year "nothing is taken for granted, they realize they have to work for everything they get."

The season will begin with junior Greg Nolin as the starting goalie. Nolin saw only limited action last year while in the shadow of standout Bill Milner. Sophomore Scott Fitke will back up Nolin.

Coach Lamoriello plans on carrying at least eight defensemen on his roster this year. Returning from last year, the Friars have Dan Haskins, Jim Colucci, Scott Kleineidors and Jon Hogberg. All saw plenty of playing time last year and their experience should be invaluable. Frank Johnson is coming off an injury plagued season and should also be an asset to the defensive corps.

The Friars' frontline was hurt most by graduation. Returning lettermen are Steve O'Neill, Dennis Martin, Steve Evangelista, Paul Frantak, John Sullivan, Terry Horgan, and the team captain Jeff Whister.

Another interesting aspect to look for when this team takes the ice is its overall skating ability. Speed is a factor in this Friars team, a quality most teams hope for each year. It should be a big advantage in breaking around the opponents defenders.

This season there will be a new twist to the equipment worn by all ECAC hockey players. Each player on the ice will be required to wear a caged face mask. Masks are typically worn only after an injury has occurred to one's face. This rule was implemented to prevent eye and other serious injuries. Will there be more biting in the corners, more elbowing, more stickwork now because of this preventive measure? You will have to attend the games to find out.

And speaking of attending games, there have been over 1200 student season tickets sold. Don Bello, ticket manager, has stated that there are still some student season tickets available. So do not be the only one not at a hockey game.

Senior Dan Haskins should anchor the PC defense if he can avoid penalties. Haskins led the Friars in penalty minutes last year.

Canon, Rock Island, and Watertown are still undetermined which runners will be sent to represent the Women's National Cross-Country Championship. It should be held in Tallahassee, Florida, on November 17. PC is the only school in Rhode Island to qualify for the championship. Due to their strong performance in the Eastern Regionals, the women's cross-country team has qualified to send runners to the Women's National Cross-Country Championships to be held in Tallahassee, Florida, on November 17. PC is the only school in Rhode Island to qualify for the championship. It is still undetermined which runners will be sent to represent PC.

Gridders crush Bentley, 35-7

By John Brandolino

The Providence College football team destroyed Bentley College's playoff hopes and closed in on a berth in the National College Athletic Association's playoffs by crushing the Falcons, 35-7, at Hendricken Field. The Friars bumped off second-place Bentley and moved into the number two spot themselves with a record of 5-1-1.

PC gained possession of the ball first and gave a taste of things to come. Landers and Biga, as usual, let their talents run wild by carrying the ball from their own 35 yard line to the 44 yard line of the Falcons. Once there, the Friar offensive line plowed down the line of Bentley and Biga ran 44 yards for the first touchdown of the game.

Bentley fought back during their first possession, but the determined line backers of Providence forced a fumble which Kevin Clare scooped up. The home team began to eat up yardage again. After an excellent 70 yard drive, however, the Friars lost the ball as a result of a turn over on the two yard line.

PC's league leading defense kept the Falcons as busy by continually sacking them for losses. Bobby Fazio, Billy Christianon, and Mark Brady rolled over Bentley's backfield with hits that could well have been heard on the Nyack campus.

Meanwhile, the Friar scoring machine was just swinging into high gear. In the second quarter, P.J. Kelly hit for two passes for 40 yards which put the Friars on the 15 yard line of the Falcons. Bob Landers carried the ball in from there. Peckwongha got the extra point and the Providence lead stood at 14-0. Less than a minute to play, Tom Biga returned a Bentley punt 65 yards, PC's superb open field running and a successful kick gave the Friars the lead at halftime, 21-0.

The Falcons knew it would take a superb second half effort to overcome the Friars so their first drive was an all out effort. All they could manage was an off to the right field goal attempt. Providence followed with yet another successful drive led by the diving running of Biga as well as help on a roughing the passer call on Bentley. Landers jumped into the endzone for the fourth PC touchdown to put the game out of reach. Later in the fourth quarter, Landers ran nine yards for another score to increase the Friar lead to 31-0. The shootout was spoiled when the Falcons scored on the last play of the game.

Linda Wage scored again, along with Monica Glynn, Sheedy's sprained knee of Sheedy's, which followed by a reception in '64 Hall by Tommy Treacy, who took the lead from there. Petkewhich caught the awesome Friar defense held Bentley to only 182 total yards on offense.

Next week PC plays the University of Lowell. Lowell is undefeated and are ranked first in the country in club football. To get to the Nationals, PC must win this game. The two club football powers will play at Lowell on Sunday.

Harriers place 1-2-3 in rain at New England

By Kevin Burke

It had been raining since early morning and when the starting pistol fired at two o'clock p.m. on Saturday, November 3, the soggy, mud-covered grounds of the Franklin Park course made racing conditions horrible. Coach Bob Amato looked into the gray, misty skies and commented, "Well, at least the guys from Ireland will feel right at home." By the end of the 8,000 meter race, Amato's words had proved correct.

The powerful Providence Harriers ran away with everything on Saturday, to capture the New England Collegiate Track and Field Championship. PC runners placed first, second, third, fourth and fifth in a field of 196 runners, and captured the title for the sixth consecutive year. Four runners also placed tenth and eleventh to finish the race with just 27 points, one of the lowest scores any team has registered to win the event. Irishman Ray Trahey finished first with a time of 24:12. About twenty seconds later, Paul Maloney, another Irishman, crossed the finish line to take second place. Maloney was followed closely by junior Peter Crooke, an American who hails from Long Island. Dave Babi, a junior from Ireland, finished tenth, while freshman James Foley also from Ireland placed eleventh.

Trahey, who took the lead around the one half mile mark, said that the wet grounds slowed him down a great deal on the hills and made the footing especially slippery and dangerous. "However, I felt confident about the outcome for Providence all through the race," he said. Overall, PC played their best games of the season at Williams. Great teamwork, according to coach Denning, made it impossible to pick one most valuable Friar. Four players were

Men's and women's B ball Squads to play exhibition

The PC men's and women's basketball squads will stage an afternoon of exhibitions this Friday, November 10, at 2:30 in Alumni Hall. This exhibition will be the last PC men's basketball free of charge and will be the first look at this year's varsity squads for many students.

This is how the exhibitions will be run: the men's varsity team will scrimmage among itself for approximately twenty minutes, then the women will take the court for about the same amount of time. The two squads will alternate for about two hours. The scrimmage squads may not be the starting lineups of either squad, but the play should give fans an idea of what to expect in the upcoming season.

The scrimmages will be followed by a reception in '64 Hall at 5:00. Coaches Gary Walters and Tim Gilleece, as well as players, will be there to meet and talk with students. Refreshments will be served.

Bob Landers, who ran for 117 yards in Sunday's win over Bentley, is brought down after getting a few tough yards.

Landers and Babi once again both ran for over a hundred yards (117 each). Their success all season has been remarkable for they are gifted running backs, but credit should be given to the offensive line which has done an outstanding job opening holes and providing downfield blocking on those long runs. P.J. Kelly completed four out of five passes for nearly 100 yards. Chuck Fox and Billy Chrismanon excelled as the awesome Friar defense held Bentley to only 182 total yards on offense.

Among the thirty schools that entered the race, Providence was the only Rhode Island school to finish in the top ten. The University of New Hampshire finished second and Northeastern took third. Now that PC has the New England Championship captured once again, they can concentrate on the regional qualifying meet for the National Championships. This regional meet will take place on Saturday, November 10, and will once again be run over the Franklin Park course. The first three teams to place in this qualifying race will go to the National Championships, and based on their performance in the New Englands, Providence should certainly be considered one of the favorites.
