Bell, silent for 22 years, may ring once again

By Karen Ryder

High above Alumni Hall sits a solitary bell, which has been unused and unnoticed for the majority of its twenty-two years here at PC. The bell, a gift of the Board of Governors in 1957, can be seen perched on the roof of Alumni Hall, above the door adjacent to Slavin parking lot. It would probably remain in its silent state if not for the efforts of several people, including Kerry Raffanelli, president of the Student Congress. It was Raffanelli who happened to notice the bell one day and became curious enough to look into its history.

Raffanelli found that Fr. Prout has been interested in the bell for several years now. He explained that it has been out of commission because of a broken part which is now obsolete. Thus, an entirely new amplifying system is necessary for the bell to ring again.

Class of 1981's Ring Weekend

By Ned Cummiskey

It’s finally over. Where! The long awaited, much worried about and extensively planned Junior Ring Weekend has come and gone.

BOG Last Resort Coffee House to open Monday

The Fine Arts committee will be offering the Green Castle Band, an Irish folk band in St. Joe’s Hall on Thursday night. Admission will be $1.

Several trips sponsored by the BOG Travel Committee, are planned for the near future. A day trip to New York City is scheduled for Saturday, December 1, and tours will be leaving Sunday for the Brains game at the Boston Garden. The price for both trips is $56 and can be purchased at the BOG ticket office, according to Lynn Willis, co-chairman of the committee.

The Dillon Club is planning a bus trip to Ft. Lauderdale, Florida over spring vacation. The trip includes transportation, lodging and all gratuities. They will depart on April 8 and return on April 12. Total cost is $229 per person. The BOG granted the Dillon a $2000 loan for the deposit on the hotel.

On Friday, November 30, the Student Congress, in conjunction with the Class of 1992, is sponsoring a Pep Rally in Alumni Gym at 5:30 p.m. This gathering which will feature such speakers as coach Walters, Dave Gavitt, and Larry Patterson, will be followed by a torch walk from Alumni Gym to the Civic Center escorted by the Providence police. 2,500 kazoos will be distributed to participants, and anyone intending to participate during this basketball game against Stonehill. Students are urged to attend the Pep Rally and give support to the basketball team along with the speakers, the Pep Band, and cheerleaders. Buses will be provided for the return trip to campus.
Pros and cons: Nuclear Power Forum
By Thomas Brown

On Wednesday, November 7, a nuclear power forum was held in '64 Hall. Sponsored by the BOG lecture committee, the forum featured Mr. Howard Schaffer, a pro-nuclear advocate, and Miss Jane Cambell, who spoke against nuclear power.

Mr. Schaffer, an employee of the Yankee Atomic Electric Company in Massachusetts, and a graduate with a degree in nuclear power from M.I.T., began the debate. He began by saying that "based on my 15 years of experience working in nuclear power plants, I believe nuclear power to be a safe energy." He called nuclear power a "political phenomenon." Schaffer stated that Congress first promoted the construction of nuclear power plants and has always had control over them. "All human ventures have an element of risk, including exploiting technology for benefits derived," commented Schaffer. "Man is imperfect," he said, "and there will be accidents."

Nutrition and consumer tips for economical buying
By Carol Persi

The Board of Governors and the Women's Counseling Center sponsored a lecture held in '64 Hall on Monday, November 5th. The hour-long presentation covered the topics of nutrition and consumer tips for nutritional and economical buying. The guest speaker was Rebecca Palmer, a registered dietician from the Dairy Institute of Rhode Island.

Ms. Palmer was well-prepared with diagrams, charts, and questionnaires to be filled out by the audience. Although the student turnout was minimal, there was enthusiastic participation by those in attendance. Each individual expressed interest throughout the presentation and was left with a little more knowledge of nutrition.

The first portion of Ms. Palmer's discussion was about the four basic food groups, which in the last year has been expanded to five food groups. The groups are respectively: milk; meat, fruits and vegetables; grains; the fats and sweets group; and a new group. A chart was set up showing the common food-types for each group and the number of necessary servings for an adult. A serving size is equivalent to eight ounces of liquid, four ounces of meat, fish, or poultry, one half cup of vegetables, and one half cup of fruits and cooked macaroni. One may go into the fifth group, depending on the person and the number of calories they can maintain. Most adults need at least 1200-1500 calories, but this amount decreases in necessity with aging. At each meal an adult needs one food type from each food group, excluding meat at breakfast.

Ms. Palmer's next topic concerned helpful hints for budget-conscious consumers who can spend their dollars wisely for grocery shopping, but the choice is difficult sometimes. There is a selection from between 18 to 20,000 items in supermarkets. A budget can be adhered to quite easily. One must be wary while food shopping because supermarkets are set up for the consumer to indulge in "extra" items. This is called "Point of Purchase Advertising" and may include telemarketing announcements of specials and sales. The following are a few suggestions in helping one stay within a budget:

Shop from a list with pre-priced items - be sure to stick to that list.
Buy at a supermarket. Food prices increase prices to cover their costs.
Buy according to planned meals.
If possible economically, buy in quantity - individual packs are very expensive.

Never go shopping when you're hungry.

There are certain times that are considered most economical for food shopping. Items generally go on sale on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, and Friday. The best nights for shopping are on Saturday and Sunday when a store usually has no one shopping, and many perishable items are marked down so as to be purchased before the store closes for the remainder of the week. It is best to shop around to see the routines of the nearby supermarkets.

It is the responsibility of the consumer to make and adhere to a budget and a menu schedule. The grocery stores are out to earn money and people are out to save money. One can save money by planning, buying in quantity, energy, and money by becoming a more conscientious consumer.

Need a Job?
The Office of Financial Aid maintains an updated listing of off-campus job opportunities in the greater Providence area which is available to all PC students. Various kinds of employment are available, ranging from child care and social services to sales, bookkeeping, and technical positions.

Anyone interested in off-campus employment should fill out a registration card at the Financial Aid Office and ask to see the listing of off-campus jobs. Any questions regarding the program should be directed to Mrs. Karen Louter or Jon Luing at the Financial Aid Office.

Government Internships
Approximately 60-70 government internships will be available during the spring semester. Students are placed with executive, administrative, legislative, and judicial agencies of State Government. A period of approximately 12 weeks, working a minimum of eight to ten hours per week, with the host agency. A stipend of $100 to $250 is paid as expenses. Further information and application forms may be obtained from Professor William Hudon, Howley Hall, Room 318, Telephone 865-3434. The deadline for application is December 7th, 1979.

Wine and Cheese
The French Club is sponsoring a Wine and Cheese party on Wednesday, November 28, at 8 o'clock p.m. in Slavin Room 106. All members are invited to attend.

"SPRINT SERVICE"
For the convenience of students and faculty, the Financial Aid Office will have a "SPRINT SERVICE" window open on the following dates:

November 13, 1979
November 27, 1979
December 4, 1979
December 11, 1979
December 18, 1979

Monday - Thursday: 12 p.m. - 2 p.m.

Tuesday: 12 p.m. - 2 p.m.

The "SPRINT SERVICE" window will be open from 12 p.m. to 2 p.m. on the dates listed above. This is an effort to provide prompt service for paperwork and reduce waiting lines.

For further information, call 865-3434.

Ring Week-end '79

(Continued from Page 1)

balkomno, the girls were presented a rose and every person received an explanation of the design of the ring. The rose on the ring symbolizes the unity and friendship of the class and also represents the ten girls who died in the construction industry.

On Friday, November 9, the Quirk Institute of Industrial Relations sponsored a "Ring Weekemd in Construction" conference here at Providence College. The conference was attended by leaders in the construction industry and was addressed by officials in the fields of labor and management. Speakers addressed the manner in which the industry is affected by federal legislation and how a construction interested in current policies of the industry itself.

A new membership organization based in Annapolis, Maryland, is now conducting a campaign to register adventure-minded college students and professors. Expedition Research Inc. is a placement service which matches outdoors enthusiasts to scientific and exploratory expeditions worldwide. ERI members include photographers, sailors, scientists, mountaineers, journalists, and others who love the out-of-doors and who have a taste for adventure, research, and exploration.

Expeditions which have approached ERI for team members range from archaeological excavations to Himalayan mountaineering; from oceanographic surveys and cave exploration to scientific investigations on all six continents. The firm also places registrants to serve as a neutral forum in designing contracts to serve as a neutral forum in negotiating labor relations so that it can provide up-to-date information on collective bargaining to the construction industry.

PC Sponsored "Great Smoke-Out Day"

The November 15th "Great Smoke-Out Day," nationally sponsored by the American Cancer Society, was "celebrated" in Slavin Center by PC's Awareness Alert Committee. According to Committee chairperson Elizabeth Frost Sydney, the event was designed to make smokers think seriously about their habit and to offer suggestions about quitting.

Far from being lecture-oriented, which usually has a negative effect, the "Great American Smoke-Out Day" worked on the idea that allowing participants to discover for themselves the dangers of smoking would prove far more effective. The Pit in Slavin Center, adorned with balloons and posters supplied without charge by the American Cancer Society, attracted a good deal of people, both students and faculty. Two biofeedback machines were featured, which allowed participants to compare body functions before and after smoking. One machine, the eclycer, measured lung capacity and the amount of carbon monoxide contained in the lungs. It was obtained for the day, without a fee, from the State Department of Health. The Cyborg Company also donated a digital thermometer for the occasion, which measured blood circulation.

There were also films shown continuously in '64 Hall, along with numerous pamphlets, stickers, and pledge cards, which simply welcome the chance to take a semester or two off from their studies. ERI registration costs $15 per year. Registrants receive a monthly newsletter listing expedition opportunities, and a variety of benefits. Individuals may register by sending $15 to Expedition Research Inc., P.O. Box 4678, Catholic and Franklin Streets, Annapolis, MD. 21404, or write for further information. A registration card will be issued and a full packet of information, and ERI catalog, and application forms will be sent upon registration.

The following companies will be posted in the Counseling & Career Planning Center on Wednesday, November 28, 1979 for general signup.

- Digital Equipment Corporation
- Colleyer Insulated Wire
- Industrial National Bank
- Old Stone Bank
- ITT Royal
- K Mart
- Proctor & Gamble
- Hit or Miss
- Peace Corp/Vista
- Woonsocket Institute for Savings
- I.B.M.
- Aetna Life & Casualty Company
- Chase Manhattan Bank
- New England Telephone Company
- Mc Clean Trucking Company
- I.P.L.
- Firestone Tire & Rubber Company

Adventure firm seeks students

The average number of cigarettes smoked per day by men is 13.9 and 13.7 for women. Male smokers who wanted to quit numbered 71, and the female 183. Concerning the current environment, 395 feel that it reinforces smoking, while 230 believe it reinforces non-smoking. Another surprising statistic involving the age group is that of the 345 students that smoke, only 74 are age twenty or above. Seventeen year olds numbered 74 also, eighteen year olds totalled 99, and the nineteen year olds numbered 76. In other words, according to this survey, the vast majority of the smokers are contained in the freshman and sophomore classes.
President acts too slowly on residence plan; Decision needed now

It seems that we have been "waiting forever" for some sort of residence plan to be announced by the Very Reverend Thomas R. Peterson, O.P., President of Providence College. Father Peterson formed a task force in September to come up with a plan by November, but to date we have heard nothing. It is imperative that a plan be implemented quickly.

The history of the residence plan is long and involved. For the past two months, there has been a downturn in vandalism and violence on campus. The decision not to construct additional residence halls has been made because of the expected downward trend in enrollment during the first three years, and because of the prohibitive costs. However, in the meantime, the administration must arrive at some method to deal with the possibility of displacing some students.

Alternate ideas have been discussed but none have been announced. Last winter, Father Peterson met informally with student representatives and administrators. The meetings would have considered successful had the suggestions made at the meetings been implemented—but they were not. We have been waiting too long for a solution.

A lack of social responsibility has become more than apparent during the past few months at PC, and this is evidenced by the increase of vandalism and violence on campus. The violence is usually caused by a select few, but unfortunately the entire student body must bear the blame for these actions. This is because the responsible parties won't own up to their own actions, and, of course, no one ever seems to see them committing these crimes.

Everyone complains about the exorbitant dorm damage bills and high union fees charged to cover the cost of vandalism. Obviously all students are indirectly responsible for the damages, but ultimately they are the responsible parties who will not own up to their actions. Innocent students claim responsibility by paying unquestionably for the damages.

Isn't it funny how at a mixer with at least 200 people around no one can seem to determine who initiated a fight? Or when a one can seem to determine who hit at least 200 people around no one can determine who is responsible by the Very Reverend's office has yet to act on any of the proposed alternatives. The Editorial Board of the Cowl questions the reason for this lengthy delay. We realize that a decision of such magnitude should not be rushed. However, any further postponement may prove detrimental. It is our contention that this decision has been too long in the making. In all fairness to the student body, they deserve a speedy implementation of a plan. It will be unfortunate for another year to go by without one. We cannot allow first semester freshmen to be stuck with any more housing waiting lists. The time to act is now.

As the calendar winds down, it is, once again, time for the Dillon Club to hold its annual election. The Editorial Board of the Cowl feels it would be remiss not to recognize the accomplishments of the president of this club because of his work during the past four years. That person is George West, otherwise known as "Mr. Slavin Center." The Dillon Club has made great strides during West's term. This year, the club ran a commuter luncheon, compiled the off-campus directory, co-sponsored the Theatre Arts production of "Vandies," and re-established "The Harvest Ball" to name just a few achievements.

More importantly, under West's leadership, the Dillon Club has increased in size and importance. Over the years, the organization has had problems in receiving support from the very people they represent, but this is no longer the case. During one of the most successful years in memory, West has united commuters and residents.

Due to the efforts of West and his executive board, the Dillon Club has increased its effective ness as a credible organization. A congratulatory "pat on the back" for West and the entire club is definitely in order.

Social responsibility not apparent on campus

Lack of social responsibility has become more than apparent during the past few months at Providence College. The decrease in vandalism and violence on campus is usually caused by a select few, but unfortunately the entire student body must bear the blame for these actions. This is because the responsible parties won't own up to their own actions, and, of course, no one ever seems to see them committing these crimes.

Everyone complains about the exorbitant dorm damage bills and high union fees charged to cover the cost of vandalism. Obviously all students are indirectly responsible for the damages, but ultimately they are the responsible parties who will not own up to their actions. Innocent students claim responsibility by paying unquestionably for the damages.

Isn't it funny how at a mixer with at least 200 people around no one can seem to determine who initiated a fight? Or when a window is broken with literally 200 people around no one can determine who hit at least 200 people around no one can determine who determined who is responsible? If more punishments could be given directly to the guilty parties, it is unlikely that they would continue to behave in the immature manner keeping with their age and further postpone crime. The Executive Board of the Dillon Club questions the reason for this lengthy delay. We realize that a decision of such magnitude should not be rushed. However, any further postponement may prove detrimental.

It is our contention that this decision has been too long in the making. In all fairness to the student body, they deserve a speedy implementation of a plan. It will be unfortunate for another year to go by without one. We cannot allow first semester freshmen to be stuck with any more housing waiting lists. The time to act is now.

As the calendar winds down, it is, once again, time for the Dillon Club to hold its annual election. The Editorial Board of the Cowl feels it would be remiss not to recognize the accomplishments of the president of this club because of his work during the past four years. That person is George West, otherwise known as "Mr. Slavin Center." The Dillon Club has made great strides during West's term. This year, the club ran a commuter luncheon, compiled the off-campus directory, co-sponsored the Theatre Arts production of "Vandies," and re-established "The Harvest Ball" to name just a few achievements.

More importantly, under West's leadership, the Dillon Club has increased in size and importance. Over the years, the organization has had problems in receiving support from the very people they represent, but this is no longer the case. During one of the most successful years in memory, West has united commuters and residents.

Due to the efforts of West and his executive board, the Dillon Club has increased its effectiveness as a credible organization. A congratulatory "pat on the back" for West and the entire club is definitely in order.
Clothing trivia

Nor does her identity bear any referring to her personally in my herself by assuming that I was.

Fieldhouse: syndrome

Dear Editor;

This is in response to Louann Dhamel's letter, printed in the November 7th Cowl. She flatters herself by assuming that I was referring to her personally in my article. I don’t know who she is, nor do I care. The only identity considerations on the interests in my life.

Thank you extended

Dear Editor;

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the skating volunteers for their generosity in volunteering your free time to assist Pleasant View School. The morning of a meaningful, therapeutic skating program. Without your valued assistance, the program would not be able to continue. I would also like to thank the volunteers for attending so faithfully and being such an essential asset to the children who attend skate on Thursday mornings.

May your efforts prove rewarding.

Louie R. Hunter
Principal, Pleasant View School

A sexist PC?

Dear Editor;

Yes, Tom Keegan, your are correct. It was not prepared to send the team to the nationals.

Heaven forbid anyone’s ankles to be decided for us.

I would hate to feel that this is a诊室 to the future.

Karen O’Connor

and professors who signed for a theater in a partisan letter. Are they ever unaccustomed to the arts at PC.

Peter Lyden, Neil O'Brien, Sharon Maher, Cindy Harrison, Ellen Ishkanian, Michael Rainey, Katie O'Connor

Photo deterioration?

Dear Editor;

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the skating volunteers for their generosity in volunteering your free time to assist Pleasant View School. The morning of a meaningful, therapeutic skating program. Without your valued assistance, the program would not be able to continue. I would also like to thank the volunteers for attending so faithfully and being such an essential asset to the children who attend skate on Thursday mornings.

May your efforts prove rewarding.

Louie R. Hunter
 Principal, Pleasant View School

“Split infinitives” irk undergraduate

Dear Editor;

As a senior, I have read and enjoyed the Cowl for over three years. Unfortunately, one aspect of its production disturbs me: Its grammar is abnormal. It irks me to read in consecutive issues the same mistakes repeated. A common, and highly disturbing grammar error is the splitting of infinitives. In the Cowl of October 31, despite its promise of a newspaper is a weekly publication, and that it is inundated with editors, there are instances of split infinitives.

The infinitive is one of the more simple tools of the English language, yet writers continually fail to use it correctly. The infinitive consists of the words “to” joined with a verb, (i.e. to go). "Star Trek" made it fashionable to say "to boldly go" (thus splitting the infinitive with the adverb “boldly”). Grammar aficionados may not realize it, but it is bound to come back. It is too offensive to the television audiences for the Cowl to produce its monologue.

Yes, Tom Keegan, your smallest business class may have more students than all theater majors combined. The sizeable percentage of students acoustically insufficient stage in Harkins Auditorium, would be well advised to show the campus, as concerts and ensembles, somewhere to show the weekly movie in the dorm of the student unions, and I would imagine the students would appreciate attending some of the performances.

Also, those who find Harkins Bookstore, Registration Center Auditorium as an adequate theater locale, are usually those who have never really gone to the plays or never listen to the phononic mumbling of well-trained actors. Living in an environment could not correct this problem.

Yes, Tom Keegan, your smallest business class may have more students than all theater majors combined. The sizeable percentage of students and professors who signed for a theater in a partisan letter. Are they ever unaccustomed to the arts at PC.

Peter Lyden, Neil O’Brien, Sharon Maher, Cindy Harrison, Ellen Ishkanian, Michael Rainey, Katie O’Connor

Fieldhouse: Fribourg feedback

Dear Editor;

The news of the approval of the $5.5 million fieldhouse, sans skates, has hit me as would news of a Soviet attack on Cape Cod. I am well aware of the need for improved theater facilities on campus. The lack of proper facilities for theatrical productions, lectures and concerts is obvious to anyone who has ever interacted with the arts at PC. Perhaps the members of the Corporation have never bothered to explore this aspect of our school, thereby explaining their ignorance of the artistic needs of the College. If PC wishes to attract talented athletes and sports-minded students, I believe that they have not come to the skating program. However, countless gifted students in the fields of art, theater, and music will undoubtedly gain a glorified gymnastics program to attend and participate.

Students attending a liberal arts college deserve equal exposure to the arts at PC. Their education can benefit a “few theater majors” but benefit all the students who attend each performance.

Peter Lyden, Neil O’Brien, Sharon Maher, Cindy Harrison, Ellen Ishkanian, Michael Rainey, Katie O’Connor

What no theater?

Dear Editor;

Hats off to the Cowl Editorial Board on their October 24 "Split infinitives irk undergraduate". However, I challenge them to practice what they have preached and to speak out on an important issue before students allow it to drown. This is, the issue of the Corporation’s decision not to include a theater in the proposed recreational center. It is obvious that the college deserves a theater. Certainly, the construction of this athletic facility is a worthwhile endeavor, but not to include a theater is to deny Providence College students a liberal arts institution. Hopefully it is not too late for us students to demand that we not be cheated of such a valuable educational facility.

Thank you.

Peter G. Walsh
Fribourg correspondent, ’81

Only PC students, faculty and staff will be admitted to the Phillips Memorial Library in the evenings from Wednesday, November 28, until the end of the term (December 19). This is being done so that PC students can have maximum use of the library for study and research at the time when the building is most heavily used. PC identification cards will be required for admission to the library.

During this past semester, many organizations have offered their financial assistance to Big Brothers and Sisters. We at the Big Brothers and Sisters would like to extend our sincere appreciation to the following: Alumni Cafeteria, BOG, Bookstore, Class of ’81, Committee on Administration, Knights of Columbus, Intramural Office, Student Congress, WDOM.
George Plimpton is one of those rare creatures who is not content, as most writers are, to dubiously witness and report on what important people are doing. He has been creating designs that makes them tick, to feel the emotions they experience and to undergo the mental and often physical punishment they endure. On Tuesday, November 27, at 7 p.m., the Lecture Committee of the Board of Governor hosted George Plimpton.

Plimpton's main ambition is to know people, to know who is famous, interesting, and talented, and to be wherever they are. Plimpton, a graduate of Harvard and Cambridge, is a member of the Jet Set, and a "professional amateur." He has played tennis with Pancho Gonzales, golf with Sam Snead, and bridge with Oswald Jacoby. As an engaging writer, game, and authentically, Plimpton is fully qualified to dispel illusions about the easy road to professionalism. Obviously in humility rather than in arrogance, he has let himself be outmatched in a series of competitions in which he, a 15-foot man, is so obviously brawn, fulfills everyday's ambition of challenging the chauvinistic poetry. He also records with typical good humor and enthusiasm for the game known as Thanksgiving. Tom Turley graced the tables, and Aunt Marion made her secret mincemeat pie. The kids didn't eat mincemeat pie just what the name sounds like.

If it snowed, most people would be convinced it will be a white Christmas, especially those who live in New England. Yes sir, all those Connecticut Yankees, Vermonters, and Maineiacs just love a white holiday season. It seems to be that the longer, snowier, and colder the winter is, the more people have an excuse to love a white holiday season. It is a love for the mysterious, you will find all over Vermont,
SALE SALE SALE SALE SALE SALE

Library crackdown
By Kathy Hannon

The evidence first appeared in the waste baskets of the PC library. Word of it travelled, and soon it was common knowledge. Library crimes were being committed. Students were eating candy, and drinking soda, in the library. Foolishly, the students had not been destroying the evidence.

An administrator of the library figured he could substantially reduce the library crimes by implementing a heavy duty security system. And so, the crackdown began.

Yesterday, I became aware of the crackdown, and not by my choice. For hours and hours, I'd been slaving over a hot text book, poring over class notes. I felt a tap on my shoulder.

"Are you committing a library crime, Misszzzzz," hissed a blurry guard, clad in a double-knit, blue uniform. She clicked her navy blue pumps together. "Well?"

I gasped. "Why I was just studying!"

"Ah ha! Ah ha!"

"What?"

The guard smirked. "You have chocolate on your breath. Confection!"

"Well," I began, "I did have half of a Reggie Bar that I found in my pocket. But it really wasn't very good. You know how candy gets those funny things on it when..."

She cut me off. "Let's have your I.D. I'm going to have to book you."

"But..."

"No buts, Co-ed. You committed library crime number one: no eating in the library."

My point is that the REAL library crimes go unnoticed. Library guards should be on their guard for the following "felonies."

Graffiti Felony: Graffiti picture and copy may eliminate the need for a subscription to "Hustler."

This is a problem that is difficult to study and blur at the same time.

Sieracki digs Anthropology

This summer, Steve Sieracki, an anthropology major, spent six weeks in Hillsdale, Kansas as a crew member on a dig with the Osage and Kansas Indians of Wichita State University. This culture was the ancestor of the Osage and Kansas Indians of today. The artifacts consisted of pottery shards, stone tools and chips, daub from burnt down wattle and daub houses, and burnt pottery sherds, stone tools and chips. The guard smirked. "You have chocolate on your breath. Confection!"

My point is that the REAL library crimes go unnoticed. Library guards should be on their guard for the following "felonies."

Graffiti Felony: Graffiti picture and copy may eliminate the need for a subscription to "Hustler."

This is a problem that is difficult to study and blur at the same time.

Anthropology

Sieracki digs Anthropology

This summer, Steve Sieracki, an anthropology major, spent six weeks in Hillsdale, Kansas as a crew member on a dig with the Osage and Kansas Indians of Wichita State University. This culture was the ancestor of the Osage and Kansas Indians of today. The artifacts consisted of pottery shards, stone tools and chips, daub from burnt down wattle and daub houses, and burnt pottery sherds, stone tools and chips.

The guard smirked. "You have chocolate on your breath. Confection!"

My point is that the REAL library crimes go unnoticed. Library guards should be on their guard for the following "felonies."

Graffiti Felony: Graffiti picture and copy may eliminate the need for a subscription to "Hustler."

This is a problem that is difficult to study and blur at the same time.

The day began at 5:30 a.m. with the arrival of George Plimpton on November 27; and Fine Arts, on Sunday nights. This semester was highlighted by a two week engagement with Mr. Bill from Saturday Night Live.

Renovations to the Service Building/New Naval have been pretty much completed and with this "new" building comes a new name, the Last Resort. The Resort is now being used for films on Sunday nights. The films this year became a weekly series, not sporadically shown as before.

Swiss hello (Continued from Page 6)

up residence somewhere in Italy. Last week, in the name of Swiss-American relations I attempted to show some Swiss friends the proper way to drink shots of whiskey. Unfortunately, I ended up spending most of the night trying to make more coherently literate Swiss bathroom.

Clases at the University began October 22 and we are becoming quite attuned to the French language. Many of our courses are being taught in French. Students here are much more independent than students in American universities. Professors do not assign homework or give regular exams. There is either one exam at the end of the semester or at the end of the year. The students choose his own books for a course - none are assigned. Things are generally quite expensive in Switzerland. For instance, a small can of coffee costs about 68s; a 10 ounce bottle of Coca-Cola would be about 90s; a small pizza is about 55s. There is a brewery in Fribourg, so beer is cheap. A small pizza is about $5. There is a brewery in Fribourg, so beer is cheap. A small pizza is about $5.

These short film festivals will take place largely in farmed stores here. The clothing styles here are quite different than in the States. The fad now is to wear American university sweatshirts and things are generally quite expensive in Switzerland. For instance, a small can of coffee costs about 68s; a 10 ounce bottle of Coca-Cola would be about 90s; a small pizza is about 55s. There is a brewery in Fribourg, so beer is cheap. A small pizza is about $5. There is a brewery in Fribourg, so beer is cheap. A small pizza is about $5. There is a brewery in Fribourg, so beer is cheap. A small pizza is about $5.

We have seen every­thing from high-speed racers to jokers. Most of them are not originals. They are sold in many clothing stores here.

The main purpose of our being here is to become au revoir, mes amis!...
Clockwise from upper left: Fr. Peterson opens Ring Weekend; Pre-ring ceremonies at the Hilton; Brian Moran searches for date at the King Philip; Peggi Doherty, Mike Joyce and others swing to the sounds of Second Society; George Burns and Groucho Marx; (lf to rt) Nancy Tuttle, Liz Oleksak, Terry Paiva, and Barbara Cottam enjoy Rhodes, Friday night; Joe and Helene Gamma are entertained by Joe Doherty after "a few" brews; Danny Connor and Bridget Collins every which way but loose; Juniors do it up at Ring Weekend Ball.
Providence College Theatre presents

Remember the movie "Gaslight?" Now see this Victorian thriller on stage. A grand mystery complete with a handsome diabolical husband, a wife in dire distress, and a clever detective.

Angel Street

by Patrick Hamilton

December 5–9

Harkins Hall Auditorium

Curtain: 8:00 pm
Tickets: $3.50 general admission
$2.50 with student ID
PC Students - $1.50

Reservations and Information:
phone 865-2327

Don't Miss this Spine-tingling Theater Experience!
More JRW

(Continued from Page 3)

left to join another group a week earlier, so the group who played on Friday was not the same one who played at last year's Ring Weekend. Even still, a good time was had by all.

By the time Saturday night rolled around, you weren't sure of the correct time or day. For some reason, midnight felt like 7:00 p.m. Anyway, once you stepped out the door you were quickly reminded that you were still alive by the cold wind.

Saturday night's formal dinner was held at the King Phillip Inn in Wrentham, Mass. Second Society was the band for the night and judging by the number of people dancing for every song, they were a success.

The Ring Weekend Committee chose King Phillip over the Cha­rdinal Inn in Providence, R.I. would take about twelve hours. On the other hand, a ten mile per hour wind out of the northwest could bring deadly radiation into the state in just two hours. Going beyond that, Campbell recalled that when she asked Mr. Santo Amato, state Civil Preparedness Director, his reply was "if there's ever a plant that is going to melt down in this country, Milstone is my candidate."

Miss Campbell closed with remarks on the uncertainties of radiation exposure. "Nobody has ever been able to determine one way or the other what level of nuclear power is safe. Nuclear power is a technology that leaves so many questions unanswered that for me it is totally unacceptable" she concluded.

After the speakers finished, the floor was opened for questions. The sentiment of the crowd was that for me it is totally unacceptable.

Thanksgiving

(Continued from Page 6)

the most dedicated closet dieter throws the old bathroom scale out the window at the drop of a snowflake. Maybe it's that internal clock the scientists say we have inside of us; at half past November we go into our deep eating cycle. The bears miss all the fun with that stupid hibernation.

Thanksgiving kicks of the winter long food orgy - and we don't let up 'til the bromo starts to settle on New Years' Day. It's just a constant progression of pies and fresh baked breads and those near little Christmas cookies you always see. And then comes candy canes, popcorn balls - but nobody ever sees one of those 'figgy puddings'. They sound revolting. Be sure to go easy on the extra helpings, you've got a long, winter to pace yourself through.

Surf Fishing

The Intramural Office announced that it is offering five classes in surf fishing instruction. These classes are being offered to all students, faculty and staff of Providence College. Classes are:

1. Basic Tackle—essential gear use and care.
2. New England Favorites—striped bass, blue fish, weakfish, mackerel, tautog, fluke and flounder.
3. Artificial Lure vs Natural Bait—techniques - rigs and knots.
4. The Elements—Wind, weather, tides, water, moon terrain.
5. Handy in the Shop and Kitchen—Fashioning and maintaining use and care of the filet knife.

BOG Concert Committee presents:

An Evening of Jazz

featuring:

Robert Kraft

with special guest,

Blue Lights

Wednesday, December 5th

'64 Hall

Tickets - $3.00 with PCID
By Mary Gibbons

Women's volleyball season has recently ended, and the Lady Friars have reason to be pleased. They defeated Assumption College in two straight games and then went on to win the last game, 3-1, against Providence College. The Lady Friars finished their season, amid a wave of excitement, with a victory over Springfield College. All these wins prepared the Lady Friars for the state championship, which they won.

The Providence College soccer team capped its season recently with a 3-0 victory over Stonehill College as it rained for the last time for the season. The Friars finished their season amid a wave of excitement. Junior captain Spencer, the team skated across the finish line, the Friars. A night of hit posts and dangerous plays characterized the game. "We set up the power play the way we wanted to but we didn't score," said coach Lamontello after the game. "We have a rather young team who have been working hard." The next home game for the Lady Friars is on Wednesday, November 28, against North Carolina State.

The Providence College girls' ice hockey team began their season on a winning note by beating the University of Rhode Island, 9-1, on Wednesday, November 14, at Schneider Arena. Coach John Bagge and his team played an excellent game, and the Lady Friars downed URI on Wednesday, November 28, at Schneider Arena. Coached by Coach Bagge, the team was victorious over URI, winning 3-1.

The Providence College girls' cross-country program here at PC has built the girls' team in recent years. Three teams from all over the east, including the Providence College girls' cross-country team, traveled to Tallahassee, Fla., to compete in the NCAA Cross Country nationals. The Providence College girls' cross-country program has been represented in the NCAA national finals. This is the first national championship that the Providence College women have been represented in.

The Lady Friars did well, finishing sixth. The Lady Friars had a great meet to cap a very good season for coach Kathy Cerra and her girls. In three short years they have built the girls' cross-country program here at PC into a national contender. Congratulations to the girls on a fine performance.

By Ellen Harrington

The Providence College soccer team capped its season recently with a 3-0 victory over Stonehill College as it rained for the last time for the season. The Friars finished their season amid a wave of excitement. Junior captain Spencer, the team skated across the finish line, the Friars. A night of hit posts and dangerous plays characterized the game. "We set up the power play the way we wanted to but we didn't score," said coach Lamontello after the game. "We have a rather young team who have been working hard." The next home game for the Lady Friars is on Wednesday, November 28, against North Carolina State.

The Providence College girls' ice hockey team began their season on a winning note by beating the University of Rhode Island, 9-1, on Wednesday, November 14, at Schneider Arena. Coach John Bagge and his team played an excellent game, and the Lady Friars downed URI on Wednesday, November 28, at Schneider Arena. Coached by Coach Bagge, the team was victorious over URI, winning 3-1.

The Providence College girls' cross-country program here at PC has built the girls' team in recent years. Three teams from all over the east, including the Providence College girls' cross-country team, traveled to Tallahassee, Fla., to compete in the NCAA Cross Country nationals. The Providence College girls' cross-country program has been represented in the NCAA national finals. This is the first national championship that the Providence College women have been represented in.

The Lady Friars did well, finishing sixth. The Lady Friars had a great meet to cap a very good season for coach Kathy Cerra and her girls. In three short years they have built the girls' cross-country program here at PC into a national contender. Congratulations to the girls on a fine performance.

By Ellen Harrington

The Providence College soccer team capped its season recently with a 3-0 victory over Stonehill College as it rained for the last time for the season. The Friars finished their season amid a wave of excitement. Junior captain Spencer, the team skated across the finish line, the Friars. A night of hit posts and dangerous plays characterized the game. "We set up the power play the way we wanted to but we didn't score," said coach Lamontello after the game. "We have a rather young team who have been working hard." The next home game for the Lady Friars is on Wednesday, November 28, against North Carolina State.

The Providence College girls' ice hockey team began their season on a winning note by beating the University of Rhode Island, 9-1, on Wednesday, November 14, at Schneider Arena. Coach John Bagge and his team played an excellent game, and the Lady Friars downed URI on Wednesday, November 28, at Schneider Arena. Coached by Coach Bagge, the team was victorious over URI, winning 3-1.

The Providence College girls' cross-country program here at PC has built the girls' team in recent years. Three teams from all over the east, including the Providence College girls' cross-country team, traveled to Tallahassee, Fla., to compete in the NCAA Cross Country nationals. The Providence College girls' cross-country program has been represented in the NCAA national finals. This is the first national championship that the Providence College women have been represented in.

The Lady Friars did well, finishing sixth. The Lady Friars had a great meet to cap a very good season for coach Kathy Cerra and her girls. In three short years they have built the girls' cross-country program here at PC into a national contender. Congratulations to the girls on a fine performance.

By Ellen Harrington

The Providence College soccer team capped its season recently with a 3-0 victory over Stonehill College as it rained for the last time for the season. The Friars finished their season amid a wave of excitement. Junior captain Spencer, the team skated across the finish line, the Friars. A night of hit posts and dangerous plays characterized the game. "We set up the power play the way we wanted to but we didn't score," said coach Lamontello after the game. "We have a rather young team who have been working hard." The next home game for the Lady Friars is on Wednesday, November 28, against North Carolina State.

The Providence College girls' ice hockey team began their season on a winning note by beating the University of Rhode Island, 9-1, on Wednesday, November 14, at Schneider Arena. Coach John Bagge and his team played an excellent game, and the Lady Friars downed URI on Wednesday, November 28, at Schneider Arena. Coached by Coach Bagge, the team was victorious over URI, winning 3-1.

The Providence College girls' cross-country program here at PC has built the girls' team in recent years. Three teams from all over the east, including the Providence College girls' cross-country team, traveled to Tallahassee, Fla., to compete in the NCAA Cross Country nationals. The Providence College girls' cross-country program has been represented in the NCAA national finals. This is the first national championship that the Providence College women have been represented in.

The Lady Friars did well, finishing sixth. The Lady Friars had a great meet to cap a very good season for coach Kathy Cerra and her girls. In three short years they have built the girls' cross-country program here at PC into a national contender. Congratulations to the girls on a fine performance.

By Ellen Harrington

The Providence College soccer team capped its season recently with a 3-0 victory over Stonehill College as it rained for the last time for the season. The Friars finished their season amid a wave of excitement. Junior captain Spencer, the team skated across the finish line, the Friars. A night of hit posts and dangerous plays characterized the game. "We set up the power play the way we wanted to but we didn't score," said coach Lamontello after the game. "We have a rather young team who have been working hard." The next home game for the Lady Friars is on Wednesday, November 28, against North Carolina State.

The Providence College girls' ice hockey team began their season on a winning note by beating the University of Rhode Island, 9-1, on Wednesday, November 14, at Schneider Arena. Coach John Bagge and his team played an excellent game, and the Lady Friars downed URI on Wednesday, November 28, at Schneider Arena. Coached by Coach Bagge, the team was victorious over URI, winning 3-1.

The Providence College girls' cross-country program here at PC has built the girls' team in recent years. Three teams from all over the east, including the Providence College girls' cross-country team, traveled to Tallahassee, Fla., to compete in the NCAA Cross Country nationals. The Providence College girls' cross-country program has been represented in the NCAA national finals. This is the first national championship that the Providence College women have been represented in.

The Lady Friars did well, finishing sixth. The Lady Friars had a great meet to cap a very good season for coach Kathy Cerra and her girls. In three short years they have built the girls' cross-country program here at PC into a national contender. Congratulations to the girls on a fine performance.
Sports

Russians top Friars, 77-70

Dave Gavitt may have been a little disappointed but shouldn’t have been too surprised by PC’s loss to the Russian national basketball team, 77-70, last Saturday night at the Civic Center.

Gavitt, 1980 U.S. Olympic coach, would have liked to have gotten a good look at some of the potential Olympians on the Russian squad, but Russian coach Alexander Gomelsky was too eggy for Gavitt. Gomelsky showed Gavitt and the 7,930 others in attendance his second string through most of the game.

The Russians were still able to put a damper on the Providence coaching debut of Gary Walters. The Russians took a 36-19 lead with two minutes remaining in the half and never looked back.

Russian shooting and Friar turnovers were the keys to this PC loss. The Russians just couldn’t miss, shooting 66 percent from the field in each half. Vladimir Zhitlin was high man for the Russians with 19. Sergei Tarumkov and Nikolai Desgvin chimped in with 14 and 12 respectively.

Despite the Russian shooting accuracy, the Friars may have found better if not for their 20 turnovers. The Russians are not known for forcing turnovers either. Said Walters after the game, “I’m a little disenchantment with the turnovers because they (the Russians) are not known as a pressure team.”

Rich Hinger had a fine game, pumping in 23 points. Walters has been impressed in the preseason by the work Hinger had put into conditioning this past summer. The work paid off in increased aggressiveness. At one point, Hinger drove down the baseline to slam dunk one against 7-3, Vladimir Tkachenko. Tkachenko, the star of the Russian squad, only saw four minutes of action. Sorry, Dave.

Gavitt also missed the normal defensive strategy of the Russians. Usually a zone defense team, the Russians played most of the game in a man to man defense. Despite the fact that the second string played most of the game and the Russians changed from their normal defensive strategy, the Russians were still able to beat the Friars handily, once leading the Friars by 14 in the fourth quarter.

Dave, you’re going to have your hands full.

Gridders cruise by Lowell, 32-22, but...

By John Brandolino

When you have two teams playing against each other with a rank 1-2 in virtually every statistic in the league, you’re bound to have an exciting match-up. With this in mind, Providence travelled to play the University of Lowell and shattered Lowell’s dream of an undefeated season by romping, 32-22, in an action packed contest. By beating the first place team, the Friars handily, once leading the Friars by 14 in the fourth quarter.

Dave, you’re going to have your hands full.

Lowell (many of them PC fans) to watch what they hoped to be a close game. Hard hitting Providence quarterback Paul Cotter whipped a low shot from the Terrriers was still able to push the puck out of a scramble in front of Nolin. This score at 2:21 of the first period turned out to be the game winner.

Mark Fuller upped the Terrriers lead to 2-0 at the 15:25 mark of the first period. Bob Davies, who had also set up the Cotter goal, hit Mark Fuller with a pass on center which set him up for the goal. Although Friar blueliner Randy Valischek was able to catch up with Fuller and had him down, the junior sensation for the Terrriers was still able to push the puck into the net.

At 7:48 of the second period Dave Gaviti was able to grab the puck out of a scramble in front of Nolin and popped it into the Friar goal. All of this concentration on BU scoring should not be interpreted to mean that the Friars did not have their chances. PC dumped 22 shots on BU goalie Matt Barich, who was making his first varsity start in his first shutout performance. This was only two shy of the 24 shots the Terrriers fed at Nolin. The Friars had seven power play opportunities but could not convert any of them. The Friars deserve credit for a well played season.

Friers shut out at Schneider for first time in 82 games

By John Brandolino

After a powerful win against number one Lowell, the PC gridders were chosen to play hardened Fairfield University in the first four plays. Club Ranks National Championship. The Stags travelled to Hendricks Field on November 17 for the showdown that would mean elimination for the losers and a possible national championship for the victors.

For the first three quarters it was all PC as they displayed their defensive talents and offensive threats. PC carried the ball twice as many times as Fairfield, missing 11 first downs to only two by Fairfield. A few scoring bids for the Friars failed (one deep in Fairfield territory) but finally, with a minute left in the half, P.J. Kelly fired a 13 yard TD pass to Jim Petkewich for the only home team score of the day. After the kick, good and PC had the lead, 7-0. They were the last points PC would score in 1979.

The Friars came out fighting in the second half and it looked as if they would hold the Stags as well as increase their lead. A drive to the Stag 8 yard line was halted and a twenty yard field goal was missed. From there, the Friar playoff chances began to fade.

In the final quarter, Fairfield QB Jack Leahy threw a screen pass to Tom Meyers. Meyers, amazing 50 yard break through the surrounding defenders and scooped 27 yards into the endzone. The extra point was missed and the Friars still had a one point lead. A miraculous 73 yard run in the last three minutes of the game by Meyers gave Fairfield the upset victory.

It was definitely a disappointing defeat for the dominating Friars. Tom Boga (23 carries, 113 yards) and Bob Landers (34 carries, 67 yards) once again dominated the Friar offense, eating up the yardage even though they couldn’t capitalize on key drives. All in all, the Friars deserve credit for a well played season.