Aren't You Hungry?

BURGER KING® celebrates the opening of its 19th restaurant in Rhode Island (on Pleasant Valley Parkway in Providence)—just 5 minutes from PC—with a special offer exclusively for the students of PROVIDENCE COLLEGE.

FREE Regular Order FRENCH FRIES with the purchase of any sandwich
Please present this coupon before ordering. Limit one coupon per customer. Void where prohibited by law. This offer expires February 27, 1982. Good only at: Pleasant Valley Parkway, Providence, R.I.
Army ROTC Program Reflects Changing Student Attitudes

With world affairs being seen as increasingly uncertain and college students across the country showing more concern for America’s world role, Army ROTC Basic Camp this past summer was not only healthy in numbers, but thriving in spirit, according to Colonel Stiepock, Professor of Military Science here at Providence College.

Army ROTC’s two-year program is a means by which college students can make up for military science courses they have missed. The two-year program allows qualified students an opportunity to attend the Army ROTC’s Basic Camp. No, Basic Camp is not the Army’s basic training. As a matter of fact it is significantly different. Basic Camp is military training for students with officer potential and a willingness to give Army life a try. “Student priorities are changing and attendance at Basic Camp reflected that fact,” Colonel Stiepock said.

“At ROTC Basic Camp we get a feeling that students were following through with a new sense of responsibility,” the PMS added. “Focus on American interests abroad, especially in the Middle East, has created a new attitude among many students. They want their contributions to have meaning, and they want to prepare themselves for the future,” he said. Students want to develop their leadership skills and Basic Camp can start teaching those skills. They get a feel for what the Army is, what it does, and how a soldier lives, all done without an obligation to serve. “Students who think they may be interested in becoming an Army officer take it in the summer before their junior year and they are paid for their training,” explained Colonel Stiepock. “It gives them the opportunity to see if they think Army life is for them. And we’re proud of the number who decide that it is for them. Last year PC sent 10 students all of whom returned to enroll in the Military Science III class this school year.”

“Army ROTC is a chance for students to explore many ideas, techniques, and their relationships, but mostly they learn about themselves,” Colonel Stiepock continued. “We get them working on real problems — problems to be solved with people.” Students interested in the Army ROTC Two-Year Program (academic freshmen or sophomores) begin with the six-week Basic Camp at Fort Knox, Kentucky, the summer before their junior year. The purpose of Basic Camp is to give students an overall view of what Army training and discipline are all about. Since there’s no obligation to enroll in the Advanced Course after Basic Camp is completed, students may use it as a barometer to tell themselves if Army life is really what they want.

As a cadet who recently attended Basic Camp said, “Before Basic Camp I asked, why not give it a try? I didn’t have to join up if I didn’t want to. But when it was all over, I knew it was for me. I really liked the feeling they gave me.”

Also, students who attend Basic Camp can compete for Army ROTC two-year merit scholarships. “My scholarship paid for my full tuition, my lab fees, and my books,” said one of last year’s graduates, speaking with understandable enthusiasm.

All students in the two-year program get a living allowance of up to $1,000 each school year regardless of whether or not they have scholarships. “Of course,” said Cadet Vito Buonamano, “the financial benefits made me take a closer look at ROTC. It eased a lot of pressures. And it’s a big help, especially while I’m pursuing my major.”

The academic benefits offered by the Two-Year Program — with its emphasis on leadership and management training — is another aspect students look at more closely. “This pays even more dividends,” Cadet Buonamano added. “I know that’s what employers are looking for.”

“As professional officers, we obviously have a stake in the nation’s defense,” said Colonel Stiepock, “because the students who are willing to prove themselves are the students who will look for the highest all-round standards in those around them. In a sense, the Army is no different from any other organization — we want to fill our ranks with well-rounded, quality people.”

“It really feels good to be able to work with people and share with them,” said Cadet Buonamano. “I’ve learned to be flexible, but organized. That’s definitely one advantage.”

Students interested in the Army ROTC Two-Year Program should contact CPT Jay Johnston at Providence College, 865-2471.
The Residence Office announced that applications are available starting today for Resident Assistant candidates for the fall of 1982. To be eligible, an applicant must have a GPA above 2.25 or above as of fall 1981. Students are expected to maintain that average throughout the semester(s) of their employment. Students do not need to be in the work-study program to be eligible for an RA position.

According to Colonel DelCurto, the resident assistant is seeking students with “high integrity, leadership abilities, reliability and good judgment.” These qualities are necessary to the proper execution of their responsibilities. As an RA, their day to day activities, he explains.

The position of Resident Assistant is not an easy one according to those RA’s on campus who don’t think that that includes 20 hours of duty per week, and usually more. As payment, RAs receive only partial remuneration of their labors.

Interested applicants may pick up applications beginning today in Joseph Hall, Room 201, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday. Completed applications must be turned in by Thursday, February 25, 1982, at the Residence Office.

The Residence Office would also like to congratulate the seven chosen students for RA positions for this semester. They include: Mark Dempsey, ’83; Timothy Hanwick, ’83; Jill Simmsom, ’82; Lisa Thibault, ’83; Karen Kogut, ’84; Margaret Dwyer, ’84; and Patricia Rose, ’83.

Congress Makes Proposal to COA
Activity Fee May Increase

Every student here at Providence College pays a Student Activity Fee annually in addition to tuition costs. It is a payment which is used for providing social activity on campus as well as the planning and allocation of both the Board of Governors and the student Congress. For the present academic year, this fee is $39, which is the lowest on the market for the last eight years; at its highest in the same time period, it was $75.

A resolution was passed at Sunday’s Congress meeting which will propose a change to the Committee on Administration that this fee be raised to $45 as of next year. According to the proposal, made by Student Congress Treasurer Sudan, the proposed increase, compared to the current fee of $39, would be $65 for the 1982-83 academic year, and then would increase another $5 per year in proportion to increases in tuition costs.

Resolution proponent McEwen explained that “each year’s cut-back is a cut-back to the student because of limited funding.” He explained that those organizations utilizing the funds available, namely BOG, Student Congress, and allocations to the various clubs, have not had enough to provide what social activities are needed for student activities for students. Figuring the cost of inflation and the nature of those activities which the students are seeking to provide, McEwen added, there simply is not enough money to work with.

Liz Flynn explained that the proposal was made in hopes that a general policy level will be established to provide the needed funds. In addition, she commented, “This way we’d automatically deal with it on a year to year basis.”

Congress president Dave Mikula stated that the proposal is an important one because the Student Activity Fund is “the most viable part of the College budget.” In order for students to see the results of the $65 fee, however, the $65 must be provided, but this can only be achieved with adequate funds, which is the chief reason the proposal has been made.

Among other proposals conducted at the meeting, Mikula announced that a Rat committee was established to plan alternative events in the Rathskellar. The committee has planned to have an open night at the Rath on Monday, February 22, the first night back from the winter break. No liquor will be sold so that all students can be admitted. The firefighters will be there, and food from mural will also be served. The event will run from 9 p.m. to midnight, and depending on the success of these nights, which will be held every Monday, plans for other non-alcoholic events may be formulated.

Rob Gioviano announced that three new clubs were approved by the Congress legislative committee last week. These include a wrestling club, Applecore (a computer club), and Students for a United Ireland. The Academic Research Committee has appointed Greg Gebo, Congress representative for the Class of 1984, as representative to the Faculty-Senate. Gebo will serve in this capacity by meeting with the faculty and will be able to provide student input to Faculty-Senate decisions.

Steve Rogers, lifestyles committee chairman, reported that work is beginning on plans to acquire a laundry room, coffee room, and typing room in various spots on campus for the use of off-campus students. In addition, she stated that approximately $300 was raised in last week’s lifestyles raffle to be contributed to Big Brothers and Sisters for a van.
Counseling Center Advises
"Strive to be Employable"

By Cathy John

Worried about your future? Questioning a career? Do you have problems adjusting to college life? If you answered yes to any of these questions, there is a place on campus available to help you work out these concerns.

The Counseling Center is in Upper Slavin Center offers a variety of challenging workshops and self-help programs as well as personal counseling sessions concerning almost any situation. The Center can provide not only vocational advice and information, but can also help students adjust to college life and develop personal skills and strengths.

There are five men and women counselors at the center; three are vocational counselors and two are placement officers.

According to Jacqueline F. Kiernan, Counseling Center director, "We're concerned with total development of the student." She explains that students do not necessarily seek their resources but that they can simply be "allowed to develop" themselves.

One aspect of the Counseling Center is to help students with personal issues. Kiernan noted that a number of students come to the counselors at the center for help with family or roommate-related problems, peer pressure and especially in the case of freshmen, dealing with adjustments to a new place.

Counselors at the Center also help students who are either undecided majors or who question the major they have chosen. To a large extent they do this by challenging the student to discover his own abilities and interests. According to John Hogan, one of the Center's personal/vocational counselors, "We generally try to help them see how they feel and then see their options." Mrs. Kiernan added that the counselors try to help the undecided student find a major that he or she is interested in and then can worry about finding a job to fit these interests and major later on.

Helping students who are concerned about their major, Counseling Center workers commented that undecided students need exposure to various types of work fields. Kiernan explains that students "need to gather information about themselves and the different departments at the College."

The Counseling Center can direct students early on to make valuable contacts in the various academic departments within the school and to gather information necessary to form the right individual program. Counselors at the Center believe that "knowing the end of the process and the opportunities that will be available makes it easier for students to decide what direction they're headed in and thus choose a major."

In addition to personal contacts, students can be exposed to work fields through various seminars and workshops which the Counseling Center offers periodically throughout the year, as well as the Career Information Center within the Center itself.

A great deal of the work the Counseling Center does, however, involves Career Information Center for senior students. Counseling Director Kiernan noted that Providence College has one of the largest recruiting programs in the East. She added that recruiters are particularly pleased with PC students because they seem to be "better prepared and better qualified students."

Placement work involves not only recruitment, however. Students can receive help with resumes, preparation for job interviews and can attend career-related workshops. According to John J. McGrath, coordinator of placement activities, the goal of the Placement Officers is "to make the student highly employable." He explains that the student has to be authentic to be employable and needs to develop confidence in his own strengths and skills in order to be authentic.

McGrath stated that this is an important transition to make from school to work in order for a student to be successful in a job campaign. He commented that employers "expect more from college graduates today — more on the behavioral level than on the educational level." His expectations are that full employment, a commitment to the job, and a willingness to develop skills and qualities that are necessary to form the right individual program.

Placement work involves not only recruitment, however. Students can receive help with resumes, preparation for job interviews and can attend career-related workshops. According to John J. McGrath, coordinator of placement activities, the goal of the Placement Officers is "to make the student highly employable." He explains that the student has to be authentic to be employable and needs to develop confidence in his own strengths and skills in order to be authentic.

McGrath stated that this is an important transition to make from school to work in order for a student to be successful in a job campaign. He commented that employers "expect more from college graduates today — more on the behavioral level than on the educational level." His expectations are that full employment, a commitment to the job, and a willingness to develop skills and qualities that are necessary to form the right individual program.

Finally, Counseling Center officers commented that students are beginning to realize that they need to take the time to prepare themselves for a future career. They advise that this is important for all students who will eventually be entering the job market and invite all students to take advantage of the services they can offer.

McGrath noted that SELP, which stands for Student Experimental Learning Program, is a program started by Rhode Island which can offer students jobs throughout the year. It can initiate apprenticeship programs for students in almost any field. McGrath commented that although the student will not be paid, he can gain high quality experience and good credentials for future employment.

The program will be broadcast every Thursday evening immediately following the 6 p.m. news. It will be an informative news show discussing major critical issues of our day, so don't forget to tune in.
Improve your memory.
Order this memo board now—before you forget!

For a good time call this number

Seagram's 7 & 7-Up

This 12" x 15" Red or White memo board attaches easily to any surface and comes with its own erasable grease pencil.

Please send a check or money order for $2.99, no cash please, to Seagram's 7 Crown Memo-Board Offer, P.O. Box 1662, New York, N.Y. 10152

Name
Address
City
State
Zip

Offer expires December 31, 1982. No purchase necessary. New York residents add 8.25% sales tax. Please allow 4-6 weeks for delivery.

And remember, good times stir with Seagram's 7 Crown.

SEAGRAM DISTILLERS CO., N.Y.C. AMERICAN WHISKEY—a blend, 80 PROOF

Seagram's and 7-Up are Trademarks of the Seagram Co. Company © 1982
Editorial Board of The Cowl

New Ideas Proposed:
Race to the Rate

If, like so many 18 and 19-year-olds at PC, you have tried in vain to partake in the merriment of our one and only Rathskeller, you will finally be able to satisfy your curiosity.

On Monday, February 22, Club 21, alias The Rat, will mark a milestone in the history of its existence at Providence College, when it opens its doors to all PC students, regardless of age, for a night of non-alcoholic entertainment.

Judy McNamara, secretary of the Class of 1983, stated that a Rat Committee has been revitalized, in order to "make the Rat more accessible to all Providence College students." McNamara continued that the committee is composed of six other students, Mark Cafrery, '82; Joe Solomon, '84; Sean Sullivan, '86; Joe Fane, '83; David Mikula, '82; and Cheryl Morissette, '82.

The committee is also being backed by three members of the College administration, Rev. Gerald J. McGreevy, O.P., president for student services, Rev. John A. McMahon, O.P., College Advisor, and Lana Arcaro, secretary to Father McGreevy.

Hoping to create a Route 66 type of atmosphere, similar to those in the Last Resort, entertainment will most likely consist of a guitar player, and there is a possibility that there will be waitresses serving pizza and other such refreshments. In case no one has noticed, the Rat also has a fireplace which has never been used. With permission, and weather permitting, the fireplace will be yet another aspect of the Rat's new image.

While February 22 will be the first time underclassmen have been allowed into the Rat, it will also be the last, unless all students exhibit enthusiasm for the idea by going to the Coffeehouse.

If the night is successful, the committee hopes to eventually make it a weekly occurrence, possibly utilizing the wristband policy so that students over 20 can drink while socializing with underclassmen as well.

There will be a $1.00 cover charge to compensate for expenses with any extra money going into a "Rat Fund" to pay for long range renovation plans, which include the expansion of the Rat into the court-room and an additional room for more of its patrons.

The Rat Committee has laid the groundwork for what could be an enjoyable and unique entertainment alternative, giving underclassmen the opportunity to socialize with their over 20-year-old peers. What better way is there to bridge the drinking age gap than in the comfort of our own campus pub?

We Are A Family

Ask Very Rev. J. Stuart Morrisey, O.P., the director of special events, what he thought about the dinner dance at this year's Parents' Weekend, and he'll answer you in a word, "Spacious!"

To many parents and their offspring that's a farce, too! There isn't a lack of student input at PC, there is only a lack of beneficial input at PC. Everyone just sits around waiting for one of the student leaders to make what they feel is a mistake and then they give their personal input.

No decisions whatsoever are made without the consideration of the student's welfare. The people making those decisions are not making them for their own personal glorification. The people making decisions for the students are doing it with the best interest of the students in mind. These decisions cannot be made unless these leaders know what students want.

Please voice your needs, wants and ideas to people before something is done. Don't just sit back and wait to complain. It is very difficult to put yourself into someone else's position and say how much better a situation would have been handled by you unless you know the facts. Nobody is afraid to answer a question or point you in the direction of someone else who can answer that question for you. Just ask! Find out why things are being done and if they are legal before you complain about them.

Student organizations are just that, organizations for students. They desire and seek your help. Be there with that help instead of with complaints. Once again, Student Congress and BOG have weekly open meetings. Attend and give receive knowledge.

Dear Editor:

The student body here at PC really makes me laugh (or maybe I should say cry). Everyone is screaming apathy, apathy, but that's a farce, too! There isn't a lack of student input at PC, there is only a lack of beneficial input at PC. Everyone just sits around waiting for one of the student leaders to make what they feel is a mistake and then they give their personal input.

Wow, what a great help that is to the rest of the PC student body. Where are all of these complainers and "do-gooders" when capable people that elected are asking for advice?

Dear Editor:

The student body here at PC really makes me laugh (or maybe I should say cry). Everyone is screaming apathy, apathy, but that's a farce, too! There isn't a lack of student input at PC, there is only a lack of beneficial input at PC. Everyone just sits around waiting for one of the student leaders to make what they feel is a mistake and then they give their personal input.

Please voice your needs, wants and ideas to people before something is done. Don't just sit back and wait to complain. It is very difficult to put yourself into someone else's position and say how much better a situation would have been handled by you unless you know the facts. Nobody is afraid to answer a question or point you in the direction of someone else who can answer that question for you. Just ask! Find out why things are being done and if they are legal before you complain about them.

Student organizations are just that, organizations for students. They desire and seek your help. Be there with that help instead of with complaints. Once again, Student Congress and BOG have weekly open meetings. Attend and give receive knowledge.

Jean Ludwig
Vice-President '83

Letters

Lack of Beneficial Input

No decisions whatsoever are made without the consideration of the student's welfare. The people making those decisions are not making them for their own personal glorification. The people making decisions for the students are doing it with the best interest of the students in mind. Those decisions cannot be made unless these leaders know what students want.

Please voice your needs, wants and ideas to people before something is done. Don't just sit back and wait to complain. It is very difficult to put yourself into someone else's position and say how much better a situation would have been handled by you unless you know the facts. Nobody is afraid to answer a question or point you in the direction of someone else who can answer that question for you. Just ask! Find out why things are being done and if they are legal before you complain about them.

Student organizations are just that, organizations for students. They desire and seek your help. Be there with that help instead of with complaints. Once again, Student Congress and BOG have weekly open meetings. Attend and give receive knowledge.

Dear Editor:

The student body here at PC really makes me laugh (or maybe I should say cry). Everyone is screaming apathy, apathy, but that's a farce, too! There isn't a lack of student input at PC, there is only a lack of beneficial input at PC. Everyone just sits around waiting for one of the student leaders to make what they feel is a mistake and then they give their personal input.

Wow, what a great help that is to the rest of the PC student body. Where are all of these complainers and "do-gooders" when capable people that elected are asking for advice?
By JACK ANDERSON and JOE SPEAR
WASHINGTON The CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE AGENCY routinely engages in activities that would strike the average American as a bit sinister. And the man in charge of sinister operations at the CIA is the chief of covert operations.

That's why the agency's professionals were more than a little dismayed when CIA Director William Casey appointed a rank outsider as head of covert operations in May 1981. The CIA's darkest secrets were about to be laid bare to someone who might not appreciate how the spy agency had operated over the years.

As it happened, the man Casey selected to head covert operations, Max Hugel, was quickly forced out. He was accused of illegal stock deals he had made as a private businessman.

There was some suspicion at the time that Hugel had been sandbagged by the old pros in the CIA. The idea was that they didn't want an outsider undermining their business. This theory gained more credence when two men who blow the whistle on Hugel disappeared very soon after. They were two brothers, Samuel and Thomas McNell.

Given the questionable nature of some CIA's undercover operations, there was a possibility that the McNell brothers had been done away with by the agency. Why the spies would want to get rid of the McNells had gotten to be a bit out of control. The agents had never quite cleared it up. But in the tangled world of espionage, the suspicions survived.

Indeed, things got so weird at one point that the body of a third McNell brother, Dennis, was exhumed to make sure that he died of natural causes.

Still, the two McNell brothers who blew the whistle on Hugel were missing. But now there is evidence that the McNell brothers are alive and well and living in Dallas.

In this effort to improve collections from former agents, the agency is offering a reward for the return of the McNells.

The rewards, which were published in the Federal Register on January 7, 1982, (Vol. 47, No. 4 at P. 908) would reduce new money to schools with default rates of more than 25% by the amount the institutions failed to collect from their students. Institutions with default rates of more than 25% would be barred from receiving any new funds.

The proposals, which were published in the Federal Register on January 17, 1982, are part of the Department of Education's effort to significantly reduce the default rate. The proposals would take effect for the 1982-83 academic year, will be received by the Department until February 22, 1982.

A new law, which is expected to pass this legislative session, would require all schools in the United States to report their default rates to the Department of Education. The law would also require the Department to impose penalties on schools with high default rates.

The Department of Education has proposed a series of rule changes that may adversely impact on your school's participation in the National Direct Student Loan Program. Comments on the proposed rules, which would take effect for the 1982-83 academic year, would be received by the Department until February 22, 1982.

I urge you to make your views known by writing Margaret Henry, Office of Student Financial Assistance (Room 4018, ROB3) 400 Maryland Avenue SW, Washington, D.C. 20202-3154.
This past weekend, as most freshmen and several "orphaned" upperclassmen will gladly attest, was Providence College’s annual Parents’ Weekend. The Big Event to which all upperclassmen who had received invitations during Christmas break, began on Friday night with the opening of the PC Theatre’s production of Cabaret. The sellout crowd received quite a treat as the PC group put on an excellent performance. Following the musical, a reception was held for parents in ’64 Hall.

Saturday morning trios of parents and students could be seen roaming the campus. Parents who had previously limited their stays on campus to dropping off a ton of essentials and a kiss good-bye, or a return to retrieve twice that amount, were given the grand tour, highlighted by the Campus Gym, the Peterson Recreation Center. At one o’clock the men’s volleyball team took to the court in a trium-phant match with Bradford College and Brandeis.

At two, the men’s hockey team faced off against the University of Maine. The PC pucksters put on a tremendous showing, trampling UMaine 11-4. The crowd was one most fans are unaccustomed to — a rather quiet, but nevertheless spirited bunch. A small token of essentials and a kiss good-bye. Three cheers to Ms. Farrell, that is, League of Aware Women.

The PC Theatre/Music Program opened with “Cabaret” and closed with a thundering round of applause. To enter the theatre was to enter a world of essentials and a kiss good-bye. To enter the theatre was to enter a Berlin bistro of 40 years ago, flavored with gypsy and oriental, degradation, love, promise, illusion...and terror. Like the theme, the PC production included both delightful and unpleasant moments. Seated among the smoke and ribaldry of the Kit Kat Club, the audience was teased by a troop of scantily dressed young ladies and bid “Willkommen, Bemuetung, Welcome” by the dwarves, grumosse, Master of Ceremonies (J. Coggins). Virtue is harder to personify than vice, and Coggins’ thick paste-colored makeup and harsh voice left no doubt as to the Emcee’s swing of the moral pendulum. Dancing, calling to the stage his burlesque beauties (“Each and every one a Virgin”), sending waiters scurrying, the Emcee summed up the mood of the Kit Kat, and of one’s heart was as soft as whipped cream. Three cheers to Ms. Farrell called it a night and bade their rugged offspring goodbye. All agreed that the evening was a success as well as a lot of fun. Sunday at 1 p.m., Mass was held in St. Pio for students and their parents. The standing room only crowd listened with chuckles as Father Petersen in his homily appealed to the parents to donate to their favorite charity — us! Following Mass, the weekend was brought to a close with a buffet brunch in Lower Slavin.

To all who attended, Parents’ Weekend was a special time shared with those who are responsible for us being here. It gave us a chance to spend some time with Mom and Dad, have a lot of fun and show them a bit of our home away from home. Hmmm, wonder if they’ll let me have the car Friday night?
Try. This fact is no real surprise. The Car's annual album is out and like the previous three (The Cars, Candy, and Glitter), it is receiving its share of playing time on radio stations all over the country. The Cars is in no real surprise considering the success of their past albunm, The Cars. One major flaw that should be very apparent to their followers or even the common listener, and that is the same sound on almost every song. & It Up starts off with the catchy song “Since You’re Gone." This song sets the trend for the remainder of the album, and that trend is about the loss of love. Lead vocalist, rhythm guitarist, and writer Ric Ocasek seems obsessed with a woman whom he can’t live without, nor without. This theme is especially prevalent in the songs "Victim of Love," "This Could Be Love," and "Think It Over." Probably the best song in the commercially successful title song, “Shake It Up.” “Shake It Up” is an upbeat song featuring good rhythmic drums by David Robinson. Ocasek again demonstrates why he is one of rock’s most respected vocalists on “I’m Not The One!” with his addictive harmonizing vocals. Both of these songs are on side one.

The highlight of side two is the tune, “Think It Over.” Again, Ocasek is possessed by a woman and asks her to think over their relationship. “Think It Over” is helped tremendously by the keyboard work of Greg Hawkes. The other songs on side two, “A Dream Away,” “This Could Be Love,” and “Maybe Baby” do not receive as much airplay as others, but are likeable songs although they will never win The Cars a Grammy Award. Despite their repertive sound and simplistic instrumentals, Shake It Up is generally a good commercial album. Ocasek will never write serious music as other groups we have, but who really cares? What Ocasek does is give the public good pop music and he do it very well. Shake It Up is a worthwhile investment in today’s market of skyrocketing album prices.

Future Sights:
- The Cars, March 23, at the Providence Civic Center
- The Probers, The Detectives, and The Make, February 12, at Lago’s Heartbreak Hotel in Providence
- The Dregs, February 26, at Showcase in Pawcatuck, Ct.
- Joan Jett, February 25, at Center Stage in Providence.

This Week’s Top Five (according to Rolling Stone):
1. Tattoo You — The Rolling Stones
2. Forever 4 — Forever
3. Ghost In The Machine — The Police
4. Freeze Frame — J. Geils Band
5. Bella Donna — Stevie Nicks

Future Sights:
- Eagles Showcase in Pawcatuck, Ct. February 26 — The Dregs, February 26, at Showcase in Pawcatuck, Ct.
- Providence Future Sights:
  - The Probers, The Detectives, and The Make, February 12, at Lago’s Heartbreak Hotel in Providence
  - The Dregs, February 26, at Showcase in Pawcatuck, Ct.
  - Joan Jett, February 25, at Center Stage in Providence.

By Mary Beth Wharton

Aquarius
(Jan. 23-Feb. 19)
If you’re involved in an informal sport, be prepared for an unexpected slump.

Pieces
(Feb. 19-March 20)
Reject! You are going to find a required text in the bookstore for under $20!!!

Aries
(March 20-April 20)
You will find out that an upcoming term paper assignment has been postponed until April! This will provide you with an excuse to celebrate at Brad’s.

Taurus
(April 20-May 21)
There is a strong possibility that this week you will find something in your mailbox other than a note from BOG or the Residence Office.

Gemini
(May 21-June 21)
Prepare yourself for some entertaining moments this week. For example, there is a good chance that you will be finding your latest love outside your dorm you will be serenaded by a group of beer drinking freshman who have recently thrown out of the Rat.

Cancer
(June 21-July 22)
In the near future you will be thrown out of the Rat. Shortly after, you will join up with some companions and serenade young, loveless couples who are saying their goodnights outside McVinney Hall.

Leo
(July 22-Aug. 23)
When you go downstairs to do your laundry, the laundry room will be empty (a once in a lifetime occurrence).

Virgo
(Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
That job interview you’ve been fearing will go over so smoothly that you will practically be offered the job on the spot.

Libra
(Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
That cute little puppy who has become a permanent resident of your apartment will finally grasp the significance of spread newspapers.

Scorpio
(Oct. 23-Nov. 22)
That professor who always calls on you in is for quite a surprise this week. You are finally going to answer one of his questions correctly.

Sagittarius
(Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
An exam you have been dreading for a long time will not be as difficult as you had imagined; it will be impossible.

Capricorn
(Dec. 21-Jan. 20)
You will see a new record for making it from Harkins to Koffler, only to discover that you have left, all your books back at your desk in Harkins 208.

This is a plea to the ENTIRE STUDENT POPULATION OF PROVIDENCE COLLEGE

Sacrifice the evening meal for the poor on Ash Wednesday, February 24, 1982. If you live on campus Raymond Cafeteria will donate the cost of your supper to the Pastoral Council and if you live off campus donations may be made in the Pastoral Council office which is located across from the token in Slavin center. Proceeds will be donated to the Dominican Missionaries in Pakistan and Peru and also local charities including campus organizations who service the poor.

* See LENT (Page 11)
have a monopoly on love in Far­rell’s magical world, and strange things can happen to American writers in a Berlin cabaret. Sally Bowles, British starlet, thrives on the beautiful illusions of the city’s nightlife, where the masses flock to see her pretty face and legs while the Nazi’s slowly gain power. Tired of her old lover, Max (John Farley), Sally latches onto our novelist, and all is bliss in Berlin. Or is it?

Sally and Bradshaw exchange tender words, Schulz entertains his old chum has forgotten the ценити in Far­ley’s magical world, and strange things can happen to American writers in a Berlin cabaret. Sally Bowles, British starlet, thrives on the beautiful illusions of the city’s nightlife, where the masses flock to see her pretty face and legs while the Nazi’s slowly gain power. Tired of her old lover, Max (John Farley), Sally latches onto our novelist, and all is bliss in Berlin. Or is it?

Sally and Bradshaw exchange tender words, Schulz entertains his old chum has forgotten the ценити in Far­ley’s magical world, and strange things can happen to American writers in a Berlin cabaret. Sally Bowles, British starlet, thrives on the beautiful illusions of the city’s nightlife, where the masses flock to see her pretty face and legs while the Nazi’s slowly gain power. Tired of her old lover, Max (John Farley), Sally latches onto our novelist, and all is bliss in Berlin. Or is it?

Dear R&P,

I like this guy who I have been friends with for a long time very much. Do you think it would be wrong or out of place if I sent him a carnation for Valentine’s Day as a token of my affection for him, or would that be too forward?

Stumped Valentine

Dear Stumped,

If you really like this guy and he doesn’t realize you have feelings for him this would be the perfect opportunity.

Go with him. If something was meant to happen, it will.

Dear MTF,

If you really like this guy and he doesn’t realize you have feelings for him this would be the perfect opportunity.

Go with him. If something was meant to happen, it will.

Dear R&P,

I want to go with a guy who I have been friends with for over a year now to our dorm blind date dance. I know he’ll go but I also know we’ll end up more than just friends and I don’t know if I want that to happen.

More Than Friends

http://www.cabaret.com

Creative Corner

The American Dream

Whatever happened to the American Dream?
You look for your hometown gardens
And white picket fences,
But do you ever really find them?

Kids stuff down the flagstones in their black patent leather shoes, (but they’re unbuckled!)
It’s so easy to fall.
Walls, doors, red tape dead end.
Who pumped the life out of the American Dream?
Living on salaries
Of a harried accountant.
Pondering over the next bill,
Issue, War.

Hellsish faces foretell tomorrow,
snipers’ guns.
A desperate clutch for honesty.
Whatever happened to the American Dream?

By Jane McAudiffe

Dear R&P,

I like this guy who I have been friends with for a long time very much. Do you think it would be wrong or out of place if I sent him a carnation for Valentine’s Day as a token of my affection for him, or would that be too forward?

Stumped Valentine

Dear Stumped,

If you really like this guy and he doesn’t realize you have feelings for him this would be the perfect opportunity.

Go with him. If something was meant to happen, it will.

PUBLIC SERVICE MESSAGE
ROY AYERS and EBIQUITY
OPEN EDUCATIONAL SEMINAR and CONCERT at BROWN UNIVERSITY
On Saturday, February 13, 1982
Seminar at 5:00 P.M.
Performance at 8:00 p.m.
SEMINAR: FREE — CONCERT: $6.50
FOR MORE INFORMATION, CALL
863-1818

RED CROSS
ADVANCE LIFESAVING
Beginning Thursday, February 11th
10 CLASSES — $10.00
Register in Ticket Office

AN INVITATION...
To Young Catholic Men
with idealism and courage to join over 800 Columban Fathers serving the poor and needy in 8 Third World Countries
For more information on the Missionary Priesthood, write:
COLUMBAN FATHERS, 319 Adams St.
Quincy, Mass. 02169 or call (617) 472-1494
PC Alumnus: John Treacy Making Tracks

By Chris Lydon

In 1974, if one was asked in Ireland what was Providence College, he would probably have been met with a certain amount of confusion. Thanks to John Treacy and others; Providence College is now one of the few colleges that people in Ireland do know about. This is due in large part to John’s long list of accomplishments in Ireland and around the world.

For Treacy, “Providence College was virgin territory in terms of the sports that were played here.” But with the help of Coach Bob Amato, all the pieces fell into place.

By the time he was a senior, the stage was set for a unique accomplishment in college sports. In the NCAA Cross Country Championships, he finished second to Hans van Heeswijk of the George Washington University in 3:09. He memorized the race, and this was due to John’s coach, John Treacy, he would probably have been able to go on and repeat that performance. It was thanks to John Treacy and others; Ireland do know about. This is due in large part to John’s long list of accomplishments in Ireland and around the world.

As a 17 year old, Treacy was the first American to win the University of Texas Cross Country Invitational. That made Treacy a three time All American. When he returned to PC, he graduated from PC with a degree in Accounting and a 3.6 G.P.A.

★ LENT (continued from Page 9)

hope in the new life that is given to you in your personal practice of repentance. It will be an opportunity for all of us to celebrate the love and forgiveness that God has for us in His Son.

You are asked to give up a meal today. It is a day traditionally when we are to give up one meal, and for five days, the fast is most devout. This fast in the past has helped our neighbors in the near and distant lands.

As on Ash Wednesday there will be Masses at 9:35, 10:15, 11:35 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., and on Saturday, the daily Mass will be at 11:35 a.m. in Aquinas Chapel. Monday evening during Lent, Stations of the Cross will be held at 7 p.m., in Aquinas Chapel.

Every Tuesday during Lent there will be a Cenacle Light Mass at 10:30 a.m., in Aquinas Chapel, there will be five different prayers for the Lenten Season and they will be: Very Rev. Thomas R. Rover, O.P., Father John Rautins, O.P., Father John Rossi, O.P., and Father John Stratton, O.P.

The Sacrament of Penance or Reconciliation will be available on every Tuesday during Lent, from 7:30-9 p.m., Saturday, from 9-11 p.m. and Sunday, from 10:30-11 p.m. Confessions also will be available a half hour before all the Sunday Liturgies and anytime upon request.

During the Lenten Season other events are also forthcoming such as a Lenten Musical Concert in Aquinas Chapel by the Fraternity of the Holy Cross and a Lenten Musical Concert in Aquinas Chapel by the Fraternity of the Holy Cross. This new sport will begin following the Lenten Season.

Intramural Announcements

INTRAMURAL STREET HOCKEY

This new sport will begin following the Lenten Season. The games will be wooden with inline skates. You do not have to own your own stick, but you do not have a stick they are available at the women’s field hockey store. Women’s Field Hockey

ALL PC WOMEN INTERCOLLEGIATE WINTER HOCKEY LEAGUES START SOON!

Teams rosters are available at the front desks of the women’s field hockey office on the third floor of the Student Union. Those interested in playing are invited to sign up with the women’s field hockey coach, Coach Keefe. Winter Sports Rosters Are Now Available! Meet the Following Intramural Sports:

Co-ed Water Polo (3 men, 3 women, and goalie of either sex)
By John Corey

The next time the Black Bears of Maine are scheduled to travel to Schneider Arena for a contest with the Friars, they will think twice about making the trip. Saturday afternoon the Friars defeated the University of Maine, 11-0. A crowd of 3,000, including many parents, watched and were delighted with the Friars’ performance of four goals in the first period and five goals in the second period and total 29 shots on goal.

Sophomore Gates Orlando scored off the PC blitz with a goal at the 3:11 mark as he led 2-0. Senior goalie Rich Costello who finished in the net with 35 shots and earning his third shutout of the season. The Friar forwards were exhibitioning their quality of play as they sparked the Friars into establishing a four point lead after the first quarter. At the 1:31 mark as he led 4-0.

The aggressive caliber of play demonstrated by the Lady Friars has allowed them to become nationally known among outstanding women college basketball teams. Despite PC’s hard work this past week, the Lady Friars were not satisfied until they arrived at a tough Syracuse team, paced by winners Mary Beth Reynolds and Julie Morand. The second half was entirely different as it proved to be Syracuse’s time to take control. With 7:15 left to play in the game, they tied PC, 48 to 48. Syracuse’s offense provided the points needed to challenge the Lady Friars. Although the game was tied, PC never let up on their exceptional offense and defense rallied back to tie the score again with less than five minutes left to play in the game. This time, the Lady Friars could not contain Syracuse from scoring. Syracuse seemed to consistently provide the needed energy. Syracuse’s Kim Dick and Ann Flemmy each had 21 points and PC’s Kathy Finn was the game’s high scorer with 23 points.

ANNNOUNCEMENT

Root the No. 1 ranked Lady Friars hockey team to victory on Saturday, February 21st, as the girls face off against UNH. The game starts at 5:00 p.m., and will be dedicated to Fr. Richard Vahey, long time patriarch of PC hockey.