As we all know the cost of books are increasing.
How can we lower the overall cost of textbooks?

First of all, the Bookstore cannot offer discounts on textbooks. The margin from the publisher to the Bookstore averages about 20 percent. All the cost for handling and marketing are incurred by the store. Simply stated, new textbooks are a losing proposition. You must remember that your Bookstore doesn’t select the text or determine the price. Therefore, there are five alternatives to lowering textbook cost:

(1) No Books
(2) Single Adoptions
(3) Cost considerations when adopting texts
(4) Sharing and trading books
(5) Used Books

(1) No Books.— in most cases undesirable by the student and/or Professor.
(2) & (3) Single Adoptions — and cost consideration in adoptions - in almost all cases the instructor is selecting the text or texts that he or she believes will make the course and material more meaningful to the student.
(4) Sharing and Trading Books — this would be the best way to lower cost. In reality it is very difficult to accomplish especially prior to examinations.
(5) The only way a student can lower his textbook cost and still ideally have his own copy is used books. The only true main source of used books are the students on campus. The Bookstore will buy back books at 50 percent of their list price if they are adopted for the next semester. We don’t buy back all the paperbacks because experience shows that students would rather buy a new copy. This of course is not so of the more expensive paper-bound books. The average life of a textbook is three years. The best way for a student to lower his total textbook cost, is to resell his books to another student. He should be getting more money from another student than he would from the Bookstore. The major difficulty is in making a connection for the sale of your book. As a result you are left holding a textbook you don’t want or need.

New ID System Instituted

Following the recent course registration book for the fall semester, students have been ushered into Slavin 113 to have their photos taken for their new PC ID which will be issued in September. The decision on a new ID system was made by the Committee of Administration at its March 17, 1982 meeting.

The new PC ID will resemble the old one with the exception of a few new features. The new card will be totally laminated so that it can’t be tampered with or altered. Also, the card will not be embossed for library use. Students will be issued a separate card without a photo resembling a credit card that will be used exclusively at the library.

The most important feature of the new PC ID is that it will have an expiration date and will be valid for one year. The reason for this, explained Rev. John A. McMahon, OP, Assistant Vice-President for Student Services, is “that people retain their ID cards after leaving PC and use the cards for privileges and facilities.”

The new ID system is an interim with a long range goal of having a computerized identification system and ID cards that have magnetic strips. The inauguration of this system for the coming school year was voted down by the COA because it was “too great an expense on such short notice,” according to McMahon. When asked when magnetic strip cards will be circulated at PC, McMahon said that, “its people to say, hopefully within the next few years.”

In the meantime, look for your PC ID in your mailbox when you return in September.

Liquor Licenses Halted:

Cause Unrelated to Foodfight

Since the now infamous Ray mond Hall foodfight, the PC campus has been abuzz with talk of what ramifications the outbreak would bring. The postponement of the Class of ’84’s "DWC" party brought a flood of opinions and rumors from students who are wondering about the policy regarding the issuing of liquor licences at PC.

When asked to comment on the issuing of liquor licences, Rev. Gerald McGreevy, O.P., Vice-President of Student Services, clearly stated that “the decision to stop the issuance of liquor licences was not a result of the foodfight and had been made prior to it. It was not intended to be a campus-wide punishment for the foodfight and no blame is being put on any one group.” McGreevy explained that since April vacation he had re qu ests and that the number of par ties and banquets had risen during this last part of the year. Distress ed faculty members had expressed concern over students cutting classes, and the administration is not pleased with the somewhat casual attitude that is pervasive on campus during a time when final exam preparation is essential.

...the decision to stop the issuance of liquor licenses was not a result of the foodfight and was made prior to it.

This with in mind, along with the fact that numerous events (i.e., "Spring Flings") were already planned for the spring, the office of Student Services decided to halt the issuance of any more liquor licences for the remainder of the semester. This decision was made on the Wednesday prior to the Quad Party.

According to McGreevy, "there are many social events already planned for the rest of the semester, and the scheduling of more events would be excessive. While having fun is a very important part of college life, I ask students not to lose sight of why we are here — that is education. With exams coming, an atmosphere that is conducive to academics is essential."

In regard to the DWC party, Fr. McGreevy says, "I think it was one of several other licences that were denied. The class officers later made a decision to postpone the party."

In conclusion Fr. McGreevy feels that PC has "an excellent student body" and hopes that the students "practise moderation" in social situations.

History Department — There is a new course being offered by the history department this Fall that was not included on the course registration book. The course is called "History of Latin America," Series J, course number 14-425-01, taught by Richard Drey. The course deals with the "political, economic, and social developments through the colonial period to the establishment of industrialization in Latin America.

Engineering-Physics-Systems Department — John Farley, an engineering systems science student in the class of ’82, was recently named as the winner of the Harold Brown Fellowship competition at Washington University. He was first elected as a semi-finalist, later named among six finalists and recently completed the final phase of the Fellowship competition during a weekend visit to Washington.

Another item of interest concern the retirement of Dr. Edwin G. Gora. The Department of Engineering-Physics-Systems is planning a day of celebration "Gora Day" on Monday, May 3, 1982. Events will include a Mass celebrated by Fathers Halton and Murtagh, the defense of three undergraduate theses, a luncheon, and afternoon program including a lecture in cosmosology by Dr. Gora, and a wine and cheese reception. Dr. Gora was recently nominated for promotion to Professor Emeritus. He will retire in June, but will maintain contact with PC, participating in some Natural Science program teaching. He will engage in continued research and writing.

Biochemistry Department — Nine PC students, all Alpha Epsilon Delta members, attended the biannual, regional convention at Villanova University from April 1-3. These three days included a wide range of seminars on many current issues and several committees to review rules. The convention also provided the opportunity to meet many students and faculty associated with the medical field. Along with the many doctors and professors present, three national officers, including PC’s AED advisor and national treasurer, Fr. Reckart, attended the convention. The PC delegation was headed by David Cammiss, who was accompanied by Karen Silveira, Laura Murphy, Sharon Curtis, Joe D’Amico, John Vevers, John Healy, Patricia Silva, and Maureen Dagma.

A formal dinner ceremony kicked off the proceedings, followed by a breakfast meeting featuring the awarding of two trophies in each division. PC’s Rhode Island Chapter won an honorable mention for its activities and a trophy for its attendance.

Congress passes Resolution:

Picks Up Tab for Food Fight
by Cathy Jahn

After lengthy debate concerning a proposed resolution at Monday night's Student Congress meeting, the Congress ended its session until the beginning of the 1982 fall semester. The proposed amendment, which passed by all but two votes, empowered the Treasurer of Student Congress to pay Raymond Cafeteria $334.95 for bill incurred as a result of the food fight incident on Sunday evening, April 18th.

The amendment, which was submitted by Congress President Jan McGuire, "This payment should be acknowledged as an acceptance of liability by the Student Congress, but rather an acceptance of the student body's responsibility for the damages incurred. We do not condone this incident and we hope that this kind of irresponsible behavior will not be perpetuated again." Although the resolution passed, the decision to actually pay the bill remains to be made this week.

Congressional Debate?
By Marybeth Holland

Last Tuesday, April 26, Mr. Robert Pirraglia, a Democratic candidate for the Providence College campus in order to express his views to the student body, as well as meet with the members of the various student organizations on campus. Mr. Pirraglia is running for the RI Second District Seat which is presently filled by Representative Claudine Schneider, a Republican. During his visit, Mr. Pirraglia, a Cranston resident, lawyer with the firm Carroll, McCullough and Pirraglia, and former legal counsel to Governor J. Joseph Garrahy, challenged his Republican opponent, "The Democratic party candidates are true advocates of preserving student aid programs. Claudine Schneider cannot hide from this." "I am going to hold a press conference on the day of the Brown University graduation this year. At this conference I will propose that this will be the last full class of graduating students. Average income Americans will just not be able to afford an education at a school like Brown." Other issues of the campaign such as the US and RI economic situation, (including unemployment and Social Security cuts) and Nuclear Arms Race, the ERA, US foreign policy and Civil Rights are included in the campaign.

The Eratm Awards this year went to Ed Guimaraes '82, first prize for poetry. His winning poem was entitled "a recluse poet." The photography award was given to Doug Hadden '84, while the drawing prize was awarded to Denise Mantari '84. This year's Alchemic staff includes: Lori Evangelos and Brian Ellerbeck, co-editors; Tony Kulbis, Joe Sprague, Brian Ellerbeck, Sheila Laitres, Karen Malnati and Joseph Garrahy, editors; Tina Ails, secretary; Gina Callahan, layout editor; Joanne Belanger, photography editor; Paula Stockler, art manager and Ann Zelinski, advertising editor. The poetry reading which followed the awards was dedicated to Jane Lavin-Ferri of the English Department in honor of ten years at PC. The student poets that read were: Jude Redding, David Llewellyn, Kate O'Connor, Ed Guimaraes, Tony Kulbis, Joe Sprague, Lorraine Mori, Lori Evangelos, Brian Ellerbeck, Sheila Laitres, Diane Clingusagan, Tony Ails, Karen MacGillarary, John Tarley, Mary Ann Axtell, Sandra Jean Deryck, Rich Gerier, Kayoko Hashimoto and Elizabeth Norton. Following the reading of three original poems by each participant, the judging committee, consisting of Dr. Richard Murphy, Dr. Terence Rolfe and Mr. Robert Randall went about the task of selecting the award winning works. Trophies were: first place - "Salt" by Sandra Jean Deryck, "Shadow of the Old Man" by Kayoko Hashimoto. The winners were given a lamp of knowledge and a copy of the Norton Anthology of Introductory Poetry. The readings were well attended by nearly ninety people present. Following the awards, there was a reception in the Raymond Lounge for all participants and guests.

The Allembi, The Providence College literary publication and society, presented its Annual Awards this Wednesday, April 21, in Agninas Lounge. Four Years of Friendship

As yet another school year comes to a close, we know all of us should take a serious look at the events of the past year, which for many flew by too quickly. Reflecting back on our accomplishments, contributions, losses and failures, count the blessings of the new friends, be thankful for the value of the old, and consider what it all means to your future.

Many of the Class of 1982, on the verge of Commencement, must especially examine their past as they face a new beginning for themselves in the world. They will leave PC with a new awareness — of themselves and of the world around — and realize it was well worth their four years and the thousands of dollars spent here. College, they discover, has indeed been an experience, not just an education.

At the same time, take the time to reflect back on the coming two weeks, recall all of the good times shared in laughter and tears. The tough times, too, when you lent each other a helping hand or a sympathetic shoulder to break through the tears and ease each other's sorrows. And whether happy or sad, your memories will make the college four years an experience all the more meaningful, however difficult to leave behind, however tearful the goodbyes.

Recall first the dreadful days of freshman year, when you struggled to do all the right things, and then found it wasn't so hard to fit it all in after all. Scared at first, you proved your worth by simply being you — and found acceptance and understanding in those who you now call "friends". Striving not always to look "fresh-faced", now do you long for younger days? If only you could turn back time and make up for time spent with the familiar faces of the old years who you’ve lived with for four years. There will be many tearful embraces among friends, friends who will remain close across many miles and through many years. And you’ll be lifelong friends because of the memories you share, because of the growing up you did together here at PC, and because, with the strength and support of one another’s friendships, you made something of yourselves, and faced the world arm in arm, as if to say, "We’ve arrived!"

So, Class of 1982, as you announce your arrival to the world, do it as proud and accomplished PC students. Carry with you the love and support of your closest college friends, for it will always be with you, even as it was so many times before. The care and concern of the family you’ve become a part of during your years as a Providence College student, will still be with you in your eternal years as a Providence College alumnus. Your friends will remain — you need only call and they’ll come running, for you know that their love for you is that strong and that lasting. If nothing else, it is the most valuable knowledge you will have learned, the most cherished of lessons. If you never set foot on the PC campus again, the spirit of the family you have here will always be a part of the place you call "home". For it is a spirit that grows in you, a spirit which you cannot help but carry with you and spread to those who you encounter along the road ahead...

Local Bands Better

Dear Editor (Attention BOG):

I direct this letter to the Board of Governors concerning the selection of bands for this year’s Spring weekend. Clarence Clemmons, NRBQ, and Beaver Brown represent only a certain faction of musical interest at Providence College. Bill Donaldson and (God forbid!) yes, even reggae bands should be considered for your MOR party bands! I believe this would welcome a fresh type of musical entertainment.

Though my sentiments are not white, I firmly urge you, the PC Board of Governors, to consider the entire PC student body into consideration when selecting musical entertainment for future Spring weekends and social events.

In the Aftermath

Awareness Is Needed

In the aftermath of the public disgrace hailed by more than 200 Providence College students in the food fight which occurred Monday, April 18, in Raymond Cafe, Student Congress has been presented with a bill for $334.95 in labor and damages. Although all members of the PC community were not directly involved in the incident, or responsible for that behavior of that event, a public awareness of the incident must be generated to the effect that it was, indeed, a disgrace.

The incident between 660-800 students were present in dining Hall, and included a variety of resident, commuter, and off-campus students, calls attention to the incident as a "PC event"; the actions of approximately 190 students who were significantly involved in the disturbance, thus necessarily represents the total corporate conduct of PC students. The incident must, in turn, be answered as a community disgrace, and all the students who make up the corporate heading body for its recompense.

It should be clear, however, that administrators do not hold the individual or group or organization responsible, and in seeking payment for damages incurred, may not result, to a general funding source not associated with a given representative body.

Rev. John G. McCreegery, O.P., Vice-President of Student Affairs, has asked Student Congress to pay the Congress controls student Activity Fee funds. It was felt that these funds were the only neutral source of money that could be drawn upon without seeking personal restitution. Other possible, perhaps responsible, agents of the student body were investigated, but they were ruled unsatisfactorily simply because they did not provide the same broad sense of identity with the same public disgrace, or offered any effective public chastisement for the offense.

Administrators can thus publically proclaim the incident an official disgrace, and demand the indebtedness of the entire student body as the only fair means of recompense.

At the same time, Student Congress may therefore pay the bill, as it empowered the Treasurer to do at Monday night's meeting, without accepting responsibility for the incident. In the resolution which granted the money, Congress further stated that it does not condone the incident, and hopes that such irresponsible behavior will not be repeated in the future. Congress further advised that it will seek damages only insofar as the student body's responsibility for payment of those damages. It is hoped that students were aware of this responsibility and respect it in the future.
Economic report has Republicans worried

By Jack Anderson and Joe Spear

WASHINGTON — President Reagan and his top aides have been pulling themselves on the back over the dramatic drop in inflation. But privately, Republicans in Congress are wringing their hands over the latest economic news.

The figures haven’t been released yet, but we can tell you: They are not good for the country, and they are especially not good for the Republicans in this election year.

GOP Senate committee chairmen met with Majority Leader Howard Baker, R-Tenn., behind closed doors recently and heard the bad news. Baker warned them to expect economic reports that will be what he called “thoroughly negative.”

At any rate, the Republicans were discouraged. Many of their face tough re-election campaigns this year. The last thing they need is an 11 or 12 percent unemployment rate to hit their jobs.

Our sources say that more than half of the Soviet prison sentences handled in the last six months were for religious activities. The most common “crime” published by the World Bank is the persecution of religious nations that claims virtually everyone.

The following is an excerpt from “World History,” the first book to be published in more than 150 years. It was published in limited edition of 850 copies and distributed in the year 2176 to every literate adult.

The economic report has Republicans worried.

The concept of a limited, winnable nuclear war was conclusively disproven when...

Possibilities for Nuclear Exchange?

By Richard Meidler

Although the immediate survivors of the Nuclear Exchange continued to read and write for several decades, literacy all but vanished in the next generation. It had no practical relevance to the survival problems posed in the post-Exchange environment of social disintegration. Even if it had been useful, literacy would not have been possible, for inability to concentrate was the most prominent feature of the Survivor’s Psychosis that afflicted virtually everyone.

Author’s Note: The following is an excerpt from “World History,” the first book to be published in more than 150 years. It was published in limited edition of 850 copies and distributed in the year 2176 to every literate adult.

World War III

“...At the end of World War II, there was much hope that the world had finally learned the lessons of the past. However, the world has continued to face a number of crises that have led to the possibility of another world war. One such crisis is the ongoing conflict in the Middle East.

Although the United States has provided military aid to Israel and other countries in the region, this has not prevented further conflicts. In fact, the situation has worsened over time, with tensions between Israel and other Arab countries continuing to escalate.

As a result, there is a growing sense of uncertainty about the future of the Middle East and the possibility of another world war.

In my city, people are concerned about the possibility of another world war. They are worried about the consequences for their families and the future of their country. I believe that it is important for people to remain informed about the events that are unfolding and to work towards preventing another world war.

Throughout history, there have been many attempts to prevent conflicts and to ensure peace. However, it can be challenging to find solutions that work for everyone involved.

In the end, I believe that it is important for people to work together and to remain committed to finding peaceful solutions to conflicts.

As a person who has lived through many challenges, I have learned that it is important to stay strong and to remain focused on the future. I believe that it is important for people to remain optimistic and to work towards building a better world for all.

The unique element was the results, due to the power of new technologies. Some scientists and philosophers have been charged with the unlikely event that human beings could not support more than a tiny percentage of their population were rendered infertile or biologically useless because of lethal or reproduction-inhibiting mutations in their gene line.

The human social order disappeared briefly, and reconstruction on a permanent basis is doubtful even now because the gene pool may be too profoundly damaged to produce enough healthy human beings to sustain a population.

A small group of contemporary philosophers has been charged with the task of looking beyond our current struggles of reconstruction. In the unlikely event that human beings can reestablish a stable culture and civilization, they have been asked, how can future mass destruction be avoided?

The work of these people has not been productive.

Reviewing the history of World War III, they get stuck on certain questions that have no obvious answers: ‘Why did the truth make no difference, even in the private and intimate interactions of people facing catastrophe?’ "Why did private and public institutions, dedicated both to welfare and truth, fail to prevent the Exchange?"
Laingden Praises American People

By Jane McAuliffe

Tie a yellow ribbon ‘round the lamp post outside Raymond Cafe! That’s right. On Tuesday night, April 20 at 8 p.m. the Board of Governors hosted the appearance of Bruce Laingden in ‘44 Hall. To anyone who followed the Iranian crisis of two years ago, it was refreshing to hear that freedom still reigns throughout the United States, and that in spite of our problems, we are still the best nation in the world in which to live.

Laingden’s lecture, entitled “Lessons From the Hostage Experience,” expressed a mixture of emotions and exemplification of all the hostages who were imprisoned in Tehran for 444 days. He told of the despair that he felt at his imprisonment, especially at all the propaganda meant for the Iranian government and promises of “beautiful treatment” by their captors. Laingden made it clear as to what he thought of this propaganda—"As a political prisoner from a male cow."

Laingden talked basically of the importance of human rights and dignity concerning foreign policy, saying that during times that the American foreign policy appeared weak, the great 中华民族 to see themselves free, and the rallying support of the American people during this crisis touched the hearts of all who were taken hostage in Iran and perhaps that, besides the loving encouragement from their families, was the only force that kept their spirits up during the 444 day nightmare.

The main point that the former hostage tried to convey was that foreign diplomacy is our first line of defense and hopefully in a tense situation, it would be our only line of defense. He feels that as a result of this crisis a new respect may be found amongst the American people for foreign service, a branch of government that is often ignored.

Finally, Laingden, though not condemning the iranian way of life, stated that we here in the United States are insensitive to the culture of Tehran and the massive change that it was undergoing at the time of the crisis. He said that he cannot not truly appreciate the value of the privilege of freedom until we are deprived of it. However, he felt that we must be more prepared for this kind of emergency in the future and keep an immediate plan of action in mind.

Laingden concluded by giving credit to President Carter for his patience, but mainly applauded Ronald Reagan for his swift action, adding that the Iranians were in need of help and the power he could well have wielded.

Laingden made it clear as to what he thought of this propaganda—"As a political prisoner from a male cow."

Laingden talked basically of the importance of human rights and dignity concerning foreign policy, saying that during times that the American foreign policy appeared weak, the great 中华民族 to see themselves free, and the rallying support of the American people during this crisis touched the hearts of all who were taken hostage in Iran and perhaps that, besides the loving encouragement from their families, was the only force that kept their spirits up during the 444 day nightmare.

The main point that the former hostage tried to convey was that foreign diplomacy is our first line of defense and hopefully in a tense situation, it would be our only line of defense. He feels that as a result of this crisis a new respect may be found amongst the American people for foreign service, a branch of government that is often ignored.

Finally, Laingden, though not condemning the iranian way of life, stated that we here in the United States are insensitive to the culture of Tehran and the massive change that it was undergoing at the time of the crisis. He said that he cannot not truly appreciate the value of the privilege of freedom until we are deprived of it. However, he felt that we must be more prepared for this kind of emergency in the future and keep an immediate plan of action in mind.

Laingden concluded by giving credit to President Carter for his patience, but mainly applauded Ronald Reagan for his swift action, adding that the Iranians were in need of help and the power he could well have wielded.

NEW ENGLAND TELEPHONE
By Marta Carlson

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
Attention to details is necessary this week. You will complete a project for which you may gain added recognition. The focus for you should be on business affairs. But take time to speculate on the possibility of a hot, new romance.

Pieces (Feb. 18-March 20)
A new approach that you have been toying with will bring positive results. Older persons, some of whom are very stubborn may have something to do with you. Your general creativity and romantic tendencies make this an unusually lively week.

Aries (March 20-April 20)
Watch out Arktis! In the Springtime, especially in April, you become unusually attractive to the opposite sex. Beware of those who are overly flirtatious and complimentary. Their ardor is superficial. Your best bet is a stubborn, loving Capricorn.

Taurus (April 20-May 21)
A change of plans may come about as a result of a request made by a close family member or friend. A short trip may be on the agenda; romantic interest is the motivating factor. The interest that you sense this person has for you is genuine.

Gemini (May 21-June 21)
By diversifying, you enhance opportunities to increase income. Don't jump at the first offer! A little detective work may turn up some unforeseen problems. You may find yourself caught in the rain with someone you are very fond of. Take the opportunity to be romantic.

Cancer (June 21-July 22)
Your emphasis this week should be on independence and initiative. There are two of your talents, so use them. Love relationship that you have been working to sustain will begin to intensify. The end of the year separation that is about to come is drawing you closer to each other.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 23)
More people are becoming aware of your abilities. This should give your confidence a needed boost. While you are feeling this potential, use it to take a hold of some added responsibility. An admirer finds your self-assuredness very attractive.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 23)
An important domestic adjustment is on the horizon. Emphasis should be on loosening up some old, dusty habits. Your interest is sparked by a very self-assured underclassman. Be on your guard; a trick may be brewing.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
A friend who is uncertain may seek your advice. Your sense of confidentiality and good judgement are two of your best points, and others are aware of it. Memories of an old romance are plaguing your mind. Forget about it. The present holds plenty of opportunity.

this depicted as well as in the scene with Jekyll, Hyde, and Sara. Sara (Julie Martineau) is a young child whom Hyde convinces to help him look for a lost cane. Jekyll has let the child into the house to find the act, to touch her, and to want her. Although he vehemently denies it (“You can’t be part of me, you can’t be!”) the desire to have this little girl, and to hurt her, is Jekyll’s desire.

The abominable “personality” of the doctor is kept at bay, out of sight, for three months. But the drugs needed to do so become scarce, and Jekyll hides from the world, in deadly fear. . . . of himself. Later, the doctor buys a balloon for a penniless young girl on the street, and this urchin, Sara, is able to see Hyde in his eyes: she cries, screams, runs. Who, then, is Dr. Jekyll? Who, then, are . . . you? “Even you are made up of many personalities . . . they live inside you every moment of your life.” And, as Jekyll finds out, they never leave you, never leave me.

The play’s ending is fittingly tragic; the culmination of the struggle for domination of the parts of Jekyll’s personality.

The entire cast has shown to us their talent and their advice. Your sense of confidentiality and good judgement are two of your best points, and others are aware of it. Memories of an old romance are plaguing your mind. Forget about it. The present holds plenty of opportunity.

"The Secret Policeman’s Other Ball"

Another live album dedicated to raising money for some needy cause or charity is out and like the others, has a different story. On this day, the PC campus welcomed Clint Richie, known as Clint Buchanan and "The Big Man" doing what he does best. (Photo by Stephanie Higgins)

As the discussion came to a close, Clint Richie stated that PC was his first college appearance, and he couldn’t think of a nicer place to begin.

-wouldn’t, especially on the infamous Cream song "Crossroads." "Playing live for one of the very few times since being together in the Yardbirds. Beck and Clapton seem to have a problem with their hands and who plays rhythm guitar. Despite this, "Cocaine We’ve Ended as Lovers" and "Farther Up the Road" are carried off rather well. Concluding the side is Bob Geldof and Johnny Fingers of the Boootown Rats singing "I Don’t Like Mondays," their only hit.

Side two starts out great with Genesis leader Phil Collins singing his hit single "In the Air Tonight." Accompanied expertly by Daryl Stuermer’s acoustic guitar and banjo, this is undoubtedly the best song on the album as Collins’ piano combines well with Stuermer’s guitar. "The Roof is Leaking" also shows off Collins’ piano ability and is a likeable song.

Interesting is the appearance of Donovan, a popular Bob Dylanish type of performer, circa the 1960’s. Donovan seems out of place singing "The Universal Soldier" in the 1980’s. He is still singing anti-war, Vietnam issues which is fine, but Woodstock was thirteen years ago, and time has passed Donovan. A reality check on Donovan seems needed.

The final song on the album is called "I Shall Be Released" by The Secret Police. No, The Secret Police is not a new band, but a nineteen piece band including Sting on lead vocals and Jeff Beck and Eric Clapton on guitars. It is a rather neat number which shows off Clapton’s abilities.

Overall, "The Secret Policeman’s Other Ball" was a good idea, but unfortunately never really seems to hit the mark. Beck and Clapton should have provided some spark, but it never came through. The high points on the album are Sting, but even more so, Phil Collins. Donovan is totally out of place. The potential is there, too bad the music isn’t.

'82 Carnival Tops

By Coleen Vigone

Providence College was lucky enough to have Clarence Clemens and the Redhook Rockers for their annual Spring week concert. Any Bruce Springsteen fan would have definitely enjoyed this since Clarence is a present member of Bruce’s band. They proved their good reputation right by putting on one of the best concerts Providence College has ever seen.

Neon, another Bruce influenced band, warmed up for Clarence. They played all of their own music which can be heard on their newly released album. Then it was Clarence’s turn. The show he put on alone, his personal crowdly performance, really got the crowd going. Clarence kept his audience captivated by lines like “Excuse me while I grove.” All you had to do was look around at the crowd, swaying and dancing, to see that a good time was enjoyed by all. Alumni gym was totally alive between Clarence’s great voice, fantastic sax and horns; they truly showed his professionalism.

The concert was a total success, even though Bruce didn’t show up as some suspected. The next Spring Week event was the carnival Saturday, which also was a good chance to hear some good music. Three bands joined us here, each with its own style.

NRBO was disappointing, since the audience felt the band was not interested. Beaver Brown was different, however. The lead singer was full of real and before long had the audience rocking.

Frankie and the Knockouts were also very entertaining, singing their hit, "Sweetheart," which the crowd seemed to enjoy.

BOG made a wise choice in their selection of music, considering the varied musical taste that may be found at PC.

Besides the music, the carnival was also filled with food, beer, whipped cream floats, and lots of sunshine.

Spring Fling ’82 was a grand success, and much credit is due to the BOG’s well-organized efforts.

Can one good man really make a difference?

In this age of turmoil, young people are deeply concerned about making their lives more meaningful, and doing more to help others.

Through faith, prayer and action, each individual can help spread Christ’s message of God’s love in the world.

But by living and working with other like-minded men in a Catholic religious community, the Christian Brothers, there is a unique opportunity for spiritual growth and service to others.

The Christian Brothers are helping to build a better world, especially through education.

So if you want to know how much of a difference one good man can really make, talk to the Christian Brothers.

Lax-men Win; Even Record

By Pete Garbello

The Providence College Mens Lacrosee team is entering their final week of play with a 6-6 record and expectations of finishing with a winning record. The Friars have three games left; Cns. Collegen, Brandeis and Nichols. Coach Dan Calenda is confident that the team will be giving its all in order to make its mark and season a successful one.

In the last two games the team has played, they have beaten Bryant 11-4 and the University of Hartford 8-6. John Breen and Brian Davies both scored four goals each in the two victories while Dennis McInerney and Doug Hadden added three each. In the Hartford game the left won Saturday and arrived in Hartford to sunny weather and a small crowd.

The Laxmen were faced with a difficult task but two quick goals gave them the momentum they needed. The score was tied 6-6 going into the final period but the mid-field line of Mike Walter, Brian Davies, and Jack Malley scored twice to keep the Friars ahead. The defense responded with a number of key clear checks courtesy of Tim West as Dennis McInerney and Doug Hadden added three each. In the Hartford game the left won Saturday and arrived in Hartford to sunny weather and a small crowd.

Against Bryant the story was similar in that the Laxmen came out hitting and physically dominated Bryant. Ahead by a score of 9-2 at halftime Providence coasted to victory. Dan Macrae, a tough midfileder, turned in one of his better performances and the man down team began another un-scored upon streak which reached eight quarters before Hartford stopped it.

The team has been helped tremendously by the influx of new players and with a couple of key players returning from injury this season next year's team could well continue the success of the new program. The team will be losing five seniors to graduation but all who have played four years at PC. They are Gerry Prior, Mike Adams, Phil Orazzi, Tim West and Dennis McInerney. West sums up their feelings by saying, "It is really rewarding to see how much the program has grown in our four years here, and we expect that the winning tradition will continue."

Still Struggling

Women's Lacrosse

By Christine Merlo

Last Saturday, the Lady Friar's Lacrosse team traveled to New London, CT to play their seventh game of the season against Connecticut College. Unfortunately, the hard working Lady Friars fell victim to the Connecticut team and lost by a score of 10-6. Providence now posts a record of 1-5-1, beating Pine Manor and tying Holy Cross.

In the first half, Connecticut College led Providence by three before freshman Courtney Hoff answered with a goal. After Connecticut College added another goal to their score, Hoff followed with her second goal of the half. Not long after Hoff's goal, Junior Maureen Scollard and freshman Maureen Scollard each scored back-to-back goals to help the black and white coast to victory. Dan Macrae, a co-captain, played four years at PC. They are Gerry Prior, Mike Adams, Phil Orazzi, Tim West and Dennis McInerney. West sums up their feelings by saying, "It is really rewarding to see how much the program has grown in our four years here, and we expect that the winning tradition will continue."

The second half proved to be an aggressive one as Providence picked up more momentum. At this point, the Lady Friars knew what they needed in order to beat Connecticut. Providence rallied together, trying to supply the needed goals, but unfortunately they could not outscore the Connecticut team. Before the game ended, Providence added two more goals to their score, one of which was scored by Maureen Scollard, who along with Courtney Hoff scored a pair of goals to aid the Friar cause.

The Lady Friars will remain at home for their next three games. Their next game is on Monday when the Lady Friars will play Northeastern. Wednesday, the Lady Friars meet URI and Friday, Pine Manor.

Netmen Prepare for N.E. Champs

The Friar netman have been on a tear lately due in large part to the team-oriented spirit that Coach Jacques Faulise and his squad have shared throughout the season. The P.C. squad recently chalked up convincing victories over Rhode Island College, Bryant, Southern Connecticut, and Hly Cross.

Contributing to the Friar cause in winning fashion were co-captain đó Kenly, Jeff Donadio and Mike Tavares, as well as Steve Chatfield, Mike "Bugsy" Curran, Petie Feketie, Jeff Domaio and Chris Ditmar.

Coach Faulise added that some of the newer members of the squad have added greatly to the success the team has had so far this season.

"Consistently over the past couple of seasons, the line-up has gotten stronger and stronger, mainly because we have a great deal of depth on the team. There are some solid, solid freshmen and sophomore performers who have been keeping the regulars on their toes." Faulise said.

Next weekend the Friars will complete their Spring season with a trip to the New England Championships at Yale University. Best of luck back to the team in their tournament.

The Providence College Bookstore will be buying back certain textbooks at half the list price if the books are being adopted for use in the fall semester. that could not have been more ideal for running.

The man field took the line on a night note, running 1:55. Started his season on a positive 22, Quinn and O'Flynn travelled to just plain outhit by seven in the second game, against Maine, of reach. Against Navy, same questionable fielding. (It is evidence must win eight of the ten Friar errors.)

The following Thursday, April 11th, the first meet of the outdoor season was the Boston College Relays held Thursday, April 11th, at the 17th.

In the 5000 meter run, Jimmy Quinn then singled to push runners on the corners. Pacheco drove in both runners with a triple and scored on a groundout rib by John Ciallesto.

In the 5000 meter run, Jimmy Quinn then singled to push runners on the corners. Pacheco drove in both runners with a triple and scored on a groundout rib by John Ciallesto.

Nevertheless, PC found themselves behind going into the last mile of the race. Quinn doubled and scored on a double by Pacheco. Ernie P. McGoldrick hit a single, putting runners at second and third. PC went on to win the race in an extra inning. With one out Pat Raulo reached base on an error and moved third on a wild pitch and a hit by Steve Polesky. After a fly out, Pacheco drove in the infield and Raulo scored easily from second.

PC 7-6. The win went to Joe DeAngelis who had started the inning and threw six pitches to retire the side.

The next day held more of the same questionable fielding. (It is better not to name people just for the sake of naming them. It's better to say that they need improvements in the fielding area. For the RIC and Stonehill games totalled a few errors and the Friars' Chit masters are the masters of the one run innings. In the first, a one out single and a hit by St. Martin produced a run. In the second, a couple of errors put runners on second and third and a sacrifice fly put runners on third and second. The third and fourth required a sacrifice fly to score a run and a very good throw put first baseman O'Flynn on second. All in all it was six one run innings. The Friars picked up one in the first on an error and three in the third to take a 2-4 lead.

Tom Cavanaugh walked and Joe Perkala sacrificed himself to second. Quinn then singled to push runners on the corners. Pacheco drove in both runners with a triple and scored on a groundout rib by John Ciallesto.
