Living quarters for Dominicans

Priory To Be Constructed

Citing the ever-increasing need to renovate the Harkins Hall living quarters of the Providence College Dominican Community, the PC Corporation has passed a resolution to construct a new Dominican Priory on campus. Though specifics are still in the planning stage, the new Priory will be located off the main entrance to Harkins Hall, opposite Albertus Magnus. This location, which has always been reserved for a Priory, will appropriately identify the college as being formed under the auspices of the Dominican Friars.

In making the announcement, the Very Reverend Thomas R. Peterson, O.P., president of the college said, "The idea of having a Priory on campus is not new. In fact, for the past 50 years, it has been considered during all phases of the college's overall development plan. Following an established set of priorities, the college in the past has responded to the needs of the student population by upgrading academic facilities, dormitories, and most recently, by building the recreation center and new theater.

"Now," he continued, "the living quarters of the Dominicans are in dire need of renovations and the college would have to spend a significant amount even to upgrade existing facilities. A new building is a necessity, and the college would have to increase the student population by upgrading the classroom, this year's survey will not be surveyed are those courses where the instructor has volunteered to help survey classes and reach the most students in the class. This is a simple and easy problem.

The primary objective in designing the new Priory is to provide an environment that will enable the Dominican Friars to live together as a religious community. Preliminary plans call for the building to provide living quarters for approximately 30 Dominicans. It will also include a chapel, which will enable the entire college community to participate in the liturgical life of the Dominicans, a refectory and a common recreation room.

Father Peterson noted that the construction of the Priory would serve as a residence. We would always be a Dominican presence in the dormitories of the campus," he assured.

The third candidate for vice-president is Jay Sullivan, '94 from Narragansett, RI. A finance major, he has been a class representative for three years and co-chairman of the Congress Legislative Committee. Sullivan states, "I feel my experience on Congress is my greatest asset over the other two candidates. As VP, I would be an intermediary between the students and the administration. In dealing with the administration, one must know the correct process to go through.

In the race for treasurer, two candidates are running. Joe Corradino '95 is a political science major from West Haven, Ct. He has served his class as a member of the Student Congress for one term and as treasurer for one term. He has also been a member of the Congress Finance Committee for three years.

Faculty Survey News

Survey time is soon approaching (March 14-16). To help speed the survey process within the classroom this year's survey is being published so that the students will have an opportunity to review the questions and begin to think about their answers. It is impossible to survey all 400 or so classes in a three day period. To lessen the course load it has been decided that the following classes will not be surveyed, independent study, Western Civ (Or courses are usually surveyed at the end of each year and the Civ. teams tend to change from year to year), staff and team taught courses, research courses, and in some cases, courses with less than five students in the class.

PC has been notified by the Department of Health that a Nine-Day Measles epidemic is heading this way from the State of Indiana. This type of measles is very serious and not to be confused with the German Measles. The infirmary wishes to alert all students if you have been in contact with anyone from the following colleges you should contact your physician or the Department of Health: Indiana State College, University of Rhode Island, Providence University, Butler University. Most students may have received the measles vaccine as infants, however, anyone who has not should be concerned. Should the measles come to our state the Department of Health will give the vaccine free of charge.

St. Patty's Day trip

By Maureen McGuire

At a March 3 meeting of the Board of Programmers several new issues were discussed. Among these a March 19 variety show, by the Knights of Columbus was unanimously accepted and granted the use of 64 Hall. Sharon Walsh, representing the Providence College Big Brothers and Big Sisters division, proposed a March 11 St. Patty's Night. This event was also successfully approved by the Board and will be held in 64 Hall. Sharon Walsh, the purpose of this event is "to show what a thriving organization" the Big Brothers, Big Sisters is to the Providence College Community. Later, Deborah Sullivan and Robert, co-chairpersons of the Variety Show Committee, pointed out the Board's disapproval of their selection of 64 Hall. Shaw Miss Sullivan states, "I believe a more consistent with the office of Business Chairperson."

The Providence College Music Program's Chorus Concert with LaSalle College scheduled for Friday, March 18, has been postponed to Sunday, April 24, at 3 p.m. in 64 Hall. Admission is free!

Providence College is hosting an Intercollegiate Jazz Festival on Wednesday, March 16, at 8 p.m. in the Blackfriars Theatre (Harkins Hall) on the PC campus. Bands participating in the jazz festival include Providence College, the University of Rhode Island, Rhode Island College, Brown University and the Community College of Rhode Island. Each band will present three numbers.

The jazz concert is free and open to the public.

Dillon Club:

Elections on Friday

The Dillon Club will be holding elections for officers on Friday, March 11. Voting will be held in lower Slavin.

Vying for the position of vice president are Michelle Fuc, '84, current Dillon Club secretary, and Michael Palumbo, '84. In the race for vice president are Nancy Ragosta, '84, current Dillon Club social chairperson, and Eddie Caputo, '84. Two freshmen, Pam Borges and Dot Zambarano, are competing for the post of secretary. Running for treasurer are JoAnn Mahoney, '84, and Ken Karcher. Peggy Przygoda is unopposed for social chairperson. All Dillon Club members are encouraged to vote this Friday.
Today is March 9th, and do you know what day it is? That's right, today is the first day of the rest of your semester. (Maybe?) It is exactly the halfway point through the semester.

Now consider this. In your tuition bill that came in the statistics provided by the Treasurer's Office as of March 8, at least 90 percent of you wrote honestly to have answer no. In the Senior Class, about 54 percent, or 31 percent of the class, have not yet paid their bill. The update, or new bills, were sent out to the Class of 1983 stating that the "student status" is suspended due to indebtedness. According to Rev. John S. Peterson, O.P., Treasurer of the College, those bills were issued as reminders, to the seniors especially, that tuition must be paid.

According to Father Peterson, each week more students neglect to pay their tuition bills on time; the date for payment for the fall semester is August 15, and for the spring semester December 15. Since 25 percent of the life of the College is dedicated to tuition, the entire campus suffers due to the indebtedness of those who have not paid. PC is unique in that it still allows students with unpaid bills to continue to study and attend class; at many colleges and universities this is not the case, for students are often removed physically from classrooms or campus. Father Peterson stated that "The College has tried to be understanding in the past or of unpaid bills. And we will continue to make specific decisions in unusual cases, e.g., unforeseen financial reversals, medical setbacks unexpected and serious problems."

No student has ever been turned away from the College when genuine hardship hits. In some of the circumstances, the payment of bills for services rendered should be made on time. With the option of a monthly payment plan now in place, and with banks willing to lend to students who prefer to borrow on their future earning power, overdue bills are hard to explain—especially since 75 percent of the undergraduate student body remains trouble-free.

Indeed, it is not those who do have genuine financial problems the Cowl is addressing, rather, it is those who have the money, but who have simply neglected to pay their bills. The Treasurer's Office has already sent out reminders to those whose bills are overdue, hoping their indebtedness could bring more serious consequences (such as not having their name listed in the Commencement program, or even refusal to grant them a diploma). However, this is a frustration the Cowl feels applies to all PC students, and we've got the statistics to back it up. Twenty-four percent of the sophomores, and 19 percent of the freshmen also have outstanding bills.

The Cowl urges all students to get their bills paid immediately, as it is with our money that the College functions. The Treasurer cannot do his job unless the students are responsible to their financial commitment to PC and failure in carrying this commitment out

To the Editor:

In an attempt to be studious, many of us make occasional sacrifices. I am not stating that I am; I am simply inquiring on behalf of the Providence Chronicle. Whether our visits be often or sparse, we always see, or I should say, we see, a cute little woman with a wide smile. For those of you who are not so "academically disciplined," you probably know who I am referring to, and I will shut up, but I will tell you about the Providence Chronicle. The Cowl urges all students to get their bills paid immediately, and like the police, in conscience, to record what they find. A party in a dormitory room, building or pool, in relation to these agitating parties, conducted off-campus. Betrayal is almost instantaneous. The conversation level ascends to an uninterrupted rumble, the stereo level ascends to a piercing roar. The stereo level ascends to a piercing roar. Neighboring residents call out to the Resident Staff for relief and protection from the noise.

It is more reasonable to think that an elephant in Raymond Hall Dining Room at lunchtime will pass unnoticed than to think that one of these 'crowd' parties on and off-campus will pass unnoticed.

Should you write again on this subject I ask only that your refined thoughts make some attempt to view these over sights.

Sincerely,

Walter Heath, O.P.

Problems to be addressed

By Ted Hodkinson

I would like to begin this commentary with a quote from staff of The Cowl for their fine articles in the Feb. 9 issue which dealt with The Providence College administration. In my opinion, the article by praising the Editorial is devoid of drinking or which do away from other more important issues. Many non-drinkers at Providence College seem to be drawn to the "feehouses" are a reasonable alternative to anything resembling a lecture series. By nominating Mondale, the Democrats would be better choice. My point is, Mr. Fay, you have yourself "are an unfortunate waste of time."

Respectfully,
Lisa Hamel, '83

Dr. Fay...

Moynahan for the 80's

By James Fay

Last November a drastic change in the American political scene occurred. Massachusetts Senator Edward M. Kennedy announced he would not be a candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination in 1984. This opened the door for an alarming number of presidential pretenders to enter the race.

Former Vice President Walter Mondale emerged from the pack as Kennedy's successor as the front runner. Other names include Sen. John Glenn, Sen. Alan Cranston, Sen. Ernest Hollings, Sen. Gary Hart, and former Florida governor Reubin Askew.

Many Americans, both Republicans and Democrats would like to see the Democrats present a viable alternative to Ronald Reagan and George Bush in 1984. Yet, see no hope among the announced Democratic candidates. None of the candidates stir any kind of emotion among the people. The 1980's is a time when fresh leadership is needed — America knows it, but the Democrats seem to be avoiding it. As time passes, the nomination seems to be falling into the hands of Mondale. This is because there is an overwhelming amount of popular support for the man, because he has a sophisticated political network, carefully designed to get the nomination.

Mondale is an old time liberal who expouses already failed methods for dealing with today's complex problems. By nominating Mondale, the Democrats would merely postpone the inevitable task of finding fresh ideas for a new man to lead the party in a national election. If Mondale is a possible alternative to Mondale, Glenn represents the next generation of Senators and Representatives who are eager to fall for Mondale's "reinvention of the New Deal."

However, most experts feel Glenn does not carry the proper intellectual baggage necessary for the Presidency.

Who does? There seems to be a growing number of Americas interested in New York Senator Daniel Patrick Moynahan. An eloquent man with a brilliance that is not particularly common on Capital Hill, Moynahan has been mentioned as the future democratic presidential standard bearer, replacing Sen. Kennedy. Moynahan, 55, served under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson as labor advisor from 1961-1966. He then taught at Harvard. He served as a special advisor to President Nixon and as ambassador to India from 1973 to 1975. He served as the US ambassador to the UN in 1975 and 1976. In 1977 Moynahan took his seat in the Senate and was reelected in 1982 with the largest number of votes of any candidate in the country.

It is difficult to imagine the party that nominated William Jennings Bryan for the presidency three times to have the boldness to meet the challenge of the 80's. Mondale is not the choice, but for the bigger spending ideology. Although he is somewhat liberal, he shows a pragmatic bent that is attractive to many moderates.

In a recent New York Times report stated that Sen. Glenn has it all. He is a safe choice, but for many, Moynahan is the man who can lead without being attached to the New Deal. He is not for the bag spending ideology. Although he is somewhat liberal, he shows a pragmatic bent that is attractive to many moderates.

Scapino Review: Energy without an end

by Judy A. McNamara

If a quiet night at the theatre, where you can sit back and relax, is what you seek, PC's production of "Scapino" is the Blackfriars Theatre is not the thing to see. If three stogies slapstick, absurd action and exaggerated comedy is what you seek, then "Scapino" is the play for you. After all, "Scapino" is meant to be a farce, and that it is.

The problem with the play is that the actors are more concerned with audience interaction than they are with the play itself. On Sunday night, March 6, it didn't work. Maybe the audience had a rough weekend, but they left feeling_stamping their feet...no more like stamping their feet_...as if they were not content to sit back and relax, where you can sit back and relax.

"Scapino," himself, a lovable rogue, is depicted with festal and hard work for Scapino. He is the master manipulator and the perfect con man. John Powers as Carlo, the wino and peddler of shoes, ice cream, is a happy drunk that one might find roaming the streets of Federal Hill. His broken English accent and his old, dirty brown overcoat make him a believable character as well as attractively humorous character.

The play is set in Federal Hill in Providence. The time is the present. Yet "Scapino" does not carry the audience into its setting. The viewer is constantly aware that he is sitting in a theatre watching what is supposed to be entertaining.

As for the romantic conflict in the play; it's just too cory to stomach. Even though the play is a 500-year-old comedy that is an adaptation of Moliere, something is missing in all that tradition. The cast should be given a lot of credit for all the energy they exerted during the performance. There certainly wasn't a dull moment in "Scapino." If someone wasn't being hit over the head with a sausage they were picking themselves up from a tumble.

But let's keep in mind, it's not easy for the student, either! It's 8:00 Bob has science at 8:30 Quick to the showers! Bob stumbles down the hall with his toothbrush and soap and gets to work.

The Fine Art of Sleeping: How to Live Without It

Over the weekend, I found out that there's one thing that I seriously lack when I'm at school: sleep. And I realized that half of the PC population must be walking around as zombies, because as God and the Dominican fathers know, college is no place to sleep.

Take the 8:30 a.m. class, a professor, I really must extend my sympathy to the professor with early morning classes. Here he is, with about three stacked styrofoam cups (coffee's the quicker-picker-upper) trying to get themselves into gear, when he looks up from the board to find 25 glassy-eyed students writing chicken-scratch in their notebooks. It's depressing.

I think a traditional practice after the calling of the roster should be the distribution of pepperticks for those drooping lids. Or how about shock treatment? But let's keep in mind, it's not easy for the student, either! It's 8:00 Bob has science at 8:30 Quick to the showers! Bob stumbles down the hall with his toothbrush and soap and gets to work.

Animation exhibit What's up Doc?

By Colleen Vigneaux

For those of you who still watch Saturday morning cartoons, and are just a bit curious as to how these bits of true entertainment are made, you will get to take a little closer look. On Thursday and Friday, the BOP will be sponsoring a visit by the Gallery Lainzberg in lower Slavin. More than 250 unique and often humorous cel paintings of familiar characters, like Bugs Bunny or Daffy Duck will be the subject of a special sale and exhibit.

Animation cel paintings are the actual paintings filmed in making animated cartoons. Each character is painted by hand on a clear sheet of acetate then photographed, one frame at a time, to create the illusion of the cartoon characters in motion. Did you realize that an animated cartoon makes, you will get to take a little closer look. On Thursday and Friday, the BOP will be sponsoring a visit by the Gallery Lainzberg in lower Slavin. More than 250 unique and often humorous cel paintings of familiar characters, like Bugs Bunny or Daffy Duck will be the subject of a special sale and exhibit.

Desserts for the mind

By V. Chwocky

Midterms getting you down? All those exams, research papers, and computer programs are now all due on the same day! There seems to be only a few weeks when a student wonders, "will I survive?" and without a doubt they are the weeks of midterms and finals. Professors never cease to amaze students by placing their exams and major assignments due on the exact same day as other professors. Why does this unlikely phenomenon always occur?

There may not be a way to solve this sleepless, nerve-racking experience of midterms, but there is a reward that each and every one of you deserve at the end of this week. What is this marvelous, incredible, edible delight that will tempt your taste buds with heavenly savorness? How does a fluffy chocolate cream pie sound? Like a lot of work and a disaster resulting from it? There is not a chance of that happening with these three recipes. Two of them are by General Foods and the third is from Diamond Walnuts. These recipes are specifically designed to be easy and most importantly, delicious!

When the entire week seems to have piled high with exams and papers relax with a creamy fattening dessert, as the Tastes Choice commercial states, "Times like these were made for fun." Nothing other than a delicious creamy pie.

German Sweet Chocolate Pie

1 pkg (4 oz) German sweet chocolate
1-3 cup milk
2 tablespoons sugar
1 pkg (3 oz) cream cheese, softened
1-8 oz container non-dairy whipped topping, thawed
1 graham cracker crumb crust
Heat chocolate and two tablespoons of the milk in saucepan over low heat. Stirring until chocolate is melted. Beat sugar into cream cheese; add remaining milk and chocolate mixture and beat until smooth. Fold in whipped topping, blending until smooth. Spoon into crust. Freeze until firm. (4 hours). Garnish with chocolate curls if desired. Store any leftover pie in freezer.

Coconut Dream Pie

2 envelopes whipped topping mix
2 pkgs. (4-serving size) vanilla or coconut cream flavor instant pudding mix
2g. (4 oz.) cream cheese, softened
Serve.

Creamy Fudge Pie

1 cup butter or margarine
3-4 cup brown sugar packed
3 eggs
2 oz. pkgs. (2 cups) semi-sweet
real chocolate pieces
2 tsp. instant coffee
1 cup whipping cream
2 tbsp. chopped maraschino cherries
Cream butter with brown sugar; add eggs, one at a time, beating well. Melt chocolate over hot, not boiling water; add to cream mixture with coffee and rum flavorsing. Stir in flour and walnuts. Pour into pie shell. Bake at 375 degrees for 25 minutes. Cool. Whip cream stiff, fold in cherries. Spread on top of pie and serve.

Outward Bound Adventure

Over 8,000 men and women, both adults and students, will take part in a unique program called "Outward Bound" this spring. Designed so that participants will meet challenging experiences in wilderness settings at all times of the year, Outward Bound courses are located in more than a dozen states. While many come to Outward Bound seeking a taste of high adventure — and they'll probably get it — some have a new understanding of themselves after discovering they are capable of doing things they thought impossible. Outward Bound believes many limits are self-imposed. Backpacking, mountaineering, rock climbing, canoeing, snowshoeing, sailing, cycling, rafting, and even caving form the core of the Outward Bound experience, depending on the environment in which the course takes place. Previous outdoor skills are necessary, as is a willingness to do the work. The emphasis is on minimal instructor supervision, and specialists who help them develop outdoor and interpersonal skills, culminating in a "final expedition," with minimal instructor supervision, relying on what they have learned during the course. Academic credit is often offered, as is financial aid based on need. In addition, several Outward Bound schools offer no-interest tuition loan plans, some for up to three years. Outward Bound courses are offered year-round and last from 5 to 28 days. For information, write Outward Bound, Inc., 384 Field Point Road, Greenwich, CT 06830, or call toll free 800-243-8520 (except in Connecticut).

Trinity Rep:

"The Tempest" next in series

Trinity Square Repertory Company continues its humanities program, "The Dramatic Work as a Historical-Cultural Document," with its upcoming production of Shakespeare's THE TEMPEST. The award-winning humanities series is sponsored by the Rhode Island Committee for the Humanities, which offers essays and post-performance discussions by scholars and poets to the public in conjunction with Trinity Rep's eight-play subscription series.

THE TEMPEST: the 12th Shakespeare play to be produced in Trinity Rep's 19-year history, is considered one of Shakespeare's greatest works, the concluding masterpiece of his career. Adrian Hall directs a large cast of Company members with Robert Richardson in the role of Prospero. Eugene Lee is dressing the show.

The following is a schedule of humanities discussions, scholars and topics:

—Friday, March 14, after the 8 p.m. performance, Dr. Maury Klein, professor of American History, URI, will examine some of the historical resources that may have inspired Shakespeare's mythical island.
—Sunday, March 27 and Saturday, April 6, after the 2 p.m. performances, Dr. Frances Shirley, professor, Wheaton College, will look at how Shakespeare and other Elizabethan playwrights wrote about magic, the occult and the use of it.

Discussions will be held in the upstairs theatre at Trinity Square Repertory Company located at 201 Washington Street, Providence. The essays and post-performance discussions are free and available to the public. The essays can be found in the lobby of the theatre. For ticket reservations and further information, call (401) 351-4242.

Providence to host Racquetball tourney

By Paul Sweeney

The Providence College Racquetball Club will host a Regional Racquetball Tournament on March 18 through March 20. The event will be held at the Recreational Center. The 1983 American Amateur Racquetball Association (AARA) Intercollegiate Regional Racquetball Tournament will begin at 6 p.m. on Friday and conclude at 6 p.m. on Sunday.

Sponsored by Penn, the tournament will draw collegiate players from every state in New England. Upstate New York will also be represented.

Providence College, University of Massachusetts at Boston, Northeastern University, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute and the University of Massachusetts at Boston, Nor­folk league competition, recently announced that they will send teams to compete.

Colin Peterson, coach of the Providence Racquetball Club, wishes to stress that this tournament is open to all who wish to participate.

The $10 entry fee guarantees each participant at least two matches and a complimentary Penn T-shirt. Matches will be played in singles, doubles and mixed.

While there is no minimum number of necessary participants in order for a college to compete in the team-level competition, there is a maximum of eight men and four women. Points will be awarded to each team in accordance with AARA specifications.

Team divisions include Coed Single and Coed Double. Senior and Open Divisions. There will also be A and B Double Divisions. Scholarship money will be awarded in each division, and t-shirts and t-shirts and coffee mugs will be given out to the winners of all divisions.

Both the winners and runners-up in each division will receive participation trophies and certificates.

The two top teams of the competition will receive money for the National Championships, which will be held in Tennessee in April. Necessary application forms are now available at the front desk in the Recreation Center.

The Providence College Racquetball Club wishes to express its sincerest thanks to the Providence College Student Congress, Father McGregory, Lou Lamoriello and Peterson Recreation Center for their help in hosting the tournament.

Joanne Powers. PC blew the game open to 43-21 at 5:18. The final score read 65-42.

Leading the scoring for PC were Laurie St. Jean with 15 points and Kerry Phayre with 13. Everyone tried to take control of the action off the glass — Kerry had 10 rebounds. Joanne Powers 6, Laurie St. Jean 5, Brit King 5.

The Lady Friars next action sat Saturday, meeting Villanova. PC came out and won the opening game, converting the 9-0 mark in the first half. The score stood at 28-26. Providence.

The second half was up and down court. Joanne Powers and Brit King again were strong off the boards. Kerry Phayre also played a strong game.

The score at the end of regulation time was knotted at 61. The overtime was again a neck and neck battle, until Laurie St. Jean hit a key outside shot to change the momentum of the game. Providence edged Villanova, 71-69. Scoring was led by Kerry Phayre with points, Laurie St. Jean with 19, and Kathy Finn with 17. Joanne Powers was handled by Brit King with 13, Kathy Finn with 8, and Laurie Bucharestian who hustled, assuring the Lady Friars a spot in the East Regional. St. John's will host the East Regional, with Providence in Alumni Hall Saturday, March 19, in a 7:30pm game.

Friars Face Seton Hall in B.E. Matchup
By Richard Testa

Who's going to win the Big East Tournament in Madison Square Garden? Unfortunately, who isn't telling. In fact, it was to be one of the most bizarre finishes in any conference regular season battles. Boston College, St. John's and Villanova have all finished with 12-4 records and in first place. To break that tie, the team with the best record against the other two was to be given the number one seed in the tourney. Since BC beat with Nova in this view, the player-of-the-year in senior John Pinone. The Cats have lost two in a row, and aren't about to make it this time. Nova win both season games.

Villanova vs. Seton Hall in the final with a 14:27 performance. His heat was much more solicital, and he was left behind in the final 400 meters. The 5000 offered one of the more exciting races of the day, as Charlie Breagy qualified for the final with a 14:21.3 effort for third place. While Rich Mulloney was far from satisfied, finishing by one place in 14:27.6. The top seven runners were two seconds apart in a wild finish. In the other half, Andy Ronan also qualified for the final with a 14:27.6 performance. In the finals, on Sunday, O'Flynn took fourth in the 3000 with a time of 8:50.9. He stayed in contention until there were three laps to go when two races in two days caught up with him and took their toll.

In the 5000, Breagy and Ronan suffered a similar fate, as both hung with the lead group until the final 800 meters, when they fell behind. Breagy ended up fourth in 14:18, while Ronan ran his second consecutive 14:27 to take fourth. Andy Ronan also penetrated into the first four, but lost in the final 800 meters. On Saturday, Rich O'Flynn turned in an outstanding performance to capture third in his heat in a 8:17:17. While Paul Moloney had the fast time for the final after a disappointing 8:15.

PC Classes Season at IC4A's
by Chris Lyon

The indoor track season came to a close last weekend at the IC4A Championships held at Princeton University, and it saw several runners turn in fine performances for the second meet in a row.

This year's result was preceded two weeks before by the Big East Championships at Syracuse University, in which the Friars' outstanding distance runners again showed they are among the best in the east. Competing in two events, the Friars managed to score 40 points, good for seventh place overall.

The highlight of the meet was the 3000 meter run in which PC runners took the first four places, paced by senior Jimmy Fallon. Running near or in the lead for the entire race, Fallon pulled away from his teammates over the final mile to capture the title in a time of 8:10.3. Rich O'Flynn followed Fallon to the line in 8:13.3, with Mike Cappo on his heels in 8:11.3. And Paul Moloney fourth in a personal best 8:14.4. Cappo's time was good enough to break the English National 18 and under record.

Down in Princeton this past weekend, "was represented by athletes in the 3000 and 5000 meter events, who were required to much different strategy as it contained qualifying heats for both events.

On Saturday, Rich O'Flynn turned in an outstanding performance to capture third in his heat in a 8:17:17. While Paul Moloney had the fast time for the final after a disappointing 8:15.

P.C. Student Weekend Retreat

Dear Student:

There will be a weekend retreat for PC students on the weekend of March 11-13. The place for retreat is Leicester, N.Y. It is a weekend retreat for college setting with a lake, a small waterfont, and lots of countryside to explore. It'll be a bit rustic but no a change. They will have some fun activities and exploring the area. There will be some sports equipment if you like. And, of course, you are expected to wear your wonderful clothes. (Remember: It's a social weekend."

If you have the money don't feel that you don't have enough money. Stop by the Chaplain's Office and we'll see what can be worked out. Don't put if off. Take some time to be with Christ and have a great weekend.

For further details and information stop by the Chaplain's Office, the Pastoral Council Office, or call 865-2212.

F. Adrian Dabash, O.P.

Please detach and return to the Chaplain's Office or the Pastoral Council Office in Slavin 115 or 116 by no later than Wednesday, March 9, 1983.

Yes, I want to go on the retreat.

PC clinches quarter finals

By John Brandolino

The top-seeded Providence College Friars defeated the eighth seeded Yale Bulldogs, Friday and Saturday nights, to capture their ECAC quarterfinal series. The Friars were the higher seed and had to move on to the semi-finals, this weekend at the Boston Garden. In both contests which were held for sell-out crowds at Schneider Arena, PC managed to produce the winning goal in the third period to down the Bulldogs 2-1. Both games were the second lowest scoring games in ECAC playoff history.

Now, it’s on to the Boston Garden for the number one seed. The Friars (ranked third nationally behind North Dakota and Minnesota in the last regular season hockey poll) to compete in semifinals on Friday and Saturday in either Championship or consolation game action on Saturday. It’s only the fifth time in Friars hockey history that the Friars have been able to past the quarterfinals. However, three of those times have been in the last four years. As you may remember last year, after missing their last trip to the Garden resulted in PC grabbing the 1981 ECAC Championship.

As it turned out this past weekend, the top four seeds in the ECAC, Providence, St. Lawrence, Harvard and the Terriers were the hottest teams. Each team had to settle for a 3-3 tie with the Terriers. After a long fight to defend their home-ice in the first round of national action. And if the Friars have to win to earn that first round of NCAA action, they will join the Final Four in a trip to Grand Forks, North Dakota for the National Championship.

But enough of looking ahead! The Friars were impressive in their bout with Yale as they were able to improve with every period. "They’re a super hockey team," I’ve been saying all year," said coach Lamoriello after Saturday’s clinching win. "Gates Grando, for instance, was only supposed to play on powerplays tonight (Saturday) after missing last night’s game. But he played the whole game on the power play."

"They’re a super hockey team. I’ve been saying this all year, insisted coach Lamoriello after Saturday’s clinching win."

When asked if he expected more offensively open contests, Coach responded: "I expected close games, they are a close checking team. In between periods, I didn’t say anything to our team. I’ve only gotten mad at them once this year and that was at the BU game. They know what they have to do. That’s all they have to do."

Friday and Saturday’s games were almost carbon copies of each other. After scoreless first periods, which is unusual for the Friars, each team traded goals in the second. Then, going into the final period tied at 1:1, the Friars delivered the winning goal to give both games a final 2-1 score.

In the first game, Mike Bolstad started the scoring at 1:31 into the second period. After a Yale defensemen miscarried the puck, Bolstad took it away and scored on a beautiful breakaway fake on Yale goalie Paul Tertsea, who has the fourth best goal tending average in the East. Senior forward Todd Gares started things up on a powerplay with just one second remaining in the same period. Nichols fired a slapshot from the point that passed by a screened Marty Proulx.

In a close and heated third period, a new face shone as hero from the ice unlike the unknown body that “shiled” from the crowd in between periods. The new face was freshman Artie Yeomelakis who despite being the smallest man on the team’s roster, he was a hustling and hitting threat. With just 4:37 remaining in the contest, Yeomelakis took a perfect centering pass from line mate Rich Costello to lift the Friars (and the crowd) to a 3-2 victory.

The Friars rolled over, picked up the puck, and sent me a beautiful pass," said an elated Gates Grando after Saturday’s clinching win. "I left my man with an open net and just let it go."

Saturday, all the Friars needed to do was tie to clinch the series. Again, after a scoreless first period, Steve Anderson put the Friars on the board at 6:37 of the second. "When Kurt gave me pass there was a defenseman on me," commented Anderson of his go-ahead score. "I turned away from my man for some reason so I shot it on net and caught them looking the wrong way."

Just like Friday night, the Bulldogs iced things up in that period, a new face shone as hero on the ice unlike the unknown body that “shiled” from the crowd in the final period tied at 1:1, the Friars delivered the winning goal to give both games a final 2-1 score.

In the Holy Cross Crusader invitational held Feb. 13, the Lady Friars competed against 20 teams and came away with a second place finish. Smith managed to place, many of the Lady Friars saw improvements in their times, running personal bets for the season. Smith became a member of the All-Team by running a 2:50 in the 800 M to place third overall. She also ran a 1:28.1 in the trials of the 400 M to place third in her heat, just missing a berth in the finals.

In order to qualify for the finals petition was tremendous and while only freshman Cheryl Smith managed to place, many of the Lady Friars saw improvements in their times, running personal bets for the season.
