Student Vandalism Costly to PC

Dorm Party Damages Colonel's Corner Renovations

By Karen Ryder

Saturday, February 28, the Colonel's Corner was the setting for its Grand Reopening party and the first annual banquet for the members of the Dorm Council, following many renovations. A plaque was presented to Col. Andrew DeCorso "in appreciation for his services rendered over the past 25 years."

Patrick Lyden, vice-president of the Resident Board described the semi-formal affair as "very well run with each dorm contributing something different."

The tables were turned, however, when on Saturday, March 7 Guzman Hall held a party in the Colonel's Corner.

Tom Carpenter, a resident assistant in Raymond Hall was on duty that night. He had been making periodic checks for violation on the party throughout the night. At one point, Carpenter felt it necessary to ask for Colonel DeCorso's recommendation when the room in the basement of Raymond Hall seemed too crowded.

After being notified, the Colonel called Rev. Walter J. Heath, O.P., director of residence who came down to the Colonel's Corner to view the situation in person. In conjunction with Carpenter and Jeff Wendth, manager of the Colonel's Corner, a rough count was taken; all three estimated the crowd to be over 200 people.

The room is designed to hold no more than 170 people.

Father Heath decided it was necessary to shut off both the music and the beer, for the party was in violation of fire regulations.

According to Father Heath's estimates, about one half hour later, all but 30 or 40 people had left. By the time the remaining students were gone, it was discovered that five electric bar signs and an electric clock had been stolen. There was also a good deal of graffiti on the walls on the "Corner" which had just recently been painted.

This raises questions about having any future renovations in the Colonel's Corner.

Lyden could not stress enough the importance of remembering that the "Corner" has been renovated by the students for the students' use.

"Starting with Billy Pearson (former president of the Resident Board), there has been a new attitude toward the Colonel's Corner."

Lyden mentioned the recent renovations and the hopes for a more, such as panelling and a new bar, but added that, "when incidents like this occur, it's tough to convince the Administration and ourselves that it's worth working for."

"Many kids feel that it's common property and they don't care what they do to it."

Lyden added that, "while it is a minority of students who are destructive, the vast majority is just as guilty for not doing anything to stop such actions when they see them happening. It takes a lot of nerve to speak up to people like that."

Father Heath, Col. DeCorso, Jeff Wendth and Patrick Lyden will not meet in the near future to discuss ways of preventing any further incidents.

Food Store in the Red

During last Sunday's Student Congress meeting, Dennis McNery, student representative to the committee on Administration, reported that the Food and Variety Store (Store 104) is currently operating at a deficit. However, the store will be kept open until the end of the semester regardless of its fiscal condition. Apparently, student use of Store 104 has begun to decline causing the red ink. If the student body does not begin to show more interest in the store it could possibly be closed by next semester.

L. Jay Manning, president of the Board of Governors, outlined plans for the upcoming BOG elections. The nomination period will be March 18-20. Elections will be held on March 24.

This Thursday, The Marx Brothers will be presented in the Last Resort and on Saturday, the Resort will feature Ray Boston. In other COA news, Dennis McNery noted that Rev. Thomas R. Peterson, O.P. president of the College, will announce this year's Commencement speaker in the near future.

Laura Foley, chairperson of the academic research committee, announced that a bartending mini-course will begin Monday, March 16. Registration will be held this week.

Jane Silveira, president of the Dillon Club, noted that final payment for the Bermuda trip is due March 14.

Rob Giovino, president of the Class of 1982, stated that last week's mixer, featuring Two Way Street, was a success. The junior class will be selling T-shirts all this week.

The Class of 1984, is planning a mixer Friday, April 24. The mixer will feature Peter Walsh, '81, as D.J. and will hopefully be held in Upper Level Slavin.

Fred Flintstone visited PC last week to help raise money for the United Way Raffle.

Juniors Choose Core Committee

By Peggy Hogan

It was the beginning of the end for the Class of '82, on March 2, when their class officers and representatives chose the members of the Commencement Core Committee. Although their graduation is over a year away, the planning has already begun.

Over 30 juniors were interviewed and the decision was based on experience, enthusiasm, ideas, and ability to commit a great deal of time to the Core Committee.

Meg Leary was appointed Committee chairperson, while Barb Slominski and Heidi Bachli were chosen to coordinate special events.

Lisa Bernardi will be in charge of the Commencement Ball.

Coordinating bids and favors will be Tracy Coogan and Martha Conn, with Rick Haney in charge of bands. Also chosen for the core committee was Tim McAward, as the active alternate.

Susie Rogers, a junior class representative, commented that, "A lot of qualified people tried out. I'm very happy with the choices."

"Besides looking at their individual talents, we chose people who we felt would work well together," added another junior.

All members of the Class of '82 are urged to get involved with their Commencement by joining these various committees. There's a lot of work to be done in the coming year for a successful and memorable Commencement.

Pool shark Jack White gave "pointers" to PC students last Thursday.

Academic Appeals Committee

Student's Avenue to Academic Equity

The Academic Appeals Committee of Providence College is chaired by Dr. Hugh Lena of the sociology department.

The Committee, which was formed three years ago under the Student Bill of Rights, is composed of two faculty members, two administrators and two students.

The faculty members are appointed by the president of the Faculty Senate, Dr. John J. Colby. They are Dr. Lena and Dr. Ellen Goodman of the English department.

Dr. Paul van K. Thompson, vice president for academic affairs and Rev. Robert A. Morris, O.P., executive vice president for development, the two administrators on the Committee, were appointed by Rev. Thomas R. Peterson, O.P., president of the College.

The two student members of the committee are Marie Robitaille, '81, and Ray Boucher, '82. They were appointed by the Student Congress.

The Committee mainly handles grievances by a student against a faculty member. The grievances are usually of an academic nature.

Dr. Lena explained the appeals process.

The student with a complaint should first contact the instructor involved. If necessary, the student should then go to the department chairman or program director, if the problem still has not been resolved.

If the student still has a complaint, he should then see a dean, and as a last step, bring the grievance before the Academic Appeals Committee.

The Committee does not make any decisions itself, but makes recommendations to the president of the College who makes the final decision.

Dr. Lena stressed that this is not a "trial" and the Committee has no power to actually change a grade.

The Committee has handled grievances since it was formed three years ago and is currently handling one. However, if a student has a grievance it must be filed within 60 days into the semester following the one in which the problem occurred.

International House Needs Volunteers for May Fair

The International House of Rhode Island will sponsor its 11th annual fair to be held Saturday and Sunday, May 2 and 3, from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. The fair festivities will be held at Brown University's Meehan Auditorium, Hope Street and Lloyd Avenue, Providence.

The fair will include homemade food and crafts from more than 40 different countries.

Games and special activities will be available for adults and children. International entertainment will also be provided during the two days of the event which is open to the public.

The International House has requested volunteers to serve on one of the fair committees or to assist during the two days of the event. There is a special need for entertainers including musicians, singers and dancers.

Those interested in volunteering can call for further information at the International House, 3 Stimson Avenue, Providence, 401-421-7181.

More than 30 international students attend Providence College. Last year more than 10,000 people attended the fair. Among the entertainers was Dr. Raymond Sickinger of the history department, who sang Irish ballads.

Current Events Forum Tomorrow

Providence College and Bryant, the panel will appear on the campuses of Duke and the University of North Carolina.

In addition to El Salvador and draft registration, recent discussions have covered subjects such as nuclear strategy, Persian Gulf contingency plans, The Iranian hostage rescue attempt, the Rapid Deployment Force, NATO and the situation in Poland, and the role of women in the armed forces.

The panel members, Army Lieutenant Colonels, have all served 20 years in the active Army in various command and staff assignments ranging from battalions command with NATO forces to strategic planning forces in the Department of Defense.

After a brief introduction to establish backgrounds and areas of special interest, the panel will respond to questions from the audience. The forum is free and open to the public.

PC Students Enjoy Rapelling With ROTC

Over 40 ROTC cadets along with a few friends spent last Saturday rappelling from cliffs in the woods west of Providence.

A training team from the Rhode Island National Guard's 19th Special Forces Group taught the techniques needed to descend the 70-foot cliff quickly and safely.

"The instruction was excellent," said Julio Santos, '82. "I felt confident and safe by the time I had to start down."

Ed Grogan, '84, took a bit longer to feel comfortable. "It looked easy 'til I got up there," said Grogan. "Then I didn't think so until I took the first step—after that it was fun. The training was set up primarily for the ROTC cadets who will be attending advanced camp at Fort Bragg, North Carolina, this summer. Other students, though, are always welcome to join the training. Many did and probably all agreed with Mary West, '84, who said, "It was great! I can't wait until we do it again at Fort Devens," referring to a training weekend scheduled for the Massachusetts Army base by the PC ROTC in April.

Diane St. Onge, '84, prepares for her descent down the steepest part of the cliff, assisted by Staff Sergeant Joseph Bourassa, 19th Special Forces.

Julio Santos, '82, adjusts slack before bounding from the top of the cliff.

With coaching from Staff Sergeant Joseph Bourassa, 19th Special Forces Group, an unidentified cadet takes the proper body position during descent.

HIGH QUALITY—AND BRIEF (3 MONTHS)— PARALEGAL TRAINING: IS IT FOR YOU?

Wondering what to do for your "next step" after college? Thought about law school, but concerned about the time (3 years), the expense, and the shrinking job market for lawyers? Maybe a high quality paralegal program (3 months) is for you. It could give you real work experience; teach you legal research, study, and writing skills; and allow you time to experience the realities of the legal profession before committing yourself to a full three year legal program.

Talking to a representative of one of these programs will allow you think out the issues involved, get some ideas, and then make up your own mind about whether paralegal training makes sense for you. This particular school may or may not fit your needs but it can also give you a picture in general of paralegal opportunities.

A REPRESENTATIVE FROM THE INSTITUTE FOR PARALEGAL TRAINING WILL BE HERE ON MARCH 13th TO EXPLAIN THE PARALEGAL PROFESSION AND THE INSTITUTE'S OWN PROGRAMS, PLACEMENT RECORD, AND REQUIREMENTS.

GENERAL AND SPECIALIZED PROGRAMS—ALL ARE 3 MONTHS

Where Is The Off-Campus Residence Office?

Earlier this year, Very Rev. Thomas R. Peterson, O.P., president of the College, made a commitment to the members of the student body. More specifically, this commitment was made to those who have chosen to move off campus.

The administration has pledged their support for off-campus residents in the past, namely through the establishment of the Shuttle Service. However, that semester the administration promised the student body that they would hire an off-campus advisor full time under the direction of the Residence Office. To the knowledge of the Editorial Board of The Cowl, there has been no action on this promise. The Editorial Board of The Cowl urges immediate action on this promise.

Most of the on-campus residents who desire to move off campus are now looking for apartments. With the trend of an increasing number of students living in apartments, and a limited amount of apartments in the PC neighborhood, this task is becoming a difficult one. If an Off-Campus Residence Office and/or advisor was secured, he or she could be of great aid in helping students attain off-campus housing.

The history of this problem is worthy of note. Last year Ed Flynn, president of the Off-Campus Resident Organization (a new organization established in 1980) began an attempt to gather a comprehensive listing of apartments. A number of surveys were distributed to students to compile this listing. At present, a good listing exists, however, it is not comprehensive. One student and his three officers can in no way be expected to track down every landlord and apartment in the PC vicinity. However, a full time professional would be able to do so. This type of listing could be of great use to PC students looking for apartments. It would also provide the PC administration with a listing of their students' residences in Providence.

An off-campus advisor could potentially help PC students with legal problems also. Proper leases, security deposits, landlord rights, and eviction notices are all part of R.L. law. An off-campus advisor could become familiar with these existing statutes and perhaps could serve as an ombudsman in landlord-tenant problems. He or she could also set up appointments with Student Congress's attorney James H. Riley if such a meeting were needed.

Critics of the establishment of such an office argue that when a student chooses to live off campus, the College has no responsibility for him or her. In a legal sense this is true. Moral principles and PC's devotion to the student body support the fact that the Administration does have a responsibility to these students. The Administration itself has spoken of this commitment, and excluding the Shuttle Service, has failed to demonstrate it.

Each year in recent history the entering freshman class has had more requests for beds on campus than beds available. Last year this forced some freshmen to live in off-campus apartments. The administration cannot and will not guarantee freshmen housing.

The Editorial Board of The Cowl feels that an off-campus advisor could set up appointments with these freshmen to help them get housing, thus not losing them to other schools.

Overall, the Editorial Board of The Cowl feels that an Off-Campus Residence Office, under the authority of the director of residence, would prove the Administration's responsibility for its off-campus students, while at the same time providing off-campus residents a needed service.

Let's Keep Philosophy

Over the past year a very active committee called the planning committee has been reviewing the curriculum and the requirements of Providence College students. The committee has worked many long and hard hours and has successfully reviewed many of the College's departments and departmental requirements as well as general requirements such as natural Science. The committee has listened to both student and faculty members in this effort to provide PC students with an optimal education.

Recently, there has been a suggestion made to this committee regarding the Philosophy requirement. This suggestion deals with the idea of reducing the philosophy requirements from the present two course, six credit hours to one course, three credit hours. The Editorial Board of The Cowl feels that this proposal would not be beneficial for the student body.

Philosophy is an important and traditional part of academic life here at Providence College. Philosophy at PC is not only an academic endeavor for the student, but also a personal endeavor. Philosophy teaches a student to think logically and systematically, something that will help him in any area of his future.

Providence College was founded in 1917 with the goal of providing its students with a liberal arts education. Philosophy is an important part of the liberal arts. PC is a Dominican Institution, and Dominicans are members of a teaching order that strives to teach religion through the use of intellect.

The Editorial Board of The Cowl strongly suggests that the philosophy requirement remain a two course, six credit requirement in the future.

From the editor's desk...

During my four years at PC I have been taught by many professors. However, one of my more privileged experiences was to be taught by Gus Cote. Mr. Cote is one of those rare teachers who make you want to go to class. He possesses a charm and charisma that allows students to enjoy what they are learning, while at the same time understanding the subject matter being taught.

This Friday night, in '64 Hall, PC is roasting Gus Cote. Tickets for students are only $1.00 and all proceeds go to a scholarship fund to be set up in Mr. Cote's name. It is guaranteed to be a great, for a great guy.

Sexist Terms Questioned

Dear Editor:

It is much to our chagrin that we must point out and request the removal of two often used and glaringly sexist terms from the vocabulary of the Providence

College community. The two terms that we are referring to are "freshman" and "upperclassmen." These two terms suggest sexist bias and neither encompasses a mixed male-female setting.

We call on those well-versed in the area of linguistics to aid our plight: what more acceptable and accurate terms can we utilize to dispel these archaic idioms?

Loyalty Fund Drive Going Strong; Total Pushed Over $600,000

With about five months still remaining before its June 30 closing date, the 1980-81 Loyalty Fund by February 26 had already amassed 6,982 pledges totaling $606,419 and is running more than $100,000 ahead of last year's record-setting fund on the same date, according to General Chairman Eugene T. Voll, PC Class of 1985.

Established in 1942, the PC Loyalty Fund is conducted annually within the College's July 1 to June 30 fiscal year and is very similar to the annual giving programs in effect at many other colleges and universities. Its purpose is to provide the College with urgently needed, unrestricted funds on a recurring basis.

The Loyalty Fund has grown from $5,000 in 1942 to almost $600,000 in the 1979-80 fiscal year and over the years has generated more than $3,800,000 in revenue for Providence College. Although not restricted to any specific purpose, Loyalty Fund gifts have traditionally been used for scholarships, student assistance, books, repairs and needs of an emergency nature for which funds are not readily available.

Included in this year's pledge totals are $470,139 from alumni, $37,133 from parents, $34,127 from friends, $58,335 from corporations and $6,885 from non-alumni faculty/staff. Last year's fund on Feb. 26 had obtained 5,796 pledges amounting to $501,613 including $404,296 from alumni, $31,572 from parents, $22,645 from friends, $44,996 from corporations and $8,104 from non-alumni faculty/staff. Cash payments this year amount to $35,560 compared to $300,820 on the same date last year.

Associate Vice President for Development William T. Nero noted that participation at the Special Gift level is substantially higher this year than past years. Following are the Special Gift results to date and the respective chairmen:

Chapin Incorporators, E. T. Voll '55, 10 pledges for $79,910; Chapin Associates, A. Sion, Jr. '37, 22 pledges for $5,553; President's Club, W. D. Slattery, Jr. '53 and W. F. Brennan, DMD, '56, 73 pledges for $78,228; Chancellor's Club, Hon. A. B. Sciarrett '32 and R. A. DeBasso '56, 131 pledges for $39,250; Century Club, C. M. Borkowski, '71 and P. M. Lenahan '72, 1,273 pledges for $135,052.

Also doing very well are the Golden Anniversary Class of 1931, led by George A. Kenny and the Silver Anniversary class of 1936 led by Arthur O. Aloisio and Paul J. Fournier. The Class of 1931 has to date obtained 37 pledges totalling $6,205, and the Class of 1936 has 109 pledges totalling $19,422.87.

Having completed its Special Gift phonathons, the 1980-81 Fund is now midway through the regional phonathons phase and is enjoying a high degree of success. Under the leadership of its regional chairmen, area phonathons have already been held in 20 areas and met with great success.

On Wednesday afternoon, March 18, the Faculty Staff Solicitation Committee—which is headed by Professor Francis T. O'Brien—will hold a special faculty-staff phonathon at the Development Office in Harkins Hall, Room 110. The following members of the PC faculty and staff family have volunteered to assist in the calling. They are:

Jann Amoroso, Helen Bert, James Belliveau, Peter Bongiorno, Marcelle Boyes, Joseph Brum, James Cunningham, Claudette Curley, Robert Curran, William B. Doyle, Daniel Foster, Paul Gallagher, Joseph Gemma, Thomas Heskin, Dennis Hughes, Blanche Hunt, Guyde Lombardi, John Marinatto, Claire Masson, James McGovern, Ann Manchester-Molok, William Nero, Francis O'Brien, Gerard O'Leary, Edwin Palumbo, Roger Pearson, John Primeau, Lynda Puglia, Marion Reall, Stephen Schultz, Natalie Seigle, Saul Seigle, Barbara Sweeney, John Tucciarone, Therese Vianu, Eileen Walsh, and Phyllis Zienowicz.

Following the regional and Faculty Staff phonathons, the Loyalty Funds move into the class solicitation phase with phonathons scheduled at the Last Resort between April 13 and April 21 for every class. Anyone wishing to serve as a volunteer, in the faculty/staff or class phonathons may call the PC Development Office at 865-2415.

Counseling Center Notes

The majority of you are aware that the Peace Corps-VISTA programs exist; but do you know what these two programs are about? Have you ever considered these opportunities for yourself?

In 1961, the Peace Corps program began. Since then, needs of the developing countries have changed, but the mission of the Peace Corps remains the same. The volunteers do not do things for people, but show them how to improve their lives, how to become more self-reliant.

Today there are approximately 6,000 volunteers in the field. They serve in over 60 different countries, mainly in Latin America, Africa and the Pacific region. Depending on the background of the volunteers, there is a wide variety of jobs. They range from generalists, volunteers, with or without degrees, to highly specialized jobs requiring specific education and/or experience.

The second program, VISTA, Volunteers in Service to America, offers opportunities for people with varied backgrounds, varied ages, varied experience to work the United States. Today there are about 4,500 VISTA Volunteers working in all 50 states and U.S. territories.

Starting with a local, non-profit group that defines problems and sets goals for their community, VISTA is called in to assist. Then VISTA will assign and train the volunteers and the local community they serve. They work with the community to achieve the goals outlined by the sponsoring group. Their involvement is phased out and the community continues with its own skills, resources and know-how.

What is in it for you?

The benefits from being a volunteer in Peace Corps or VISTA will be different for each person. But some common benefits expressed by volunteers have been personal growth, experiencing different cultures, and the satisfaction of having given.

To learn more about these programs attend the information session on Tuesday, Mar. 24, 1981, at 6:30 p.m., in Slavin 203. Representatives will be there to share their experiences and answer any questions. All students are welcome to attend.

They will be back on Mar. 30 and 31 to interview seniors who are interested. Sign up for a time in the Counseling Center.

Kelly's Keane Komments

By Kelly Keane

The working class people in the 1920s wanted to have a good time. Their answer to Jim Plunkett was found in the pubs. When intoxicated beyond reason, patrons would jump up onto soap boxes and bellow out a tune. Usually they were patriotic melodies or songs from their own people. The demand for rowdiness led to the establishment of several halls expressly for this purpose. Peadarilly Circus was one and I suppose it was run pretty much as our Last Resort socials are.

Well, these guys died out early. Though the pay was high their livers couldn't handle the excessive amounts of alcohol. Can you imagine going from place to place participating in and encouraging drunkenness seven nights a week? The fact remains that the "London Music Halls," as they were called, died out in the 1930s just as the Queen started to take interest. It was replaced by Vaudeville which was followed by Burlesque. Eventually radio and television were born, and now... The Love Boat!

It's interesting to note that all forms of entertainment as we know it have their roots in the "Music Halls" which are now obsolete... except in Harkins Auditorium on March 13 at 8 p.m. The actors and actresses appearing will give us a taste of what the London Music Hall was all about. Audience participation will be stressed.

Take advantage of this chance to see something which you've never seen before and which is quoted as "something at which you can't NOT have a good time at."

It promises to be a most interesting evening.

Providence College Women Become Daring

This past Saturday evening, the Board of Governors sponsored the annual Sadie-Hawkins Dance. Signs were placed all over campus asking Providence College women to be daring, get their crush, boyfriend or just friend, and come to the "no jeans mixer" in Raymond Cafeteria. And a no-jeans mixer it was. The girls were dressed in semi-formal attire and the men wore suits and ties. The Martin-Murphy Band kept 250 couples dancing the night away. Only a handful of people went stag.

The dance was a success, but the Sadie-Hawkins Dance does not seem to draw the crowds it used to.

Maybe it's fear of a crushed ego. It's all right to turn down the tall, dark and homely beer major who has been waiting for the right moment to ask you to the Prior Formal. He'll get over it. But it's a different story when you are turned down by the man of your dreams, the one you've been following around campus since freshman orientation. It can be quite a blow.

When the woman does the asking maybe she's afraid that she has to hold the door open for her date. Just imagine a gentleman being picked up by a lady friend. She nonchalantly strolls over to the closet and gets his coat, and then helps him put it on? Or how about a misty, rainy night jogging from the restaurant to the car; she takes off her shawl and gives it to him so his hair won't get wet? Or she brings him flowers, a dozen roses to tell him how much she cares? The only time a guy gets flowers is . . . well, that's a little morbid.

Maybe the woman of the world does not want her date to be intimidated when she pays for everything. But, I bet most men think it's great. Well, women's liberation and a door in your face — that's what it's all about.

Sadie Hawkins Men get down.

The Crutch Craze

Did you hear about the latest fad, the best in fashion, the accessory of the elite? Many PC students have. Rumor has it that a preppie model will be coming out next week. The wood will be painted lime green and the arm cushions bright pink.

The crutch craze has hit Providence College. Although it's no joking matter it is pretty amazing that one cannot walk from Raymond to Slavin without meeting one of our hop-a-long friends.

Maybe they have ulterior motives. All those helpless girls just want attention. They want people to hold the door for them and most of all they want to ride the elevator in Aquinas.

And for the guys, crutches are part of the macho image. They want the girls to express care and concern asking how, when and where it happened. Then, of course, they will explain what a traumatic experience they have been through and how courageous they were to withstand the pain.

In all seriousness, there are many of our fellow students on crutches. Help them out. Be patient when Harkins Hall stairways are backed up. Watch out for slippery spots in the cafeteria, spill soup and a sliding crutch would not be a happy scene. Not only do our friends need the support of a crutch, they need the support of their friends. How about calling this — "Be Kind to Crutches Week."

Chris arouses sympathy.

"Aloysius"

I have a friend named Aloysius;
I met him the March I was born.
He swirls in on his Shamrock coach;
And he always arrives at dawn.

His hair is kind of curly;
His eyes an emerald green;
He has a cane and buckle shoes;
And he loves to make a scene.

He's a happy, jumpy, hoppy guy
Who thrives on a mug of beer;
His moonshine keeps him feeling high,
And he lives without a care.

He swirls in on March 17th,
And he takes me for a ride.
We sing songs like my Daddy did,
And we praise old Ireland's pride.

My old friend Aloysius
Will be dropping by real soon
To grant me many wishes
And play me an Irish tune.

So on good old St. Patti's Day
In the wee hours of the morn,
Watch for the super Shamrock coach
And Aloysius the Leprechaun.

The Last Resort: Good Times At A Good Price

Last Friday evening the Board of Governors held their usual weekend event in the Last Resort. The Generics created the special sounds that kept the Resort rocking all night long. Their eloquent attire, T-shirts with the instrument they play written on them, added to their air of sophistication. The drummer caused much excitement when he exposed his muscles to the spell-bound crowd.

Week after week the Providence College Board of Governors provides PC students with great entertainment in a nice atmosphere for a very low price. The Last Resort, an ironic name, is a great alternative to the overcrowded, stuffy mixers, the usual bar-hopping scene and a monotonous evening in front of the television set.

The Last Resort really looks great. The Board put in a lot of time and energy into decorating and renovating the old wooden naval. The people who work there each weekend express a certain sense of pride in this establishment. They should be commended for their voluntary hard work and dedication. Three cheers for the BOG

This weekend, the Last Resort offers the dynamic sounds of Ray Boston. This will undoubtedly be another sellout. Freshmen who have now reached the magical age of 19 must make their debut at the Resort soon. (July first will be too late.) Tickets go on sale Thursday at 12 noon. If you have not been to the Resort yet, this weekend should prove to be a good opportunity to try something new and enjoy it.

Lent: The Season For Sacrifice

By Judy McNamara

The holy season of Lent, a time of suffering and sacrifice before the Easter holiday, began last Wednesday. This is a very special time when people are supposed to give a little bit more of themselves to others. It's also a time to do more for those we care about, to try a little bit harder and to just be good to people.

Most are under the notion that Lent is a time to give up something we enjoy. First, there are the people who go all out; they strive for the toughest (cigarettes, sweets, tab, alcohol, and um, well you know.) These people commit themselves to 40 days of abstinence and really give it their all.

Then there are those who modify the toughest. Only one cigarette a day, a Hershey bar once a week, a switch to diet Pepsi, no alcohol except beer and wine, and um, well, you know.

Then, of course, there are the people with good intentions. I'll only have a cigarette after lunch, I'm going General Hospital, before dinner, down at the Rat and outside. I'll only have two tabs a day with unlimited thirds. I'll only eat sweets if they come from Raymond Cafeteria or a machine. I'll only drink in Louie's, Brad's and the Rat. (Geister's is too far to walk.) and um, well, you know.

Then there are those people who are beyond all hope. I'll limit myself to a pack of cigarettes a day, five tabs, and all the munchies I can eat except brussel sprouts, $10 worth of liquor a day and they forget about um, well, you know.

It's great to give things up we really like or feel we need up Lent as an expression of sacrifice but maybe it's better to give a part of ourselves to others. Try to be quiet while your roommate is asleep. Remember the special people that so many of us take for granted. Do something nice for someone less fortunate than you are. Or even just spread some sunshine and hospitality.

UCLA and Notre Dame: NCAA Basketball at the Civic Center

Rhode Island will be getting the "real" Irish this St. Patrick's Day season as the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame come to Providence for the National Collegiate Athletic Association Playoffs. They are among six teams selected to play in first and second round action this Thursday and Saturday at the Civic Center.

Thursday night's games feature Brigham Young University clashing with the Ivy Leaguers of Princeton, while Georgetown squares off with James Madison.

On Saturday afternoon, the winner of the BYU-Princeton game will play UCLA and the winner of the Georgetown-James Madison game will face Notre Dame.

BYU, Notre Dame, and UCLA are among the schools in the nation's Top Twenty.

All in all, there were 48 teams selected in the NCAA regional tournaments around the country. The teams will compete to play in the annual Final Four slated for the Philadelphia Spectrum on March 28 and 30.

The games at the Civic Center represent half of the Eastern regional action. The other playoff games will be played in Charlotte, North Carolina. Those games involve Villanova playing Houston, with the winner being pitted against Virginia University. Also, Virginia Commonwealth squares off against Long Island University for the right to play Tennessee.

At the Arcade..

Have you visited the Arcade in downtown Providence recently? If you haven't, there have been some exciting new changes. The Pasta Express has opened its seating section and the famous pizza of Pizzeria Regina is now available. Both of these restaurants are located on the first floor.

Also, today marked the opening of Club Casablanca. This third floor restaurant has been long awaited by members of the community who have heard about this very successful restaurant from Cambridge. It should prove to be an asset to the already busy Arcade.

A full story on Club Casablanca will appear in next week's edition of the Cowl.

Well stocked bar and friendly atmosphere at Makam's.

After the Game Try Makam's

Once again it is time to introduce you to another eating place-watering hold — one fairly new on the downtown Providence restaurant scene. This one is called Makam's and offers an alternative setting for good food and beverages off campus.

The decor is a familiar mix of plants, stained glass and wood planking coming together in a pleasing cafe-coffee house look. However, it's not the interior that makes this establishment, it's the crowd. Very often, whatever night you may wander in a lively crowd can be found that has wandered in from Trinity Square, the Civic Center and neighboring office buildings.

The edible offerings seem quite enticing — some entrees, burgers and many sandwiches — generous but from most accounts they are only average. It is better suited for serving bottled beer, drafts, cocktails and wine, a good reason for making the short journey. Not being a extremely cozy place, Makam's will be more comfortable with the approaching warm weather, a nice place to celebrate St. Patrick's Day, or the first day of spring.

Prices are very reasonable so it wouldn't even break you to treat a friend to lunch, or maybe even more affordable to stop in for happy hour (4-7 p.m.) when prices are lowered by 25 cents and chicken wings are on the house!

Located just a few doors from the Trinity Square Repertory Company, a few blocks from both the Civic Center, and the Ocean State, it's convenient to all spots downtown. For further details or directions call 274-6250.

LSAT Prep Now Available in AV Center

Those students who are preparing to take the Law School Aptitude Test now have a study aid at their disposal in the AV center in Meagher Hall. Mr. Saul Seigle announced that the practice test answers can be made available to a student who is preparing him or herself for the test, through tapes in the AV center. The center operates from 9:00 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. during the week. All interested students should go to the center for further information on how to take advantage of this study aid.

COA Interviews

All students interested in being interviewed for the office of student representative to the Committee on Administration must sign up by Friday in the Student Congress office. The nominee is subject to final approval by Fr. Peterson.

The person chosen will function as a liaison between the student body and the administration. He or she will also be responsible for attending weekly meetings of the committee.

The current representative is Dennis McEnery. If there are any questions you may contact either McEnery or see someone in the Congress office.

ROTC Scholarships For 1981-82 Announced

Cpt. Joseph Johnston, having just completed the Army ROTC Enrollment Officers' Course at Hampton, Virginia, has some good news for freshman and sophomore PC students.

While at the course, Headquarters Training and Doctrine Command announced the all new Army ROTC Scholarship Program. The new program announces over 20 different scholarship opportunities. These new programs now include enrolled as well as non-enrolled scholarship opportunities for PC freshmen and sophomores. (Non-enrolled means that a student is not currently enrolled in ROTC at PC). As a non-enrolled student it costs you nothing to compete.

What does this mean to PC students? This new program means that all PC students are given the chance to compete; the real benefit is that it pays for all tuition, books and lab fees. Individuals nominated for the scholarships will compete with other PC students and at the national level.

The Providence College Army ROTC has an outstanding record regarding scholarship awardees. As many as 50 percent of the Military Science IV cadets (seniors) are currently on scholarships and nearly 30 percent of our third year students are scholarship recipients.

As Cpt. Johnston put it after his return, "It's an outstanding opportunity for PC students to help themselves, their parents, and their country." If you desire more information, contact the Army ROTC Department in Alumni Hall, Room 1, or telephone Cpt. Johnston at 865-2471-2472. He has the full details.

Lady Hoopsters End Season, Lose to BU, 78-55

The PC women's basketball team ended its season last Saturday in a 78-55 loss at Boston University, thus eliminating them in the first round of the Northeast AIAW championship. The Terriers, led by Debbie Miller and Terry Shinkwin, took an early lead and never lost it, ahead by a score of 44-28 at halftime.

Kathy Finn scored almost a third of PC's 55 points bringing her season total to 438 points. Captain Kathy Dwyer, one of four graduating seniors on the team, gained nine points to capture the number four spot in all-time Lady Friar basketball.

Lady Friars battle under the boards.

Volleyball Team Looks To Winning Season

By Louis M. Arcangelo

Halfway through their fourth varsity season the PC volleyball team is looking for a big win over crosstown rival Brown University tonight in order to boost their impressive 4-3 record.

A member of the tough New England Collegiate Volleyball League, this relatively young team plays with a vigor and enthusiasm rarely seen in team sports.

Comprised of roommates, friend and friends of friends, a spirit of camaraderie is evident among the players. Senior captain Dana Stephenson feels that this closeness is necessary in volleyball. "You almost have to be of one mind to play volleyball," he said. "You have to know what the other guy is thinking. You have to know where the ball is going next."

Under the leadership of coach Dick Bagge, the team meets daily for rigorous practice sessions. They are currently preparing themselves for games against new varsity opponent Bryant and Springfield College.

The players, who come mostly from basketball backgrounds seem to easily make the switch to volleyball by following Bagge's system.

Four year veterans Chris Powers and Craig Rochette lead the team with their much needed experience. Ricky Fagan, recently coming off an injury, is looking strong. 6'4" freshman Claudio Riccitelli shows definite signs of sharpening his playing skills this season and next.

When asked how he sees the rest of the season, Stephenson said, "The team is very confident. We have a good positive attitude. The coach has us scheduled to play some tough teams. That will help give us the experience that we need. Right now we are in third place in our conference and if all goes well we'll have a good chance of sweeping the tourney in April."

Ruggers Look Sharp

By Louis M. Arcangelo

As spring approaches so too does the beginning of a new Rugby season. This Saturday in Cranston the Ruggers of Providence College face URI, Brown University, and the Providence Rugby Club in a round-robin competition that promises to be both tough and exciting. Spurred on by the excellent coaching of Captains Steve Kirby and Michael Corrigan the up and coming season looks very good.

Last year under the coaching of Mike Trainor, now playing with the Providence Rugby Club, the Ruggers has a better than .500 season. This year with the addition of 40 new players the season looks even brighter. Junior Brendan Callahan had a few observations to make. "A few guys are bringing a lot of enthusiasm with them; it seems as if with every practice somebody shows up with a friend who wants to join." Callahan also said that the practices are very loose and relaxed.

To those afraid of roughness of the game, junior Paul Shannon assures that the cuts and scrapes are minor in comparison to what goes on in other sports, or in fact, after the game.

"Afterwards no one is too sore to go to the post-game party. Both teams get together in the traditional rugby spirit to have a few beers and forget about tiffs on the field, no hard feelings, and no fights," Shannon said. "Everyone just gets together and has a good time."

After this Saturday's game will be no exception. Tortilla Flats on the East Side will host these four teams in the season's opener. Good luck, Friars!

Ice-Men Come From Behind Beat UNH 5-4

By Michael D. Burke

The PC hockey Friars traveled to New Hampshire last Thursday to leave their mark on the Wildcats of UNH, 5-4, in keeping with what seems to have become a PC hockey tradition—another come-from-behind victory. This time it was a two-goal deficit that they overcame in the final period to tie the game at four goals apiece and bring it into overtime.

This was a "must" win—the only way they could guarantee themselves a berth in the ECAC Division 1 Tournament was to beat UNH.

The "Cats" got on the scoreboard first when, two minutes into the game, Andy Brickley scored on a lone breakaway.

Due to penalties in a previous PC game, the Friars started this game with only 15 eligible skaters—not even enough for three full lines. This 15 player team was chipped away even more when Steve Taylor was injured late in the first period, leaving the Friars with only 14. At 07:00 of the next period, Wildcat Dan Forget wound up and slapped the puck just past PC goalie Mario Proulx, making it 2-0 UNH.

It wasn't until half-way through the final period that the Friars put the puck into the net for the first time. Scott Kleindendorst got it to Mike Bolstad who went in alone, past two Wildcat defenses, and picked the right corner for goal number one.

Three minutes later, UNH answered Bolstad's goal when Andy Brickley got his second of the night by slapping the puck in from the left point. But the Friars kept the momentum going when only 20 seconds later, John Hogberg, just off a penalty, made it 3-2 with yet another slapshot.

Ten seconds after that, Ross Yantzi of UNH slip-one by Mario Proulx, but the Friars simply refused to die. Scott Kleindendorst took a slap shot from the right point which Dan Miele promptly tipped home, bringing the Friars to within one goal of the Wildcats, 4-3.

UNH failed to answer this one so Dan Miele volunteered to answer his own goal, slamming home a rebound from a shot by Steve Evangelista—this tally coming with less than a minute-and-a-half remaining in regulation time.

The score remained 4-4 when the overtime clock was started, and when the penalty whistle was blown on UNH's Chris Pryor only four minutes into overtime, the Friars' powerplay that won't soon be forgotten was started.

It was Steve O'Neill's turn—the backhanded one home from less than 10 feet out with barely 10 seconds left in the powerplay.

The Friars had done it again—they scored three unanswered goals, with only 13 skaters by the end of the game, to come from behind as they have done so many times before to beat the Wildcats of UNH on their own ice, 5-4.

THE BIG EAST
CONFERENCE

The Second Season Begins

Friars Stun B. C. Eagle, 5-2 Clinch NCAA Playoff Berth

By John Brandolino

PC put a frustrating season behind them last night by upsetting Second-seeded Boston College at the McHugh Forum. PC's playoff season began in a hard-hitting aggressive manner as both teams came out swinging in the first period. Boston College held the Friars without a shot for the first seven minutes of the game, as action was wide open at the start. Kurt Kleindorst helped end the scoring drought by passing out of a crowded BC corner to find Junior Jim Colucci wide open at the point. Colucci then picked the top right corner with a hard wrist shot to put PC ahead by one.

Freshman Goalie Mario Proulx held the Eagles pointless with some brilliant goaltending, turning away 16 well placed BC shots.

The second period saw PC come out like lightning. At 11:34 the line of Bolstad-Gouin-Taylor made some neat passing down ice count to set up Taylor who found goalie Bob O'Connor down and out for an open-net shot. The Friars, now with a 2-0 lead seemed to dominate the tempo at this point. Coach Lou Lamoriello had the Friars breaking up any attempt at BC forechecking by keeping the game under control in his own zone. However, BC wasn't about to give up. With about four minutes left in mid-period Paul Hehir put a slow shot through Proulx's pads, putting BC back in the game after two periods, Friars 2-Eagles 1.

In the beginning of this period BC showed why they were second in the East. At 14:31 a Tom Wright pass found BC's Billy O'Dwyer. O'Dwyer then muscled his way past the PC defense for a shot on Proulx, PC 2-BC 2.

Less than a minute later, a Steve Anderson slapshot bounced off Kurt Kleindorst's stick for Kleindorst's first of the game. This put PC up by one. With Gates Orlando off for a tripping call at 16:44 the Eagles charged into the Friar zone looking to even things up again. But thanks to shortanded forechecking by Steve Anderson and company BC's goals went down the drain.

The clincher came at 10:30 into the final period when Junior Mike Gouin stickhandled around the Eagle zone to flip a searing-eye puck into the BC net. At this point the PC fans, who filled up two large sections, went absolutely wild. The cheering turned McHugh Forum into what seemed to be PC's home rink, cheering which would be rewarded with a final insurance goal minutes later.

Kleindorst's second and PC's last came with 6:41 left. Sophomore Dan Miele caught a Jim Colucci pass which he shoveled to Kleindorst, who put the Eagles, sticks away for the summer with a 5-2 final.

Now it's on to the Boston Garden for the Friars and PC fans for a 9:00 game with Clarkson. The Friars are now assured of an NCAA playoff berth with the victory over BC. Friar fans can now be assured of a big second season, with PC fighting for home ice in the NCAA's and a championship in the ECAC's. See you in the Garden.

Colucci leaves BC player in a blur.

Hoopsters Surprise Big East

PC Shocks Tourney Favorite BC, 62-61...

By Richard Testa

Jim Panaggio has the ball. He's guarded by Dwane Chandler. Jim spins. He finds Ricky Tucker in the corner. Ricky goes up with a 15-footer. Bang! Bingo! Swish! It's good! What?!

In the biggest upset in college basketball this year—look it up, how many teams in Division I with less than 10 wins defeated a team with more than 20? The last place Providence College Friars stunned the conference champion Boston College Eagles, 67-65, last Thursday afternoon in the Carrier Dome, home of Syracuse University, in the first game of the Big East Tournament. The following evening PC lost a heartbreaker in overtime to Villanova 58-49. Villanova lost the championship game in triple overtime to Syracuse, 83-80.

The Friar win was the "biggest" in the tourney. No Syracuse wasn't expected to win the whole thing. But with 15,000 screaming, yelling, and shouting partisans (all vocalizing at a fever pitch), the Orange-men had the advantage and the speed to win. Their championship win was not that unexpected. Apparently the NCAA committee thought that the crowd played a significant role in the SU win, as the Orange did not get a berth in the NCAA Tournament. Georgetown, Boston College, and Villanova all received berths. SU had lost to Nova twice earlier in the season.

Before an afternoon crowd of 5,444 in a 25,000-seat "demi-dome," PC played like a team with more than a will to win. They fell behind 6-0 with less than two minutes gone, but tied the score at 10 on a Tucker hoop, his sixth straight point. BC is well equipped though, and John Bagley, Big East player of the year, put on a show with 15 first half points. Most of his baskets were made in the BC transition game, as he went one-on-one with a few Friars. BC led, 24-19, late in the half, but only held a 33-32 advantage at the half.

After "Alfie the Friar" raised Sugar Ray Leonard's hands in victory fashion during the halftime, (Leonard was there to sign for a fight scheduled for the Dome). PC played as if they were the champs. When Billy Fields put the Friars ahead, 36-35, Coach Gary Walters had the lead that he needed. Providence has always played well with the lead because this forces the opposition to play PC's type of game and enables the Friars to stay in their beloved zone. BC could not penetrate in the second half while PC slowly built its lead to eight at 62-54 with only 3:18 remaining. The Eagles' Chris Foyle then scored his only two baskets of the game. Dwane Chandler and Burnett Adams had layups and John Bagley, suddenly, almost matter-of-factly, tied the score at 65 with 54 seconds remaining. Panaggio found Tucker and the rest is a memory.

Rich Hunger must be commended for the job he did on freshmen Jay Murphy and Martin Clarke, both offensively and defensively. They had been the big men inside, but Rich and Billy Fields outshone them with 19 points and 17 respectively. Both Friars had 8 rebounds. Tucker had 14 and Panaggio had 5 assists.

On Friday night in the semifinals, PC played their slow tempo game and trailed by only three to Villanova, who had defeated Connecticut 65-54 (much to coach Walters' delight), at the half. (The other first round winners were Georgetown, 58-52, over Seton Hall and Syracuse, 71-66, over St. John's.) Behind much of the second half by no more than six, the Friars caught the Cats with 1:42 to go, as Otis Thorpe took an alley-op pass from Tucker and slammed it home, knotting the score at 44. After a Nova turnover, the PC five waited for the last shot. Panaggio found Thorpe under the basket. He was fouled on the play, but more importantly and unfortunately, the layup rolled around the rim and off.

Rollie Massimino, MU's coach, called two timeouts to freeze "OT" and it worked, as he missed both free throws. In the rebound action Nova tapped the ball out of bounds and with six seconds left PC called time. It looked like a repeat of the previous game as Panaggio fed Tucker in the corner. Ricky's short jumper bounced on the rim four times and fell out. Overtime. Fields had fouled out in regulation and the Cat's John Pin one drove in the lane early in the OT and forced Otis to commit his fifth foul. Fields and Thorpe were the Friar offense that night and both were gone. No one fouled out for the Wildcats and they easily handled the OT enroute to a 14-5 scoring advantage and a 58-49 win. Otis had 17. Billy had 12 and Ricky tallied 10 for PC. Pinone, the best player for Villanova and only a sophomore, had only one basket, but was 11 for 12 from the line. SU defeated the Hoyas in the other semi-final, 67-53, in a close game, to set up the final.)

Boston College, given a berth in the Midwest Regional seems to have been given an easy first round opponent in the upcoming NCAA's. They'll be playing Ball State. The winner takes on Wake Forest. Villanova will be playing in Charlotte against Houston with
