

Powell Addresses Policy Issues; Fields Questions

By Christina M. Kennedy

"We would be sending exactly the wrong signals to the Soviet Union if we were to again start shipping grain to them. Since when does the United States reward a country for not invading another?" This, according to Jody Powell, former press secretary to President Jimmy Carter, would be the result of ending the Soviet grain embargo.

Powell spoke before an audience of 200 students yesterday in '64 Hall. The group was noticeably devoid of faculty and administration. The lecture began at 1:00 p.m. Powell spoke for an hour. He then fielded questions on a wide range of topics for one and a half hours.

"We would be sending exactly the wrong message to our allies also," Powell continued. "We cannot expect other free world countries to support us later if we are now sending grain to feed Soviet soldiers who may ultimately end up in Afghanistan and kill those Afghans fighting for their own freedom."

With regards to the embargo, Peter Buonocone, '81, addressed Powell with a question on the re-alignment of the shipments and why certain loads were allowed through.

Powell answered, "There were certain contracts which had to be allowed to expire. The shipping lanes had to be cleared and the grain already in transit had to be sent through."

Powell was questioned on the new Reagan administration and its policies. He said, "If we believe his policies will work, we'll believe anything. The Reagan administration is trying to make us believe that there is a free lunch. We can have an increase of 100 percent in defense spending. We can have tax cuts. We can cut inflation. We'll all be better off real soon. It doesn't take too much reasoning to see the lack of logic in this proposal."

He continued, saying: "Reagan emphasizes that his program

Board of Governors Select Chairpeople

By Karen MacGillivray

The Board of Governors held interviews April 6, 7 and 8, for the positions of chairpersons for 13 committees for next year. Interviewers were the new Executive Board of the BOG, Nancy Schiano, president; Kathy Gioffre, vice-president; and Gerry Yapola, treasurer. Of the 32 board members chosen, nine have headed BOG committees in the past 13 members from the Class of '82, 12 are from the Class of '83 and seven are from the Class of '84.

The concert committee will be run next year by Jeff Donovan, '83; Pete Wolfe, '83; and Dennis McEnergy, '82. This committee chooses bands for social events, and will be choosing bands for the Last Resort, the social committee, and various classes.

Publicity will be headed by Kathy Hession, '83; Liz Scholar, '83; Lori Savoca, '84; and Bryan Fox, '83. The number of chairpersons on this committee has been doubled since last year.

The programmer for next year will be Sa Oleksak, '83. She will be in charge of the calendar for Slavin Center. Any group or organization that needs to use Slavin Center for an event must go see the programmer to pick an available date.

Lectures will be co-ordinated by Patti Silva, '82, and Ed Shea, '83. An added feature next year will be faculty lectures. These lectures are expected to be weekly, with the departments providing different speakers. The committee is still waiting for a definite response from the faculty.

There are two committees now involved with the Last Resort. The three managers involved in running the Resort will be Joe Frates, '83; Cheryl Carmennella, '82; and Mark Caffey, '82.

Resort Renovations is a new committee, and will be headed by Kathy Finnegan, '83, and Ann Flaherty, '82. They are planning to work on the room across from the bar room, and also on the hallway of the Last Resort.

The Coffeehouse will be run by Joe Solomon, '83; Maura O'Brien, '83; Kim Nagle, '82, and Nancy Cavallero, '84. They are hoping to open the Coffeehouse twice a week.

Two committees, film and video, have been combined for the coming year. The committee will be run by Kevin Sullivan, '83; Emmitt Bettner, '84; and Brian Duberque, '82.

VAB Election Results

By Nancy O'Neill

On April 12, the Varsity Athletic Board chose its new officers for the 1981-82 year.

Elected president was Celeste Bergeron '83, a sociology-public administration major from Indian Orchard, Mass., defeating opponent Dave Sadow. She is the former publicity chairperson. Commenting on the goals of the board, she stated, "We plan to make the sports more enjoyable for the spectators while showing the teams that the students are backing them. We plan to schedule more events before games, such as the Jim Plunkett event at the Civic Center earlier this season."

John McGoff, '83, a business management major from Sandwich, Mass., will act as vice-president of the VAB defeating challenger Kathy Walsh. He commented, "We hope to activate a student response to the athletic program."

The new secretary of the VAB will be Kathy Reilly, '81, a marketing major from Hanover, Mass. Also newly elected is Babette Brian, '83, a humanities major from Madison, Conn., who will serve as treasurer.

In addition, Steve Dolan was chosen as marketing chairman and Mary Gibbons as publicity chairperson.

The Varsity Athletic Board wishes to increase membership. Those interested in joining are urged to stop by Jerry Alaimo's office, second floor, Alumni Hall.

Sunshine prevails at Sunday's Quad Party.

Class Trip

By Lisa Ferrucci

Mrs. Phyllis Roarke has instituted a new program in her business communication class.

The students are arranging their own field trips for the purpose of interacting with one another and learning the method of organization.

On Friday, April 24, several members of the class went to the Coca-Cola Company in Needham, Mass.

The class hopes to institute an annual schedule of field trips, developed and organized by the class.

As a result of the trips, commuter and resident students can interact outside of the classroom. The students involved in the project are: Craig Belodeau, Paul Phipps, Lisa Ferrucci, Louis Felipelli, Sally Waitt and Mike Maleni.

Need A Summer Job? Apply Now!

The Scholarship Bank announced that applications are available for thousands of college summer job openings for college students interested in work in their career fields, as well as applications for fall scholarships.

According to Steve Danz, director of this nation-wide college scholarship search service, many scholarships for fall require action by April or May. He urges students to get busy finding their best scholarship or work opportunities and apply now. "If the choice is between a low-paying campus job, busing dishes, or possibly working as a professional aid for a company or individual in your major field, jump in now and get the position that will give you experience and help your resume," says the director.

The Scholarship Bank offers students an opportunity to learn about the private, off-campus aid sources for which they are eligible. It has been in operation over one year and has processed over 10,000 student requests for scholarship and work study information.

According to the director, each student receives up to 50 different sources. Some based on need, some on merit, or on other factors such as geographical desires. Students interested in using this service should send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: The Scholarship Bank, 10100 Santa Monica Blvd., Suite 750, Los Angeles, CA. 90067.

U.S. Army Honors Awarded

A student and a faculty member firmly established the name of Providence College at the U.S. Army's Air Assault School at Fort Campbell, Kentucky.

Captain Jim Murray, an ROTC faculty member since 1977, was cited as Distinguished Graduate finishing first in a class of over 100 officers, enlisted men and cadets from Army units throughout the country.

Tom Palladino, PC '82, was placed on the Commandant's list when he finished in the top 10 of his class.

Murray, also a qualified parachutist, said the course was nearly as demanding as airborne training. "I won't compare parachuting from 1200 feet with rappelling 75 feet from a helicopter at night—let's just say they're both interesting."

Palladino especially enjoyed the night rappel. "It was the best part of the training," said the sophomore political science major from Watertown, Mass.

"You have the normal turbulence caused by the chopper blades plus the fact that you can't tell exactly where the ground is."

Rappelling from helicopters is only part of the rigorous Air Assault training. The course also includes climbing a 65-foot rope ladder into a helicopter, rigging, and singloading techniques, and two five-mile forced marches followed by a "graduation exercise"—10-mile forced march in full combat equipment which had to be completed in two hours and 20 minutes.

Both Murray and Palladino still have physical reminders of their experiences. Murray has a limp resulting from negotiating a barrier on the obstacle course and Palladino a rope burn on his hand incurred while rappelling from a helicopter. Both would probably agree the pain was softened by the award of the highly prized Air Assault Wing.

1981 Orientation

By Peggy Hogan

While most PC students can't wait to leave for the summer, eight students were chosen to return on June 22 to work at Freshman Orientation.

The students chosen to work with Rev. John A. McMahon, O.P., and the incoming freshmen are: Dave Bouchard, Bob Ferriera, Carry Cilroy, Sharon Grady, Kathy McGinley, Paul McVicker, Liz O'Donnell, and Jack Trenton.

After a general work week for these eight students, the first incoming students arrive on June 29. The last group of freshmen will leave July 31.

"The freshmen know nothing about the school, so it's important for the workers to be sociable and available," said Kelly Keane, an Orientation worker from last summer. Although we only work four days a week, it's a day and night job. The freshmen need a lot of reassurance. We give tours, explain parietales and fire rules, and work out their schedules."

The workers are paid for their six weeks at PC, in addition to receiving room and board.

Congress Budget Approved

By Cathy Jahn

The final meeting of Student Congress for the 1980-81 school year, held this past Monday night, was marked by the approval of a new budget for the 1981-82 school year. Liz Flynn, Student Congress treasurer, submitted the budget for approval which was unanimously passed.

Flynn presented a summary of the Providence College Student Activity Fee Account (from which the Congress budget is taken) for 1981-82. Her report stated that an estimate of $117,775 will be available through next year's activity fee account. In addition, a balance of $11,000 remains from the previous Congress budget and the total of the activity fee account will be $128,775. Out of this total, Congress will retain a budget of $46,300 for next year.

The new budget includes $15,000 allotted annually to the four classes, as well as $12,500 given to all old and new clubs on campus. In addition, $5,900 will be taken from next year's budget to establish a Contingency Fund for future years. Flynn explained that the purpose of the fund is to set money aside for the future congresses that may be working with more limited budgets.

Also, Dave Mikula, Congress president, announced that Corporation elections will be held this Thursday, April 30. He noted that the sophomore Jim McGuire is running unopposed for the junior position and congratulated him for his new membership on the Corporation.

The legislative committee reported that the Congress handbook is presently in print and will be available in September. In addition, the committee reported that the soccer team has inquired about membership as a club on campus. Discussion of the matter was tabled for a future meeting.

Jim O'Connor, COA representative, reported that a new ice machine will be purchased for Slavin Center for next year. He also noted that there is a waiting list of approximately 90 students for residence on campus next year.

In a report from the Board of Governors, president L. Jay Manning stated that Spring Week T-shirts are on sale for $3 in Lower Slavin all this week. Admission for all Spring Week events must be paid at the door and only tickets for the trip to Mystic Seaport on Sunday may be purchased in advance. Manning said that due to various problems, there will be no mechanical ball at the Dallas Night mixer this Friday but that everything else should run as planned.

Finally, Beth Kelleher, Congress secretary, announced that there will be a dunking booth at Saturday's Spring Carnival. She stated that one chance will cost 25 cents and five will cost $1. Among the illustrious group of people to be dunked are: Nancy Schiano, Kelly Keane, Sean Sullivan, Marty Grealish, Terry Keegan, Dave Mikula, John Durkin, Mitch Vogel, Jean Ludwig, Steve Sylvia, Jim O'Connor and Kenny McGunagle.

50th Anniversary To Be Celebrated

Rev. Robert G. Quinn, O.P., former chairman of the education department, will observe his 50th year in the priesthood with an anniversary Mass of Thanksgiving to be held Saturday, May 23 at 11 a.m. in St. Pius Church. A reception will follow in Raymond Hall.

A native of Columbus, Ohio, Father Quinn attended St. Louis University and was graduated from Boston College in 1924. Upon graduation from BC, he entered the Dominican order and studied at both the Dominican House of Studies, River Forest, Illinois and the Immaculate Conception House of Studies in Washington, D.C.

Ordained a Dominican priest in 1931, he received his MA degree from Catholic University and his M.Ed. from Harvard University. He also completed course work towards a Doctorate in Education at Harvard.

Father Quinn joined the PC faculty in 1936 and served as director of athletics from 1938 to 1940. He was named chairman of the education department in 1946 and served in that capacity until 1972.

During his years as a priest-educator, Father Quinn was an active member of numerous professional organizations, including the R.I. Educational Association, the National Education Society, and the National Catholic Education Association. He also served as president of the New England Teacher Reparation Association.

Rev. R. G. Quinn, O.P.

In recognition of his contributions to the advancement of education, Father Quinn was selected to appear in the 1970 edition of Outstanding Educators of America, an annual program designed to honor those educators who have distinguished themselves by exceptional service and leadership in education.

Father Quinn has received honorary doctorate degrees from both PC and Rhode Island College.

Pell Shoots Down Handguns

Senator Claiborne Pell (D-R.I.) yesterday joined Senator Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.) in co-sponsoring the Kennedy-Rodino Handgun Crime Control Act.

"The attempt on the life of President Reagan recently," Pell said, "has vividly reminded each of us that nearly anyone in this country can purchase a handgun today and snuff out the life of a government leader, a neighbor, or a member of our own family."

"I believe that it is possible to stem the flood of handguns that is engulfing our country. This legislation, which I am co-sponsoring, would increase the personal security of every one of our citizens, without diminishing the liberty of law abiding citizens.

"Last year, 24 million American homes were touched by crime, meaning that nearly one-third of all households in the country were affected. Violent crime showed its largest increase in a dozen years. Handguns, and the so-called 'Saturday Night Specials' in particular, played a major role in the crime epidemic which is now reaching every neighborhood in the country, rich and poor, urban and rural, black and white.

Night Specials' and requiring a 21-day waiting period before the sale of any handgun are essential to controlling this problem. These steps will not infringe on the legitimate ownership or use of firearms, but will prevent the boundless proliferation of handguns that is possible in this country today because of the inadequacy of our laws.

"I am pleased to join with Senator Kennedy in this effort, and I urge each of my colleagues — as they ponder the crime statistics just released by the Justice Department — to support the check on handgun violence contained in this legislation."

Survey Results

On Feb. 6, the language department sponsored a survey to determine the interest and concern of the Providence College Students regarding the importance of a foreign language.

Out of 517 replies, 416 responded favorably to the question of the importance of a foreign language in a liberal arts education.

Although most of the respondents answered that they are aware of the various languages offered at PC, only 111 are presently studying a foreign language.

Students gave numerous reasons for not taking language courses, most concerning schedule difficulties. Complaints ranged from the burden of Western Civilization to the rigid requirements of business and other majors.

There were requests for Latin to be offered in the curriculum for those planning law careers.

Corrigan At Conference

Michael Corrigan, a senior political science major, attended the Naval Academy Foreign Affairs Conference (NAFAC) held in Annapolis, Maryland the week of April 20.

For the past 20 years the United States NAFAC has been an annual forum where exemplary students in political science, economics, and international relations have gathered to discuss topics of national and international scope. The conference is an academic forum which has been praised for its high standing of scholastic excellence and political awareness. This year over 100 delegates from 100 colleges across the nation participated in NAFAC.

Corrigan was required to prepare a paper on the strategic importance of Indonesia in relation to the United States.

Upon graduation Corrigan hopes to pursue a career with the government.

'80-'81 Drinking Policy

Cheers to the BOG!

The Providence College Board of Governors provides the majority of social and cultural events that take place at PC. Because these events range from mixers to movies to trips, a competent staff and a great deal of organization are essential in accomplishing the group's goals. The Editorial Board of The Cowl feels that this past year the BOG has proven that they have both of these qualities. The organization consists of over a dozen committees, which are responsible for its variety of events.

The many members and the chairpersons of the BOG have, according to former BOG president L. Jay Manning, provided "diversified quality events."

Manning stressed that this was a major goal of his administration, since he took office approximately one year ago.

Manning noted that the BOG strived for "a more serious approach, while being concerned with reaching everyone in all areas."

Of major concern to the organization was the need to provide events which would offer alternatives to drinking. There have, of course, always been such alternatives available. However, they took on a very important role this year, with the raising of the legal drinking age last July. The BOG's utilization of the wristband policy as well as the new guest policy, were professionally and successfully executed.

Manning noted that this was mainly due to the efficiency and cooperation with which the workers approached these policies. Manning, along with the other members of the Executive Board, Liz Oleksak, Mark O'Rourke and Gerry Yapanola are to be commended for a job well done.

Thanks must also go to all the chairpersons and workers, so many of whom go unrecognized for all their efforts in making the Board of Governors the quality organization that it is.

A Student Speaks Out

Editor's Note

The Cowl has recently initiated a new column called, "In My Opinion." The column will appear each week on the Editorial page. Its purpose is to provide the student body with the opportunity to express their opinions on any state, national, or school issues. Any suggestions and/or articles may be sent to PO Box 2934. We hope to hear from you soon!!

Tom Brennan is a senior economics major from Trenton, New Jersey. He was formerly a member of the Student Congress and served as Junior member of the Corporation.

In my opinion there is an inequality within our Student Congress.

The Student Congress consists of 48 student representatives. Some or all of the student body has an opportunity to elect the members of Congress, depending on the particular office.

However, we do not elect the members merely to represent us. We also elect them to serve a specific special interest. For instance, the residents elect the Resident Board representative and the entire student body selects the Corporation representatives.

As a result, Congress is not only made up of general student representatives but also of various student interest groups. This arrangement is similar to most democratic governing bodies, including our own Federal government.

An inequality exists in our system, however. The inequality is that some interest groups hold more votes on Congress than others. Specifically, the individual classes hold many more votes than the other interest groups. Such a bias in favor of four interest groups seems unfair and inconsistent with the goals of Student Congress. This particular defect should be rectified.

All interest groups should have equal power. As long as such a defect exists, student representation remains questionable.

Notes from MBH

Last week, in our first edition of The Cowl, a space was provided for students to comment on the content and coverage of The Cowl during the past year. It was my hope that some constructive criticisms would be made, and I am happy to say that we did receive usable suggestions.

Criticisms were varied in content. There were quite a few students that complained of too much coverage of PC forums. There were some that said intramural coverage was appalling. Other comments dealt with specific stories and copy errors.

The largest group of criticisms came from a group of students very active in the movement opposing U.S. intervention in El Salvador. These students are members of the Third World Coalition, and demonstrate every Friday at the Federal Building downtown from 4:30-5:30 p.m.

This group described the Cowl as "backboneless" and "unaware of the First Amendment." I believe their cries came as a result of last year's Editorial Board's refusal to run an advertisement for the Friday afternoon demonstrations.

As editor of The Cowl I realize the seriousness of the El Salvador situation, and am personally disheartened by the PC student body's lack of interest and knowledge in this international crisis.

The government of El Salvador has killed and tortured more than 10,000 of its own citizens, as well as religious figures and journalists, including U.S. citizens. The U.S. has been pumping in military aid, and the Reagan administration is considering sending additional troops.

I urge students to write their Congresspeople and Senators to put an end to this situation, and also to get in touch with the R.I. Third World Solidarity Committee at 461-6182.

Thank you all for your suggestions, they are well needed and appreciated.

P.S. Last week's Inquiring Photographer's question was: "What did you do for vacation?"

El Salvador

Question of Freedom...

Dear Editor:

I would just like to widen the narrow ideas given at the informative lecture day by Providence College.

El Salvador presents the world with just one more example of communist aggression. For poor, defenseless nations communism has become a matter of acceptance or obliteration. The United States needs to stop the advances of the ruthless sword to protect its own interest, the trust and support of its allies and the hope of freedom and security for poor nations.

Sister Eileen commented that the people should be free to choose their own government but we must remember we are dealing with a poor, uneducated people who will clutch to any hand that offers food and grand ideas. These peasants live for today and don't understand the events of tomorrow. They don't understand the price they will pay will be their sacred freedom.

Another area I would like to comment about is the issue of human rights. We talk of flagrant violations of human rights in other nations but we forget that they occur there and not in the United States. To place the standards and morals of this great nation on another is grossly wrong. Each nation is different, their morals and standards will not always coincide with those of the United States.

In El Salvador the spirit of freedom lies not in the bloody sword of the left; the spirit lies in the Junta supported by the United States. The government is redistributing the land to the poor and developing, as well as, protecting a free economy advantageous to all people of El Salvador. We must be patient and remember America did not become the great nation it is today without a lot of suffering and hard work. Let all of us support the efforts of all free people of the world and of those in El Salvador.

I would like to close by quoting Brian Crozier: "For more than 25 years the countries of the Western World have been preparing themselves against the dread possibility of a nuclear war with the communists. This war which the strategists have called the Third World War has never come. Meanwhile, the real World War has been fought under our noses, and few people have noticed what was going on."

Peter A. Buonocore

Intramural Sprts

Dear Editor:

It is very disturbing to myself and numerous other students that perhaps the greatest area of student extra-curricular participation receives absolutely no coverage in the students' newspaper.

I am speaking of intramural athletics. Why doesn't The Cowl devote even the smallest section to weekly scores and standings? These statistics are readily available in the Athletic Board Office.

While I admit it is refreshing to read articles about wine-tasting parties and Colonel DeToro's life story, I feel some space should be set aside for something most of us share in common.

Intramurals not only provide a constructive pastime and a way to run off those weekend beers, but they give students a chance to experience the feeling of friendly competition. Since most of us were involved in high school athletics, it is only natural that intramurals receive such a great response.

So, come on. A little effort mixed with a little cooperation should yield both satisfaction and increased interest in The Cowl along with positive results for our fine intramural program.

Name withheld upon request.

the election, but I'd like to indicate to the students that I take very seriously my position as the student representative and I look forward to working with the senior representative and the Corporation members in the upcoming year."

Although students elect the two candidates, the Corporation has the final decision on who the new members will be based on social and educational criteria. The student election gives the student body the opportunity to present to the corporation the candidates believe are most suitable for the position.

Bookstore Hits the Road

Dear Editor:

It has come to my attention that a move is on the horizon for the Bookstore from Harkins Hall to Slavin Center. This move seems to be a step in the right direction since it will be much more convenient for the student body and the well-being of the Bookstore. The question concerning me is, when will such a move take place? It has not been decided as to when, but I would like to say that if such a move were completed over the summer months, then it could prevent headaches at a later date, and allow for the organization needed for such a move to be used to its capacity.

If the move of the Bookstore were to take place over the summer months, it could also have an effect on the Theatre Arts department here at PC. The Theatre Arts department is going to be involved in a Shakespeare Festival with Brown University and Rhode Island College in the fall. The removal of the Bookstore from Harkins Hall Auditorium in the summer months would allow the Auditorium to be transferred into a performance center in time for this important event in the Theatre Arts history here at PC.

Since Brown and RIC are also presenting their portions of the festival here, the convenience of such a performing center would be very much a step in the right direction. It should also be noted that $15,000 in grants have been appropriated to the three colleges for the Festival in order that it may further enrich the cultural activities in the Providence area.

By taking over the Bookstore area the Theatre Arts Department could have the shop, storage, and dressing room space needed to prepare for the Festival and also for the rest of the season.

Action taken now by the Campus Facilities Committee to move the bookstore to Slavin would have immediate results in the ease of buying books for the ensuing year, and enhance the cultural needs of the school. Detaining such a move is something which can only hinder the progress of the college community, by continuing the difficulty of the selling of books from the Harkins Auditorium area before the Theatre Arts Department may begin production for the coming season.

I can only ask that others speak out on this important development so that PC may soon become more organized both academically and culturally.

Thank you,
Judy Weaver '82

Veritas 1980??

Dear Editor:

Where the h--- are the 1980 yearbooks? Do they exist? When the postcard arrived stating that the Class of 1980 yearbook was delayed, we were disappointed. We were assured that they would be accessible to us by April, 1981. Is this an April Fool's joke? We are aware that patience is a virtue but this is ridiculous!

It is unfortunate that we have been anticipating the advent of our yearbooks and the chance to reminisce upon treasured memories, only to be disappointed by that same institution who provided us with these memories. We believe that we should be given the right to know where we stand. If as rumor has led us to believe, the issuing date of this yearbook may be September, 1981, why haven't we been informed? The communication which we were given as students seems to have disappeared (not unlike our yearbooks) now that we have become alumni!

We are aware that the Alumni Office is not responsible for this situation. Unfortunately, the present Alumni Drive may be suffering indirectly due to it. Sincerely we hope that Providence College can rectify the lack of communication that has been ongoing.

Sincerely yours,
The Self-Appointed Advocacy Committee for the 1980 Yearbook

Washing machines were challenged last Sunday night with the task of removing smells. Sweaters saturated with the scent of bar-b-cued dogs and burgers, and the nauseating aroma of beer, trash and sweat-infested down t-shirts dominated laundry rooms both on and off campus.

Film developing sales must have tripled for the day. If you were not taking a snapshot, you were posing for one. The sun's rays were interrupted only by occasional clouds and flying frisbees. Lacrosse balls, hackey-sack, soccer, tree climbing and sporadic beer fights fulfilled the athletic requirements for the day.

Yes, this campus of healthy appetites wolfed down 300 pounds of hamburger patties, 750 hot dogs, 21 cases of soda and 490 kegs of beer at the quad party. A true taste of what's in store for the rest of Springweek, and a memorable "beginning of the end" for our departing seniors! You shall be missed!

Wild Wicked Wonderful

Dear Editor:

I'd like to commend you on the success of the Cowl banquet Saturday night. It was a great atmosphere. The table settings were pretty, the taped music was fantastic, the meal was excellent, and the band was very enjoyable.

Thank you for the invitation and a great time.

The Seigles— What A Team!!

By Steve Sylvia

Combining a marriage and careers is becoming commonplace in today's world. Here at PC we have a couple that proves that the two can go together and be a success. Saul and Natalie Seigle, both members of the business department, represent one of the College's few husbands and wife teaching teams. Around the campus they are well known for their efforts in helping the student body.

Last year Mrs. Seigle, a member of the faculty since 1970, became the first woman to receive the Begley Faculty Award for distinguished and faithful service to the College. Currently, she has authored a textbook on business communications that is due for

In addition, last semester, he was named the Pre-Law Advisor for the College.

Even with their busy schedules they still find time for such activities as golf, bridge, going to theatre, and travel. For the past 23 summers they have traveled extensively, attending the University of Cambridge in 1976 and vacationing in China in 1979.

In their years at PC they have seen many changes in the College. During that time, the dress code was abolished, women were admitted for the first time, various buildings were constructed on campus and, most recently, the business department moved to Lower Campus. They have also seen the student body shift its interests from Vietnam to jobs and financial security. When asked to describe business students, Mr. Seigle stated that publication in January of 1982. Along with this, she has written numerous publications in professional journals.

At the urging of his wife, Mr. Seigle joined the faculty in 1975 to replace a professor who had become ill. Since that time, he has developed the largest "non-paying" law practice in the state through his legal advise to the many students who approach him with problems concerning their landlords, leases, contracts, etc.

they "have a great intellectual curiosity about the world they are entering." Mrs. Seigle added that they are "well rounded" and are "concerned with social needs as manifested by their involvement with Big Brothers and Sisters and the Knights of Columbus."

They described their careers at PC as "the most rewarding experience (outside their family) in their lives." Most students would agree that they have been an asset to the College as well.

PC Turns Outrageous

By Mark "Bird" O'Rourke

On Saturday, May 2, the Board of Governors will be sponsoring its annual outdoor carnival. An added dimension this year will be an exciting competition among dorms and student organizations over an "outrageous obstacle course." This is an event in which participants run through a course of nine obstacles such as the wobble tube, the scooter slalom and the lengthy ladder.

The first competition of the day will serve as the final event of the Battle of the Dorms which was sponsored by the Class of 1983 yesterday. The top three male dorm finishers and the top two female dorm finishers from the dorm battle will compete on Saturday to determine the overall winner. Each dorm will be allowed to enter 10 competitors. Of the 10, the top five scores will count. These points will be added to the total from yesterday's competition.

The second competition of the afternoon will consist of four organizations challenging each other to determine the most outrageous organization on the PC campus. The CowI, Friars Club, Big Brothers and Sisters, and Student Congress, will be pitted against one another in a fierce battle for supremacy. Each organization will consist of five male and five female members. The top two male and female scores will count in the final total. The winner will be determined by the lowest accumulated time of the organizations.

Prizes will be awarded in each competition. All finishers will receive a Certificate of Outrageousness upon completion of the course. The dorm competition will begin at 12 noon and the organization competition will start at about 2 p.m. Come out and support your favorite team at this wild and crazy Springweek carnival.

'Royal Gambit' On The Way

Wally Dunn (center) stars as King Henry VIII in the Providence College Theatre production of Royal Gambit, being staged the evenings of April 29 through May 3 in Harkins Auditorium. Appearing with Dunn as his wives are Eileen Barron, Julie Marrinucci, and Elizabeth Wieland.

Royal Gambit has been called "original, stimulating, and mature," by The New York Times. It is a refreshing new look at Henry and his six wives.

Curtain time for the production is 8 p.m. Tickets are $3.50 for general admission and $2.50 for students and senior citizens. Reservations and ticket information are available by calling 865-2327.

What is CEC? A Very Special Council

What is CEC is a question which was heard quite frequently this year during the sale of the famous candy bars. The members of the PC chapter would like to clear this question up. The Council for Exceptional Children is a nationwide organization designed to help the children who need extra help (i.e. the handicapped, gifted, etc.) This year under the direction of Donna Threlfall (president), Barbara Borgiorni (vice president, first semester), Gale Cuomo (secretary), and Deborah Whitaker (treasurer), the PC chapter has more than doubled its membership and sponsored many new activities.

CEC started the year with a Halloween party for the pre-school class from Pleasant View School. Grace Sullivan, the chairman, planned this successful "fun" game party. Also around this time a story hour was started by Marjorie Green. This activity continued almost every Saturday, November thru March. During our meeting we also discuss problems of the handicapped. Joe Testa, the head of RESCARE, which is a type of babysitting service for the developmentally delayed, came to speak at a meeting. Several members have since found private employment through the RESCARE services. At another meeting letters were sent to President Reagan, senators and representatives to protest the proposed cutbacks in education. The PC's Council does not work only with children. Mary Gallini and other members prepared and served a complete Thanksgiving dinner to over 50 senior citizens from Nickerson House. This evening was complete with a grab gift for each senior citizen and a bingo game with prizes.

Two groups of children from Bradley Hospital benefited from free tickets to two nights out at the basketball games. These tickets donated by the Athletic Department were acquired by Janice Frey.

Second semester brought more activities and new members. Due to the generosity of BOG, Susan Fair became in charge of putting on the Muppet Movie. The Behavioral Development Center received an exclusive showing in the morning. Then in the afternoon, PC was invaded by over 250 area elementary school children for the second showing.

A dance held in '64 Hall at the end of March was a big success (even if the fire alarm was accidentally pulled) due to the work of Silvio and the turnout of many CEC members. The event was held complete with refreshments for residents of Ladd and Trudeau Center.

The most recent event staged by Gale Cuomo, alias the Easter Bunny, was an Easter Egg Hunt for Pleasant View School.

CEC also plans to contribute money to the R.I. School for the Deaf so a deaf boy will be able to go to basketball camp. A picnic at Roger Williams Park for area special education students will be the last event. The success of this event depends on the money raised at the spring week carnival. CEC will be selling whipped cream pies to throw. Raffles for stuffed rag dolls and will be staging a fall horse race. SO PLEASE HELP US SO WE CAN HELP THE CHILDREN.

CEC Sponsors Easter Egg Hunt

On Thursday afternoon, April 9, the Providence College Chapter of the Council for Exceptional Children held an Easter Egg Hunt the PC baseball field. 30 exceptional pre-school students from the Pleasant View School in Providence took part in a search for over 200 hidden eggs. Gale Cuomo, secretary of the Providence Chapter, was the main organizer of the event. She even dressed up as the Easter bunny, hopping around with treats for all her little friends. Donna Threlfall, president of the PC chapter and Steve Liacoro, a very active member, were also vital to the organizing and running of the event. The children really enjoyed the day.

Book Review

Stephen King's 'Danse Macabre'

Despite your efforts to the contrary, it seems inevitable that you will read this book. The name of Stephen King seems to have an extraordinary ability to attract the attention of mass America. Horror is a staple of this culture and King is horror fiction's greatest proponent. Running 400 pages King brings us, in his colloquial way, through some 30 years of the creeps. He begins by telling us of his own introduction to the genre of horror—a gem of a film called "Earth vs. Flying Saucers."

Following that a delineation is made between horror and sci-fi. A history lecture on films and books ensues as fits his definition of horror. It is well researched and clearly written by a fan. He gives us an overview of radio and television in the horror field which is somewhat biased against the industry. This is understandable considering what TV did to his Salem's Lot. The best chapter is, as in his novels, saved for last. "Horror Fiction" could stand separate from the book.

Keen insight into the human mind is shown early in Danse Macabre. King gives us the meaning of the title. "The work of horror really is a danse—a moving rhythmic search." Charges of intellectual negligence could be leveled merely 15 lines later when he equates Albert Camus with Billy Joel. A personal complaint of this reviewer is King's disregard for the English language. Is it possible he teaches writing at the University of Maine?

Though the criticism of redundancy will spring into the mind of anyone who has been following King's career (e.g. E.C. Comics), it must be noted that Danse Macabre is not wholly his idea. William Thompson, King's editor at Doubleday, suggested the concept when he and King moved to Everest House.

Danse Macabre is not a great book, but it is very readable, and it does have his name on the dust jacket in letters larger than the title. Therefore, it will catch your eye and make you read it—as it made you read this review.

Interview With Chris Clark

By Barry Hutchinson

"I was a frustrated jock. I never excelled at any one sport. So after the Navy I decided to go into sportscasting."

Chris Clark, sports announcer for WJAR, spoke to a journalism class at Providence College on April 2.

Dressed in a brown sport coat with green slacks, Clark stands at six feet, one inch and weighs 203 pounds.

Clark dangled his feet as he sat on a table. He often used his feet to emphasize his points. His brown hair is turning grey and he has blue eyes.

New York City is where Christian Beach Clark was born in 1925. He grew up there and attended DeWitt Clinton High School.

He began his training at the School of Radio Technique in New York City.

"We were looking out on Times Square and the instructor asked me to describe what I saw. I went in order from left to right. He said 'I'd be good at play-by-play.'"

WRM in Newport was Clark's first broadcasting job in 1950.

"I was a disc jockey and learned how to do everything, which included sweeping the floor. Right now I could do the news or weather."

In 1953 he went to WDSM in New Bedford where he was program director.

"I was moving more and more into sports. New Bedford had red hot competition in basketball."

WPRO radio hired Clark in 1955. He remained with the radio

Jack Coffey

Student of the Month

The Editorial Board of The Cow has chosen Jack Coffey of the Class of 1981 as student of the month. Jack is a finance major from Great Barrington, Mass. Jack came to PC last year as a transfer student from Berkshire Community College in Pittsfield, Mass.

Upon Jack's arrival at PC, he immediately became involved with work on Veritas, the annual student publication, commonly called the yearbook. Jack has been diligently working on this project ever since and presently holds the position of Editor-in-Chief.

Jack's job has entailed planning the general format of the yearbook, giving assignments to the few staff members available, and overseeing the entire Veritas operation. He has been taking pictures of campus sports activities as well as working on layout. He has even been heavily involved with getting bids from various publishers for next year's Veritas staff. He has also been in charge of the budget over the last two years, trying to figure on publication increases and overall costs before coming up with and staying within the limits of a workable budget.

As of now, Jack hopes to meet his October shipping deadline. Jack worked two straight days over Springbreak in order to get all his color photos in by April 15th. Jack still has the task of finishing the remainder of the book, about 75-80 pages. His problem is lack of people. If anyone is willing to help Jack out with either copy, photography or layout please contact him in the Veritas office, Room 108 Slavin Center.

The Editorial Board of The Cow comments Jack Coffey for all the time and effort he has put in to make the Veritas book a future reality.

Thank you, Jack. You've been doing a great job!

and television station until 1970. Clark was responsible for the first radio broadcast of an away PC basketball game.

"It was against Villanova in January of 1959 in Philadelphia. We had no sponsors. It was just myself and an engineer picked from the phone book."

"The game went into four overtimes and PC won. When we returned, the people were lined up on the streets surrounding the College."

"The next morning there was a line of sponsors at WPRO."

"Sure. They don't always get the name straight, though. You hear things like, 'Hey, it's Dick Clark.'" does the sports broadcast during the six and 11 o'clock news show. Clark notices physical characteristics when he covers a sports event.

"You can't go by numbers. The players aren't going to position their bodies so you can read their t-shirts."

"I'll notice if one guy's blond and stocky. Another may be very tall—you don't forget someone like Kareem Abdul-Jabbar."

Asked if he's recognized in restaurants, Clark replied, "Sure. They don't always get the name straight, though. You hear things like, 'Hey, it's Dick Clark.'"

The Best Little What???

The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas, the smash Broadway musical, will open at the Ocean State Performing Arts Center in Providence on Tuesday, April 30, for a three performance engagement. Tickets are $17.50, $15, and $12.50, and available through the OSPAC Box Office at (401) 421-9075.

Francie Mendenhall heads the large cast as Miss Mona Stanley, the madam who runs the Chicken Ranch, a brothel which becomes the target of a vigilante television newsmag.

Produced by Steve Phillips in association with Universal Pictures, the musical is based on a real incident involving the closing of a famed Texas brothel. It was co-authored by Larry L. King and Peter Masterson. Mr. Masterson re-created his direction of the show with Tommy Tune who was also responsible for the choreography. Carol Hall is the composer-lyricist who was awarded two 1977-78 Drama Desk Awards for her contributions to the show.

Peter Masterson became interested in Larry L. King's magazine article about the closing of the Chicken Ranch in LaGrange, Texas, in 1973, and prevailed upon the awarded journalist to work with composer-lyricist Hall to set the remarkable tale to music. Featured in the cast are Steven Edwards as the television newsmag who investigated the closing; Christopher Wynkoop as the sympathetic sheriff; and Susan Beaubien as Jewel, the Chicken Ranch maid.

The rousing score was nominated for a Grammy award for "Best Cast Show Album" and many of her songs have been performed by Barbra Streisand, Barbara Cook, Mabel Mercer, Neil Diamond, and Nell Carter.

The setting for the high-spirited musical is being designed by Lawrence Miller. Ann Roth and Beverly Emmons have recreated their original Broadway costume and lighting design, respectively. Whorehouse travels with its own country and western band.

Clive Barnes (N.Y. Post) declared that Whorehouse is "a fun new musical, full of gusto and wealth of comic detail, and music with a buster." Douglas Watt of the N.Y. Daily News agreed, noting, "A whale of a good time! A smartly tailored book, lively and engaging songs, delightfully staged." Time magazine hailed it as "the best new musical of the season."

The performance schedule is Tuesday through Thursday, April 28-30, at 8 p.m.

Quad Party — A Usual Success

By Judy McNamara

Sunday was a perfect day for one of the best annual Quad parties PC has ever had. Sunny skies, WDOM, and the Budweiser Corporation all helped contribute to a relaxing afternoon of frisbee throwing, sunning and partying.

Sunday afternoon brought out the best in everyone. Most students who intended to spend the day at the library, were coaxed away by the smell of burgers and the sound of music. Everyone came together in a relaxing atmosphere and the thought of preparing for finals was very distant and obscure.

The Resident Board, under the leadership of President Kevin Blake, did a fine job at organizing and running the party. Numerous students helped out by selling beer tickets, cooking food, and cleaning the mess up when it was all over. Most people left the party satisfied. Springweek had just begun. There was not a worry in a world. But now Springweek is half over. This Sunday will be the end, then comes the unavoidable. So enjoy this weekend because once it's over we must all face that fatal grand finale, FINALS!

A wild afternoon at the quad...

Good preparation for finals!

Print Exhibit Held At Brown

An exhibit of Frank Stella's prints — the first comprehensive show of his work at a printmaker — will be on display at the Bell Gallery of Brown University's List Art Center April 25-May 20. Stella first became involved in printmaking after almost 10 years as a painter. His wide range of graphic techniques has mirrored the evolution of his painting styles — his prints trace his development as a painter from the geometric, pin-striped black series of the late '50s to the more curvilinear, decoratively-colored paintings of the late '70s. The prints on display at the Bell Gallery, which were chosen with Stella's approval, trace the major concerns of his artistic career as a whole.

Many of the prints in the exhibit representing Stella's early print series are the gift of Lawrence Rubin. Others are on loan from Tyler Graphics and Petersburg Press.

The exhibit, which is sponsored by Brown's Department of Art, is free and open to the public. Gallery hours are Monday-Friday, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Saturday and Sunday, 1 to 4 p.m. For information, call 863-2421.

ONLY THE ARMY GIVES YOU TWO WAYS TO LOWER THE COST OF EDUCATION IN JUST TWO YEARS.

LOAN FORGIVENESS

If you have a Guaranteed Student Loan or a National Direct Student Loan (made after October 1, 1975) hanging over your head, consider spending a couple of years in the Army.

If you train for certain specialties, the government will release you from 1/3 of your indebtedness (or $1,500, whichever is greater) for each year of active duty.

Obviously, a three-year enlistment would eliminate 100% of your indebtedness. But you may prefer to take a shorter route and sign up under the Army's two-year enlistment option (and put 2/3 of your debt behind you).

Or you might want to join the Army Reserve. If you qualify, as a Reservist you can stay home, get paid for your active duty, and receive 15% loan forgiveness (or $500, whichever is greater) for each year you serve.

But we're not just offering you loan forgiveness. With your education, you can probably qualify for a higher rank and pay grade. You'll have your choice of many sophisticated Army skills.

And you may be eligible for generous monetary educational incentives.

TWO-FOR-ONE SAVINGS PLAN

If your dream is to continue your education some day, joining the Veterans' Educational Assistance Program can bring that day closer.

In fact, in just two years you can accumulate up to $9,200 for grad school. (Only the Army can offer you a two-year enlistment.)

It's not a loan, so you'll never have to worry about making payments. It's simply a savings program between you and the government.

THE ARMY'S COLLEGE BENEFITS

	Per Mo.	2 Yrs.
You Save:	$100	$2,400*
Gov't Adds 2-for-1:	$200	$4,800
Total:	$300	$7,200
Army Adds:		$2,000
Total Benefits:		$9,200

*Maximum individual contribution during a 2-year enlistment.

Certain 4-year enlistments can get you as much as $14,100 for college, plus a $5,000 cash enlistment bonus for a total of $19,100.

If you save between $25 and $100 of your monthly Army pay, the government will match that amount two-for-one. On top of that, you might qualify for an exclusive Army educational incentive of $2,000. (Longer enlistments can result in higher incentives.)

And you can participate in VEAP at the same time you're receiving loan forgiveness.

So, in just two years, you can go back to school with 2/3 of your debt behind you and up to $9,200 for your education ahead of you. (Of course, a longer enlistment could result in more educational benefits and 100% loan forgiveness.)

To find out more about both ways to serve your country as you serve yourself, call 800-421-4422. In California, 800-252-0011. Alaska and Hawaii, 800-423-2244. Ask for the name of the Army's college representative nearest you.

Second Year Laxmen Eye .500

The Providence college men's lacrosse team, currently sporting a 4-5 record, has just come off a 6-4 win over the University of Hartford. The Friars are hoping to claim victories over Brandeis and Bryant this week and finish at 5-0 in only their second year of varsity competition.

The Laxmen stayed in Providence over the spring break and competed against Fairfield, WPI, Western New England and Brown. Unfortunately the weather did not cooperate with the Friars and they were forced to play all their home games on a very muddy and torn up Glax Field. This also cost the players in that they were not able to soak up the rays and pretend they had been to Florida over vacation.

Coach Kevin O'Donnell looks forward to a big finish for the young squad as the all-around play of the team has picked up considerably. Over the past two weeks the scoring bulk has been shared by Dennis McNery, Doug Haddon and Tim Farrell. Also the introduction of an all rookie mid-field line starring Bill Mullins, Mark Logan and Tom Hendricks has created the depth that Coach O'Donnell needs. The defense sparked by John McCaffery recently shut out the attack squads of University of New Haven and the University of Hartford.

On Saturday, the Friars took a 3-0 lead over the University of Hartford only to find themselves knotted up at 4-4 in the fourth period. Late goals by Haddon and Mark Granzier lifted the Friars to victory.

In the Fairfield game the Laxmen showed confidence and poise as they out-fought the elements and the Stags by a 7-3 score. The Friars controlled the tempo of the game and the mandown unit sparked by Don Annicelli kept the pressure on Fairfield.

Due to the terrible weather the Friars have had these past two weeks, the crowds at Glax Field have been sparse but this is a very hearty group that comes to appreciate the fine sport of lacrosse.

Track Team Excels

By Chris Lydon

Travelling to meets from Boston to Philadelphia, the outdoor track team is currently in the middle of one of their most successful seasons in the recent past. During the past three weeks, one school record has fallen, and another has been equalled. The team is now preparing for the upcoming championship meets.

On April 11, the runners travelled to Amherst, Mass. for the UMass Relays, and came away with two victories. Geoff Smith won the 1,500 meter run in a school record time of 3:42.6, and Ray Treacy won the 5,000 meter race in a time of 14:06. Paul Moloney took fifth in the 5,000, with a personal best of 14:22; and Steve Clark ran a personal best in his heart of the 1,500 with a time of 4:01.

The following weekend, the team travelled to the Boston College Relays, and the distance medley relay team of John McLaughlin, Ken Gianquitti, Brendan Quinn, and Smith tied the school record set last February 9:55.4. Also, Brian Dillon ran a personal best in the 3,000 meter steeplechase by timing 9:20 and capturing third place.

Last Thursday night, at the Penn Relays in Philadelphia, Treacy took third in the 10,000 meter run with a career best of Brandeis on Thursday at 3:30 p.m. The efforts of this young team have gone somewhat unnoticed around campus and many of the players are hoping for a large final game crowd to help encourage them into their goal of a 500 season.

29:15. Quinn ran a season's best 10:17.7 in the 5,000 meter race for an eight place finish in a strong field.

Then on Sunday, Smith and Dillon travelled to Central Park, for the Trevisia Twosome 10-mile mixed team road race. Dillon and freshman Julie McCrorie combined to win the Junior title with Dillon clocking a 50:20, and McCrorie a 50:10. McCrorie's time was good enough for a third place in the women's juniors race. Smith, teamed with Margaret Groos of Virginia, to grab second in the Senior event. The pair lost the event to a couple that included Patty Catalano—the women's second place finisher of the Boston Marathon. Having gone through 15 kilometers (9.3 miles) under world record pace and in the lead, Smith yielded to countryman Nick Rose, to end up fourth.

This weekend, the team travels to Villanova for the Big East Outdoor Championships, and then looks forward to the New England, ICAA, and National Championships.

Supervising the social committee will be Rita Walsh, '84; and Brian McDonald, '84. Experienced workers from many social events, they plan to work with the concert's committee on next year's upcoming activities.

Fine arts will be headed by Carol Mahoney, '82; Sue Trainer, '82; and Jane Mackin, '84. The PC student response to events sponsored by this committee was not enthusiastic this past year, although many people from other schools did attend. This committee has provided dances and mime productions, and intends to work with John Garrity of Theater Arts in future events.

Ann Marie Palumbo, '82, and Lisa Ferruci, '82, from the Dillon Club, will be on the Board of Governors for the second consecutive year.

The travel committee will be run by Kathy Walsh, '82, and Jana Kaminski, '82. Among new ideas that they have are trips to baseball games next fall and spring.

Two committees that were dropped for next year were ticket management and research and development.

Maria Demers, '83, has been appointed the new BOG secretary. Gerry Yapaola, new treasurer, remarked that the Executive Board of the BOG is pleased with the results of the interviews. "We had a lot of freshmen turning out for the interviews, along with upperclassmen," he noted. "The quality was as great as the quantity of kids who came. The board this year will be very well rounded." Yapaola was also pleased by the fact that the various committees will be interacting with each other next year.

The BOG has also received its budgeted money for next year. Their 1981-82 budget will involve $82,475. The board receives its money from the Student Congress, who is subsidized from won't cost the taxpayer a dime. How can that be? The defense budget should not be so greatly increased. Tax cuts will only lead to increased spending. I am fearful of the problems that all of these situations are bound to create."

When asked about cuts to educational funding, Powell responded, "It's really a shame. We in the Carter administration had just gotten to the point where anyone who wanted either an academic or a technical education, and could do the work intellectually, should be provided with one regardless of their financial situation. This will no longer be the case if the proposed cuts go through. The failure to educate our citizens is a failure that we can never make up for. If there is anything that is worth spending money on, it's education."

When addressing questions on the role of the press in the White House, Powell refuted the allegation that he tried to make the office of the press secretary into a cabinet position.

"I feel that the press secretary already has too high a profile. If that person were a cabinet member or she would be speaking as a member of the cabinet. If they are the President's personal secretary, then they are speaking for the President and not any other arm of the Executive Branch." "In reality," he went on to say, "the press secretary cannot affect policy more than marginally."

Powell stated that the primary responsibility of the press secretary is to get the policy ideas of the administration to the public.

When asked if he thought that the Carter administration had been successful in doing this, Powell quipped, "If I had been as successful as I'd like to have been, I'd be in the White House now!"

Powell was concerned with added security around the President in light of the recent tempt on President Reagan's life.

But he added, "We can not move into a situation where the President is inaccessible to the American people."

With regards to the conflicting reports which came out from the various news agencies on "that terrible Monday," Powell remarked, "The people who cover the White House are under a great deal of pressure from their own news gathering institutions. This tends to make them too quick to jump at a story. They simply must make sure that they are right if they want to be first."

Powell looked tanned and rested. Wearing a light suit which complimented his sandy blond hair, he appeared relaxed as he spoke. This, according to one student, was quite different from the impression he had gotten of him in his White House years. She had always pictured him wearing drab "banker's colors" and speaking stern-faced to a dozen or so microphones on a podium.

Powell came to work on a camp in 1970 when he joined Carter's campaign for the gubernatorial seat in Georgia. He stayed with them through January of 1971.

Now that his schedule has become less complicated, Powell is enjoying spending time at home in Washington with his wife and their 14-year-old daughter.

Powell is currently working on a book dealing with the relationship between the press and the White House. Powell also occasionally does some Op-Ed writing for the Washington Post.

Powell emphasized the need for today's young people to get involved. He said, "You can not be discouraged. Instead, remain true to yourself, yet never forget that there are things more important than self."

In getting involved, Powell suggested a worthwhile cause which he himself is involved in. A scholarship fund has been set up by the PC in honor of one who was killed or critically wounded in the aborted rescue attempt in Iran. Donations are now being accepted through the Schim Schorship Fund, PO Box eight, Dallas, Texas 75221.

El Salvador Coalition

The Rhode Island Third World Solidarity Committee is a coalition of Rhode Islanders who include church social justice groups, political parties, campus groups, community action groups, family folk, senior citizens, young people, priests and nuns.

All are people who continue to be morally outraged by the actions of the United States government in many third world countries and specifically now by continued U.S. aid to El Salvador.

Over 20 social change groups are included in the committee and TWSC works closely with the Brown University chapter of the Committee in Solidarity with the People of El Salvador (CISPES.) The TWSC refutes the U.S. government position that the Duarte government in El Salvador is a moderate one. The government both works with, and passively supports those who have been murdering thousands of workers, peasants, and church people of all political persuasions. The land reform program is set up by the same North American who set up a similar program in Vietnam, instituted not to give land to the poor but to control the peasants and to eradicate the opposition.

The student activity fee. As the programming board at PC, the BOG receives a bulk of the money that is allocated to different organizations by Congress.

The Third World Solidarity Committee also takes the position that the Reagan administration is claiming that the major sources of arms for the FMLN are Cuba and the Soviet Union in order to justify direct military intervention. Regardless of the sources of their supplies, the people of El Salvador will continue their struggle for social justice until they have won.

The group believes that solidarity with the people of the Third World must be translated into action. Since its founding in January, TWSC has engaged in an Inauguration Night Vigil in downtown Providence; a weekly presence at the Federal Building (Friday from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m.); visits and letters to the R.I. Congressional Delegation; press releases; and letter writing to a wide range of all levels of El Salvador, condemns the Junta, and the expenditure of U.S. tax dollars keeping the Junta in power.

Seventy-five people picked Senator Chafee's fund raiser last month at the Biltmore asking the Senator to take a stand in favor of the people's movement which he has not done as of yet.

Five ECAC Champs Honored

Five Providence College hockey players who helped lead the Friars to the ECAC Division I championship and into the quarter-finals of the NCAA Division I tournament, were honored by the New England Hockey Writers' Association.

Freshman center Gates Orlando took home the George C. Carens Award as the New England Rookie of the Year. He led PC in scoring with 24 goals, 32 assists and 56 points, tying a six-year old Friar record held by Bartley Wilson for the most points in a season by a freshman player.

Senior John Sullivan, who played on the same line with Orlando and finished seventh on the team in scoring (15-12-27), received the Joe Tomasello Unsung Hero Award. A four-year veteran who has virtually gone unnoticed, Sullivan finished his career with 42 goals, 53 assists and 95 points.

Senior Captain Steve O'Neill, the third member of the Friars' high scoring line (with Orlando and Sullivan), and defenseman Scot Kleinendorst and Randy Velischek were honored as members of the writers' All-New England team.

It was the second straight year O'Neill and Kleinendorst were honored.

O'Neill will depart as Providence's third all-time leading scorer with 164 points. He also is fourth all-time in goals scored at PC with 74 and fifth in assists with 90 in his career.

Kleinendorst, a junior, and Velischek, a sophomore, may have been the best pair of defensemen in the East. Kleinendorst finished third on the PC team in scoring this winter (3-31-34) and Velischek, one of only three players to have played in all 33 Friar games, had 3 goals and 12 assists for 15 points.
