1074 Degrees Conferrerd at 63rd Commencement

Providence College conferred 1,074 degrees during its 63rd commencement exercises held on Monday, May 18. Of the 787 undergraduates, 67 percent were women; marking the tenth anniversary of PC becoming a co-educational institution.

Mike Wallace, CBS News Correspondent and co-editor of the network's top-rated newsmagazine show "60 Minutes" delivered the keynote address. The veteran broadcaster was awarded an honorary Doctor of Journalism degree.

In his speech, Wallace assured the graduates that even though "unemployment may hover above 7 percent, the serious and persistent will probably be able to find a job."

"Comparing PC to "60 Minutes,"" Wallace told the graduates, "You illuminate, and so do we. At least we try. And you stimulate, you provoke thought. And we try like the dickens to do that, too."

Commencement means a beginning, continued Wallace.

McGreevy Named V.P. Student Services

Providence, R.I. — Rev. John G. McGreevy, O.P., administrative assistant to the president, at Providence College, has been named vice president for student services. It was announced today by the Very Reverend Thomas R. Peterson, O.P., president.

As vice president for student services, the New York City native will be responsible for overseeing the resident offices, the student services office and the athletic department. Fr. McGreevy succeeds Rev. Francis C. Duffy, O.P., who resigned from that office earlier this year for reasons of health.

Father McGreevy was educated in the Dominican Houses at Winona, Mn., River Forest, Il., and Dubuque, Is., and was ordained a Dominican priest in 1964. He continued his studies at Catholic University and Loyola of Chicago, and in 1968 he received his Masters degree in Education from Fordham University.

Beginning in 1968, Father McGreevy served in numerous administrative positions at Fenwick High School, Oak Park, Il., including assistant principal (1967-1979). Following a one-year sabatical (August, 1979-September, 1980), Father McGreevy joined the Providence College staff as assistant to the president and special lecturer in Education.

He has served as president of the Illinois Association of Catholic Secondary School Principals and as a board member of the Illinois State Committee of the North Central Association of Colleges & Schools.

Trotto Appointed Personnel Director

Providence, R.I. — Michael J. Trotto, a resident of Falmouth, Massachusetts, has been named Director of Personnel at Providence College. In this capacity, Trotto is responsible for administration of the college personnel program, which includes recruiting and selection, employee benefits, office and technical personnel and administering the wage classification plan for the clerical, secretarial staff.

According to Dr. John J. Peterson, O.P., president, it was announced today that Father McGreevy has been appointed vice president for student services, the Providence College Corporation.

Prior to coming to Providence College, Trotto served as Director of Personnel for the Boston Housing Authority where he was responsible for directing the personnel and labor relations functions of the Authority, as well as administering all activities related to recruitment, promotion, transfer and separation of employees. A 1956 graduate of Uptala College, East Orange, New Jersey, he is a member of the American Society for Personnel Administration.

Micro-Computers Installed

As of June 30, the HP 2000F BASIC timesharing computer system will be retired.

In its place will be Apple microcomputers outfitted with black-white and color monitors and some printers. These micros will all have the capability for BASIC and some will have the capability to handle PASCAL.

The introduction on microcomputers for academic computing needs is a new adventure for the Providence College community.

According to Dr. John J. Mandelare, director of the academic computing center, the transition to a new microcomputer system will take some time but the changeover to a more accessible micro seems to be the wave of the future.

Sessions to assist new users will be held during summer session and in the fall. A copy of some of the differences is posted in LbR 118 and a copy can be obtained from the secretary in LbR 119.

PC Site of Historic Dominican Conclave

Providence College made a contribution to history as the site of the first general assembly of the entire membership of the Dominican Province of St. Joseph. June 2 through 5 marked the first conclave in its 176 year history. The program was designed to give the men a chance to meet each other and to explore the future of their order, the Rev. J. McPhail said he did not expect that the conference would result in major changes in the order. He said PC was chosen for the conference because of its central location in the St. Joseph Province of the Order of Preachers. The province, which extends south to Virginia and west to Kentucky, is one of four American regions maintained by the order. The Dominican Fathers have been in the Diocese of Providence since 1911 when Bishop Matthew Harkins invited them to establish St. Raymond’s Parish on North Main Street. Providing over the assembly was the Very Rev. Edward Daley, O.P., Provincial of the Province of St. Joseph. Fr. Daley, who was a member of St. Raymond’s parish before entering the priesthood, said he called the assembly, the first in 16 years, to help the members come again to the sense of “belonging to one another as members of one family.”

During the conference, the Fathers and Brothers of the Province discussed the current status of the work of the Order in the Church and the specific apostolates of the Province of St. Joseph. The Master of the Order, the Most Rev. Vincent de Cousemonigle, O.P., came to Providence from Rome to participate in the meeting and be principal concelebrant for one of the community Masses held at St. Pius Church. The assembly concluded with the ordinations to the priesthood of the Dominican students from the Dominican House of Studies in Washington, D.C., by Bishop Louis E. Gelineau at the Cathedral of SS. Peter and Paul in Providence.

Freshmen Off-Campus Again

By Jim O'Connor

Again this year there are many incoming freshman and transfer students who will be looking for off-campus apartments due to a lack of space in the dorms. The College is attempting to assist this group by setting up the off campus housing office. This office will maintain records of available apartments and will attempt to help the students deal with the often frustrating process of locating apartments and dealing with landlords.

Karen Silveira: AED Award Winner

By Maureen Diggins

(AED Reporter)

The 1981 winner of the Rhode Island Alpha Chapter of the AED's Freshman Biology Major of the Year Award is Karen M. Silveira. This prestigious award was presented to her at a dinner at Conrad's Banquet Hall, following the induction of new members. Karen has demonstrated outstanding academic achievement, even while taking up to three difficult science courses a semester. She also works at several part-time jobs, as a Biology lab assistant and as a hospital aide at St. Anne's Hospital, Fall River. Karen is also involved in activities around Providence College. She is the newly elected secretary of AED. Also she is employed on campus, during the summer, by the Biology Department.

Fieldhouse Nearly Complete: Cowl's Faith in Construction Work Restored

The Editorial Board of the Cowl would like to congratulate the designers, the architects, the planners, the administrators, and the construction company and its employees for the excellent progress made on the fieldhouse.

The construction of the fieldhouse is nearly complete. For those who are away for the summer months the return to campus in September will be shocking. The new fieldhouse will almost be ready for their use.

The fieldhouse was designed by architects Robinson, Green and Beretta and construction was done by the Bailey Construction Company.

The new facility is joined with Alumni Hall and has one main entrance. There are five interchangeable courts for tennis, basketball, volleyball and other sports. The track is 220 yards and four lanes wide; the pool is 25 meters long and has six lanes. The entire floor will be surfaced with a rubberized material by the Mondo Rubber Company, who also did the supplying to the 1968 and 1980 Olympic complexes.

The Editorial Board of the Cowl strongly commends all those who participated in the actualization of the fieldhouse. The Cowl believes that this facility will be a true asset to Providence College, and as the entire community and the entire community awaits its opening.

I'm not just another "Athletic Supporter!"

On numerous occasions The Cowl has published articles urging student support for athletics. Last year's Editorial Board asked for your support in attending women's athletic events and for your support of the Friar's basketball team.

This year will probably be no different. Every school year there is usually a team that is not enjoying a good winning season, and thus their attendance drops. Although this effect should be expected, it is a bit ironic. Shouldn't student support be increased when a team is in a rut? No one can conclusively prove that the home town advantage is an unequivocal theory. But damnit, PC teams do fare better, and win more, when students are there urging them on.

What team will it be this season? Football? "Ladies Lacrosse? Hockey? Ladies Tennis? Or will it be basketball? My initial hunch was that it might be basketball. Now I doubt it.

You see, I began thinking of everything that could go wrong with the basketball coaching staff. Could Joe Mullaney's coaching style be adapted to by old players that have become used to Walters? Could he really make us the team that he once did? What's the story with this new assistant coach? What are his strategies?

Then I began to ponder the player situation. Who was Mullaney recruiting? Why? Could they find a decent, consistent center? Who was going to be scoring the points? Aren't we too young a team? Will Otis prove that the hometown advantage is an unequivocal theory. But damnit, PC teams do fare better, and win more, when students are there urging them on.

That's when I sat down to write this article.

Faith in Construction Work Restored

Dear Reader,

Ordinarily, most student organizations have covered all typewriters and locked all doors in the beginning of May in order to prepare for final exams, Commencement Week, and trek home to Hartford, Westchester County, R尼亚ms and Asbury Park.

But alas, the Cowl staff is different. Perhaps we are the most dedicated student organization or, perhaps we are simply the cruelest. In any case, one weekend in June this summer, the 1981-82 Cowl staff reunited to produce the summer edition. We thought that one more issue would give us a chance to cover the key news events of May and June. We also thought that our summer edition could offer freshmen some perspective of PC not presented during the orientation sessions. The entire Features section of this edition is prepared for freshmen. The rest is for everyone.

To the Class of 1981, I would like to offer congratulations and best wishes in all future endeavors. Please consider keeping in touch with the college by subscribing to The Cowl.

To the Class of 1980, I would like to say, welcome to Providence College.

And, finally, '85, learn more about the college and become involved by joining The Cowl staff. You see. The Cowl has a place for everyone. If it is not on the alumni subscription list, then it is on the freshman general assignment staff.

Have a pleasant summer.

Column by Richard Meisler to Become Regular Cowl Feature in Fall

By Dr. Richard Meisler

The Karamojong are 12 wand

nong people of northern Uganda, numbering about 500,000 people.

As a result of drought and political upheaval they have starved, Malnutrition, cholera and disease are common among them.

Most other Ugandans think of the Karamojong as backwards, and they don't care about them. But the Karamojong are, for us, forgotten people, but we never really know how to forget them.

I go to a political science class and my professor, a true scholar, tells you how to punch your ballot card. Later, the computer will blurt out boring data into computer cards. Sometimes the professor tells you how to punch the ballot card so that you will know enough about them to their community. But the computer will blurt out boring data into computer cards.

In your English class your teacher will tell you how to punch the ballot card so that you will know enough about them to their community. But the computer will blurt out boring data into computer cards.

In your philosophy class the professor will tell you how to punch the ballot card so that you will know enough about them to their community. But the computer will blurt out boring data into computer cards.

In your life the professor will tell you how to punch the ballot card so that you will know enough about them to their community. But the computer will blurt out boring data into computer cards.

In your literature class you learn about the complex symbolism of a novel you couldn't get to read.

Our educational system does not remind us of the people we've forgotten or known. It ignores suffering. It pretends that the whole world is affluent, that and only the academic accomplishments are important. It is amusing, I suppose.

Some educators and philosophers believed that education might broaden a person's perspective. One way to do that is to deal with the size and the full range of problems it confronts. We are more naturally loyal and enthusiastic with students. We have more natural affluence. We can't broaden our concerns to other segments of humanity if we don't have some knowledge of existence. They may do so harshly.

Perhaps we should urge a new optimism of a novel you couldn't get to read.

To talk health, happiness and prosperity to every person you meet. To make all your friends feel that there is something true. To look at the sunny side of everything and make your optimism come true. To think only of the best, to work only for the best and expect only the best. To be just as enthusiastic about the success of others as you are about your own. To forget the mistakes of the past and press on to the greater achievements of the future.

To wear a cheerful countenance at all times and give every living creature you meet a smile. To give so much time to the improvement of yourself that you have no time to criticize others. To be too large for worry, too noble for anger, too strong for fear and too happy to permit the presence of trouble.

Counseling Center Notes

Located in Slavin Center

Here at PC we have an excellent Counseling & Career Planning office. If you're having difficulties in choosing a major, a profession or other services in self-improvement, college transition, and landing an ear to those in need.

Unlike high school guidance counselors, PC counselors at P. C. All services are voluntary and you may go anywhere you need to talk. It is important to remember that there are services for everyone's life when it really matters.

Some other students may do research for professions.

Summer work study jobs are usually not very demanding and students get paid accordingly. $3.10 to $3.50 per hour. Most of the summer work study money comes from the government, and a small percent of it is paid out by the college. Most places are not very busy during the summer months.

A few weeks ago, some students were found goofing off on the job. As a result, all of the summer work study students seem to have come under suspicion.

Counseling and Career Planning offices are open to the entire student body. The center is located in Slavin 215. Feel free to drop by just to get acquainted.

The Dillon Club is Providence College’s answer to the needs of the commuter students. Its main objective is to provide a special service to the commuter students. The Dillon Club also organizes low-cost travel packages for the students during the year. Easter vacation trips to such exciting places as Florida and Bermuda are always well-received.

Dillon Club Seeks Commuter Involvement

The student leadership members are part of Student Congress. Elected members work to voice student opinion to the administration as well as to raise money for class events like Ring Weekend and Commencement. Running for Congress is a great way to meet people and get involved. Politically, PC starts with a friendly smile and posters. If you want to get involved, why not be President?

One of the main purposes of the Student Congress is to stand up for the students. The Student Congress consists of four classes. Its office is in Slavin Center (Room 12). The Dillon Club wants you to be a part of this team.

Knight's of Columbus Serve PC

The Providence College Friar Council Knights of Columbus has been cited as the fastest-growing student organization on the campus of this Dominican-run institution. More than 200 undergraduates, faculty members, and administrators are now members of Friar Council No. 5787, which was revived in the spring of 1976 through the efforts of the Rev. John A. McMahon, O.P., (now Chaplain of the Council), James Rafferty, and Henry Krause.

This Catholic group has been honored with numerous membership and achievement awards for their activities and has received as many as six of these awards in a single year. These include the State Council Award for increased membership and major involvement in charitable programs, the Century Club Award for a membership increase of more than 100 persons in a one year span, and other membership related activities. On campus the Friar Council is actively participating with the Chaplin's Office in assisting at Mass as altar servers, and has recently promoted a program designed to increase knowledge of the Faith by sponsoring a Catholic Awareness Night. The Knights are also responsible for many of the blood drives that are held on campus. The upcoming year hopes to see the initiation of a regular program of hospital and nursing home visitation.

The council has planned a full schedule of events for this academic year. A new addition to the regular bi-weekly meetings will be the inclusion of guest lecturers to speak on such interesting topics as drug abuse, alcohol awareness, and local problems that Friar Council can become involved with. Local talent will also be a welcome addition to enhance the social aspect of the council.

By combining social, religious and community activities the council offers something for everyone. The ladies' auxiliary is associated with the Knights and offers women an opportunity to get involved in these worthwhile activities.

Friar Council invites men 18 years or older who are participating Catholics to join this Catholic fraternity. Selection is based on the results of interviews in which the candidates are judged on enthusiasm, personality, and Catholic awareness. All interested may receive more information by contacting Jim Hornstein, the newly appointed membership director, or by attending a meeting for all interested candidates to be held this September. Hope to see you there!

BOG Events: A Tradition of Success

Springweel begins

Quad Party Instigates Hangovers

Spring Week

Ready, Set, Fall!

Sway Away the Day

The Providence College Board of Governors is the seat of social, cultural and recreational activity on campus. Its purpose is not only to provide social events but also to complement the academic growth of the student. The BOG is run by four officers and a group of committee chairpeople. The committees consist of films, social, fine arts, concerts, last resort, programmer, coffee house, lecture, travel, video, publicity and ticket office. The Board of Governors not only provides a great service for the student body, but it also allows many students to exercise their talents on the various committees.

Recently the BOG sponsored its annual Springweek. This week is packed with action and fun-filled events that ends the year with a bang before spring finals. The photos give one a taste of what life at PC is all about.
Fun Facts for Frosh

1. Don't plan on going home every weekend because you will miss an important part of PC. The social life on the weekends is great.

2. There are three sets of doors that lead to Raymond Cafe. The center doors are ALWAYS locked, so don't even try to get in through them.

3. The Friar is on the campus but it is located on the lower level of Slavin Center and it is open seven nights a week. A word to the wise: don’t go every day.

4. Bring a long slacker, high boots and an umbrella and you will be all set for Providence weather.

5. Volunteering your services is a great way to get involved and to meet people. The Cowl, the BOG, Pastoral Council, Venitas, Big Brothers and Sisters and the different majors clubs (marketing, art, economics, etc.) are some of the organizations that need your help. Another thing, if you join now you may find yourself an editor, chairperson or president by the time you are a junior or senior!

6. Everyone has a mailbox. Check it out.

7. If you want one of those thick, cold drinks made with ice cream, don’t order the ones served at an ice-cream parlor, ask for a “chocolate pearl” (pronounced “frag”). Rhode Islanders don’t make milkshakes like the rest of the country.

8. The Lani Resort should not last on your list of places to go.

9. Freshman year is not easy. Get used to spending at least three or four hours each night studying somewhere. (Please believe us, we’re not joking.)

10. Don’t expect your roommate to be your best friend. You may get along very well, but if you don’t there are approximately 3,000 other people in this school with whom you can associate. You’re bound to like some of them.

11. Civic tampons are great in an emergency, but you can’t always get the tape you want when you need it. You will find that going to Civ class is more comfortable and less of a hassle. It also takes less time.

12. Intramural sports are a good way to get involved and work off tensions (or extra pounds).

13. If you don’t like beer, don’t let ignorant people ignore you into swallowing it. After all, you wouldn’t make them drink Kool-Aid if they didn’t want to, right?

14. Skipping meals at Raymond Cafe doesn’t pay off. Ordering out for pizza every night can get expensive, especially when you have to buy all new clothes, twice larger.

15. If you want to look like a freshman, the first questions you ask new acquaintances should be:

   A. “Do you go here?”
   B. “What’s your major?”
   C. “What year are you?”
   D. “Where are you from?”

   If you give it a little thought, you can come up with better, more imaginative “ice breakers” than these.

16. Meagher Hall is pronounced “mar,” or if you are local, “mack.”

17. If you are hungry and you don’t want pizza, Park Ehler’s is a new restaurant that will deliver almost anything, from a hot order and toast to a grinder. Check it out.

18. If you’ve got a “bone to pick,” chances are that you’re eating a Raymond Cafe hamburger.

19. Mural Lounge, downstairs in Raymond Hall, has grinders, ice cream and all sorts of sundae toppings after 7:00 p.m. The Silver Truck parks on Hanley Avenue, in front of Dore Hall at night, and also has grinders and a late night.

20. For a male to enter a women’s dorm, give him the name of the woman he would like to see, and if he can think of it, the phone number. The attendant at the desk then calls and asks the woman if the young man’s presence is desired. If so, he is free to proceed.

21. For a female to enter a male dorm, the place you hand on the doorknob, pull the door, then ambulate up the stairs to her room.

22. Free ice-skating for students is available at Schneider Hall and various other locations. Ask new acquaintances how to get there and don’t tell your friends where you are sitting. And if you really want to be left alone, hang your coat on the back of your chair.

23. If you keep a jar filled with change, you won’t have to scrounge from friends or floor mates and friends. They may get along very well, but if you don’t there are approximately 3,500 other people in this school with whom you can associate. You’re bound to like some of them.

24. The station is licensed to serve 7. If you want one of those thick, cold drinks made with ice cream, don’t order the ones served at an ice-cream parlor, ask for a “chocolate pearl” (pronounced “frag”). Rhode Islanders don’t make milkshakes like the rest of the country.

25. Volunteering your services is one of the important functions of the Friars Club and its members is to give prospective members and their parents a tour of the campus and promote the positive aspects of obtaining a post-secondary education at PC. Other functions of the Friars Club include uniting assistant coaches and students to register for classes, organizing the Oktoberfest, Parent’s Weekend, and Alumni Weekend. Friars Club members also work closely with the Chaplain’s Office and the Admission’s Office to make sure PC is a non-profit organization budgeted by the College that is dedicated to the professional functions each year for the benefit of young people’s organizations.

26. There are 53 members in the club, with 51 percent being sophomores, 16 percent juniors, and 15 percent sophomores.

27. Be careful when you sneak food or beverages into the library. Big Brother may not be watching, but security might be.

28. If you have a yeast infection, be sure to swallow it. After all, you would have to take Kaopectate if they didn’t want to, right?

29. The Friars Club acts as a college community.

30. Gloria Vanderbilt and Calvin Klein are PC students, but alligators are swamping the campus.

31. Don’t forget to study. It can do wonders for your grades.

32. Free burgers are supplied to basketball games and to some away games.

33. The Chaplain’s Office is always ready to lend a helping hand or a sympathetic ear.

34. Grotto beach doesn’t have a lifeguard or sand, but you can catch the last few rays of summer if you want to know what’s happening, read The Cowl. We don’t miss a thing.

WDOM: On the Radio

A challenging and rewarding activity on the PC campus is WDOM, the student-operated radio station. Unlike many other campus activities, WDOM reaches well beyond the campus.

The station is licensed to serve the Providence community, and provides quality programming in many different areas. WDOM has assembled one of the most diverse schedules in the Providence area. Among the special broadcasts aired this past year were sport broadcasts, music programs, and speeches.

The opportunities are endless,” says last year’s Program Manager Frank Fox. “We offer daily programs of classical music, entertainment, news, and public affairs shows. There are openings in each of these areas, and new people are always needed.

The General Manager of WDOM, Mike McCormack has announced that the first general meeting of the year will be in September. Anyone interested in learning more about WDOM is urged to attend. The studio and offices are located in Joseph Hall, and any interested newsmen are welcome to stop in.

Peter Walsh, 81*, flips the discs.

The Friars Club was originally formed for the purpose of welcoming visiting athletic teams. It was based on a similar organization at Dartmouth College called the Coreen Key Club. Other functions of the Friars Club include uniting assistant coaches and students to register for classes, organizing the Oktoberfest, Parent’s Weekend, and Alumni Weekend.

One of the important functions of the Friars Club is to give prospective members and their parents a tour of the campus and promote the positive aspects of obtaining a post-secondary education at PC. Other functions of the Friars Club include uniting assistant coaches and students to register for classes, organizing the Oktoberfest, Parent’s Weekend, and Alumni Weekend.

We would like to welcome all incoming freshmen to the Providence College Sports Scene. Besides studying or socializing, sports is an exciting way to get involved with your peers. Sports and Providence College are like hot dogs and mustard, without one the other would be no good. We depend on your involvement to continue the successful tradition of Sports and Providence College.

If you are large or small, slim or hefty, adept or slightly clumsy, Providence College has a team sport you can join or tryout for. Believe us, Sports at PC are not limited to Olympic contenders! Your average or even below average skater is welcome to join Ice Hockey intramural teams providing that he or she can tolerate a few bruises. In short, there is a sport for everyone at PC, and this will become more evident with the opening of the new fieldhouse.

Again, welcome to Providence College, and we urge you to become athletically active. After all, who wants to return home in December with the dreaded freshmen ten?

Enjoy the remainder of your summer,

The Cowl Sports Staff

P.S. Don’t forget to buy season tickets in the fall! We need your support!

A Look Ahead...

Rudy Williams, only Friar drafted this season.

Weaknesses: Friars are faced with three problems. Their need for a center and their need for scoring points. They must rely on inexperienced newcomers for the answers. And their biggest problem is simply competing in the rugged BIG EAST.

• Junior college transfer. Eligible immediately.
• Eligible for three years starting with 1982-83 season.

Strengths: Have improved frontcourt depth plus freshman class led by 6-9 Otis Thorpe should be substantially improved. Newcomers must be ready to contribute immediately with Wright playing at center and Jackson a 26.4 junior college scorer providing points.

Recruits: Ron Jackson. Sr. 6-5 215, Roxbury C.C./Boston, MA.
Keith Lomax: Fr. 6-4 190, St. Anthony/Washington, D.C.
Stanley Wright: Fr. 6-9 225, Cheverus/Portland, ME.
Transfers: Ray Knight: So. 6-9 200, Georgetown/Washington, D.C.

Basketball THE BIG EAST Update

A Look Ahead...
Bill Donlon, the head basketball coach at Methuen (Mass.) High School the past three years, has been named assistant basketball coach at Providence College, completing new coach Joe Mullaney's staff. Donlon joins Steve Hocker as an aide under Mullaney. Hocker has been PC's past two years, under former coach Gary Walters, and was retained by Mullaney as his Top Assistant.

"We're pleased Bill Donlon has decided to join our program," said Mullaney. "He comes to us with a lot of experience, a lot of knowledge of the game and tremendous enthusiasm. He also has a lot of experience working at summer camps and knows many high school coaches throughout the East which should benefit our recruiting efforts."

Donlon, a native of Swansea, L.I., N.Y., graduated from Mount St. Charles Academy in nearby Woonsocket, where he captained the basketball team as a senior in 1982, was the second leading scorer in the state and was All-Stater. He was also a football co-captain for the Friar Football Co-op.

He graduated from Virginia Commonwealth University in 1987 and was a two-year basketball basketball starter there.

Prior to taking over the basketball program at Methuen High in 1988, Donlon coached at St. John Villa Academy in Staten Island, N.Y. and Marra Regina High in Uniondale, N.Y. where his teams posted a 44-16 record over three years.

Donlon's teams at Methuen the last three years went 49-16, 38-8 and 38-8 in just past two seasons and qualifying for the state tournament each year, the first and only two seasons in the long history of the school if it reached the Massachussetts state tournament in basketball.

The Athletic Board is administered by five officers, with the president and vice-president are elected. Students seeking one of the other three seats of secretary, treasurer, and coordinator must fill out an application to the Athletic Board Office. They are then appointed to these posts.

Frosh: Intramurals Can Be Fun!

Intramurals and recreation at Providence College offer students individual and team competition as well as recreational opportunities to occupy leisure time. The program is self-perpetuating, run by an athletic board of seven students. Freshmen interested in becoming active board members can sign up at the intramural office when school begins.

Activities offered this past year included football, basketball, volleyball, hockey, softball, handball, platform tennis, swimming, physical fitness, CPR, Judo and self-defense, rodeo, weight-lifting, Supercross, Computer competition, gymnastics, and dance programs.
