No Class Monday—Columbus Day

By Karen MacGillivray
Sullivan to Lead Class of 1984

Sullivan, a biology major from Warren, R.I., won 1,025 votes to 693 by a margin of 392. He will now serve as class president of 1984 and also be a member of the Board of Governors. The freshmen class held their first election last Thursday, October 2, in Slavin Center. The voter response was the best in years as the Class of '84 chose its representatives to the Providence College Student Congress. The new class officers are Sean Sullivan, president; Pat Conley, vice president; Patty Wright, secretary; and Mike Evans, treasurer.

Big Weekend
Core Committee: 'Hard Work Pays Off'

By Dorret Popolitios
October 7th. The officers and representatives of the Class of '82 conduct interviews to comprise a core committee for Junior Ring Weekend. Five people are carefully selected and the preparation begins.

October 8th. As the preparations wind to a close, Junior Ring Weekend is right around the corner. Excitement and emotion is high, and the core committee, chaired by Meg Leary, is in its final stages of work.

Working with Leary is Lisa Bonnard, chairperson of the ring committee, Steve Dooley, chairperson of the bids and favors, Carol Rucoco, chairperson of the formal, and Michael Sine, chairperson of the bands committee.

Once chosen in October of last year, the committee's immediate objectives were the selection of a ring company, and a site for the formal.

"These five people, who hardly knew one another, had to work together as a team from the beginning. It was a confusing time," Leary explained. "When we were picked, I really don't think any of us knew what it was all about." She added that the Class of '81 core committee was a "tremendous amount of help," and they learned along the way.

Leary oversees all the decisions of the core committee, and at first her position seemed "scary and shocking." Looking back at last year, Leary and the committee had to face a lot of responsibility. "You're making the decisions for a thousand people."

According to Leary, everything has been running smoothly so far. Unlike previous years, the book store is not involved with the ring orders, and the committee is dealing directly with the company.

Also, those who are not planning to attend the weekend events can still participate in the ring distribution and reception on Thursday night.

The anxiety and pressure is almost over for the core committee. Leary commented that it has been fun and she has met a lot of people, but she will be "glad to have the pressure off."

Asked if she would do it over again, Rucoco answering, "yes," quickly adding, "it was a lot of work but I loved every minute of it." Both Rucoco and Leary related their initial jitters of last October when all of this was beginning. As Rucoco remembers, "We really didn't know where to begin, but all of a sudden everything started to fall into place."

Leary remembers the task of working with people unfamiliar with one another, facing the same responsibility. "We didn't even know we would get along but it turns out that we are all good friends now."

Asked if she would do it over again, Dooley replied, "I certainly would. We all got along with each other."

History Club: First Social

By Tim O'Hara

On October 2, the History Club held its annual wine and cheese social at the home of Rev. Thomas Peterson, O.P., president of the College. While jointly sponsored by the History Club and Rev. Cornelius P. Forster, O.P., chairman of the history department, the purpose of the social was to allow an informal gathering of history department faculty and students who have an interest in fields relating to history.

The social provided the officers of the History Club the opportunity to make known, their plans for the upcoming year. For a history student planning to take a trip to Fort Adams in Narragansett, plans are currently being planned for Saturday, October 18.

All those interested in working with should contact Kathleen Maddox, '82, for further details.

Gwiazdowski Speaks to Business Club

By Jill M. Lehman

On Wednesday night October 1, in Aquinas Lecture Hall, Gwiazdowski spoke to the Business Club on non-profit organizations. Gwiazdowski is a 1978 graduate of Providence College and is currently Regional Executive for the Boy Scouts of America.

Gwiazdowski spoke about his job and the advantages of working for a non-profit organization. His work as District Executive for the Narragansett Council of the Boy Scouts is not restricted to one area of administrative work. He spends one part of every year doing sales and another part in development, trying to raise money for various programs.

He also spends part of every year hiring staff members and setting up programs for camps which he manages throughout the summer months. He states that the benefits lie in the wide variety of jobs he does and in seeing the effects of his work.

Non-profit organizations' salaries start at about $11,100 and the work week averages about 40 hours with no compensation for over-time. However, he explains that the sacrifice is worth it since it increases a person's worth and market. Former employees of non-profit firms get better job offers when they change jobs, because of their experience.

Gwiazdowski said that he enjoys his job because the responsibility is preparing him for a better job later. The rewards come from the challenge of raising money and meeting people. The people one meets by working with local communities and the state government are good connections to have when looking for a job later.

Although Gwiazdowski was not a business major in college, he feels that a business background is still important if one is interested in working for a non-profit organization. He spends part of the year going to colleges recruiting for the Boy Scouts of America and said they will be holding interviews at Providence College in the spring.

Gwiazdowski endorsed the Providence College counseling center as the "finest counseling center of any college in the area." He said Providence College students are better prepared for the interview process due to the seminars offered here. He encouraged everyone to take advantage of these interviews on resume writing and the interview process. He gave pointers on how one should act in an interview and what questions to ask.

Gwiazdowski recommends, "be yourself!" while being respectful of the interviewer. He said he has chosen many resumes that stand out showing the innovativeness of the student. When Gwiazdowski recruits for the Boys Scouts of America he interviews for nationwide positions and looks for creative, friendly, and outgoing people. He seems to want to be very successful at these types of jobs and are in demand. "This just seems to be an interesting and informative speaker."

PC Faculty Senate Holds First Meeting

By Marianne Malloy

On Wednesday, October 1, in Aquinas Lounge, the Providence College Faculty Senate held its first meeting for the 1980-81 academic year. The meeting was called to order by Dr. John Colby of the psychology department, and was followed by an invocation by Sister Leslie Strub, O.P.

The meeting's agenda called for the election of officers and representatives as well as the confirmation of various committee appointments.

Recently elected officers are Dr. Colby, president; Dr. Mary Anne Sedney, also of the psychology department, vice-president; and Dr. Stephen Mecca of the physics department, secretary.

Representatives to serve on various committees throughout the college system were approved and accepted. The election of Dr. Brian Barbour and Dr. George Raymond to the Committee on Academic Rank and Tenure completed the representation of faculty on ten committees. Among these committees are the Committee on Administration, Committee on Planning, Committee on Studies, Alumni Board, Committee on Campus Facilities, Academic Appeals Committee, Athletic Board, Student Bill of Rights Committee, and the School of Continuing Education Committee.

Committee appointments within the Faculty Senate were reviewed and eventually accepted by the Senate.

The meeting's agenda also included confirmation of various college representatives as well as the resolution of a few provide international travel for the 1981-82 competition for Overseas Study.

Overseas Study

The 1981-82 competition for grants for graduate study abroad offered under the Fulbright Program and by foreign governments, corporations, and private donors will close on October 31, 1980. Only a few more weeks remain in which qualified graduate students may apply for one of the approximately 511 awards which are available to 52 countries. Most of the grants provided round-trip transportation, tuition and maintenance for one academic year, a few provide international travel only or a stipend intended as a partial grant-in-aid. Applicants must be U.S. citizens at the time of application, and must generally hold a bachelor's degree or its equivalent before the beginning date of the grant and, in most cases, should be proficient in the language of the host country. Except for certain specific awards candidates may not hold the Ph.D. at the time of application. Candidates for 1981-82 are ineligible for a grant to a country if they have been doing graduate work or conducting research in that country for six months or more during the academic year 1980-81.

The BOG, comprised of Maryland O'Keefe, '82, Mark Caffrey, '82, Mark O'Rourke, '81, and Liz Ochakaa, '81, will be attending this convention for all college programming boards. For the weekend of November 9, representatives from various colleges will attend information seminars and view prospective talent. The last resort improvements are underway supervised by Kathy Pinto, Jan. Adams, Blaine O. P., has been helpful in the resort renovations.

The last resort improvements have been distributed to the classes. Nancy Tottle has been working on the programming and the second semester calendar is almost complete.

Is the Freshmen Class Too Big?

This year, as in past years, the size of the freshmen class is above the projected figure used to plan the College's operating budget. While it is always a problem trying to limit the size of the class, we feel that the Editorial Board of the Cowl does not require a new explanation in the size of the Class of 1984. The projected figure was 850, while the current figure is approximately 860. Therefore, we feel some explanation is needed to clarify this problem.

The “more freshmen the more money” theory. The 1981-82 budget as approved by the Corporation was $21,317,196. This provides an estimated surplus of only $118,174, quite small for the size of the College. Normally, we would like to have a surplus of 5 percent ($1,175,891) but this would be unfeasible at this time. This budget is based on overall enrollment not individual class size. Attirion in the upperclass sections has been greater than expected, so the larger freshmen class has helped to balance the total, rather than to greatly increase it. The College is now projecting an estimated surplus of approximately $285,000; still much lower than anticipated. This surplus will go towards reimbursement of the College General Fund to be set aside for future needs.

Capitol improvements. During the last fiscal year the College spent over $100,000 in capital improvements, which were not included in the operating budget but came from prior year surplus funds. This work included projects such as increasing the capacity of the campus water supply system, which was essential as it related to the need to increase campus water pressure and additional fire hydrants. In addition, a sprinkler system was installed in McVinney Hall to provide additional fire protection because of the height of the building. Also, a significant start was made on the campus energy conservation program.

The Editorial Board of the Cowl realizes the problems of balancing a budget but feels that having a larger freshmen class is not the answer. The size of the Class of 1984 is unfair to the entire student body since it causes overcrowding in both the classrooms and the dormitories. Evidence of this is found in the fact that another "Civ" section has had to be added for freshmen.

The Editorial Board of the Cowl feels the administration is to blame for this situation. Unless they take action to limit class size, the problem will reappear each year. We hope that in the future this overcrowding will be eliminated.

We Apologize

The Editorial Board of the Cowl wishes to apologize to Tim Duggan for publishing "I Need A Date." The letter was a hoax and not written by Mr. Duggan. We hope he will forgive us for any inconvenience that its printing may have caused.

PC’s Rat: Will It Be Exterminated?

At any college, including Providence College, the social scene is an important part of a student’s living. Socializing can ease the tensions of academic life as well as establish friendly relations among the student body. For years, PC’s Rat has been an important part of this social life. The Rat provides a pleasant atmosphere and reasonable prices. Why then, has the student body failed to actively support the largest of all the Rat’s, namely, freshmen? It was wiped out. The Rat has been forced not only to alter its physical environment but feel that they would like to get away from it all. This is understandable as most of the juniors and seniors frequent the off-campus bars, who wouldn’t want to join in?

The Rat’s facilities. Student Association officials feel that the Rat does not compete effectively with local bars in this aspect. For example, some complained of a lack of bottled beer, no pool tables, no pinball machines, this situation has now changed. The Rat has installed many pinball machines and pool tables. The Rat also has a variety of TV, pinball, and draught beer, and a wide selection of mixed drinks.

The Editorial Board of the Cowl feels that the declining number of students frequenting the Rat is unfortunate, as the Rat is OUR bar and without our support it will not continue to operate. The possible closing of the Rat would also signify the end of mixers, dances, and other union events that usually serve lower. Here is the reason why.

The Rat was only place at PC that has a RI state liquor license. If the Rat did close, and lose its license, PC could conceivably lose its privilege of running union events. This would indeed be an upset to the PC social life.

The Editorial Board of the Cowl would therefore like to propose a few remedies to the Rat situation. These remedies require consideration by both the Rat’s management and the student body. In order to gain a bit more competitiveness the Editorial Board of the Cowl offers the following suggestions to the Rat’s management:

1. Students at PC are great lovers of light beer which the Rat does not offer. Perhaps they should. Students also like bottled beer—again, the Rat does not serve it. Wide screen TV and live entertainment would also aid the management of the Rat might use to increase business.

Students also have an important role in assuring the future success of the Rat. It exists solely to serve PC students. If you don’t use it, no one will.

The Editorial Board of the Cowl urges both PC students and the Rat’s management to work together to make our Rat stable once again. Its future is up to you!

Seniors:

Do You Wanna Be In Pictures?

Dear Editor:

I’d like to use this space to ask for help from every member of the senior class. Believe it or not, 1981 is only 12 weeks away, and commencement only four months after that. Everyone knows about the slide show that the seniors put together every year. This year we want the entire class of ’81 to be represented in the show. However, we cannot do this without the help of the entire class. We need pictures and slides of everyone’s adventures over the past four years: Moving in, moving out, snow storms, beaches, Ring Weekends; Octoberfest, Dorm Life; apartment life; Ft. Lauderdale; Newport; Parent’s Weekends; any member of our class doing anything; slides or prints. We will return everything unharmed. Just think of how funny it would be to see you and your friends up in lights.

If you are going home this weekend or have pictures hanging around your apartment, take a few minutes to write your name and box number on each piece, put them in an envelope and send them to SENIORS BOX 066. Thank you already for making this OUR slide show.

Casseley’s Corner:

Let’s Include the Freshmen!

By Barbara A. Cassley

"Is St. Pius Church located in Guzman or Aquinas?" That was a question overheard recently at freshmen Parent’s weekend. Obviously it was articulated by a member of the Class of 1984. It’s too bad that not being familiar with the campus is not the only problem that the freshmen are having this year. A major problem that the members of the Class of 1984 have to deal with is how to spend their weekend evenings. On weekend evenings when there is not a mixer planned, it seems that the social activities for the freshmen stops at the library and Mural Lounge. Freshmen find that they cannot attend social events in the Last Resort, drop into the Rat, or stop by any of the local PC hangouts. Next year this problem is going to get larger because both the freshmen and seniors will be limited in their social activities. This is a problem that should be dealt with now.

The BOG runs successful coffeehouses in the Last Resort on Tuesday evenings. The coffeehouses are a great example of a place where non-alcoholic events can exist and prosper on the PC campus. One obvious way to solve the freshmen’s problem is to plan coffeehouses on weekend evenings. Not only would this be beneficial to the freshmen but would provide an opportunity for all PC students to attend a different type of activity. It is the responsibility of the people who run social activities on campus to provide entertainment for students in every class.

Counseling Center Notes

Choosing a major can be difficult for a college freshman. Learning to assess interests and abilities and then relating these to the world means a real time commitment and sometimes some extra help along the way.

During the month of October the Counseling Center is offering some extra help to students undecided about a major. On Wednesday, October 8 at 3:30 p.m. and Thursday, October 9 at 10:30 a.m. the Counseling Center in the Dean’s Office invite all undecided students to a short meeting.

The purpose of this meeting is to: Describe the special Tuesday and Wednesday afternoon sessions which will be held during the month of October. Faculty members representing different academic majors will share with you the requirements of each major. A counselor will provide career planning information.

Sign up for Project Career Search. This program will put you in touch with a member of the alumni working in a field you are interested in learning more about.

Sign up for Career Exploration groups. Workshops which help to explore interests, abilities, and special trends of the job market.

ALL SESSIONS WILL BE HELD ON TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY AFTERNOONS AT 3:30. PLAN TO ATTEND.

Bob Mel Captivates Resort Crowd

By Bill Sullivan

Although saying that he did not want to be known "just as a one-man band", Bob Mel certainly could have fooled the crowd at the Last Resort Saturday night. The variety and quality of the music that kept people on their feet did credit to this musician who transformed the Resort into a living stage that featured a "sing-a-long" with such great voices as Joe Coggins and Eileen O'Malley. In many ways he also did credit to the groups that he imitated: the Beatles. Elvis. Bob Dylan. Neil Young. Perhaps Neil should take a vacation after Bob's renditions of "Searching for a Heart of Gold". Billy Joel, and the Rolling Stones.

Any intimidations that could be sensed at the beginning of the night were quickly brushed aside as Joe Coggins and roommate Collin Gilliss broke the ice with a romantic rendition of the Tango. Bob's first attempt to test the quality of PC voices caused a stampede away from the stage, but by the end of the night the microphone was practically unseen as it was buried amidst a sea of upstart vocalists. The anonymity did nothing for the quality of the music, however, and wine-coolers and Budweiser may have contributed to "out-of-focus" vocals.

Bob Mel rarely plays in Rhode Island, but he enjoys coming to Providence College. "I've never seen anything like this before" he said, and continued that "the kids are so psyched, and that helps my act." Bob achieved a notable degree of popularity in club and small colleges throughout Connecticut, and he enjoys his solo act because it gives him a chance "to reach out to the audience". His decision to start on his own came after 11 years playing with various Connecticut bands (1965-1976), yet, as he said before his idea is not to "become a one-man band," but to use his greater freedom to enhance his performance, which he describes as one of the only "sing-a-long rock and roll acts in the area." To the crowd that danced and sang Saturday night, it is also one of the best!

Musical "Working" Opens Theatre Seasons

By Kathleen O'Neill

Working, a new musical by Stephen Schwartz (the author of Popin' and Godspell), will open the Providence College Theatre Season this weekend on Friday, October 17.

Based on the best-selling book by Studs Terkel, Working reflects a search for daily meaning, as well as daily bread; recognition, as well as cash.

The heroes and heroines of Working are the anonymous many: those whose lives touch ours, everyone, including waiters whose pride and skill help her get through the night, and a firefighter whose pride is as deep as his work is difficult.

The music of Working, composed by Craig Carnelia, Mick Grant, James Taylor, Mary Rodgers and Susan Birkenhead, contains lyrics based on interviews with people who work in the factories, offices and kitchens.

This "celebration of ordinary people" is being directed by John Alberti, with scenic and technical direction by Reginald Haller.

Working will be presented in Harkins Hall Auditorium for six performances: October 17, 19 and October 24-27. Curtain time is 8:00 p.m. Tickets for all performances are $2.50; in addition a $2.50 General admission fee is required for students and $1.50 for PC students. Reservations and information may be obtained at 865-2327. Tickets will be available at the door.

The robust humor of Oliver Goldsmith's She Stoops to Conquer will be the PC Theatre's second production of the 1980-81 season. This classic 18th century comedy will be presented December 3-7.

A special presentation of a recent Broadway musical comedy will be performed February 6-8 (parent's weekend), and February 13-15 (alumni weekend). "Plays being considered for this event are A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum, 101 Dalmatians, 101 Dalmatians, and Same Time Next Year.

A Steackers Named Desire will be presented February 27-March 8. 10-6:4.

A touch of intrigue will highlight the final production of the season: Tennessee Williams' play, Royal Gambit (The Six Wives of King Henry VIII) April 29-May 3. The theatre season will be chosen some fine arrangements of traditional Christmas songs. If the singers are willing to work, they have some fun in store. Campeau would like to have them travel around Rhode Island and the rest of southern New England, but there is always more to be done, and plans for the Christmas concert are to make the most out of Providence College's musical resources. Any singer, whether past, present, or potential, is welcome to join. All he or she must do to join is to come to a rehearsal. The rehearsals are Monday and Wednesday evenings, from 4:30 to 8:30. Singers of all voice ranges are needed to make a well-balanced group. The chorus is alive and singing and ready to grow.

Campeau will stay, too. He has taken the group remarkably far in just a few weeks of rehearsal, with only four hours a week. He is an energetic director, leading rehearsals from the piano. He goes from carefully planned warm-up's straight into the business at hand - at this time, music for a well-staged Christmas concert - and he never stops moving. Instructions are spiced with humorous admonitions to ambitious sopranos, and with those vital details of the art of singing that can come only from a good musical background and a good share of experience. The singers, who are working hard, say Campeau. He is not just whistling "Finlandia." The chorus, at an average size of about 20 voices in recent rehearsals, is singing not strongly and usually modern composers such as Poulez and Kodaly. Campeau has also chosen some fine arrangements of traditional Christmas songs. If the singers are willing to work, they have some fun in store. Campeau would like to have them travel around Rhode Island and the rest of southern New England, but there is always more to be done, and plans for the Christmas concert are to make the most out of Providence College's musical resources. A Touch of the Irish Friday Night

By Chris Lydon

Last Friday night in Alumni Cafe, the Order of the Shillelagh presented Jim Currey and Friends, an Irish sing-a-long group. While financially the move was not an overwhelming success, those that attended agreed it was one of the best entertainment nights of the year.

In order for the clubs like the Order of the Shillelagh to achieve their goals, they need functions like last Friday night. The Irish sing-a-long was both beautiful and diverse, and the Order of the Shillelagh hopes to attract interesting speakers to talk of Ireland, its history, and its culture. It also hopes to establish a library section in Phillips Memorial that will contain books, magazines, and periodicals. However, in the future, if there is not better attendance at these functions, it will be unfeasable for our club to sponsor such events and thus to accomplish our goals. Clubs on the Providence College campus need your support, so try a PC event rather than waiting outside one of the local "spots" in the rain.

Insights into PC Football

By Bill Sullivan

With the cold autumn air exhaled from their breaths as they jog for practice before a Saturday morning game, the players who comprise the PC football team look forward to the excitement-and the risks-of Saturday morning game, the "game time experience", while Capuano possessed more "anxiety" as the beginning of a game goal. Yet how many know what it's really like, not outside that rectangular 1(H) yard by 40 yard field, but inside the masks and uniforms the players as they fight for every yard. A little bit of this feeling has been captured in an interview with two senior members of the PC team. Mike Drysgula and Tony Capuano. A linebacker and a defensive tackle respectively, they talked about their feelings and positive attitude that must be translated not only into pride but into party. When asked what he did after they have won a game, Drysgula candidly remarked that "I immediately drink a beer," while Capuano possessed more restraint by saying that "I relax and then party."

Perhaps the biggest part of any game and the deciding factor in a team's success is the motivation and positive attitude that must be present. When asked how he prepared psychologically for the game, Drysgula seemed to feel that "drinking protein milk, listening to acid rock, and watching game films" was for him a "fool-proof method." Capuano felt that he built up "anxiety" as the game approached, but that the adrenaline gets me psyched." When asked what they felt as they were on the line, face to face with the opposing team, Drysgula responded that he tried to "personally build up hate" for the player facing him, while Capuano seemed to feel that it was "run to face with the opposing team."

For a senior it is especially important to be able to look back and pick out those memorable occasions that made football special. Capuano seemed to feel that "four sacks in row against Bentley," his junior year was special to him, while Drysgula took a more practical outlook and said that it was "the party after the football banquet sophomore year." Both also seemed to feel that playing at home was the "greatest feeling in the world," since other teams call it the "girl" and hate to have to put up with fans who finish them off when they fall into the sideline. The biggest problem on the PC team seems to be a "lack of communication between the coaching staff and players," according to Drysgula, while Capuano seemed to feel that it was "run too much like a varsity team," and that they must allow "for certain things to go on."

Both seemed to agree that playing at PC was special, however. They seemed to feel ethnically and were happy that PC had offered them a good mixture of scholastics and sports. Drysgula felt that he was "too much like a varsity team."

The Army was no laughing matter until Judy Benjamin joined it.

England Comes to Providence: Player's Corner Pub

By Ronnie White

If you find yourself in the mood for some ambience, the English Pub, but have not the time to cross the sea, pay a visit to Player's Corner. It is a warm fun old place to gather with friends for an after theatre draft or a Friday night out. The old-fashioned barroom is warm and inviting; the perfect place to begin or end an evening. If you happen to wander in around mealtime, or you just feel like having a snack, you can also be accommodated. The menu offers all sorts of suggestions to satisfy an appetite. It includes entrees, Italian specialties, burgers and sandwiches—delicious and reasonably priced.

The Pub is conveniently located at 194 Washington Street, across from the Trinity Square Repertory Company where Betrayal is currently playing. Because of its great location, food, drink and atmosphere, many of the company's players are patrons which is all the more inviting. It is also within close walking distance of the Civic Center, the Ocean State Theatre, and the Smith and Douglas Street bars.

Escape for an evening to the Edwardian atmosphere of Player's Corner Pub—treat a friend or go "dutch", but go soon. It is a five minute bus ride, but a world away.

The Arcade
An Adventure in Shopping

By Christina Kennedy

Providence residents don't need to travel to Boston's Quincy Market for unique gift items and eateries any more. The Arcade, in downtown Providence, is re-opening tomorrow after a complete restoration. The Arcade, a 132-year-old Greek Revival building, is located across from the Industrial National Bank on Westminster Street. Thirty-four of the forty leasable areas have been contracted for but all are not yet in operation.

The Arcade is much smaller than Quincy Market but the merchandising concept is much the same. There is a good mix of restaurants, apparel and gift shops. There is also a number of "service operations," such as beauty shops and repair stores. The Arcade is composed of three floors; each following a different theme. The first floor has been titled "the eatery. "This includes everything from 35 flavors of coffee at the Cook's Connection to a delicious Baby Watson cheesecake. All of the food stores have been kept on the first floor.

The second floor is devoted to clothing and gift stores. "Munchkins" carries a good selection of children's clothing. "The Game Keeper" is a store devoted exclusively to games of all kinds. There is a big group of the popular electronic games for "older kids.

Men and women should be able to find an item of clothing to suit any taste. Pappagallo for the classic look and Flamingo, a store with a European flair, are two of the shops on the second floor of The Arcade.

The top floor, called "The Gallery," is filled with fine collectibles such as art and antiques. Imported antique silks and fine porcelains are available from the China Merchant.

What makes Tech Hifi the best place to buy stereo?

Appliance stores and department stores are not the best places to buy quality stereo. You'll do much better at a stereo store.

The problem is, which stereo store? You're about to read why over 2 million music lovers have decided to buy from Tech Hifi.

It's OK to pick our brains. (We know our stereo).

The salespeople at Tech Hifi know what they're talking about. They work at Tech because they love stereo, not because they love selling.

Our people keep up with all the latest equipment, and can tell you the differences among the leading brands.

You get to play at Tech Hifi, not just look.

Some stereo stores have signs all over that tell you "Don't Touch The Merchandise." At Tech Hifi our signs say "Come Play." We encourage you to spin knobs, push buttons, toss switches, and try out any of the components in our soundroom.

If you take enough time to play in a Tech Hifi soundroom, you'll get a good idea of which equipment sounds best in your price range.

The buying power of the 65 Tech Hifi stores.

The reason why no store has better prices than Tech Hifi is no dealer buys quality components in such a huge volume as the 65 Tech Hifi stores.

You'll find our prices are as good as anybody's, and often better on some brands.

You might expect to pay extra at Tech for all the extra things we offer. But you won't.

At Tech Hifi we back what you buy.

When you make any big investment like quality hifi, make sure you're getting sound guarantees.

Tech Hifi gives you guarantees most stores don't. And we'll give them to you in writing, right on your sales slip.

Our guarantees include a 7-day moneyback guarantee (no questions asked).

Our guarantees are backed by the Tech Hifi Service Centers. If the equipment you buy from us ever needs service, we have trained professionals who will make things right. Fast.

Our back-to-school sale

This is a good time to buy at Tech Hifi, because we're having our annual back-to-school sale.

You'll find complete systems on sale right now for as little as $189, and lots of name-brand turntables, receivers, loudspeakers, and cassette decks are on sale as individual components.

Come in this week and listen to what your money can buy at Tech Hifi.

Holy Cross Slips

by Chris Duffy

Providence College-Holy Cross. No matter what sport you're talking about, a Friars-Crusaders matchup is something special. This was exactly the case last Thursday afternoon at Gay Field as the Friars and Holy Cross battled through 196 minutes of scoreless play before the Cross netted a fluke goal with less than four minutes to go in the second overtime period to win, 1-0.

Anyone who showed up late in the match really didn't miss much. The first half was played basically in the midfield area with neither team showing much in the way of offense. The Friars and Crusaders both had trouble in the way of offense. The Friars with neither team showing much. The first half was played temporarily of the match. PC booted 49 passes in the first half of the game. Two fumbles by the Friars. 9-7. It was a game of mistakes and breaks that enabled previously winless Assumption to beat a strong Friar team. The winners picked up all their points in the first few minutes with the help of a Providence turnover and snap into the endzone. PC fought back, but two turnovers in the last three minutes cost them the game.

It was the first night game in two years for the Friar gridders and it seemed as if the lights would not bother them much. But, in the first possession of the contest, Assumption provoked a PC fumble and took over at midfield. There, quarterback Skip Norwood took over and the score was soon 7-0. Then, in the Friars' next possession, a bad snap on fourth down went over Kevin Clare's head and into the endzone. That was yet another gift to Assumption as the safety made the score 9-0. Providence definitely outplayed their opponent for the remainder of play. Before the first half ended, they executed an impressive drive led by Steve Lepper's passing to Jim Petkewich and the running of Gary Rosadino. Jim McLean rushed for 99 yards and the score was soon 7-0. Then, Assumption showed off their field goal chances and Assumption went home with their first victory of the season.

Steve Lepper completed six out of eight passes in the second half and added 153 yards rushing. His first completion moved the Friars outside the 10-yard line and set up a score. The Friars scored on a 15-yard run by Petkewich and the score was soon 7-0. Then, Assumption showed off their field goal chances and Assumption went home with their first victory of the season.

Kevin Clare once again excelled at defense with three interceptions, including two in the endzone. Tony Capanna also had fine games at defense. PC will meet Roger Williams next Saturday at 7:30 at Warren High School.

Tennis Team Topples Two Opponents

The Friar netmen, fresh from their first place victory in the ECAC Division II Championships, extended their winning ways by defeating Bentley College and Connecticut College by identical 8-1 scores last week.

On Thursday, October 9, the Lady Friars journey to Storrs to compete this past weekend in the ECAC Division I Doubles, and freshman Mikey Curran. The ECAC Doubles Champions Dimar and Chaffield, remained uneasied as did the doubles combo of Curran and freshman Mike Griffin. Also adding importrant victories were Mike Tavares in singles as well as Donadio and John Matzen. The team competed this past weekend in the ECAC Division I Championship and were in ninth place after the first day of competition. Nationally ranked Princeton is favored in the tournament.

Following a dual match against the Coast Guard Academy this Wednesday on PC's home courts, the netmen will travel to Boston Friday. Saturday and Sunday to do battle in the Big East Championships. Coach Jacques Ditmar and Chatfield, remained unchanged. "Based on the strength of our performance so far this fall we will undoubtedly go into the tournament with strong confidence in coming away with another team championship for Providence College."

Twelfth place, victory was theirs. Providence's fifth man, Paul came into perspective. It was the lead. I looked, and everything came into perspective. It was PC's own Brendan Quinn in front, with teammate Ray Treacy running second! When Providence's fifth man, Paul Moloney crossed the win

The second straight year, the run entered a race as the underdogs. I adjusted my camera and took a glance at the finish line of last Saturday with the Lady Friars in Alumni Hall. For the second straight year, our high hopes for a good performance were still up there, about 40 meters behind the leaders. I looked to Amato at this time and asked him how he thought things were shaping up. He stated, "If Brendan Quinn can stay up there, with Jimmy and Charlie staying in the top ten, then it's going to all be up to our fifth man, Eitele" Paul Moloney or Brian Dillon has to come through." Lady Friars Volleyball Takes the Road

By Mary Gibbons

The Lady Friars' volleyball team, on the road until October 15, made another great showing on Saturday, October 4, with a second place finish in the UMass tournament. The field consisted of 16 outstanding teams from the East. PC was able to defeat each opponent before falling to the University of Delaware in the finals.

In regular play Friday night, Providence got the best of Springfield College and New York Tech. In two straight games. Picking Delaware, PC lost two of three very close games. The Friars took first place on Saturday with the Lady Friars easily defeating Cortland State in two straight games. The semifinals saw URI fall prey to the shots of PC, a common sight for volleyball fans. Once again, in a match against Delaware, the Lady Friars lost, 16-13, 16-14, in two exciting games, giving Delaware the first place crown.

Field Hockey Blanks SMU

PC's field hockey team shut out Southern Connecticut State University this Saturday by a score of 3-0. The team is now in its fourth varsity season. Kate Denning has been the coach for the past two years. Much support has also been given by the two senior captains, Lynda Wages and Kathy Lenahan.

The team's record seems to be continually improving; so far the record stands at three wins and two losses, starting off the season with a scrimmage victory against Brown and URI. Later on in the season, URI with their exceptional goalie did defeat PC. The other loss, to Bridgewater, must be accredited to their highly skilled olympian coach. The three victories were over Assumption 3-1, Wheaton 3-0, and Springfield College 3-0. Two goals were made by Jackie Glascott, and two by Judy van Velden. A job well done by goalie Judy van Velden.

The season will continue until November 3. A trip to New York for the Lady Friars is a definite possibility for the coming weekend, during which the team will compete against Bridgwater, Manhattanville and Adelphi. If the girls win the rest of their games they will qualify for the regionals at Smith College. This Monday the team is away at BU. Their next home game will be October 15 against Holy Cross. So come on down to Heinrichs field at 3:00 and watch the girls against their biggest rival.
