Is Providence College challenging its students? Does it give students the ability to think outside the classroom? Does it live up to its promise to be the best that it can be? Does it help students become established after graduation? These are just some of the questions that political science students, including Pam Sherer, '96, Pat McGrath, '95, Bill Meekan, '96, Mike Hackett, '95, Chris Carnso, '96 and Jen Walsh, '96 have pondered. This group of Student Congress members has been meeting with Dr. Robert Trudoe, President of the Faculty Senate and Chair of the Political Science Department and Pam Sherer, Director of the Center of Teaching for Excellence to discuss what can be done to enhance learning on this campus.

The goal of the student group is to develop a greater rapport between students and faculty. Also, the students would like to see a curriculum developed that pushes its students beyond the world of the classroom and into a world of reflection.

The idea of trying to fo-cus more on learning first occurred to Gallagher after last semester's Alcohol Awareness Day. Many of the respon-ses to the survey on that day, proved that students wanted to be challenged and were interested in learning and pushing themselves more. In meeting with Mary M. Shaffrey '97, Provost, Gallagher said that, "the aim is to try to clarify the goals that we would like to present to the Faculty Senate."

Gallagher also said that she knows that the faculty cares because they try to make an effort to make contact with the students. She feels most teachers have ample office hours so that their students aware of this availability. In return, there is a group of students who want to show that they care about learning.

Gallagher plans to meet with the Faculty Senate at the end of the semester to ex-plain the goals that she would like to meet in the fu-ture at Providence College. Although the process of improvement is only in its earliest stage of development, it is an issue of great concern which should take on even more significance in the near future.

by Bridget Hughes '96

NEWS COMMENTARY

Not in a Christian Community

by Erin Flesch '96

News Writer

On September 29, 1993, an article appeared in The Cowl expressing concern with the way homosexuality is regarded on the PC campus. The major issue was civil rights. The author stated that no individual should be "subject to discrimination just because of their gender, race, or sexual orientation." Since this article was pub-lished, nothing has changed here at PC concerning homo-sexuality. Why isn't there a support group on campus for gays, lesbians, and bisexual students?

Avoiding the fact that ho-mosexuality is present on campus, simply because Providence College is a Catholic school, is ignorant and cruel. There are gay Catholics in the world and on this campus, and they need love and support just like everyone else.

In the September 23, 1994 issue of the supplement to The Providence Journal, there was an article de-scribing National Coming Out Day and acknowledg-ing a group called Dignity. Dignity is a national religious group for gay Catho-lics that has existed for 24 years. The local chapter, Dignity/Providence, is lo-cated in Pawtucket, Rhode Island.

Many people go to Digni-ty in search of a way to in-continue on page 1

Inside The Cowl...

IRW - an embarrassment for FCT... see page 5

Read a preview on Meet Me In St. Louis... see page 9

Sports Season wrap up with Big East Championships... see Sports Section

News... pages 1-4

Newsmaker... pages 5-8

A & E... pages 9-11

Club... pages 10-11

Boxing... page 12

Features... pages 14-15

Sports... pages 16-20
Disciplinary Measures

A judicial hearing was held on October 31 to consider a complaint against two students:

1. Underage drinking

The following penalties were imposed:
- Underage drinking Violation(p.45) - First Offense (a) personal probation for one semester until 12/21/94
- Community restitution - 20 hours

A judicial hearing was held on November 1 to consider a complaint against two students:

* Underage drinking

The following penalty was imposed:
- Underage Drinking Violation (p. 45) - First offense (a) personal probation for one semester - until 12/21/94

A judicial hearing was held on November 1 to consider a complaint against a student:

* Loud Party

The following penalty was imposed:
- Party/social gathering Violation (p. 45) - First Offense (a) personal probation for one semester until 12/21/94

Adoption

A loving doctor's family longs to share your hearts with a healthy white newborn. Your baby's future will be filled with love, laughter, education and security. Related expenses will be paid. Legal and Confidential. Please answer our prayers and call collect anytime.

Julie and Eddie
(617)-332-984

Sweaters (Knit)

By Simon & Garfunkel

744 Branch Ave.
Providence, R.I.
401-783-0259
8am-9pm Mon.-Sun.
Last load in by 7:30 pm

Christmas Community
continued from page 1

tegrate their religious upbringing with the fact that they are gay lesbian. Others have already "come out" and go in search of a support group where they can worship in an accepting, affirming environment.

Dignity recognizes the fact that homosexuality is not a chosen condition. Brother Ron shutters at the term "sexual preference." He prefers to call it an "affective orientation" because it is much more than a sexual orientation. He is disturbed and disheartened that the Catholic Church does not support homosexuals. But why doesn't it?

Brother Ron informed me that since Vatican II, the Catholic Church has recog-ized that there are homosexuals through no fault of their own. This is in the New Catechism. At the same time, however, the Church holds that any sexual expression that is not engaged in by a heterosexual couple in marriage is forbidden. So if the Church accepts that people are gay and recogizes that it is not their "fault," [which is a negative, deceptively term in itself], why aren't gays permitted by the Church to express their love in the same way heterosexuals are allowed to?

Brother Ron feels that the Diocese is refusing to acknowledge that about one out of every 10 individuals is gay. PC seems to be ignoring this fact as well.

Last October, students initiated a Coming Out Day here at PC. Forrest Gander, a professor of English at PC, offered to be moderator of a support group for homoexuals if students would be interested. As a result of his offer, students called, wrote letters, and stopped by his office to talk about feelings of loneliness and isolation that they were experiencing on campus. Sadly, a group was never started because homosexual students feared that they would be shunned by their fellow students and teachers. Their fears, although sad, are valid.

Those of us who are quick to judge others, have all the answers, but don't talk any of the questions. As Brother Ron said, "Nobody will remember deciding they were gay, but many will remember discovering they were gay." We should be careful not to disregard the reality of who people are. No one should have to feel shame, guilt, or fear for who they are. "It's hard enough to come out," Brother Ron said. "It's even more difficult to be out among family and friends in a Catholic environment." It shouldn't be. Not in a Christian Community.

Kimball Lectures
at PC

by Mary M. Shaffrey '97

News Writer

After receiving a late-warning response from the audience at '94 Hall last night, Roger Kimball, noted author and managing editor of The New Criterion, acknowedged that the reception from those in attendance was "friendlier" than others he has received at such schools as Princeton, Cornell and Alfred universities. Kimball was the guest of the PC President's Forum on Culture and Values and The Humanities Forum of Rhode Island.

During the hour long talk, Kimball discussed how America has always been a multicultural society, however the problem has been with the new ideology of multiculturalism. He believes the movement for multiculturalism has sparked heated debates that are unnecessary and divisive on campuses across the nation.

Two examples he used to illustrate his theory were the policies at Smith College and Tufts University. At Smith, students are centrifuged for the offense of 'lookism', which is akin to the belief that some people are more pleasant to look at than others. While at Tufts University, students are restricted to what they can say, and where they can say it. The so-called speech zones, Free Speech, Limited Speech, and the Twilight Zone, dictate the legal lingo of a particular area. For example, if a student were in the Twilight Zone, derogatory, inflammatory and/or discriminatory remarks would be grounds for severe disciplinary action.

After the speech, Mr. Kimball took questions from the audience. Seeming frazzled, he had difficulty answering questions, even when they pertained to his asked to define his belief that there are superior societies, he elaborated by saying, "societies that are not cannibalistic, and incorporate freedoms and personal liberties, I believe to be of higher quality."

When he concluded his question and answer period, Kimball received a round of applause.

THE COWL

Interested in writing for The Cowl?
Come to an info session to find out how!
Monday, November 14 @ 7:30 in Aquinas Lounge
Tuesday, November 15 @ 7:30 in Dore Hall Lounge

Donate Blood!

We need you on November 16 and November 17 at 64 Hall in Slavin Center from 11:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. and at Aquin's Lounge from 4:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. also on Wednesday the 14th. Students are needed to become blood donors and help save lives. Free pizza, soda, juice and cookies will be available for all blood donors.

Most people are eligible to donate and all those who gave blood at the September drive are eligible to donate again.

MEET YOUR TYPE AT THE BLOOD DRIVE!!

Are you thinking of living
Off-Campus during your junior year?

Here is a good address to consider:

Queen Margaret Hall
55 Bellsquash Road
Glasgow G12, Scotland

Are you interested in living in Europe? Please contact us

We have a variety of programs, such as:

- Shaffrey to Spain: Living in a private residence in Madrid.
- Conversation: A language immersion program in Florence.
- International Study: A broad-based program in a number of European cities.
- Overseas Program in France: A study abroad program in Paris.
- European Union: A program focusing on the European Union and its member states.
- Internship: A program that allows students to gain work experience in Europe.
- Summer Program: A program that offers students the opportunity to explore Europe during the summer.

For more information, please visit our website at www.queenmargarethall.com or contact us at 466 3rd Ave, #3100

New York, NY 10016
(212) 935-5555

Provide a good address to consider:

Providence-in-Europe
The Study Abroad Office
Harkins Hall Room 342
865-2114
The Guidance and Protection of One Individual

by Christina Burgmyer '96

Most PC students spend at least two years of their college career in a residence hall. For those two years they live under the guidance and protection of one individual, the Hall Director. Every Hall Director is required to either have their master's degree or be in the process of obtaining it, and they must be making a career in student affairs. The job is a live-in 12 month administrative position and after every 12 months the person has the choice to leave or to stay.

One of the new Hall Directors for Dore Hall is David Lowe. He and his wife moved into the hall on August 1 of this year. He did his undergraduate work at Regis University where he worked in Residence Life, and where he completed his graduate work in higher education counseling. Pete Centre, the new Hall Director for Meagher Hall graduated from Rhode Island College in 1986 with a BA in history. After graduation he did a few years of volunteer work before enrolling in the seminary at Mount St. Mary's in Maryland, where he received his master's degree in theology. Centre decided against becoming a priest and started his job here on September 1. He stated this as his reason for being here, "God has painted me into a certain picture, and I have to realize that God has the means to make my world as wonderful as this great world around me."

The third new Hall Director, Richard Duffy, is an alumni of PC and is now the Hall director in Guzman Hall. He graduated from PC in 1990 where he was the resident assistant to ROTC. He then entered the US Reserve, and this August he returned to PC to work as a Hall Director and to do his graduate work. The final new Hall Director is Michael Janicki, who resides in Fennell Hall. He attended St. John Fisher College where he was an R.A., and after graduation he worked as a Resident Life Coordinator at Elmira College. He was enrolled in the master's program here at PC for education and counseling as his father did before him.

Presently there are four new Hall Directors and there are two more positions available. Debra Guibert of Residence Life stated that they are currently interview- ing possible candidates this week and next week for a position in McKinney and McDermott Halls.

Michael Janicki, Fennell Hall Director

PC in the Year 2000

by Theresa Edo '96

Asst. News Editor

No one may ever notice that the "Providence 2000" flag flying in the high above PC's Huxley Avenue gate. In fact, many students do not even realize that this extensive project entails, or that it even exists.

Providence 2000 is a seven-year project that was launched last year. Very basically, it outlines a design for certain goals the school hopes to reach by the year 2000. PC is striving to become one of the leading comprehensive liberal arts colleges in the nation. It involves modern concerns which will enhance the following mission. Although its results are far-reaching and long-term, its effects can be felt immediately.

"Not only is it important that the people around the country believe in this campaign, the future of the college depends on what we have your commitment and continued support so we can reach the goal," said President Philip A. Smith, O.F., at the October 14, 1989 kickoff of the project's internal fund-raising campaign.

If these changes are to take place PC must also meet its financial goals. Providence 2000 hopes to raise a total of $75 million, $50 million of which will be from private contributions and charitable contributions. According to Joseph Brum, Vice President for Alumni/Devel- opment, so far $32 million has been pledged but not collected.

Brum explained that the internal campaign is a mini-campaign that reaches out to the faculty, staff, administration, and even the religious, who offer tokens gifts. He went on to say that this campaign, besides raising a substantial amount, sets an example.

"PC is striving to become one of the leading comprehensive liberal arts colleges in the nation."

"It's a way of showing your loyalty to the school," said Michael Havelock, Executive Vice President of Development Services and co-chair of the faculty and staff campaign. He shares this position with Carol Hassett, Associate Vice President for Faculty Affairs. "Even though the campaign is geared toward the alumni and older members of the community, it does directly impact the student still attending."

The money raised will have four main focuses. One effect will be an enlargement of academic endowments. This will enable the school to increase scholarships of all types without a negative effect on the budget. A second area of improvement is formally called capital projects, the "bricks and mortar." It includes structural renovation on such buildings as Sullivan Hall and the Feinstein Center.

One benefit of the project is targeting the maximum benefit of new information technologies. These technologies range from the fiber optics which will bring residents the Octel Voice Message system and cable in the dormitories, to hardware and software purchases which offer students more learning resources. The last focus is a catch-all phrase, program and project enhancement. Services that already exist here at the college will be improved and expanded such as academic support services like the Learning Assistance Center. "If we can build a strong future financially we can improve these funds in a positive way in the near future," said Brum. "We still have a long way to go, but Providence 2000 brings us closer to providing quality facilities and an education in a college marketplace that is becoming increasingly competitive."

David Lowe, Dore Hall Director

Pete Centre, Meagher Hall Director

Richard Duffy, Guzman Hall Director

ALL MAJORS

Internship and Career Seminar

Guest Speakers
Michael Matone, CLU, CHFC
General Agent
Northwestern Mutual Life

Sean Peacock, '95
Northwestern Mutual Life Intern

Tuesday, November 15th
3:30 - 5:00
Room To Be Announced
sponsored by the Providence College Finance Club
ROTC Veterans Day Retreat Ceremony

By Juliette Marchioli '95
Features Writer

The ROTC Patriot Battalion held its annual Veterans Day Retreat Ceremony at sundown Wednesday in front of Harkine, amidst the sound of patriotic voices lifted in song. The purpose of this memorial service was to pay tribute to those who made the supreme sacrifice for the preservation of freedom and democracy. After the flag was retired for the evening, Father Healey opened the ceremony with an invocation in the memory of those who died for our cause. Col. Thibeault, the 166th Professor of Military Science at PC, then spoke stressing the many different roles the military plays in today's world.

A special presentation was then made to Capt. Miller, on behalf of his enthusiastic support of the Ranger Challenge team. Our new President, Fr. Smith spoke after this, quoting from St. Matthew's gospel that "there is no greater love than to lay down ones life." He emphasized his complete support for the ROTC program at PC, and commended the cadets for their courage and commitment as citizen soldiers. To close the ceremony, Fr. Driscoll gave the benediction in which he focused on preserving the memory of the valor of those who have served their country. A quick thank you to Fr. Cochran, Fr. Nealey and Fr. Driscoll, all veterans who continue to support the efforts of the Patriot Battalion.

The Providence College Department of Military Science, in cooperation with the Rhode Island Army National Guard will sponsor an historical flag presentation on Veterans Day, November 11, every hour on the hour from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. in 64 Hall in Slavin.

Hold the Phone!

Do you live in the on-campus apartments? Have you wondered what has happened to the buzzer panels in the apartment kiosks lately? Well, they have been replaced by the same telephones that are found on the traditional residence halls. The next question to ask is why? According to Christine Goyette, Apartment Complex Director, the panels have been replaced for two reasons. First, it came to the attention of Residence Life that the Apartments lacked the ability to call Security. If the need to call Security were to arise, one would need to enter the building and use someone's telephone. In this case, the telephones are for security and safety reasons. The other reason for the change is to avoid the problem of randomly pushed buttons, and the fear of allowing anyone to enter the building due to their pushing various buzzers.

A Note of Thanks

Dear PC Community,

I wish to express my sincere appreciation to the students, faculty and staff of the College for the numerous cards, letters, notes and prayers you have sent me since I suffered a heart attack on October 17. Your expressions of kindness and concern are yet another example of what makes PC such a unique place!

Sincerely,
William DiBrienza
Dean of Admissions and Financial Aid

Become A P.C. Big Sister...

Spent some time with a child in need of some extra support and guidance. There are girls in the area that need your help.

You can be an important role model, mentor and special friend to a young girl near you. Just a few hours a week can provide a little sister with learning experiences, expectations and opportunities never thought possible.

To Register for an On-Campus Informational Meeting please call Big Sisters at 461-0310
Well, Here We Go Again

The elections are over and the American electorate has spoken. The message delivered by Tuesday's stunning rejection of the Democratic party was starkly clear, but those politically inclined must decipher it. Are the Republicans lashing out at the President? Is there a refocusing of faction the Democrats in Congress? Or perhaps most frightening of all, do the majority of Americans support the Republican party's position on the issues in this campaign?

If the answer to the last question is the reenactment of events of last Tuesday, we exist in the fact that moral majority contributed to the defeat of George Bush in 1992. Hopefully Jesse Helms, Patrick Buchanan, and Pat Robertson will work their special brand of magic again during the upcoming sessions of Congress. After all, nothing could be sweeter than watching political foes sow the seeds of their own destruction.

Unfortunately the amnesias will return to the polls again in 1996. Let's make sure those Americans who haven't forgotten outnumber them next time.

COMMENTS

RW an Embarrassment to P (But That's Nothing New)
by Vera Schomer '96
Editorial Writer

Junior Ring Weekend has come and gone for the Class of '96. Its passing has left many members with fond memories, others with disappointment, and for most of us, large bills to pay. It was a typical PC event, filled with fake ID's, drinking, and inappropriate behavior for a formal, "classy" affair.

Throughout various isolated events, much of the weekend left me feeling embarrassed for our entire class, wading with the bus ride to the semi-formal and culminating in the video-side show Friday evening began with pre-semi parties and loading onto buses to travel to Demetri's in Foxboro. Students were drinking bottled beer on the bus, and I had begun smoking cigarette after we left campus. The buses were pulled up on the side walk, and the frustrated drivers stood there, and I was one of them.

He said, in a Caribbean accent, that he had been instructed to drive the bus to the nearest police station if people did not stop smoking.

The response he received was a smoky, "maniac or something?" Soon others took the example and joined in with "shh man, no smoky on de bus, man!" It was frustrating to see such ignorance, such luxuriate, especially since the smokers kept on smoking.

Soon, while traveling on I-95, the bus drivers were pressed to pull over, not at a rest stop, but on the side of the highway, so that people might empty their beer-filled bladders against a tall blade of grass. Thank goodness the buses did not have "Providence College" signs on the side, and all the rubber-nerding traffic to see.

At the semi-formal, a middle aged couple approached me as I was standing in the lobby. They asked what the event was, and co-incidentally, they had taken a PC class two days earlier with their daughter, a prospective freshman. They began talking about the school such as, "How is the diversity? We just want our daughter to have a variety of experiences," and "Does everyone party here?"

I didn't have many Protestant or Jewish students attended PC. I didn't want them to know that there were less than five minority students at the event. I didn't want them to discover that students had been found smoking marihuana in the bathroom. Didn't they want to see students being dragged onto the first buses to leave because they were too drunk to stand.

I was embarrassed for Providence College.

The JRW video glamorized behavior that we should be trying to control. Who approved it?

The formal at the Marriott Copley Hotel in Boston took place as it is should and always be, but the paper played up the story such as, "How is the diversity? We just want our daughter to have a variety of experiences," and "Does everyone party here?"

I didn't want them to know that there were less than five students attended PC. I didn't want them to know that there were less than five people who were not doing smoke.

If we, the subjects and the viewers, all drink a chalice out of this type of video, then we should be showing it to prospective students so they can truly understand our social culture, our alcohol culture. If some of us are angered by the peer pressure and the portrayal that we are all heavy drinkers, then we should voice our concerns. PC doesn't have more of an alcohol problem than other colleges. Some people's behavior may be pathetic, but it is not uncommon for college students. Yet, while many students are drinking responsibly, we must remember that the few who drink in excess attract police and media attention and lessen the value of a PC degree.

The JRW video glamorized behavior that we should be trying to control. Who approved it? I don't know. The blame, however, should not be all attributed to its producers, but also to the students who submitted the alcohol-laden pictures.

We must be aware enough to realize that broadcasting this video, this day in Slavin, can ruin our school's reputation further. Once was enough. We get the picture. Why must we show our freshmen, and families taking tours, that this is what makes us happy?
The Right To Kill?

by Robert Mendez '95

Editorial Writer

A Pensacola jury voted to recommend that Rebecca Hill die in Florida's electric chair. Hill was convicted early last year for the murder of John B. Britton and James H. Barrett. Hill murdered Dr. Britton because the doctor performs abortions. The judge does not have to sentence Hill to death but he does have to give "great weight" to the jury's recommendation.

This article is not a defense of Dr. Britton's action. In spite of Hill's arguments to the contrary, there is no justifiable defense for his actions.

However, it is illogical that Hill might be put to death for his crimes. It is even more illogical that our entire case reveals America's violent tendencies.

It is the worst of the worst for the case at a moment. The state wants to kill a man, who killed a man, who killed babies; and all these killings are committed in the name of justice.

The state is arguing that it has a right to kill Paul Hill because it has been involved in serious crimes. Hill argued that he had a right to kill Dr. Britton because the doctor was committing seriously immoral acts. Dr. Britton, presumably, would argue that women have a right to have their babies if they so choose.

It is illogical that all of these murders are committed in the name of justice because every individual has a right to life that is not granted by any person or institution. Therefore, no person or institution has a right to take a life. Most people see the illogical nature of Hill's argument but they fail to see the illogical nature of the state's argument.

The state does not grant citizens the right to kill, but then it tries to take that right away. The Declaration of Independence sees this right as inalienable. The Constitution is also written on the proposition that "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness," are the "end all be all" of existence.

They do not want to put absolute value on human life because it will interfere with our neat and convenient lives. It may mean that we have to bring a child to term and care for him or her for the rest of our lives. Or, it may mean that we have to support a dying leopard or a human being, rather than killing him quickly and avoiding needless wastes of time suffering. Or, it may mean that we have to ponder someone's crime, like Paul Hill's, while he sits in prison rather than just get rid of him or her for the rest of our lives. Or, it may mean that we have to use the life of a person with cancer to get a child to term and care for him or her for the rest of our lives.

So, however we may need to be careful about going to death in these situations because we make our lives more troublesome.

In our society the President's legal position has replaced the Declaration of Independence's protection of human life. It is a fact of happiness in the protection of life except when it interferes with our liberty or pursuit of happiness.

Do You Don't Feel Our Pain

by John J. Olohan '95

Editorial Writer

Our society is so superficial; too many people don't care about anything in it; it takes more than two minutes to explain. Politics of the 1996 elections are based on sound bites and clever one liners. People are apathetic about issues that could have direct personal impact.

People pay lip service to societal problems. When it comes to trying to fix the problems, they have "things to do." People don't want to work from January 1 into May, just to pay their taxes. People don't care that their very own children are doing drugs and getting pregnant. These are people who don't care about issues that could have a good understanding of the issues.

How can someone put a check in a box for a candidate when they don't know where the candidate stands on an issue, and then decide who is their presidential election choice, the one thing that most voters know about Bill Clinton was that he stood for "change." When you would ask a Clinton supporter what Clinton was gobbling to change, they would say, "What has Bush done?"

It is a sign that a person doesn't know what they are talking about when they answer a question with a question.

Take Ross Perot for example. This man claims to be "one of us." Was the average person in the country that got annoyed by such a statement? Has Ross Perot ever had to worry about where the money was going to come to from to pay for a college education? Has Ross Perot ever had to cut his lawn or paint his own house because he was just too busy? I don't know any billionaires and if I did, I know one thing for certain, they wouldn't have the same outlook on life as the average American.

How about Ted Kennedy? He claims to be like the average American. Why does no one question his statements? Does the average American have millions of dollars to his name? Can the average American afford to have twenty days in his life in which he has nothing to do? The average American spend millions of dollars do they ever re-elect themselves? When a person says that they know what is going on in their mind, I suggest they show me their hands and let me examine the calluses from their labor. Let me see the balled muscles and the eyes that have never stayed open. If they can't, they are not like the middle and lower class American working man.

The only thing the majority of voters can about is a charismatic person that they can cast their vote for. The candidates have led a promising lifestyle, dodged the draft, and abused their position of authority and still be elected to the highest office of the land. It just doesn't make sense.

As I get older I see how business is nothing more than a means to an end and that politics is nothing more than a high school pep rally for grown men and women in suits. Then there are academics which are a way for some to stay out of the cruel and offensive business world. People get caught up in the trivialities of politics, business, and academics, and forget what life was really about.

Usually it is a death of a friend or family member that gets us to put life into perspective. A person may think that he is so great because he has "anyone" a spoon fed Harvard degree, but actually he is no more insulated from death than when he was born.

We can have all the nicest clothes and the best of jobs, but neither will keep us from getting hurt like the rest of us. We are no more a liberal ratioc and a dogmatic one. We think that we will always be young and healthy and before we know it we will have been deserted by our own children, living among strangers. All because we didn't care about the issues.

Healey's Cool Moose Party

by Jake Lintinen '97

Editorial Writer

When asked if his third party will eventually become as corrupt as our two-party system, candidates for Governor of Rhode Island Dr. Robert Healey an independent candidate, says, "I believe that corruption will exist in any political party if it is not stopped."

Healey has emphasized his answer with a complex allusion to the Woody Allen movie, "Husbands and Wives," which is not so precise. Poets can pretend to have solved all of the problems of mankind, nor can they claim to be completely free of corruption. We simply must keep struggling.

Healey has the potential to be a candidate for Governor of Rhode Island who has been trying for 12 years to make his party, the Cool Moose Party, an official third party in Rhode Island. Despite his appearance, which is typical of any politician, he comes across as an idealist and despite his non-affiliation with either of the two major parties has a surprisingly good grasp of the political process. He is not an ideologue, although he does propose some fundamental changes for our government. He is best described as a radical realist; a person who knows the malignancy of the current political situation but would like to modify it to reach certain ideals.

Healey does not suggest that his party and its ideas are the "end all be all" of existence. He does propose, however, that his party is a viable opportunity for government. To reject the lies and "old-boy" funding of campaigns. This is the proposal that should capture the interest of everyone. The Framers of the Constitution knew the danger of party government. George Washington, in his farewell address, warned that should the United States take on a party system, then it "would be the downfall of the country. Washington and the Framers were right. So is Robert Healey. We need to seriously challenge the deeply rooted nationalistic idea of party and government and the people the only concern.

This is the type of change that we can do and it is possible. We can create a platform of his Cool Moose Party. Unfortunately, many of the.Framers of the Constitution and the vision of making people the center of government an idealistic radical idea. It is a shame that people would shy away from such an idea. What is so core, with making people the center of government? Why do we fear losing the dominance of the two archaic and corrupt parties? In the eyes of Robert Healey
November 10, 1994

The Cowl 7

Commentary

Black Studies Must Be Recognized, Supported

by Ross Grace '95

The Editorials

For the past month, the Black Studies program committee, composed of students and faculty, has sponsored a series of films and intellectual discussions. The films featured Dr. Molefi Kete Asante, of Temple University, who addressed the concept of African-centricity. The discussion following each film centered on the role of a black agenda. An agenda expressed and governed by black students and supporters, existing on a predominately white campus, namely Providence College.

The consensus that emerged from this discourse reflects a belief that black students as well as the rest of the Providence College community are in desperate need of such enlightenment. Providence College's Black Studies program, and will adopt one if it has any concern whatsoever for its student body.

In several discussions about the Black Studies program began in the spring semester of 1992. A group of concerned black and white students decided that the only way to bring black and white students would obtain a sense of identity in this campus was by establishing an organization that would define, who they are, as exercisers of a sense of respect vis-a-vis an intellectual program offered to all students. This program was envisioned as a legitimate one, created with the aforementioned purpose by students and interested faculty. The PC Black Studies program proposal, which emerged, has been discussed by the PC's University, Rhode Jones and other well known African educators and intellectuals that have crumbled for sustenance.

The maintenance of one dominant race has been realized because it does not give the minority simple and respectable representation. We feel that this representation is crucial because from it comes understanding and respect as equals. Without it, we end up with what we already have: ignorance, tension, and cultural superiority.

The goal of Black Studies is not to intimidate, or dominate, but to expand. We as blacks know all about European history and memoir, but perhaps we represented in an equal light. Is this really too much to ask? A view of history from an African perspective will diminish fear and ignorance and will ultimately make this campus a better place. To reject a valid program that could and should be important to what we have to be foolish.

Finally, it is up to the students to act as a Vanguard, while the Black Studies program proceeds through the channels of Faculty Senate and the administration, not only to ensure its passage, but also to maintain the program's character as a redefinition of Black Students.

A Providence College deposed of a Black Studies program lacks the essential openness and diversity that the administration gives lip service to. Without acknowledging Black Studies, Providence College is acting like the rest of society and metaphorically putting us in the closet and throwing us under the bus for sustenance.

To the Editor:

Roderig Williams founded the colony of Providence in 1606 for free thinkers of all stripes. I wish to congratulate Father Philip A. Smith as Providence College's eleventh president. In his inaugural address, I was elated when he said, "Providence College's presence will rely on kindness and morality." (Providence Journal-Bulletin, Oct. 29, 1994).

In the past, I have noticed that Providence College has had a tendency to favor the male over the female. A case in point is the Dr. Bulteau sex therapist Dr. Ruth Westheimer. "Dr. Walsh" was invited by a student body group to lecture at PC during jr. Fr. Cunningham's presidency. He did not veto the choice of "Dr. Walsh." However, he appealed to the student body to reconsider. "I told him," he said, "that he could not provide a platform for someone whose ideas I did not like. They were, in my opinion, diametrically opposed to ours." (Providence-Journal-Bulletin, June 13, 1994). Fr. Cunningham said the student group met, and by a narrow vote, "disinvited" Dr. Westheimer.

Healey's Cool Moose Party

from page 6

and myself, a true democracyno, there is no sense of the people, not special interest.

It is obvious that most of the electorate are fed up with political parties and the system. Headlines like "Voters Disgusted with Politicians" and "Voters in Good Times" are testimony to people's frustration with politics. The Cool Moose Party is a refreshing antidote to the boredom of voters. As a layman himself says, the Cool Moose Party is subject to corruption just as the Democratic and Republican parties are. The bottom line, however, is that bringing in a new party into the picture is part of the continual political struggle.

Healey believes as the Framers believed, that change—especially change—is healthy for a nation. It is difficult to argue with this philosophy. Since man has been proven throughout history, that history itself is nothing more than a series of changes. Since the birth of our country, not coincidentally conceived in revolution, we have seen revolution affect nations around the world. Most elections are not decided until after historic events have been added to the list of major changes in government. Perhaps it is time for us to consider such a change. I believe that people are beginning to see that such a radical shift is necessary. The high support of Perot in the Presidential election is testament to the fact—as is the tremendous leap in number of frustrated, annoyed and bored citizens in the U.S. Even in areas of economic boom, people dislike government.

I don't believe that Healey or anyone has all of the answers, but returning government to the people should be the highest priority. I hope that he gets the five percent he needs to become an official party, because along with everything else, there is the constant bickering between democrats and republicans that has been stonewalling a two party system for two hundred years. If he wins, I think that the kettles' whistle blows the old system.

Pope John Paul II, Bishop Loras, our new Romaniacs, and myself are diametrically opposed to abortion from this institute. Cunningham's presidency, four Democratic pro-choice politicians campaigned on the PC campus. This included Sen. Claiborne Pell, State Representative Patrick Kennedy, defeated congresional (1st District, RD) candidate Scott Wolf and Governor Shaffrey Sundlin. This happened because the PC community allowed Gov. Sundlin to have his Jan. 9, 1995, inaugural ball in Peterson Center.

In 1978 during Fr. Thomas Wike's presidency, Vice-President Walter Mondale delivered the commencement address. He also was honored as a humanitarian doctoral degree. I find it ironic that PC extended themselves for five black students (three females). Since President Smith is not, in my opinion, able to lead PC, I hope in the future that he will be considered to women as they have in the past, have been to men.

Sincerely,
Russell P. Demore '73

Letters to the Editor

1993-1994

I. Articles and letters to the Editor are welcome from any member of the PC student body, faculty or administration. Submissions to Letters to the Editor may be printed if space permits.

II. All letters must be double spaced and limited to 250 words. All letters must be signed; however, if you do not wish to have your name appear in print, please contact a member of the Editorial staff or the Editor-in-Chief. Please bear in mind that the Editorial Department is subject to the editing of the student body, and the Editorial staff. If there is a specific part of your letter or article that you do not wish to have altered, please see one of the Editorial staff members prior to the publication date.

III. All letters must be double spaced and limited to 250 words. All letters must be signed; however, if you do not wish to have your name appear in print, please contact a member of the Editorial staff or the Editor-in-Chief. Please bear in mind that the Editorial Department is subject to the editing of the student body, and the Editorial staff. If there is a specific part of your letter or article that you do not wish to have altered, please see one of the Editorial staff members prior to the publication date.
Sugar's Road To Sweetness

by Mark Cybulski '95

Sugar will be performing at The Strand on Monday night.

Easy Listening. The band will stop in Providence this Monday to play at The Strand. Opening for the band will be Magnappu, a band from Athens, GA, whose album Mould has recently produced. As one third of the power trio Hush, Du, Bob Mould needed the combination of punk, metal and pop that the media has dubbed "alternative rock." With albums such as Zen Arcade (1984), New Day Rising (1985) and Wear Red (1988), Sugar has earned a reputation. But, quick to the scene, they are. "To play music and for them to be noticed, they got—like the acoustic gigs, that's my parallel career and I don't want to damage it from getting too exposed," he says. "This is not to say that Mould wants to isolate his fans, either. He takes pride in the notion that people who listen to his music are happy about it. "I have a core audience that's been there a long time," he says. "When I'm making records, that's who I'm thinking about. It's not a fair-weather audience, and I would like to keep it for life." Sugar has the potential to tour in the future. "It has always been important for me to have my own life," she says. "I have to spend so much of my time in complete focus that I need time to just sit around and do nothing." Though it dominates a great deal of her time, theater is not Nicole's only interest. She credits her experience at P.C. for helping her became well-rounded. She is intrigued by child psychology and education. Doesthis mean that theater education is in her future? Possibly, but Nicole is attracted to performing and working behind the scenes as well. "I think I'd be pretty good at casting. I can tell when someone is talented and is performing well," says Nicole. In addition, she wants to appear in film. "I love movies," she says. "It would do television too, although I don't think I want to do that for the rest of my life."

Before she does anything, Nicole is planning on taking a year off after graduation and I don't want to move to Boston and see what the business is like. She says that a graduate school may also lie in her future, but not right away. "I want to work in theater because it's something I can do well, and I can communicate ideasto other people. "It's been a part of my life for a long time and I hope it will continue to be."
Don't Miss Me In St. Louis

by Patrick Heap '96 - A&E Writer

When I was in Jr High I did a lot of things to keep myself out of trouble. Some things were more successful than others. One of the successes in which I got involved was in the theater. I used to walk or take the bus to the Eugene O'Neal Theatre and just watch the plays or classes in progress. I could go there and get lost just by watching the acting. The acting could take me far away from any of my troubles and the stages could take me to places and times which were just dates in a history book to me. Those years were well spent, but in high school I was turned off by a poor drama club and soon would forget about the theater and all it had once offered to a lonely teenage boy.

This weekend, however, I had a stroll down memory lane when I went to see The Blackfriars Theatre's performance of Meet Me In St. Louis. From the moment the lights went down, to the very moment when the person next to me got up to leave, I was captivated. Not captivated like a TV episode of C.H.I.P.s or X-Files, captivated like watching my first fire works show and some how feeling as if I was involved in what was going on. Maybe I was just aware that I had been emotional and mentally moved by what I had witnessed.

Meet Me In St. Louis starts off in the present 1994 with a grandmother (Tootie Smith) recalling the events which occurred in the year 1900 to her grand daughter. The story goes right to St. Louis in the summer of 1903 where we follow the comical and chaotic events of the Smith family to St. Louis and the opening of the Louisiana Purchase exposition. The opening act brings the audience back to a time when summers were fun, innocent, and filled with visiting the elder Smith sisters: Esther (Rebecca Kupka) and Rose (Nicole Kempskie), each trying to get the man of their dreams. The story also focuses on Esther's attempts to get John Truitt (Stephen Schoenfeld) the athletic, good looking, shy boy next door. Kupka and Schoenfeld did a great job and I couldn't help feeling like renting Grease and watching it until I got sick.

With most of the attention on Esther and Rose playing cat and mouse games with the male characters, we are left with little space to see such comic characters as Tootie Smith (Erin O'Neill) the youngest Smith with a vivid imagination, the ever listening Grandpa Pophater (Jerry Doyle), the witty Irish maid Katie (Kate Marka), and Lon Smith (Neal Pandolzzi).

The entire performance was excellent, but by far my favorite scene was Act II Scene 6 Christmas Eve. The entire family has been informed that they must all move to New York so that Mr. Alonzo Smith (Rodrick Cappiello) can start his new position in a legal firm. Tootie was very upset and fears that Santa will not be able to find them in New York. To soothe her younger sister Esther sings the ever classic "Have Yourself A Merry Little Christmas". After singing; Tootie runs outside in the snow and starts to break apart her snowmen and Esther tries to stop her, but looking from the top window is their father who is emotionally distraught by the sight.

Meet Me In St. Louis was the first play I attended in over a year and I am sure now that it will not be my last. The cast and crew did an excellent job. The costumes by David Costa-Cabral were fantastic. The hair design by Joe Rossi was incredible, especially the job done on Ms. Smith. I am not even going to go on about the scenery and lights and the music and the singing and all of the other things which make this performance great. If you don't go and see it your missing out. I would just like to thank the cast and crew for making me feel the magic I have missed for so long. Thank you Brendan Byrnes and company for doing such a great job.

The Blackfriars Theatre on the Campus of Providence College Presents

Meet Me In St. Louis

THE NEW BROADWAY HIT MUSICAL

Sung by

Hugh Martin & Ralph Blane

Based on

"The Kensington Stories" and the MGM Motion Picture

MEET ME IN ST. LOUIS

NOVEMBER 4, 5, 6
NOVEMBER 11, 12, 13
NOVEMBER 18, 19, 20

Directed by

Brendan Byrnes

FOR RESERVATIONS AND INFORMATION CALL THE BLACKFRIARS THEATRE AT (401) 865-2327

(continued on page 2)
CLUB NEWS

*AMNESTY INTERNATIONAL needs people for Human Rights week who are willing to read personal work or other's work at the Amnesty International poetry reading to be held on Wednesday, December 7th, 1994. The only requirement is that it concern human rights or related Amnesty International issues. Interested, please leave your name and phone number in the Amnesty International mailbox in the clubroom, Slavin 108.

*CAMPUS MINISTRY presents F.I.R.E. session: "The Holy Spirit and the Church: One, Holy, and Apostolic" on Tuesday, November 15th, 1994 at 7:00 p.m. in Slavin 213-Conference Room. For anyone interested in Baptistical and Confirmation preparation or depending on their spirituality.

*THE COUNCIL FOR EXCEPTIONAL CHILDREN (CEC) will present a speaker on Tuesday, November 15th, 1994 at 6:30 p.m. in Slavin 203. Learn sign language and maybe win money. For more information contact Kimberly Garns x4048.

*COWL wants to know if you are interested in Journalism and/or Communications? Do you want to get involved on campus? Join us for an information session on Monday, November 14th in Aquinas Lounge at 7:30 p.m. or Tuesday, November 15th in Dore Hall Lounge at 7:30 p.m. Learn about opportunities available on The Cowl and the rewards of a college newspaper experience. Interviews will be set up for positions opening next semester in News, Editorials, Features, and Graphics.

*SKI CLUB offers many trips this year and wants you to be there! Trips include:
$279 to Killington 1/1/95-1/6/95 deposit due by end of Nov $75
$739 to Breckenridge 1/9/95-1/16/95 deposit due by Nov. 15th $200
$209 to Quebec 2/17/95-2/19/95 deposit due by end of Dec. 15th $80
$50 to Mt. Snow 2/4/95 payment due by Jan. 23rd
$44 to Stratton 2/25/95 payment due by Feb. 13th
$779 to Steamboat 3/13/95-3/20/95 SPRING BREAK!
*Last chance
All are welcome and can bring as many people as you want!! Look for information poster up in Slavin and around campus!! For more information call Corrie x3350, Tara/Holly x3940, or Jeremy x3736.

*YEARBOOK Senior portraits start Monday, November 14th, 1994. Sign up at the Slavin Information booth.

New Courses offered by the Music Department

MUS 440 Series C MWR 9:30 a.m.
Seminar in Music Literature
The specific topic will be "Women in Music". This course will focus on women involved in a variety of music careers including composing, performing, and teaching. Examples will be drawn from the Middle Ages through the present time. Instructors: Sr. Call Himrod, OP

MUS 440 02 Series E MWF 10:30 a.m.
Seminar: Sacred Music
This interactive seminar will use audio and visual aids to help students in discussing the scope of sacred music in history, its impact on the worship of the church and people's response to it. The course will explore both Catholic and Protestant traditions. The music will range from the transfer of Hebrew musical traditions in the first century to music in the church in the 1990's. Instructor: Fr. P. Brocato, OP

Each course earns 3 credits

Taking it to the Streets V

On Sunday, November 13th there will be a 2-3 mile walk-a-thon to benefit the Camden Avenue Elementary School. Check in time is at 10:30 a.m. in Slavin Pit with pastry, juice and coffee. Sponsor sheets are in the Student Congress office.

The Poetry and Fiction Series Presents

Agha Shahid Ali

Author of The Beloved Witness will be reading his poetry on Wednesday, November 16th, at 8 p.m. in Moore Hall III. All are invited & refreshments will be served!

BOP Presents

Toad the Wet Sprocket with special guest Wild Colonial

Friday, November 18th at 9:00 p.m. in Alumni Hall.
$10 for PC students and $15 for guests.
Organizations

Addendum
Spring '95 Course
Registration Booklet

ADDITIONS:
ENG 310 001 1216 Milton
       Series K. E. Goodman

CANCELLATIONS:
The 217 001 0729 American Musical Theatre
       Series F. R. Haller
The 303 001 0732 Modern Dance
       Series L. W. Oliver

SERIES CHANGES:
Hon 304 001 0383 Honors Std Religion
       Series K. T. Coskren
Psc 416 001 0619 Race & Ethnic Policy
       Series L. A. Affigne
Psc 468 003 0811 Spec Top: Peace Resrch
& Conflict Resolution
       Series K. Lakeberg-Dridi
Soc 324 001 0684 Soc of Women & Men
       Series K. C. O'Kelly
Soc 340 001 0685 Japanese Society
       Series C. C. O'Kelly
Soc 417 001 0671 Contemp Sociolo Theory
       Series D. TBA

CORE REQUIREMENTS LISTING TITLE CHANGES:
Thl 344 Faith, Life in Community
Thl 394 Church & Human Development
Thl 401 Mystery of God
Thl 414 Contemporary Moral Problems

THE FOLLOWING COURSE DOES NOT FULFILL THE SOCIAL SCIENCE CORE REQUIREMENT:
Soc 301 001 Sociology of the Family

Viva Italia!!

On October 22, four international clubs squared off for the 2nd Annual International soccer match. In the first round the Italian team easily squashed a tough Spanish team. Also in the first round, the confident French team dethroned the powerful Portuguese champs of last year. In the championship round the skilled Italian team avenged its heritage by defeating the French in a close victory. Congratulations to the Italian club, Viva Italia.

The Dance for Hope
A 24 Hour Dance Marathon

On February 10-11th, 1995 from 7:00p.m. Friday to 7:00p.m. Saturday in Peterson Recreation Center. Sponsored by the Students of Providence College. Information meeting for those interested in participating or volunteering on Thursday, November 17th, at 8:00p.m. in Moore Hall. Registration for participants and volunteers is Wednesday, November 16th- November 23th from 12-4 p.m. in Slavin and 4:30-6:30 in Raymond Cafe.

Things To Do...

BOP presents:

Irish Night
All are Welcome!!
Friday, November 11th
9:00 p.m.-1:00 a.m.
in Stuarts.
Admission is $2.00.
Killian's beer will be served for $1.00 w/PC ID.

BOP Films

James Bond Night
Thursday, November 17th
at 8:00 and 10:00 p.m.
in Moore Hall III
Admission is free.

True Lies
Sunday, November 20th
at 8:00 and 10:00 p.m. in '64 Hall
Admission is $2.00.

2nd Unity Jam

Sponsored by SOAR
Saturday, November 12th
10 p.m.
'til 2 a.m.
in Stuarts.
$2.00 cover charge.

Seniors

195 DAZE
Coming Up Soon!!
Saturday, November 19th
9:00p.m.-1:00a.m.
Tickets $6.00
It's the countdown!!
with special guest
Wild Colonials

Providence College
Board of Programmers
presents
Toad The Wet Sprocket
November 18 @9:00pm
in Alumni Hall
$10 for PC students - $15 general admission for information call 865-1BOP
What is the best cure for a hangover?

Rick of Club Eagles (2nd from left): Just don't do it!

Tola Ablade '95, Shameem Awan '96: Whatever you drank the night before!

Smorg, Huey, T and Rachel all '95: A four footer

Aimee Bernais, Nikki Frokedal, both '95: Something really nice for breakfast.

Mike Treacy '96, Ed Montovani '95: Drink the "red apple."

Heywood J., Benjamin D. '95: Drop a deuce.

Liam Apostol, Richard Brewer both '97: Milk mixed with orange juice.

Sarah Parsons '97: A call to New Orleans.

Amanda Fresuelone, Kathleen O'Brien, both '97: Beer.

A and K: chocolate milk, Evac-u-gen and a walk home.
The Cowl 14

November 10, 1994

Features

Love In Washington Heights
by Melissa McCrosson '95 Features Writer

That Matthew McCrosson married Joy Enright on November 8, 1969 is nothing out of the ordinary, except when you consider that they were both sophomores in college at the time; he was 19 and she was still only 18. I cannot begin to count how many people look at me incredulously when I tell them how young my parents were when they got married. On cue they will ask, "So, like, are they still together?" and I respond proudly his mother into the taxi. And look, he's so handsome, too! Much to Grandma's chagrin, her daughter would respond with disgust, "Ugh! That's just Matt McCrosson." Young Joy Enright knew what she was talking about. Matt McCrosson was nothing but a trouble maker. At the all boy's school, LeSalle Academy, Matt was the typical star athlete, big partier, and all around Casanova. Joy, on the other hand, led a much more quiet existence at her all girl's high school. As their adolescent years wore on, Matt and Joy were introverted by mutual friends of times, the first time being in his grade at a bus stop. Joy noticed him, but she went about her days relatively unaffected by his charm. Slowly, however, young Matt was working his way up the block and, before long, he was playing stickball right in front of her apartment. Joy was aware of his presence lurking beneath her winter coat, but she was not one to waste time around for someone like this Matt McCrosson fellow to honor her with his affections. And, besides, Butch Crowley was knocking on her door.

In March of her Junior year in high school, Joy was cast as Alice in her class play, Alice in Wonderland. Unknown to her, young Matt was in the audience and was star struck. To make a long story short, Butch Crowley came to the show with a dozen roses and, when Matt saw this he realized he had in college, and in their first apartment together. Their first love nest on Bailey Ave was hardly a palace. But with the help of furniture donations and baby-sitting favors of friends and relatives, Matt and Joy made a valiant effort to make this early marriage work. And they succeeded. By the time my Mom graduated from college in 1973, she was pregnant with their child, and only daughter, Misa. Within three years, Matt and Joy had a bigger apartment and another son, Patrick. According to normal standards, the family was complete. By 1985, Matt and Joy had really made it three gorgeous and brilliant children, and a house in suburban Pleasantville, NY. However, something was missing from their happy little family. That something was little Danny Enright McCrosson, who was born on March 4, 1986 to make the picture complete.

Anyway, in the briefest terms I can think of, that is the story of the most compli- cated couple ever. And, as you may know, May Matthew and Joy McCrosson is an inspiration to all in our individual quests for true love. Though their life together has been far from perfect, they have stuck together through the best and worst of all the curves on life's bumpy road. I am eternally thankful for all they have done to me and my three brothers: a bizarre sense of humor, strong role models, and enduring love (not to mention my tuition money).

With all my love, I wish you a Happy 25th Anniversary, Mom and Dad.

A Bad Rap
by Matt Bunnell '95 Features Editor

Here I go baby, now let me just finish...I had to shave the goat off cuz it made my chin itch. Roll, roll your boat, gently down the stream...Merrily, merrily, merrily. I hope it's just a dream/ And if it is in fact a dream, I hope it's not too... But if it is a local moist, I hope I don't forget/Now watch out for the wine that's cheap, the kind without a cork...you may find you're in a bind when your "hook-up" looks like Myrrh York/ Let's talk about school and what's going down...on campus, off campus and even downtown/ 'Riv is done, Fresh parents are home...the weekend is coming, so off we must roam...Like the Bounty toews, I'm the quicker picker-upper...When the neighbors host a party, it's for the Were made by Tupper/ And if you're talk- ing party, grab the sheets and have a yoga...And if the Volvo's driving by, wave and hear AWWOOOGA/A I knew my ear's a pecking but it gets me where I go...delivering the cream to the poor little souls. Well...I'm getting back/ I'm a piece of dough/Slick Willis is the place, yeah I know it's a piece of dough, but if the floor is dirty, get the Hoover on the rug/ On with the rhythm, I hope it makes you go... Lest's Lambada, sweet thing, damn ya're extremely smooth/ Well, the space is getting tight, I've gotta hit the road... That the hell is a Wet Sprocket and who's this freakin' Todd/ So, call me a dork ass or a freak... don't you worry, I'll be back next week/Don is a hoe as is to me, I'm eternally smooth/...
by Tina Kloster ‘95 Features Editor

Just Say Something!!
You’ve heard from The Cowl, now The Cowl wants to hear from you. Tell PC what you are thinking about or what is bothering you. Ask questions. Make jokes. Tell us what you think. Features section will print them every week. Just call The Cowl office (662-2114) and say “I’d like to Say Something.” You can also drop off your Say Something column at The Cowl office (Stevens 104) or mail them to Froiz Box 2981.
Here’s some examples to give you an idea of what Say Something column is about:

I just wanted to say the peas-nut butter in Ray Cafe is awesome, but the tomatoes are about as flavorful as rice cakes. That’s what I have to say.

What’s up with not having reading days? Am I supposed to go to the library and do research or just take a nap? And I don’t know what you’re talking about, but I don’t have any history notes and I’m in the hole.

Did you ever notice that eating turkey makes you tired? I bet if someone made turkey pills to cure insomnia, they’d make a lot of money.

Eating fish is supposed to be good for your eyes, but the fish you’re eating obviously didn’t have great vision if it got caught.

One of my roommates lives on the same floor as my roommate and he has a lot of barbecue sauce. It’s really strange.

There is a bee hive hanging from a tree in front of Apartment C. I hope it doesn’t fall on someone’s head.

Those Phu and Mael can’t get their cold medicines now! Why does Michael Bolton make more money signing autographs than people who actually did something? The heat and the bubbles.

Without that, why not just buy Sudafed?

I heard that you can dye your hair with Kool-aid. I meant saying, “No, it’s not my natural color. Actually, I just want to get a red color treatment.”

What do you do when you’ve completed your 15 credits?—Liu

I have some representatives from our UNDERWRITING DEPARTMENT and have asked our UNDERWRITING TRAINING PROGRAM and all members of OMEGA ZETA’S COMMITTEE OF SUCCESS IN OUR INCENTIVE... AS WELL AS OUR REWARD

CIGNA

HEALTHCARE UNDERWRITING

* INFORMATION SERVICES DEPARTMENT

MONDAY NOVEMBER 14, 1994
MOORE HALL ROOM 3
TIME: 7:00PM - 8:00PM
EIGHT REPRESENTATIVES SERVED CAFÉ DINNER

COMMERCIAL COUPON

STUDENT SPECIAL!

Get 75% off your hair cutting experience!

308 THAYER STREET PROVIDENCE, RI 02906
WALK IN OR APPOINTMENT

STUDENT SPECIAL!

Over 75 years of combined haircutting experience!

$12.00 without coupon :: GREAT FOR SPECIALLY PRICED FOR MEN & WOMEN

COUPON EXPIRES NOV., '95

HAIRCUTS with this coupon

Features

Stop the Insanity!!

by Stacy A. Baker ‘96 Features Writer

Teachers really confuse me. Most of them are pretty good, but when it comes to exams, they just don’t have a clue. Every teacher thinks that their students are intelligent, good people. Little do they know that deep down, some of their perfect, straight-A students are obtaining those grades by cheating. In have, in my career as a student, seen many different forms of cheating and so have all other students everywhere. What I don’t understand about this: Teachers were once students. Why do they not notice the cheaters in their classes, or are they just ignoring them? If I can see it happening, why can’t THEY?

THE XEROX CHEATER- This person chose their school because they had a brother, or cousin that went there. They take all the same classes their brother or cousin did. All of their "A" papers and photocopy of one of their books or notebooks. It is quite amusing to see how a person will try to be discreet while pulling an index card out of the inside rim of his/her hat.

THE OBVIOUS CHEATER- These people contribute to the graffiti problem when they write their/sister/ cousin’s name to my name?

THE E.T. SYNDROME CHEATER- This person will sit diagonally behind the smartest person in the class. During the exam, their neck will crane up (like E.T.) and their head will bob around the smart kid, trying to see his/her answers. When the teacher looks up from their newspaper or book, the cheater pretends to be looking up at the sky, thinking, or they’ll pretend to be stretching their neck muscles.

THE CHEAT SHEET CHEATER- This is the cheater who spends his/her time, not studying, but making out a "cheat sheet." Instead of trying to learn the material, these people try to write so small that they can then throw them onto one side of a 3’ x 5’ index card. What sets these people apart from other cheaters is the fact that it takes serious thought and planning to figure out where they are going to hide the cheat sheet; in their back pocket, taped to the bottom of their shoe, or in the pages of their books or notebooks. It is quite amusing to see how a person will try to be discreet while pulling an index card out of the inside rim of his/her hat.

THE OBVIOUS CHEATER- These people contribute to the graffiti problem when they write their/sister/ cousin’s name to my name?

THE E.T. SYNDROME CHEATER- This person will sit diagonally behind the smartest person in the class. During the exam, their neck will crane up (like E.T.) and their head will bob around the smart kid, trying to see his/her answers. When the teacher looks up from their newspaper or book, the cheater pretends to be looking up at the sky, thinking, or they’ll pretend to be stretching their neck muscles.

THE CHEAT SHEET CHEATER- This is the cheater who spends his/her time, not studying, but making out a "cheat sheet." Instead of trying to learn the material, these people try to write so small that they can then throw them onto one side of a 3’ x 5’ index card. What sets these people apart from other cheaters is the fact that it takes serious thought and planning to figure out where they are going to hide the cheat sheet; in their back pocket, taped to the bottom of their shoe, or in the pages of their books or notebooks. It is quite amusing to see how a person will try to be discreet while pulling an index card out of the inside rim of his/her hat.

THE OBVIOUS CHEATER- These people contribute to the graffiti problem when they write their/sister/ cousin’s name to my name?

THE E.T. SYNDROME CHEATER- This person will sit diagonally behind the smartest person in the class. During the exam, their neck will crane up (like E.T.) and their head will bob around the smart kid, trying to see his/her answers. When the teacher looks up from their newspaper or book, the cheater pretends to be looking up at the sky, thinking, or they’ll pretend to be stretching their neck muscles.

THE CHEAT SHEET CHEATER- This is the cheater who spends his/her time, not studying, but making out a "cheat sheet." Instead of trying to learn the material, these people try to write so small that they can then throw them onto one side of a 3’ x 5’ index card. What sets these people apart from other cheaters is the fact that it takes serious thought and planning to figure out where they are going to hide the cheat sheet; in their back pocket, taped to the bottom of their shoe, or in the pages of their books or notebooks. It is quite amusing to see how a person will try to be discreet while pulling an index card out of the inside rim of his/her hat.

THE OBVIOUS CHEATER- These people contribute to the graffiti problem when they write their/sister/ cousin’s name to my name?
Women's Soccer

Continued

surrounding the team on and off the field. But as the season progressed we put those things behind us and played well as a team.

Added to the disappointment of the loss was the burden of a first year coach. Coach Donna Hornish, however, felt she changed this attitude and turned the team around in October. "For a while it was coming in is difficult, especially when there is a young team like we have," said Reynolds of the situation. But she knew the style she wanted. If she says she could develop the type of program that would be successful now done, she gets the most out of her players. Heather also had only positive things to add about her coach. "She did really well in her first year. It was difficult coming into a new program with only two seniors in her first year. She adapted to us and we ended up doing well."

But this year Coach Hornish knew it appeared to be a rebuilding year. (PC lost All-Americans Kaylee Jenkins and Kerry Lyons) but she did not want to attack the season in that manner either. This would start the season in a negative sense; the team might take too lightly. As Coach Hornish realized if she labeled the season "a rebuild year" it would not be fair to seniors Moira Harrington and Marilyn Riddle or their final seasons.

Coach Hornish's main goal was not to win the Big East, but to have the Lady Friars improve the whole season as she said in September. "It would be great to win the Big East, but first we have to focus on bringing our play to that next level!" This is exactly what occurred as PC continued to improve throughout the year coping with a difficult schedule, both within and outside of the conference.

Overall the Lady Friars are optimistic about the future with all the freshmen and nine sophomores returning next season. Included within this group is freshman goalie Jody Bjerre who improved tremendously throughout the year. Jody only allowed two goals over the last five games. She finished with a .807 save average playing in the shadow of 1994 All-American Jenny Pompei. The '95 season will have a strong nucleus centered around senior Karen Stauffer, Amy Homish, Erin Valla and Sharon Riddle. These four are a significant part of the roster. Together they combined aggressive play in Stauffer and Riddle, added with the scoring prowess of Erin Valla and the superb defense and speed of Amy Homish.

Also never to be forgotten will be the play of Marilyn Pompeo who will follow in the likeness of Kerry Lyons and Jenn Mead in the PC history book. Marilyn put the '94 season in perspective. "It was a promising year. We had our ups and downs, but we played a lot of good games. It was hard for me being a senior and coming in, as it looked like a transition year. We played well, it was similar to the Patriots last year when they started playing well towards the end with a lot of hope put into the future. For the Lady Friars '94 was not a rebuilding year, but instead a year of overwhelming that they can build upon in '95."

CORNER KICKS—Erin Valla finished as the leading point scorer with 18 points (4 goals, 2 assists.) Marilyn Pompeo finished second with 17 goals, scoring fourth all-time leader in total points in PC history. PC faces five top 20 teams during the significant part of the season. Harrington, Pompeo, Stauffer, Riddle and Homish started all two games of the season.

Sports Scoreboard

Providence College Athletes of the Week

Steve Warajanka '95
(Maplewood, New Jersey)
Soccer

Warajanka scored three goals in last Wednesday's 5-4 overtime loss to the University of Rhode Island. The three goals give him a team leading six goals and two assists for the season. He scored two points for the 1994 season. Steve closed out the season with on Sunday in a 1-0 loss to the Boston College Eagles.

Becky Loftus '97
(Glen Falls, New York)
Volleyball

Loftus was selected to the All-Tournament Team at last weekend's New Balance/Patriot Invitational Tournament at the University of Rhode Island. She ended the weekend with 72 kills in 141 attacks, hit .267 and recorded 63 digs.

"Time" to Change

by Scott Laprade '97
Sports Writer

It seems that Mother Nature is all mixed up. The climate in Providence has been nothing less than "shorts and sandals" weather. The only sign that winter is imminent is the falling of leaves from the trees. But, as one might guess, it's all right in the world of the tennis team. The weather has been sub-freezing in nature; that is, it has been perfect tennis weather.

The men concluded their season, after a week off, with the College Championships at Princeton on the November 4th weekend. Both Paul Gagliardi and Felipe Vivar lost in the 1st round of the qualifying tournament. Gagliardi received a tough draw, but played an excellent match in losing to Ari Zivoj of Miami (Miami is ranked #10 in the region), 6-2, 6-7, 6-2. Vivar lost in straight sets as well, 6-4, 6-2 to Thomas Blake of Harvard.

Dylan Williams defeated David Murphy of Princeton in the 1st round of the main draw before losing to Josh Hausman of Harvard 6-3, 2-6, 2-6. Dylan said, "The competition was much harder than I had expected, because there was so much depth throughout that field. This was a really good experience for me." Dylan played a magnificent 1st set, but Hausman made the necessary adjustments to serve and volley style to overcome the 1st set deficit. He cruised to a "straight" sets win afterwards.

Coach LaBranche commented, "Dylan looked great early. Hausman deserves credit for adjusting his game. He simply took advantage of Dylan's lack of mobility (due to his early season injury) by hitting consistently behind him." The doubles team of Vivar/Williams faltered the best at the Rolex Championships. They worked their way to the quarterfinals, where they lost to Joshua Hausman/Blake of Harvard, 6-3, 7-6. The Harvard teammates had eliminated the Friar duo in the singles bracket. Ranked 12th in the nation, Vivar/Williams received a 1st round bye. They defeated Kirk/Leal of Duquesne, 6-2, 6-4, and also the "Cinderella" run of Colgate's Frecoo/Bogue, who had eliminated the 4th seeded team in the previous round. The Friar's results mean that they will earn a ranking in the East region.

"They are just as tough and competitive as the Harvard duo. The difference in the match was a point or two. If the points go our way then we're in the semis. It's that simple!" added a pleased Coach LaBranche. He also added that the Freshman duo's experience will be valuable in future years; the element of surprise will cease to exist next time.

Mother Nature will soon shock us with a dose of wintry weather, via sub-freezing temperatures or even snow showers. We know this abrupt closing of the Fall season is inevitable; The "Indian Summer" that we have been subject to cannot last forever. It also follows that tennis season wraps up. The men's season had many positives.

The successes of the season came with a slew of injuries. The Friar squad can only improve with improved health. In addition to those that played this Fall, George Adanas, MRPE, John, and Aaron Berman (11-4 last year) will return this coming spring from injuries that plagued them all season long. As a result, this will be a very deep and talented team once spring rolls around. It is fair to say then, that everyone is in striking distance of the top six spots. The team will resume practicing on February 1st, according to NCAA rules.

The women's team has finished for two weeks, but their achievements have not gone unnoticed. The team lost a lot last year due to graduation, but pulled through in a big way. They passed all expectations, going 11-3 overall and capturing the New England Championships. Coach LaBranche exclaimed, "They fought really, really hard. I'm very proud of them, but they must work hard to improve, because the spring schedule only gets tougher!"
Men's Hoop Begins On A Global Scale

by Justin Macione '95

The majority of the Global Explorers hold Ivy League degrees. However, a Saturday afternoon 104-85 loss to Providence College showed their obvious lack of a Big East basketball pedigree. The exhibition provided the small, yet enthusiastic crowd with a chance to see the entire Friar roster work off some of their early season rust on a club team represented by 12 hand working, but under talented weekend warriors.

The Friar starting five provided a stark contrast to last season's lineup, junior Michael Brown being the sole hold over, while Franklin Western and Eric Williams watched the tip-off from the bench. Brown didn't enter the game until 10:02 into the first half, a disciplinary move by the coaching staff. "That was done for the violation of a team rule," added Colleen, refusing to mention specifics. Western received a reduced workload due to lingering injuries, but they didn't affect his ability to provide 17 points and 5 rebounds.

The Explorers hung in with the Friars for the first fifteen minutes of the game, trailing 42-38. 13 of them provided by point guard Mike Glen. However, the Friars pulled ahead by 15 at the half, aided by Western's instant offense (6 points) and greater emphasis on an inside game. Possibly the biggest surprise was the 10 point first half outburst by redshirt freshman Brian Szybilski. "I definitely got better battling with Dickey (Simkins) and Michael (Smith) in practice last year," added the Warsaw, Poland native.

Possibly the biggest thrill of the game was watching Ralph Dalton, Patrick Ewing's former front court mate at Georgetown. Wearing one-foot high gray Hoya Nikes and weighing 75 more pounds than his college playing days, the big man did an entertaining job of clamping up the middle.

Dalton and his teammates also seemed to be responding to some half-time rest, opening up the first three minutes of the second half with an 8-2 run. Shooting guard Benoit Leftwich paced the Explorers with a reverse lay-up reminiscent of his Princeton days, cutting the PC lead to 61-52, and precipitating a time-out by Gillen at 16:21. Leftwich's 15 point performance tied him for the club scoring lead with Malcolm Hollenstein.

The two minute break would re-energize the slightly winded Friars through, and the Explorers' lack of shooting ability would haunt them. Freshman Adam Benton replaced Jason Murdock at shooting guard and showed the potential to replace the departed Rob Phelps as a defensive stopper. "Adam Benton did a great job defensively," commented the rookie coach on his rookie guard. Western and Williams helped convert some of this defensive energy into a twenty point lead by the halfway mark. This allowed Gillen to get a look at some unproven underclassmen, such as Benton, Borja Larragen, seven footer Jason Evans, and Jason Murdock. Murdock displayed some of his famous cousin's defensive abilities throughout the game.

Power Forward Troy Brown

Troy Brown scored 15 points and grabbed 11 rebounds in the Friars 104-85 win over the Global Explorers.

by Cary McGann '98

The men's and women's swim teams both got off to impressive starts in their seasons as they both put away visiting Boston College. The women's meet, held on November 1, saw the Friars pasting the Eagles 168 to 132. The most impressive group was the 800 Freestyle Relay team of Newell, Doyle, McGarr, and Tamburo who raced to a time of 8:40.05, a pool, school, and New England record. Providence also took first place in the 400 Medley Relay, the 200 Freestyle (Colleen Doyle, 2:09.84), the 100 Backstroke (Michelle Tamburo, 1:06.46), the 50 Freestyle (Keristen Newell, 27.54), the 100 Freestyle (Keristen Newell, 59.60), the 200 Breaststroke (Michelle Tamburo, 2:23.43), the 200 Backstroke (McWeeny, 2:47.37), the 400 Freestyle (Colleen Doyle, 4:34.94), and of course, the 800 Freestyle Relay.

The men were equally impressive, out swimming and outscoring the Eagles 186 to 98. Co-Captain John Phelps, '99, comments, "they pretty much got their butts handed to them." Very impressive was freshman Steven Brown who set the New England record in the 200 Freestyle with a time of 1:57.34. Also getting in the record books was co-captain Jeff Longo, '99, who swam to a time of 2:31.21 in the 200 Breaststroke, a school record. Longo was pleased with his performance because he has already surpassed the beginning of the season goals he had set for himself.

Longo was more pleased with the team in general. "We were excellent last night. It's just the tip of the iceberg. There is so much more waiting to come." Coach John O'Neill agrees, "we might just be where we want to be."

Other first place finishes included the 400 Medley Relay team of Ahearn, Yates, Robinson, and continued on page 16

Off To A Record Start

Travel Free! Spring Break! Low prices! Jamaica, Cancun, Bahamas, Fl. Book Now & Save $! Organize Group Travel Free! 1-800-262-7710 COLLEGE STUDENTS WANTED to participate in research project. Must be 18-30 years old; daily smoker and beer drinker. $30 paid for one two hour session. Call Karen at Brown University, Center for Alcohol Studies, 1-800-1856-1648

Travel Free! Spring Break! Low prices! Jamaica, Cancun, Bahamas, Fl. Book Now & Save $! Organize Group Travel Free! 1-800-262-7710

CLASSIFIED

WANTED!!! Individuals and Student Organizations to Promote SPRING BREAK '95. Earn substantial MONEY and FREE TRIPS. CALL INTER-CAMPUS PROGRAMS 1-800-327-6013

SPRING BREAK '95

CAMPUS REPS NEEDED Travel experience + 18 yrs required

BANGALORE $499

BRAHMAPUTRA $499

BRAHMAPUTRA $999

GREAT BRITAIN $179

HUNGARIAN $199

ISRAEL $349

INDIA $499

JAMAICA $499

JAPAN $499

KOREA $299

MEXICO $399

MONGOLIA $499

MALAYSIA $499

PORTUGAL $499

THAILAND $499

TAMUGALH $499

TIBETAN $499

TURKEY $499

VIETNAM $499

WORLDS $499

Study and see the world! 1-800-214-8687 Book Early and Save!!
Up Close With Stefan Brannare: Unexpected Changes

by Annica Ambrose '96
Assistant Sports Editor

Opportunities often appear when you least expect them. The course of life can take drastic turns, whether you seek out change or not. Stefan Brannare, a sophomore hockey player at Providence College, has experienced this "chance changing" through an appeared opportunity in his hockey career. This "turn" finds Stefan in a different country in a married life, and on his way to an unplanned college degree.

Stefan Brannare has literally "grown up" with hockey. He comes from Piteå and Helsingborg, Sweden where he was encouraged to begin playing hockey at the young age of five by his father, who later became Stefan's junior team coach. There are no school hockey teams in Sweden, instead, they play on private club teams at all ages. Brannare excelled to the Division 1 level which is the second highest level in Sweden, under "elite." Among his many achievements during his years of play in Sweden is one of Stefan's fondest memories of winning the Swedish Jr. Championship in 1990. At age 18, he played for a team called "Rogie" in the Division 1 league, going on to play for a Div 1 men's club team called the Helsingborg Hockey Club. These men's clubs consist of men between the ages of 18 and 30.

After playing with and befriending a Canadian goalie in Helsingborg, Brannare travelled to Powell River, Canada on a visit to his former teammate. It was there in Canada that he met the coach of the Powell River Paper Kings, an amateur jr. hockey team. He returned to Sweden but kept in touch with this coach, who convinced Stefan to make quick decisions: made on a Tuesday that had him heading back to Canada on Friday of that same week. With no idea of future plans, he took this opportunity to have fun playing the sport he enjoys so much. Stefan liked the small town of Powell River and found the style of play different than in Sweden. What was so different about this Canadian hockey? "In Canada, they let the guys fight!," said Stefan. Physically battle can really change the impression of a sport.

Not only did Stefan meet his future coach while visiting Canada, but he also met his future wife on the trip. Kin Tallas was married to Stefan Brannare on August 1, 1994, another unexpected twist in his course of life.

During the time Brannare was playing for the Paper Kings, former assistant coach of PC hockey, Tim Army, happened to be recruiting in Canada. Army took an interest in Brannare, forcing Stefan into a decision that would be not so quick this time. He hadn't planned on going to college beforehand, but when the opportunity arose, "Sure! I thought it was a good idea, " he said. So it was off to the U.S. and Providence College where Stefan would join the Friars as the sixth of six teams in six years.

Stefan entered PC as a freshman in 1993, living in the dorms, and at age 22, he is now a sophomore. Marketing major and shares a home with his new wife. He feels more adjusted in his second year on the Providence hockey team, especially since the recent change in coaching. Commenting on the replacement of Coach McShane with present coach, Paul Pooley, Brannare says, "Either the coach changed or I would have left." Lucky for him, Coach Pooley now leads the team with his new system and Stefan is looking forward to the season ahead. His short term goals are to improve with the team overall and to "see about the playoffs." For Stefan Brannare, these unexpected changes he has come upon have been for the better. Providence College will benefit from his skill as a hockey player and, hopefully, he will find his experience in Providence as an opportunitistic "chance".

---

WINGS!

No, it's not turkey time yet.
We're talking Chicken Wings!
Barbeque or Hot & Spicy

Now, for a limited time only, you can try our new
10 pc. chicken wings for only

$1.49*

*with the purchase of any large pizza.
Offer good at Ronzio's on-campus location only! Expires 11/23/94

Ronzio Pizza

Call Now!
8-2777
On-campus
Becky Loftus's play at the Patriot Inv earned her a spot on the All-Tournament Team.

Maryland-Baltimore County, respectively. The weekend losses dropped PC to what is still a very respectable 20-8 (5-3 in the Big East) and did not effect their Big East standing. The losses came in spite of a monster weekend by PC's Athlete of the Week, Becky Loftus, who had 54 kills (on a .384 hitting percentage) and 44 digs for the weekend and was tops (or tied for tops) on the team in both categories in all three matches.

PC opened the weekend Friday night with an 8-15, 12-15, 15-10, 15-5 loss to tournament master George Mason. Loftus' stat line of 17 kills, 5 aces, and 11 digs was supported by Kelly Dooley's 11 kills, Heidi Brady's 11 digs, and Nicole Trudeau's 10 digs. Senior standout Marnie Panek split time at setter with freshman Kristen Kam throughout the weekend in an attempt to both rest Panek's sore thumb and to give Kam some valuable experience. The two combined for 22 total digs and 22-24 Patriots.

Senior co-captain Aileen Kropovski had 15 digs and three solo blocks against Delaware the next afternoon, but the Blue Hens still pulled it out 10-15, 15-10, 15-9, 5-15. Dooley hit phenomenally well, 63.6% while Loftus had a team-best 15 kills (on a .665 hitting percentage) and 15 digs. Brady chipped in with 10 kills and 10 digs.

The 3-2 loss to UMBC was the toughest for the Lady Friars to swallow. PC led 2-1, before the Hawks came back to win, 15-12, 14-16, 13-15, 15-10, 15-7. The black and white hit .364 as a team, led by Irene (1.000). Sarah Parsons (.600) and Jojeen Cole (.571). Kropovski and Loftus had 22 kills each, while Dooley had 12 and Brady 10. Loftus paced 4 players in double figures with 18 aces, while Dooley, Kropovski, and Brady all had 10 aces.

Coach Debbie Matejeck termed the weekend "a learning experience. Everybody played. We had some tough breaks, but we'll learn from them." The Friars did not play as well defensively as they had the last two weeks, but had a chance. "We hit very well, but we had a tough time defensively," she added. "We started hesitating, and that's when you break down defensively."

The Lady Friars strong hitting has them #1 among conference teams in kills per game in all games played. PC is in the top 5 in the league in all categories except serving. Loftus leads the league in digs per game and is fourth in kills per game, while Kropovski is second in blocks per game, and Panek is fifth in assists.

The talented Lady Friars have only two games, at UConn and BC, respectively, before Big East. Although PC lost to the other three teams in the Big East field (Pitt, UConn and Seton Hall) they have a good shot at beating all of them. Kropovski predicts that there will be "some sore aivities at Big East. For her part, Dooley believes there is no limit to what her team can achieve. "From now on, it's up to us. We're capable of doing it."

Friars Bow To Warriors

The hockey season is only three weeks old, and while the Friars are off to a 3-2 (1-1-1 in Hockey East) start, the catch word is patience. There is little doubt that Coach Paul Pooley will guide PC back to the top of Hockey East, but it won't happen overnight. The developing Friars suffered through a winless weekend, dropping a 4-3 decision Saturday at Schneider Arena after skating to a 6-6 Friday both against Merrimack. Coach Paul Pooley called the finals "very disappointing. I thought we played well enough to win."

The weekend began with a wild, high scoring affair at MC's Dole Complex. The two teams combined for a Hockey East record ten power play goals, played three periods, an overtime, and finished the game with a shoot-out. The Warriors jumped out to a 2-1 lead before Brawn scored on a power play. Great passing by juniors Joe Hulbig and Scott Balsam set up the goal. Merrimack scored another power play goal with two minutes left in the period and took a 3-1 lead into the first intermission. Senior captain Brady Kramer scored an unassisted goal just eight seconds into the second peri-od. One power play later, however, MC reestablished their two-goal cushion. Jaret Kenney made it a 4-3 game when he blasted a slap shot in for his second goal of the year. George Breen and Russ Guzior picked up the assists. MC answered with a power play goal six minutes later. Dave Ruby deflected a Guzior blast into the net with just seven seconds to go in the 2nd peri-od to make it 5-4.

MC scored at 3:11 in the third; then senior Chad Quenneville took over. After another MC penalty, Quenneville scored across the point to Guzior, who found Quenneville, whose shot rattlel in off the cross bar. 2:20 later, Quenneville faked a backhand pass and beat goalie Martin Legault to it at six. Breen and Guzior, who had three assists, assisted. Dennis kept the Warriors in the game for a few minutes.

Under a new Hockey East rule, games ending in the tie are decided by shoot-outs. Both teams get one point for the tie, and the winner of the shoot-out gets the extra point. Guzior had PC's best chance to score in the shoot-out. He faked the goalie left, but the puck slid off hisstick. Dennis missed the first four MC shots, but Casey Kessinger's shot dribbled between Dennis' pads to give MC the 1-0 shoot-out win.

Saturday night's game began well for the Friars. PC took advantage of an MC penalty and went up 1-0. Kenney fed Guzior, whose slap shot was stopped. For 28 assists picked up the rebound, though, and con- nected to put the Friars on the board at 6:59. The goal was made possible by Breen, who successfully screened Legault. PC controlled the action for most of the period, but were stonewalled by Legault. Merrimack scored at 15:26 when a shot by Dennis' stick and deflected over his shoulder into the net. Legault kept it 1-1 in the second by stopping a Green breakaway way over two 2-on-1 rushes. MC scored twice within 27 seconds to take a 3-1 lead. A soft shot trickled in off Dennis' skate at 12:08, and MC scored off a rebound at 12:35 after Dennis had stopped their initial rush. Hulbig pulled the Friars to within 3-2, knocking in a nice Kramer cross.

The black and white tied it in the third period when Balboni hammered a slap shot past Legault for PC's second power play tally of the night. MC answered 1:35 later when the Friars allowed Kessinger to shoot unmo- lested from the left circle in the range. PC did not quit though, and Breen almost tied it when his shot hit the post with 1:33 to go. Pooley pulled Dennis with about a minute to go, and Quenneville narrowly missed with 33 seconds left. Despite his disappointment, Pooley is not discouraged. "You never improve week to week."

The Cowl 19

Learning Experience

You just want that to transpire in a game, play well for sixty minutes, and win." PC's penalty killing was much better Saturday night. They did not allow a single power play goal, a drastic change from Friday's game.

Though MC scored ten goals, Dennis did not play badly. "He played well enough to give us an opportunity to win." The Friars will face UMass-Lowell this weekend, a tough challenge and-home set. "This weekend against Lowell is a major test. They're a good hockey club, and I believe we're a good hockey club," said PC's ice boss. Pooley believes in both his team and his coaching staff: "I know we're doing things right, and if you do things right, you're eventually going to win."

Hair Design by Allilion

20% OFF
all services with ID specializing in the latest styles.

A J U N E E X G A L I N
336 Academy Ave
Providence, RI 4212-0399

 Apartments
and Houses
for Rent
2 1/2 beds,
washer/dryer,
systems, stove
and refrigerators
included.
Rent $400 and up

Oakland
Pembroke
247
Radcliff
Call Jim
2129

November 10, 1994

The Cowl 19

Sports

by Keith Christensen '96
Sports Writer

"It may have been a long and busy weekend for juniors going to JBW, but it was just a long weekend for the PC Women's Volleyball team. The Lady Friars, fresh off earning a berth in the Big East Tournament, by virtue of winning four straight and eight of their last nine, traveled to Virginia to play in the Patriot Invitational, where they dropped three matches to George Mason, Delaware, and University of Pennsylvania, among others."

"Becky Loftus played a solid game for the Friars this weekend and had 54 kills and 44 digs for the weekend. She was tops on the team in both categories."

"PC opened the weekend Friday night with an 8-15, 12-15, 15-10, 15-5 loss to tournament master George Mason. Loftus' stat line of 17 kills, 5 aces, and 11 digs was supported by Kelly Dooley's 11 kills, Heidi Brady's 11 digs, and Nicole Trudeau's 10 digs. Senior standout Marnie Panek split time at setter with freshman Kristen Kam throughout the weekend in an attempt to both rest Panek's sore thumb and to give Kam some valuable experience. The two combined for 22 total digs and 22-24 Patriots."
Soccer Says Farewell To Season And Coach Doyle

by Pieter Ketelaar '97
Sports Writer

All good things must come to an end and for the Providence College men's soccer team it is a time of endings, the end of their season and the end of the Bill Doyle era.

The Providence College completed their last game against Boston College on Sunday and bid farewell to their only coach ever.

Coach Bill Doyle has stepped down from his position of Head Coach due to the college's decision to make the soccer program a full-time program rather than keep the existing format. Doyle, who has a full-time job in addition to being the men's soccer team's coach, opted to step down rather than take the full-time position.

"I'm finished," coach Doyle said, "I've coached this team for twenty-seven years and it is time to move on. I already have a full-time job so I cannot take the position. It wasn't a great final season. We had many injuries to key players, and had a hard time scoring goals. On top of that, recruiting fell flat when the players were rejected by the school so we couldn't get new blood. It was very frustrating at times. All you can do is accept it and move on.

I wish the organization and the school good luck in the future.

The Friars faced URI last Wednesday at home in a game that turned into a goalfest. URI took a 1-0 lead into the half but that was only the beginning. The second half saw Steve Verjanka erupt for three goals but URI scored to tie the game at three apiece and send the game into overtime. In overtime, URI scored two more goals to PC's one and sent the Friars to yet another loss.

On Sunday, the Friars faced Boston College. In particular, the Friars' best performance of the season, PC played a precise controlled tempo game that kept BC at bay. It came down to one goal, a goal early in the second half, that sent the Friars to a 1-0 loss at the hands of the Eagles. It was the Friars sixth straight loss and ended their season of superior disappointment. At 4-12-1 the Friars improved on the imperfection of their previous 6-10-2 campaign, the worst in the team's existence.

Now it is the dawn of a new era for the men's soccer program at Providence College. A new Head Coach will come in and try to right this team after the recent disappointing years. It'll take a little time but PC will rebound with the passage of time.

Paula Waggoner was named Big East Rookie of the Year. Waggoner scored 2 goals and assisted on 3 others this fall.

In this year has proven that she will be a force to be reckoned with throughout her next three years.

Senior Kim Robbins and Junior Tara Kaminski were named to the first team All-East squad. Kim and Tara were contributing forces to the 1994-95 team as they scored sixteen and fifteen points, respectively. Leading the team with twenty-seven points, including ten goals and seven assists, Melissa Mills earned second team All-East honors. Joining her on the second team was Waggoner.

Last weekend closed out the season for the Lady Friar field hockey team. Providence graduates only three seniors from this youthful squad, tri-captains Lauren Khozooian, Kim Robbins, and Melissa Mills. Coach Jackie Barto will welcome back a Lady Friar squad with a wealth of experience next fall.